Greece, Turkey Agree To NATO Force On Cyprus

But Cypriots Remain Opposed to Proposal

LONDON (CP)—Greece and Turkey formally told the British today they have accepted a NATO peace force plan for Cyprus. But the feuding Cypriots were still holding out against it.

Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys announced the moves, which strengthen his hand in trying to persuade the delegations of Greek-and Turkish-Cypriots to allow their island nation to be policed by troops from the North Atlantic alliance.

Turkish Foreign Minister Ferdun Cemal Erkin called on Sandys this morning.

"He came to inform us that the Turkish government have accepted the plan," Sandys said. "The Greeks have already accepted."

Erkin said as he left: "I hope this idea will materialize very soon and that peace and tranquility will return to Cyprus."

The Turkish government had already announced its acceptance early today in Ankara following three cabinet meetings Friday.

In Athens, cabinet ministers, military leaders and party chiefs met for four hours after midnight with the caretaker premier, Ioannis Paraskevopoulos.

However, a Greek - Cypriot spokesman at London negotiations described the plan as "totally unacceptable" Friday.

"There is very little hope of accepting the proposals," he said. "There is very little ground for manoeuvring."

HAVE OTHER VIEWS

Turkish-Cypriots at the London peace conference also have objected to the plan, but for different reasons. They claim the proposal would not permit reenforcement of their 650-man garrison stationed on Cyprus under treaty.

It appeared the next step would be for Turkey and Greece to join the United States and Britain to present the plan to the United Nations, said Dr. Fazil Kutchuk, the Turkish-Cypriot vice-president.

Move Aid To Cause Of Peace

- - de Gaulle

By HAROLD KING

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle said Friday French recognition of Communist China would aid France's goal of neutrality in Southeast Asia.

De Gaulle defended his decision of earlier this week to recognize Communist China:

"In peace or war is inseparable without China being implicated. It would be impossible to conclude any treaty of neutrality for Southeast Asia — which France continues to favor—without China."

The president told a crowded press conference that by recognizing Communist China, France was serving the cause of "wisdom and peace."

The French leader dealt with the recognition as if it were the most natural thing in the world and did not refer even indirectly to the fate of French relations with Nationalist China.

PAYS TRIBUTE

But he did pay tribute to the "patriotism" of Nationalist Chinese President Chiang Kai-shek during the Second World War.

De Gaulle said he believed all Chinese eventually would recognize this.

The president said France's recognition of Communist China Monday implied no approval of the Peking regime. He said many other countries recognized China and "other countries of distorted regimes."

"It is not impossible," he said, "that in multiplying our direct contacts with China we are serving the cause of man, that is to say the cause of wisdom and peace."

De Gaulle said the vastness of China and its huge popula-

Shaddest Shtory Ever Told at LCBO Store Here

As of today liquor prices are up across the province and those keeping the 10 a.m. vigil outside the emporia of the Liquor Control Board had to dig a little deeper for the morning mickey.

Belleville vendor Glencoe Thompson points out that the increases on all save the most expensive brands are not as high as first feared.

Most 26-ounce brands are up between 20 and 30 cents with some increased by 35 cents. Prices for 12-ounce "mickeys" have been boosted by 15-20 cents. Thus the hip-size special now ranges from $2.15 to $2.35.

An eleventh-hour rush hit the Belleville store yesterday as patrons beat the hike by buying in bulk.

"It was just like Christmas," said one staff member. Many patrons made their purchases by the caseload.

However, the big customers, says Mr. Thompson, have been hotel-motel operators, "who have been really stocking up this past week."

"Now" he seeing them again for months round here."

Incidentally, there are a few brands remaining at the old prices in all liquor stores. Mr. Thompson said the prices will be unchanged until the brands have been completely sold out and distillers can supply no more. Then they will be removed from LCBO lists.

Govt. Shut Plant Day After Vote

By BOB EXELL

TORONTO (CP) — A government agency closed down an Owen Sound knitting factory, putting 60 workers out of work, the day after the local Conservative candidate was defeated in the Sept. 25 provincial election, Liberal Eddie Sargent charged Friday.

Mr. Sargent, who won the Owen Sound riding of Grey North, said the hard - pressed firm had been sustained at a cost of $130,000 in loans from the Ontario Development Agency until the day after the election.

Making his maiden speech in the legislature, Mr. Sargent said the company was just getting on its feet when the boom was lowered. He did not name the firm but said in fact it was known that the industry referred to was the H. J. Fairfield company.

The Ontario Development Agency, a branch of the department of trade and development, made a first loan to the company of $85,000 in the spring of 1962, Mr. Sargent said. additional loans brought the total to $130,000.

CITIZENS WERE GRATEFUL

Persons in Owen Sound, aware that the loans were well-timed with an election pending, were grateful whether the Conservatives reaped the credit or not, he said. But on Sept. 26, when it was known the Conservative candidate had been defeated, the "axe" came to close the plant down.

"The day after the election some 60 people in Owen Sound lost their jobs."

Mr. Sargent dismissed the idea that the timing of the closing might have been a coincidence.

"I cannot condone the spending of $130,000 in an obvious effort to secure the election of the Conservative candidate," he said.

The Liberal member also took issue with the department of highways. He described Highways Minister MacNaughton as "arrogant" and said the department is "loaded with political patronage."

The highways department had reneged on a promise to pay a percentage of snow plowing costs and as a result Owen Sound had missed out on a cash return of from $15,000 to $25,000.

South Viet Nam Strongman Asks for Western Support

SAIGON (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, South Viet Nam's new military strongman, appealed today for Western support of his country's war against the Communists.

Ignoring French President de Gaulle's proposal to neutralize Southeast Asia in a pact with Communist China, Khanh told the Saigon diplomatic corps he was confident the "Vietnamese people and the rest of the free world will continue material and moral support of the struggle against communism here."

In a cryptic style reminiscent of de Gaulle himself, the 36-year-old strongman added: "We shall handle our enemies and the friends of our enemies in our own way."

Supreme Court Will Decide If Girlie 'Mags' Are Obscene

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada next month will be asked to determine whether sophisticated girlie magazines are obscene and represent an undue exploitation of sex.

This will be the second time that the court has heard an appeal case under a 1959 amendment to the federal Criminal Code defining obscene literature. In the first case the court ruled in March, 1962, that D. H. Lawrence's controversial novel Lady Chatterley's Lover was not obscene.

County Court Judge A. R. Macdonnell of Winnipeg found the issue to be obscene in December, 1962, and ordered that copies on sale in Winnipeg be forfeited.

Dominion News and Gifts (1962) Limited, distributors of the magazine in Winnipeg, failed in an appeal to the Manitoba Court of Appeal and now is appealing to the Supreme Court against the lower court decisions.

While the case deals only with the magazine Escapade, legal officials said the Supreme Court decision will be applicable to magazines of a similar nature. Its ruling also will apply throughout Canada as it will be a judgment in federal criminal law.

Douglas Doubts Alliance

TORONTO (CP)—New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas Friday dashed cold weather on suggestions of an alliance between the NDP and the Liberals.

He advised an audience of party workers to remember that out-of-office Liberals have talked reform, but when in office the party was run by "the establishment" and by those who put up campaign funds.

His remarks constituted an obvious dissociation from reported recent approaches between some members of the upper levels of the Ontario branches of the Liberal and NDP parties. The reports said these groups, whose combined forces are heavily outnumbered by Progressive Conservatives in the legislature, were looking into the possibility of merger.

Mr. Douglas, speaking to 300 Metropolitan Toronto party members starting their annual drive for funds, said he would not want to question the sincerity of the people who have suggested that a merger should be discussed. They had the right to do this.

"What I want you to remember," he said, "is this: There have always been sincere people among the Liberals who believe that party is the party of reform and wants to change some of the worst parts of our dog-eat-dog economy.

DIDN'T FOLLOW THROUGH

"Many of these feel they have an affinity with the NDP. But I say to them that the history of the Liberal party for almost 100 years is that it has always talked progress and reform when out of office, but when in office the command of the party has been taken over by the establishment and by those who put up the funds."

"To any of the so-called left-wing Liberals," Mr. Douglas said, "I say that all you have to do in the next 12 months or so is to watch how the (federal) Liberals carry out the election commitments they made to the people."

He said the bald facts are that "Liberals who run out of office talk like socialists but when it comes to doing something, the real power is not in the caucus or the cabinet but in the men who put up the millions to fight an election campaign."

Nobody Injured, Guards Fail To Nab Culprits

Quebec Command H. Q. Is Scene of Incident

MONTREAL (CP) — Three shots were fired into the air today by a group of young men near an armory housing Quebec headquarters of the Canadian Army.

Police declined to say whether they suspected there was any connection between the shooting and the theft Thursday of a large quantity of arms and ammunition from the armory of Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal.

An army spokesman said sentries believed the shots came from a small weapon, unlike any taken in the raid on the Fusiliers' armory.

"Our soldier saw three flashes and heard three reports which he said would have been a pistol," the spokesman said.

The army spokesman, who declined to permit use of his name, said the shots were fired in the air and a guard from the Royal 22nd Regiment did not return the fire.

BEGIN GUARDING

A company of the Royal 22nd was transferred to Montreal Friday to take up guard duties at the armories in the wake of Thursday's raid.

No one was injured in the incident, which occurred in the darkness shortly before dawn, the spokesman said.

"The guard did not return the fire because whoever was responsible for the shots could not be seen well enough in the darkness."

Police said three men apparently were involved in the incident. They appeared on heights behind the Atwater Avenue armory.

The army spokesman said the noises and flashes of the shots fired were heard by men by the sentry on duty at the rear entrance to the armory.

"We believe that all three shots came from the same weapon because of the speed with which they came," the army spokesman said.

The gunman was armed with a sub machine-gun, gave warning but because the firing party was located on the heights pursuit was difficult.

TWO FLEE IN CAR

Police said two of the three men they believed were involved escaped in a car and the third man on foot.

They said the army guards gave chase in another auto.

Police described the trio as "young men" but emphasized that such a description was tentative since visibility at the early morning hour was still limited.

The incident took place at about 4:30 a.m., authorities said.

Caouette Defends Raid

MONTREAL (CP) — Creditiste Leader Real Caouette said Friday the theft of weapons from a Montreal armory Thursday was nothing compared with the "butchery" of French-Canadian youths conscripted for military service in the Second World War.

He told a byelection rally the raid by a band of youths on Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal armory reflects profound dissatisfaction with economic conditions in Canada.

"These youths stole machine guns in 1964 in the centre of Montreal," he said. "But didn't the troops of Liberals and the bleus (Conservatives) steal our young people to send them to the battlefront?

"Was it not a graver matter to have the government's hoodlums scattering the cowards and the towns during the years from 1939 to 1945 to chase the cities and by force and take 18-year-old boys from their mothers—even if the victims had to bleed?

The Creditiste leader, speaking in French, was addressing about 500 persons attending the opening of the Creditiste campaign for the Feb. 10 byelection in Montreal St. Henri.

"It is not surprising to read in the papers that some youths of 18 or 20 broke into an armory and stole machine-guns and rifles," he said.

"But is not the economic context in which we are living at the moment, is not the treatment inflicted on youths the kind of treatment that would drive them to rise in revolt against any kind of established authority?"

Mr. Caouette said Canada's economic system "will be reformed in an ordered fashion, or there are some people who will destroy it in disorder and blood."

Maritime conscription was carried out "in the name of liberty, in the name of Christianity," he said.

"We refuse to steal your children from you—that's what was done during the war, ladies and gentlemen.

"And now people blame our youths."

Saskatchewan's Medicare Scheme Increasing Incomes of Doctors

REGINA (CP) — Doctors in Saskatchewan expect to earn more money now because the province has a compulsory medical care insurance plan most of them oppose.

The major reason for making more money seems to be that they have been able to write off unpaid accounts.

It's a situation the executive secretary of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons said would occur.

Dr. Neville Smith of Regina, chairman of the college's public relations committee, said he does not think the medical care insurance commission will ever be able to come up with an accurate figure on the income of doctors.

He said all the commission can determine is the gross revenue of doctors.

In 1963, the first full year of operation of the medical care plan, the commission paid out about $20,000,000 to doctors on behalf of medical services.

Dr. Smith said a figure of about $28,000 a year for gross revenue can be obtained by dividing $20,000,000 by the approximate number of doctors in Saskatchewan in private practice—about 700.

But that figure would not be an accurate indication of income, Dr. Smith said. It does not take into account doctors' overhead costs — which in some urban practices range up to 80 per cent of gross revenue.

"My personal estimate is that net incomes might rise by about $2,000 on the average under the plan," he said.

According to the department of national revenue, the average net income of doctors in private practice in Saskatchewan in 1961, the last full year before implementation of the medical care scheme, was $18,262.

'Shame to Hide' Playboy Beauty Still Judge Grants Injunction

VANCOUVER (CP)—A West Vancouver housewife who was pictured nude on a bearskin rug in a United States magazine obtained an interim injunction Friday from British Columbia Supreme Court to halt the use of the picture and 149 others of her.

Mr. Justice Angelo Branca, on seeing the picture of the woman in Playboy magazine, said: "Surely if Raphael had seen this picture he would have gone and had one of his models undressed. It would be a shame to hide such beauty from the public."

Nora Louise Eichhorst, a former German model, received the injunction after telling the judge she was legally an "infant"—under 21—when she entered into a contract with a local photographer in May, 1963.

Lawyer Neil M. Fleishman, acting for Mrs. Eichhorst, also filed a copy of the November, 1963, issue of Playboy and 14 color photographs, mostly showing Mrs. Eichhorst in the nude.

Mrs. Eichhorst, featured in a Salute to the Comeliest Chicks of Canada sought the injunction restraining the magazine publishers, Editor Hugh M. Hefner, and Vancouver photographers Ben Honey and Richard Oulton and Oulton-Honey studios from publishing or using any of the pictures.

Mrs. Eichhorst claims she received $85 in payment for the pictures, one of which appeared in Playboy under the fictious name of Erika Braun.

The injunction restrains any of the persons or companies mentioned in the writ from using or republishing any of the 150 pictures pending trial of the court action.

The persons named in the injunction have three weeks to appear before the court.

Toronto Clergymen to Use Hypnosis to Treat Disturbed

TORONTO (CP)—A group of Toronto clergymen plans to use hypnotism to help solve emotional and religious disturbances of members of its congregation.

Earlier this week, 11 ministers — four Anglicans, three Baptists, three United Church and one Presbyterian—participated in a demonstration of "group hypnosis" by Canon Joseph Wiitkofski, an Episcopal priest from Pittsburgh, Pa.

Rev. Lindsay King, pastor of suburban Scarborough United Church where the demonstration was held, said plans are under way to form a Toronto Society for Pastoral Hypnosis by ministers who will use hypnotism in their "pastoral counselling."

The Ontario Hypnosis Act of 1961, however, restricts the use of hypnotism to doctors, dentists and psychologists working under physicians. The cabinet has the power to exempt "any class" of persons from the act.

"We do not feel that any law would presume to regulate the relationship between a minister of the gospel and those who seek his help," Mr. King said.

"Such a law would, in effect, deny religious liberty. Hypnosis, after all, is a very close affinity with prayer or deep meditation."

The army security precautions for the Montreal area installations are greater than they were during the wave of terrorism last spring.

This doesn't necessarily mean the army is taking the possible threat of terrorism by the Comite Revolutionnaire du Quebec more seriously than it did the bombings last spring of Le Front de Liberation Quebecois.

In army circles the theft of a large quantity of weapons and ammunition from the armory of Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal is considered more serious than the bombs set outside armories and other federal properties during a 10-week period last spring.

Loss of a single weapon—even in action—is taken most seriously by the army. The loss of as large a number as taken at the militia Montreal armory and the circumstances of the theft "has caused one of the biggest flaps in Canadian Montreal in history," one army source said.

INCREASE SECURITY

It was pointed out in army circles Friday that the company group of the crack 2nd Battalion, Royal 22e Regiment sent to Montreal is to increase security precautions at military installations and not to take part in the search for the group which successfully raided the FLQ armory. The army's prime concern is to prevent a recurrence of the raid or any similar action.

While the army's Provost Corps co-operates with civilian police forces at local RCMP, Quebec provincial and Montreal police—the military's prime concern is security.

What happens outside the installation will be looked after by civilian police, army sources said, "and there is no question of interfering with what is property a police matter."

Groundhog Seeks Shadow On Sunday

Tomorrow, February 2, is Groundhog Day, and residents of the Bay of Quinte district will have a more than ordinary interest in the weather.

For according to tradition, the groundhog awakens from his winter sleep, and crawls into the open from his lair to do a bit of weather prognosticating.

According to the story if he sees his shadow, it means that Winter is still with us and he goes back for another six weeks' sleep.

But if the sky is overcast and he sees no shadow, it means that the back of the Winter is broken and Spring is "just around the corner."

Four Rinks Fight It Out In Bonspiel Main Event

By CLAUDE TICE

Rinks skipped by Fred Jones of Cumberland, Glen Stone of Napanee, Ken Dunseat of Kingston and Charles Lovett of the Quinte Club will fight it out in the Bay of Quinte bonspiel rye in progress at three clubs. There were some surprises in the games to put these rinks in the fours.

Bob Alexander was beaten a tough one by the Jones boys, while Gostick had a comparatives easy time of Doc Dunsmiler. Charlie Lovett and his rink pulled a mild surprise by winning over Mac White in an extra end. All these games were brilliantly fought and some beautiful shots made.

In the Corby event the rinks are down to the eights and there was some fine curling witnessed. Tice won a squeaker on an extra end over a fine Quinte rink. Jack Sills' rink also had a win in this event over Haverslock of the RCAF and will meet Tice in the second to see which rink gets into the fours. The O'Keefe Trophy is well on its way with the curlers drop into other events to fill out the spiel. Two finals will be played at the Quinte Club tonight in the Corby and Elliot Motors, while at RCAF Trenton the final in the Lowry Trophy will be played.

The O'Keefe, Quinte Transport, Pepsi-Cola and the McFarland Shield will be played for at the Trenton Curling Club on Sunday night. Before these finals are played the curlers will entertain their wives at a supper at the RCAF Station. This is one of the features of the spiel.

The hospitality at the three rinks has been marvelous and the nominal rink charge are to be congratulated on the smooth-running organization. The worms at the Quinte Club have supplied excellent refreshments and the cheese table is one of the most popular spots in the lounges.

It would be impossible to describe in detail all the games that have been played. There has been some big ends made and the accuracy of curling, an eight-ender was missed by a fraction of an inch. Curlers have curled over the years and the knockout game seems preferable to the draw variety but it is doubtful if those curlers left who depend on the "draw" to win the final shot.

Successful In Realm of High Finance

TRENTON — Mrs. Angela Cullin, a stock saleswoman, specializing in the financial office of Barclay and Crawford, is one of the few of her sex to deal successfully over a period of years in the realms of high finance.

Formerly, she was a registered and licenced stock broker in Trenton, with the firm of J. H. Crang and Company, and later with Jenkins and Evans.

"Now I'm just a plain stock saleswoman," Mrs. Cullin laughs, "the work's the same but the title is different."

Mrs. Cullin has been associated with "the mining game" for more years than she cares to remember.

Mrs. Cullin is the former Angela Cunning, a new Ontonomous with Trenton history. Her grandfather, James Cumming, was the first postmaster in Trenton. He was the first manager of the Bank of Montreal in this town. He was first to have electricity in his home. The Trenton Community Auditorium is named for Cumming's hands and a memorial bed the town was founded.

Mrs. Cullin's self being a woman in no way impedes her progress in the business world. She believes that business men are willing to listen to her counsel regarding stocks and investments as they would if she were a man.

The trend in investment buying, according to Mrs. Cullin, leans more to conservative stocks and bonds than in former years.

"Hardly anyone goes in for 'get-rich-quick' investment nowadays," she says.

Investors, are interested in securities and dividends. Men outnumber women investors, as it comes to investment buying, but the women are, for the most part, astute judges of what makes a good investment.

Men are more liable to take chances, she finds.

Ladies to Curl

TRENTON — The ladies' division of the Trenton Curling Club will play host to 40 lady curlers for the Ontario Tankard playdowns on Monday. Rinks from the RCAF, Belleville, Gananoque and Kingston will compete with local curlers. Being host to the Ontario Tankard playdowns is a signal honor for the local club as the host club is drawn on a request basis and many clubs vie for the duty.

Urge Hospital Arbitration Compulsory

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario section of the Canadian Bar Association said Friday that preservation of life makes compulsory arbitration of labor-management disputes in hospitals desirable.

The Building Service Employees Union (CLC) suggested earlier that the committee might consider recommending legislation that would give the government discretionary power to impose arbitration.

Earlier Friday, a brief from a group of Hamilton hospital officials called compulsory arbitration. The brief said collective bargaining fails only when the hospital management is recalcitrant, and the answer to the problem is "enlightened leadership . . . and enough money at their disposal to improve wages and working conditions."

The Bar Association brief proposed legislation to provide for the use of a government paid mediator to be appointed by the parties if negotiations end in a deadlock. Compulsory arbitration by a three-man board of arbitrators would follow if mediation fails.

The committee's public hearings ended Friday.

He is married to the former Ruby Margaret MacKenzie of South Porcupine, Ont. The Allens have three sons and reside in Middleton Park, Trenton.

Americans Praise City Police Protocol

Belleville police protocol has come in for praise by American residents.

A Detroit couple — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stull — wrote to police and expressed themselves in glowing terms of the courtesy of city officers during a funeral here.

Mrs. Stulls noted the fact the cortege was led through traffic by a cruiser, while constables on duty saluted along the route.

"We have attended quite a few funerals in different parts of this country", said Mrs. Stulls. "However, we have never witnessed such an impressive display for other than an official funeral."

The commission is to complete its work in four months and submit its recommendations to Mr. Cardin. It is to recommend "the best means of fulfilling the militia requirements for defence and the changes which should be made in the organization for the militia to carry out its role efficiently and realistically."

In Houston, Graham declined comment on the report but said he might have something to say next week.

Anouilh's 'Antigone' Staged By Nicholson College Cast

By HARRY MULHALL

The dear old days when high school players were stretching dramatic endeavors to the utmost with "Charlie's Aunt" have gone forever — and a good thing too.

The trend now well established in most secondary schools, is for students to engage themselves in serious drama of some intellectual breadth.

Since there is little time to be lost to study, the students if they are going to do a play, might as well involve themselves spiritually and intellectually. Drama in schools, in this context, is an invaluable asset to education, as more and more teachers admit.

The latest contribution to the local drama scene comes from Nicholson Catholic College which last night had its opening night for Jean Anouilh's "Antigone".

The production is a surprise in a way, for its remarkable consistency of thoughtful action — both on the part of the actors and their director. The last-named is Sister Mary Fleurette who has molded her players into a smooth-working team for the presentation. The results testify to painstaking effort and — more important — co-operation of actors and director.

DOUBLE CASTING

The sister, however, not content with just tackling this modern-day version of the Sophoclean tragedy, has also instituted something of her own in its casting. In the two leading female roles — Antigone and Ismene — she has provided two actresses for each, presumably with the idea of alternating them — a novelty that widens opportunities for participation by students.

In the respective roles are Darlene O'Hara and Mary Anne Burns, as Antigone, with Rose Marie Manthorpe and Mary Ann Darlington as Ismene—on separate nights, of course.

The production got off to a fine start last night—because Sister Mary undoubtedly had drummed into them the first essential of appearing onstage —that ye be heard.

The cast was not only heard but seen in a production that showed what hard work can do. Evident too, was the fact the youthful players were thinking behind their lines.

It is a cruel joke to dub many high school performances with superlatives. Everyone knows, including the participants, that much is lacking that can only be gained with experience.

One thing, however, is always present when youngsters thoughtfully organize dramatic productions, and that is sincerity, a quality that ironically often is lost with experience.

A play like Antigone sets out to prove that no man, no matter how powerful, may set himself above that intangible something called moral law.

That's pretty heavy stuff to play around with on a school stage but it's well worth it—it certainly worth a stageful of Charley's-aunt types.

Cass to Study Hospital Death, May Be Inquest

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Fred Cass Friday said an investigation will be made into a death in a Toronto hospital last November to determine whether an inquest should be ordered.

Patricia Morgan, 32, died 18 days after surgery at Toronto's East General Hospital. A post-mortem revealed that an operative instrument had been left in the abdominal cavity.

Mr. Cass said any death under unusual circumstances should be investigated.

Dr. Morton Shulman, Metropolitan Toronto chief coroner, had asked the attorney-general's department for permission to investigate the death. He said he learned the woman died after an operation in which there was a switch of surgeons half way through.

Dr. Shulman said the death was not reported to the coroner's office at that time.

The chief coroner has been deeply involved with the province's senior coroner and officials of the attorney - general's department over his insistence on conducting inquests into hospital deaths whenever there is any question about the cause of death.

He said in this case, because the death was not reported, no coroner had had the opportunity to view the body.

Hospital Administrator Eric Willcocks said that "rightly or wrongly" the death was not reported to the coroner's office at the time because "under the circumstances we did not feel it was necessary."

Dr. Shulman said Dr. Kenneth Brown, Miss Morgan's family doctor, was operating on the woman for stomach cancer when a senior hospital official interrupted him. Angered, Dr. Brown left the room and an unidentified doctor closed the incision.

Dr. Brown said in an interview Friday night he made out the death certificate giving cause of death as stomach cancer and acute intestinal obstruction. He said it was as accurate as possible without having seen an autopsy report he wasn't able to obtain until early Friday.

He said he had been working since November to get to the bottom of Miss Morgan's death.

Book-Mobile Will Visit Area Schools

An almost unlimited choice of selected secondary school reading at paper-back prices, with a share of the profits boosting Student Council funds, is the offer being made to high school students in the Bay of Quinte district.

It is a new Book-Mobile trailer service offered by Upper Canada News in Belleville which will serve schools in the area ranging from Kingston to Whitby and from Picton to Peterborough.

It is a sort of a "take the reading to the student" idea, in contrast to the students having to search through bookstore stands to find the reading books selected by faculty members.

The Book-Mobile trailer, with its 1500 different educational titles is left, on request, outside the school for periods of up to a week. Faculty members check the titles and make the trailer available for class visitations during school hours and at other times conduct selling sessions.

Mr. Ernie Colbourne, president of Upper Canada News in Belleville, says the book trailer is being made available to schools only after schools boards' approval of the idea.

General speaking, school boards as well as school principals and faculty members are enthusiastic.

The Belleville trailer being operated by Uppe, Canada News is one of five such trailers in Canada all in Ontario. The book trailer will get its baptismal fire next week when it goes to Picton for a five-day stay at the Picton High School.

Cancer 'Cure' Discoverer Dies in Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — Dr. Calvin Hendry Cameron Connell, 69, whose cancer-treating product, Ensol, caused a flurry of controversy in three countries more than 20 years ago, died in hospital here Thursday.

Dr. Connell was an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist before deciding to abandon his practice to do cancer research. He was a co-founder of the Hendry-Connell Research Foundation which produced Ensol in 1934 and put it into use the following year.

It was never on sale but was handled through certain outlets in Canada, the United States and Australia.

In 1938, six women died in Florida after being given Ensol. Others being treated became seriously ill. An investigation showed the deaths were caused by tetanus poisoning.

Both Ottawa and Washington issued statements after the investigation saying Ensol was found free of tetanus toxin and was not responsible for the deaths.

Some time later production of Ensol was halted.

Dr. Connell was a gold medallist in surgery when he graduated from Queen's University here in 1918. He served with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in Siberia and later became an assistant professor at Queen's.

Two Sharp Themes

Hon. Mitchell Sharp, Canada's minister of trade and commerce, is generally acknowledged to be one of the strong men of the Pearson Cabinet, a former civil servant who has pleasantly surprised his friends and won the respect of his political foes by the able manner in which he has handled one of the most important portfolios in the government.

Those who had the privilege of hearing Mr. Sharp when he addressed the annual meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening came away with a favorable impression.

Yet, to be truthful, we think Mr. Sharp must have been in better form when he addressed the annual meeting of the Newfoundland Board of Trade the previous evening. His main theme was less open to question.

Here his main point was the necessity of bringing our trade with the U.S. more nearly into balance, and the desirability of achieving this result not by reducing our imports but rather by increasing our exports.

In this Mr. Sharp was right to stress the importance of Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms playing an active role in seeking markets abroad. However, it does seem to us that he is expecting a little too much when he suggests that they should invade the U.S. market, even if this means competing with their parent company.

Mr. Sharp has every right—nay, he has a duty—to protest sharply if any Canadian subsidiary of a U.S. company declines to accept an order from overseas but refers the would-be buyer to its parent company, as is alleged to have occurred on occasions in the past. Canada has a right to be annoyed when a firm in Canada refuses to fill a foreign order because of some U.S. regulation—as Ford was alleged to have done in the case of an enquiry by Red China about the purchase of trucks. But there is all the difference in the world between such attitudes and a parent company preventing a subsidiary from trying to build its own home market from it. No firm should be expected to endeavor to cut its own throat—and the existence of international boundaries does nothing to alter this rule.

In St. John's the previous night Mr. Sharp dealt with another, and it may well prove a more vital, problem—the danger of Canadians cutting each other's throats. The government, he said, would oppose economic sectionalism in Canada. " It would be folly of the worst kind for any government or organization to advocate policies which would set one part of Canada against another." This following night, in Winnipeg, Hon. Walter Gordon, minister of finance, dwelt on the same theme. The growth of provincial programs of economic promotion were welcome, he said, but was not without dangers. He hoped provinces would avoid taking measures which can only assist them at the expense of other provinces. It is only a few days ago that we commented editorially on a promise in the speech from the throne at the opening of the Ontario Legislature, to the effect that Ontario would "resist attempts to divide us through economic competition amongst the provinces."

It seems reasonable to suppose that the Ontario Legislature reference, Mr. Sharp's comment on Tuesday and Mr. Gordon's on Wednesday were all prompted by the same developments, the Quebec Government's admitted policy of giving preference to Quebec firms in awarding contracts.

Such an attitude is really nothing new—it is familiar on the local level to any person who has any knowledge of municipal affairs. Within reason, it can be defended, and some allowance ought to be made at the provincial level for those provinces which are least developed industrially and which deserve help, rather than criticism, in efforts to develop home industry.

The difficulty in any such a program, though, is to keep it within reasonable limits. Mr. Sharp and Mr. Gordon do well to speak out against such a program on principle.

And at St. John's, Mr. Sharp said something which, if we are to survive as a nation, should strike a responsive chord in every true Canadian—"one of the glories of Canada" is its diversity.

Let us live and let live—nay, if we are to live, we must let live and we ought to delight in this fact, rather than viewing it as an unwelcome restriction on our conduct.

Dr. Manu Khodadeh of Winnipeg says that glue may replace stitches in some surgical operations. Hockey players, instead of counting their stitches, will be classified as one-pint to five-gallon glue men.

Tory Convention Not Same Without Hipster Hees

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Around the staid old Chateau Laurier today it looks like Happy Days Are Here Again.

The dignified old turreted and towered hotel, with Sir Wilfrid Laurier in white marble standing in silent solemnity in the lobby, is really a-rocking!

Some 1,500 of the Conservative conventioneers have hit the hostelry and the dust won't start settling until along late next week.

Odd thing this.

The delegates back in their home towns are often pillars of the church and props of the community. Quiet, careful, sober, sensible citizens, involved in the woes and worries of the work-a-day world just like anybody else.

But when the boys and gals get land in the lobbies of the Chateau, it's a awful lot of them become free-wheeling high-rollers.

For this is their week to bowl.

It is work in the mornings — committees, study groups, speeches, resolutions and all that jazz — after a fun and games breakfast.

There is a serious note struck at noon, too, when one of the Tory Big Brothers gets his pull to political arms, and even some more or less hard labor in the afternoons.

FOR FUN

But the nights, from the late afternoon reception and cocktail hour, on for dining, wining, dancing and making hotel-room-merry.

This goes for any convention, political (Liberal, Conservative, New Dem or Socred) or the annual meeting of The United Tea-Tasters and Rug Hookers Association of America.

But this time, like him or not, praise or blame him, it is going to be different for the convening Conservatives because that political boo vivant, happy, handsome George Hees is going to be among the missing.

Even some of the more rough and ready high-wheelers from the Prairie West are feeling a bit wistful. And these are the blithe spirits like the hard - riding - and - roping Diefenbaker Pro, the Alberta MPs, Hugh of Jasper-Edson and Jack of Acadia, who just love a convention. They'll be here happy to string up George Hees when he was playing the lead in the Shakespearean arts of the Cabinet "palace revolution" that brought down former Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Government in defeat and packed the party off again to the political wilderness from the sea to sea cowboy, larist, spurs, the works.

By 10 a.m. he'd be swinging along the corridors with head to toe, in the colorful and really lovely Nova Scotia tartan . . . tam, shirt, weskit, kilt and socks.

By noon, he'd be "riding shotgun on a wedding coach, Old West style, sporting a battered Stetson, leather shirt, breeches and high boots.

And the wonderful thing about it, George Hees had more fun himself — and provided more fun for others — than any hundred delegates and all the professional entertainers put together.

HI-YA KEED

Watch him go, through the rotunda, shouting "Hi-ya Keed!" at this one and "How you going Boy!" at that.

And attracting fifteen delegates, young dolls and mature matrons alike, just as Rudolph Valentino or John Gilbert might have done it.

"Help me, George!" you can remember one delegation chairwoman appealing to him, "George, help me; the girls won't pay me any mind, but they will you."

And she sure knew what she was saying made sense.

For like John Barrymore trailing a retinue of worshipping Big Brothers, Hees led the gals, chattering, giggling, bubbling over, into the convention hall for their meetings.

"Way to go in there, Josie," he howled a few minutes later when the short session was over and bluff and hearty Senator Josie Quart of the Conservative Women's Executive brass was rolling them in the aisles with an funny a malapropa as only convention political or otherwise, probably has ever heard.

"Ladies, please. Ladies, please remain seated," she implored, "while Mrs. Diefenbaker passes out."

Then from the rear of the hall came the answer, in tones of mock horror, "Passes out!" and the whole room rocked with laughter. Diefenbaker enjoying it as much as anybody.

Without George Hees, love him or hate him, and a lot of Conservatives still do both, this convention isn't going to be the same—or half the fun.

Government Taxes Air

By John Friesen in the Fort William Times-Journal

We want to correct an error in a column last week in which we suggested government's now just everything but the air we breathe. This is technically wrong.

The government does tax air for breathing.

Skin divers must pay the regular three per cent sales tax when tanks are recharged with compressed air.

To check this out we talked with a Fort Williamite who does this, sort of thing in a small way.

A diver himself, he spent about $4,000 for two compressors and initially recharging diving tanks primarily for himself and a few friends.

As it so often does, word got around and he found himself serving an ever-widening circle of divers.

Since it involved time and costly equipment, he decided to go on a small charge to partially offset his investment.

Henceforth, came the instructions, three per cent sales tax was to be charged.

Undoubtedly somebody with hairsplit and claim the tax is actually on the cost of compressing air rather than air itself. However we shy from such complicated delineation — air is air, regardless of density.

As it turns out, "as free as the air" is no longer entirely true. For that matter, neither is "cheap as dirt."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 1st, 1944.

Parents interested in boys' work in the city are invited to attend the evening service at Tabernacle United Church on Sunday in charge of the boys' parliament held recently in Kitchener. Rev. Harold Edwards, local delegate to the Parliament will be the guest speaker at the service and in addition to his report is expected to discuss briefly the Kitchener program for its relation to boys' work in the city.

Fulfilling the idea of the Rotary Club (International), two outstanding guests at Monday's meeting were Rotarian John Bartlett of Belleville and Rotarian John Tuva of Tillsonburg, England. Both these gentlemen are engaged in post-war programs at the Bata Shoe Company, Bartlett being in charge of their plant in India and of conditions now existing in that country, while Mr. Tuva spoke of his work in England and thanked the Canadian people for the big part which they are playing to speed Victory over there.

Students of astronomy and others in the city interested in the movements of the stars and planets were afforded a splendid opportunity Thursday morning to see the eclipse of the planet Jupiter by the moon. At approximately eight o'clock, the moon in travelling its orbit, passed directly between the earth and Jupiter. School children at St. Michael's Academy, who witnessed the eclipse reported the phenomenon could be clearly seen in the morning sky.

30 YEARS AGO

Forty years ago today Mr. Frank C Sharpe entered the service of the Bell Telephone Co. as messenger, and is still discharging his duties in a capable and highly satisfactory manner. At the time he entered the service, the bank office was located on the corner of Hotel Street (which is now Victoria Avenue) and Pinnacle Street, where Robert Richardson was manager at the time.

Mr. O. H. Scott, manager of the Belleville Utilities Commission was elected a director of the Canadian Association of Electrical Utilities at a recent meeting in Toronto.

William Lafferty, well-known resident of this city, has been appointed Dom. Norman Hall his billiard and tobacco business on Bridge Street east.

Permit for the alteration of a store on Front Street at an estimated cost of $300, saved the month of January from being a total blank as far as building permits issued by the city engineer's office is concerned. The month of December was a total blank. Not since January 1930 has there been action in the city fallen to such a low level.

To Your Good Health

Suggests X-rays Be Taken For TB Germ Presence

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: A distant relative has just found that he has tuberculosis. My family have been repeatedly exposed by bathing at his home. Please tell me what to do. We have five young children.

Will adding a little household bleach to water help sterilize dishes? — P. A. M.

Yes, a bleach or detergent will help sterilize dishes, but that is a rather small part of the problem.

The greater danger is in acquiring the TB germ from personal contact. It can be carried in the invisible droplets of moisture from a cough or sneeze, or even on the breath of a person with the disease.

Now that your family already has been exposed, the point is to find out how many of you have actually picked up the germ.

The adults should have chest X-rays repeated at six-month intervals for a time, to make sure that the disease is not developing. (It's a good idea for everyone to have a chest X-ray every year or so, because you can't tell by looking with the eye whether he has TB, and you never know when you may accidentally be exposed to the germ.)

As for the children, a tuberculin test (a simple skin test) is the first step. It will show whether they have actually come in contact with the germ. If this has happened (that is, you get a "positive reaction" to any of them, then these children should have chest X-rays. With a negative reaction, X-rays are not necessary.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a wig be worn after without harm to the scalp and hair? — B. K.

By "often" I suppose you mean all the time — except when sleeping. There are no indications that wigs do any harm and some people have been wearing them for a long, long time.

However, if you wear a wig, don't forget to observe the usual rules of hygiene for the scalp: Wash it often, brush hair at reasonable intervals.

Wigs (the currently modish ones) will probably depart like other styles, such as short skirts and long, flat chests and padded Empire gowns and shifts, bloomers and bikinis. Females will survive 'em all. For which I am glad.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 23 and have an asthma history. Should I have cancer fears? Because I now raise a lot of sputum from my lungs? — R. D.

The sputum and the asthma may or may not have a direct connection, but the two factors have to be considered along with your history of chronic infection in breathing.

The most chronic infection is causing the sputum, it should be cleared up as soon as possible. Whether it is a series of a cautively minor infection is something your doctor will have to determine. Only he or she can do so. Don't be "alarmed," but be concerned.

Poles Set Us Example

Stratford Beacon-Herald

As an example to Canadians who may be doubtful about trying to find new markets for Canadian-work products, there is the story of canned hams from Poland.

It is farther from Poland to Canada than it is from Canada back to the mass markets of Western Europe and the Poles have had some success in introducing their canned hams as a specially product for sale in Canada.

The first shipment came about four years ago, and at first sales were discouragingly slow. The idea of hams in cans was fairly new to the Canadian housewife, and the idea of hams from Poland was even newer. However, by the end of 1962, sales in Canada were at the rate of $300,000 a year, and we are reported to have met Marks & Place," the monthly journal of the Ontario Food Producers Association, that in 1963 alone Polish canned hams in Canada were climbing steadily from the level achieved the year before. Toward the end of 1963 they were put on sale in two large chain store systems in Montreal and Toronto.

The Poles seem to have two guiding principles in their ham marketing. First, only the best meat is imported; they do not want to run the risk of hurting their reputation abroad by letting any second-grade meat get out of Poland. All excess fat is trimmed off in the packing plant by Polish experts specializing in producing for export, and the hams that get out of the country is a lean meat. Selection of top grade meat for export begins with the hogs. The export hams come from a strain of hog which is a three way cross of Yorkshire imported from Britain, Landraces imported from Sweden and the native Pulawska breed of Poland. Hogs which are marked for processing for export get a special ration, and the Polish Government pays an incentive price for hog carcasses which meet the export requirements.

Second, the Poles get their salesmen out on the job, trying to sell. In 1962, the last year for which figures are available, Poland sold canned hams in the United States to a value of $77,000,000.

They do have a basic advantage, as we should think, in the fact the Polish agriculture is still a free-enterprise industry, even though Poland is under Communist control. Eighty-five percent of the farms in Poland are privately owned.

So they can come here and attract the business of the Canadian housewife with a product she likes, more power to them. Trade is a two-way street. We only recently Poland bought from Canada 200,000 tons of wheat.

However, if the Poles can come to Canada, one of the leading hog-producing countries of the world, and develop a new market for hams, it should not be impossible for Canadians to look around the world, and develop new markets for a premium product like Canadian bacon.

Censorship Sells Books

Hamilton Spectator

The main objection to censorship is that it often defeats its purpose. Take that controversial book, "Fanny Hill" as an example. Late last week Toronto morality detectives dashed into bookstores and seized 2,000 copies of it on order issued by York County Judge Fred Hughes, and spent a month will ask for a ruling from a county court judge on the obscenity of the book. Thanks to the publicity such illuminating activity engendered, thousands of Ontario citizens who never cared a whit about "Fanny Hill" before will be "moving heaven and earth" in their efforts to find a copy to read.

There are some famous examples of how the notoriety of censorship has helped disgusting plays, books, and movies to succeed. The play, "Tobacco Road," Jack Kirkland's from a book by Erskine Caldwell met censorship troubles most of the world. As a result it ran for seven years in New York, and made a fortune for Caldwell in book form, and as a movie.

Remember "Forever Amber" by Kathleen Winsor's historical novel? What a cheap and vulgar book it was. Yet it sold millions of copies throughout the world and made a fortune for Miss-Winsor because it received the priceless publicity of censorship.

Even a person can become a millionaire by having herself censored. Mae West was always getting into hot water, and she managed, through the writing of such plays as "Sex" and the various editions of her act, to have herself censored as a performer. Overnight she became a box-office sensation, and even today, a woman in her 70s, Mae could outdraw the average star act.

Tennessee Williams is another individual whose very name today begets dollars at the box-office. Thanks to censorship troubles with earlier plays like "A Streetcar Named Desire" "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof", and a middle-period play called "Orpheus Real", he is a wealthy man, and his name under a Bobbsey Twins book would guarantee a sale of at least a million copies. True, he is an often brilliant writer and has great compassion, but even he would admit that censorship squabbles made his fortune and fame.

Other cases in point are the two "Tropic" books by Henry Miller, John O'Hara's "Rage To Live", Hervey Allen's "Anthony Adverse" and the best-seller book of them all, D. H. Lawrence's "Lady Chatterley's Lover". All were censored, and all made fortunes for writers as a result of that censorship and not because of any particular literary merit.

Shakespeare's plays are full of it, so is Milton's "Paradise Lost", Chaucer's "The Canterbury Tales", and "The Arabian Nights", and just about the best-known of them all, D. H. Lawrence's "Lady Chatterley's Lover". All were censored, and all made fortunes for writers as a result of that censorship and not because of any particular literary merit.

Shakespeare's plays are full of it, so is Milton's "Paradise Lost", Chaucer's "The Canterbury Tales", and "The Arabian Nights", and just about the best-known book

Year Ago Canada Shaken By Parliamentary Crisis And Revolt in PC Cabinet

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—One year ago Canada was shaken by a parliamentary crisis and cabinet revolt, both of them initiated and inflamed by the burning issue of nuclear weapons.

It was a period of political turbulence wild enough to rival any in Canada's history.

John Diefenbaker's six-year-old Progressive Conservative government was defeated in the House of Commons non-confidence vote — only the second such defeat since Confederation — after surviving seven shaky months as a minority administration.

Canada - United States relations hit a frosty low point. The U.S. government attacked Mr. Diefenbaker by press release; he replied with angry words, and called home Canada's ambassador from Washington.

All this, and more, happened during 10 days. Running throughout was a nuclear debate dividing cabinet, Parliament and political parties.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's nuclear policy—or lack of one, as the Opposition said—was the catalyst that united the Opposition and led to the government's defeat in the Commons and the April 8 election.

MONEY RAN LOW

But even without the nuclear crisis, an election was inevitable. The Diefenbaker government was in a financial box with no out except to the polls. It was fast running out of parliamentary authority to spend money — run the government, and an aroused Liberal opposition, hungry for an election, was determined it wouldn't get the money in time.

As it was the nuclear blast knocked the 25th Parliament apart before the financial time bomb could explode.

Seeds of the turmoil had been sown long before. The voters spoke unfavorably on June 18, 1962, electing a "house of minorities" commanded by no one party. Conservatives, dropping from a record high membership of 208, were left with 116 of the 265 Commons seats. Liberals had 100, Social Credit 30, New Democrats 19.

Thus the minority government could be defeated in Parliament if all three opposition groups combined. It weathered seven non-confidence motions through the autumn of 1962 — five of them with support from Social Credit.

The framework of the nuclear crisis was shaped by government decisions, dating back to 1958, to acquire nuclear-capable weapons for the dual cost to Canada: $700,000,000.

GREEN SOUGHT DELAY

By the start of 1963, four such weapons systems were in service but no final decision to acquire nuclear warheads from the U.S. had been made. The cabinet was divided.

Defence Minister Douglas Harkness argued the role of the armed services chiefs that Canada had nuclear commitments in its plans that it should fulfil.

Thus the government's position was shaky as 1963 began: An uncertain hold on the Commons, a cabinet divided on the nuclear question, and the prospect of financial foreclosure by the Opposition.

On Jan. 4 a visitor to Ottawa dropped a bombshell at a press conference. U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, retiring NATO commander in Europe, said Canada would not be fulfilling its commitments until it accepted nuclear weapons for its forces in NATO.

Political repercussions were immediate and widespread. Mr. Green replied that Canada had lived up to its NATO commitments.

Then, in a Toronto speech Jan. 12, Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson took the first time put his party firmly on the pronuclear side.

WOULD END 'EVASION'

Canada should accept nuclear warheads as home and land in NATO and "end at once its evasion of responsibility," he said, adding that if Liberal government, after honoring nuclear commitments, would then seek to renegotiate them.

It is understood that some Conservative strategists immediately considered entering an election on a no-nuclear-arms policy. But the weight of cabinet opinion was against such a move.

The next week, at the annual meeting of the Conservative party's national association Jan. 17-19, the resolutions committee proposed acceptance of the warheads if no disarmament agreement was reached by the end of 1963.

But Mr. Diefenbaker forcefully urged the convention not to "bind" cabinet policy. The delegates rejected the committee's resolution and voted, by a heavy majority, to leave the issue to the cabinet's judgment.

In a shouting display of party unity, the convention also gave Mr. Diefenbaker's a unanimous standing vote of "unbounded confidence" in his leadership.

PUZZLED BY SPEECH

In a two-day defence debate Jan. 24-25, the Opposition hammered at policy differences between Howard Green and Douglas Harkness. NDP Leader T. C. Douglas said it was hard to believe they both sat in the same cabinet. Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, attacked Mr. Diefenbaker's "evasive and uncommitted" position.

The prime minister replied Jan. 28 with a two-hour speech that left politicians and observers puzzled. Both supporters and opponents of nuclear weapons found support for their positions in his speech.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that with international tensions easing, "this is no time for hardened decisions that cannot be altered." He also said, how: "Above all we shall at all times carry out whatever our responsibilities are." Canada wouldn't break its word.

At the NATO council meeting in Ottawa the following May, Mr. Diefenbaker outlined his views and "he is in position to make a decision", first to consult about our undertakings and second to execute, if that be the view, the maintenance of our commitments."

"I would rather be right, so that those who came after may say: 'He refused to be stampeded. He refused to act on the basis of the moment.'"

On Monday, Jan. 28, Mr. Harkness issued a statement to the effect that Mr. Diefenbaker's speech voiced "a definite policy for the acquisition of nuclear weapons."

In the Commons, NDP Leader Douglas termed that an "interpretation" of the prime minister's speech.

"That speech was very clear," Mr. Diefenbaker replied firmly. "I do not think it requires any interpretation."

Liberal Paul Martin suggested Mr. Harkness might resign over government policy. A prime minister—an Opposition suggestion repeated more emphatically in the weeks to come.

Then, out of the blue, Washington jumped into the Canadian dispute.

The U.S. state department on Jan. 30 issued a statement flatly contradicting many of the points in Mr. Diefenbaker's Jan. 28 speech. Without mentioning him by name, it blasted the government's defence policy.

CONSIDERED ELECTION

In the negotiations on warheads, it said, Canada had proposed no arrangement "sufficiently practical to contribute to North American defence."

There was immediate speculation Mr. Diefenbaker might call an election on the issue. Reporters dogged his steps to see whether he would visit Governor - General Vanier—a necessary move if Parliament were to be dissolved. Six days later the prime minister told the Commons he had thought of the political benefits of calling an election.

Defence Minister Harkness, under pressure, was said to be urging Mr. Diefenbaker to agree publicly that the government had, in fact, a pro-nuclear policy. There were reports the ministers might resign.

He went to his Parliament Hill office and was closeted with his cabinet colleagues. One source said it was a peacemaking session to convince him to drop his insistence that Mr. Diefenbaker take a stronger nuclear line.

Political tensions were high as the Commons met that Jan. 31.

All four parties reached rare unanimity in criticizing the U.S. state department's press statement. Mr. Diefenbaker called it "an unwarranted intrusion" into Canadian affairs.

The government "will not be pushed around or accept external domination," he said.

FORCED DEBATE

But opposition parties didn't let it drop there. Demanding an emergency debate, they united in a vote of 122 to 104, overruling a decision by Speaker Marcel Lambert and forcing a one-day debate.

Near its close, Douglas Harkness took the floor. He referred to the "terrific mass of rumors" of his possible resignation. He scorned one report that he had been "close to collapse."

The Opposition picked his assertion that his press statement the previous Monday jibed with Mr. Diefenbaker's Jan. 28 speech. When he ended by declaring government defence policy was "clear and responsible," he was drowned out by opposition laughter in which some gallery spectators joined.

Next day, Friday, U.S. State Secretary Rusk told a Washington press conference he would express regret to Ottawa for the tone of the state department's Jan. 30 statement. But he said the statement set out the facts fairly.

In Ottawa, Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters he (the prime minister) had set out the "correct and proper" facts. "Canada is not in the new frontier of the United States."

Suddenly, that afternoon, it seemed an election call was at hand.

Mr. Diefenbaker drove to Government House for a 40-minute talk with Gen. Vanier. But there was no election announcement as the Commons adjourned that Friday for the weekend, and a suspense-breaking ripple of laughter went through the House. Mr. Diefenbaker stood watching behind the curtains alongside the chamber.

CABINET MET

The cabinet held a long meeting Saturday, and another Sunday.

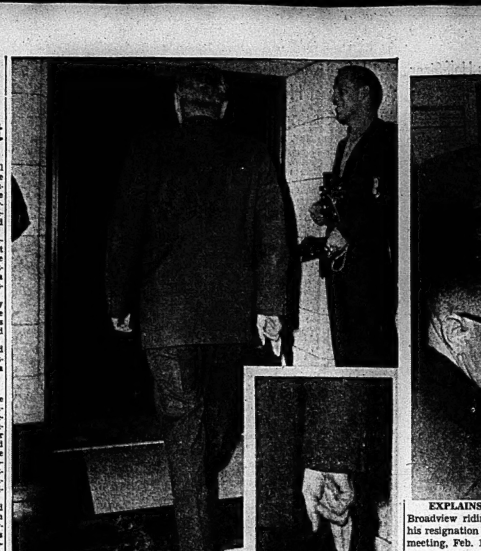
The letter, made public next morning, said his defence views and those of Mr. Diefenbaker were "not capable of reconciliation." During the two previous weeks he had "several times" offered to resign unless his "minimum position" on nuclear warheads was met.

Mr. Diefenbaker's reply said he was "at a loss to understand" the suggestion of a conflict in defence views. They had been in agreement three days earlier. He suggested Mr. Harkness had changed his views since then.

From a new Commons seat apart from the cabinet benches Mr. Harkness said: "I considered that my honor and integrity required that I take this step."



At a press conference he denied his defence views had changed. He said that when he spoke Jan. 31 in the Commons he had believed the government had accepted his Jan. 28 statement that there was a definite policy for acquisition of nuclear arms. He declined to say what happened between Jan. 31 and Feb. 3.

His departure was the first cabinet resignation over policy matters since the 1944 resignations of Liberal Defence Minister J. L. Ralston and Air Minister C. G. Power on the conscription issue.

CHARGED INDECISION

On Monday, Feb. 4, four hours after Mr. Harkness announced his resignation, the Commons embarked on a three-day debate that made history of another sort.

It was a tough debate, opening the minority government to needed.

FINGERS CROSSED BEFORE VOTE — John Diefenbaker crosses fingers while entering House of Commons Feb. 5, 1963, to face confidence votes that spelled the death of his Progressive Conservative government. Two motions of non-confidence were carried, each by a 142-to-111 vote. (CP Photo)

But during the supper break cold reporters he had been stalling. Long afterwards, he said he had been waiting for word from Mr. Diefenbaker on his party's four-point offer of support.

Back in the House, Mr. Thompson wound up his speech with a non-confidence motion, amending Mr. Harkness' motion and accusing the government of failure to give "a clear statement of policy on national defence."

It was quickly evident that, barring a miracle, the minority government could not survive.

But much was to happen before MPs stood to be counted.

The next day, Tuesday, rumors of a cabinet revolt, of a possible deal with Social Credit, of a move to replace the prime minister, spread like a prairie grass fire.

They centred on a meeting of cabinet ministers in the parliamentary office of Trade Minister Hees. Reports placed their number between six and 15. They included the influential minister without portfolio, Senator Wallace McCutcheon, Transport Minister Leon Balcer, Revenue Minister John Flemming, Acting Defence Minister Pierre Sevigny and Mines Minister Paul Comtois.

WOULD POLL CABINET

One rumor was that a cabinet group, seeking Mr. Diefenbaker's ouster, would ask him to call a full cabinet meeting and poll his ministers. They suggested a temporary replacement as prime minister: Finance Minister George Nowlan, widely respected in all parties.

Private overtures were made to the Social Credit leader. Two days later Mr. Thompson told a press conference Social Credit might have given the government a longer lease of life if it had reorganized with Mr. Nowlan as prime minister.

George Hees denied the meeting in his office had aimed at liberating the prime minister. He—and others—said it merely sought to avert "the pretty serious situation" shaping up in the pending Commons vote that night.

One informant said the meeting was not secret and that Mr. Diefenbaker, who knew, was kept informed throughout.

Meanwhile, signs of the approaching end of Parliament cropped up everywhere.

Mr. Diefenbaker announced would continue to seport the and three lieutenant-governors. In the Commons basement, carpenters were busy making coffin-like boxes for members to ship home their office files and belongings.

DELATED BID

A huge crowd began lining up for gallery seats 90 minutes before the House opened.

Mr. Diefenbaker, entering the government lobby, was greeted with cheers and loyal shouts of "all the way."

In an emotional 85-minute speech evocative of his give-'em-hell campaigning style, he appeared intent on rallying his party's spirits behind him. Much of the time his back was to the opposition benches. He was talking to his own supporters who responded with frequent bursts of desk-thumping applause.

But he also appealed for support of the two smaller opposition groups.

In an obvious, but belated, bid to meet the conditions for Social Credit backing, he gave a succinct outline of defence policy and promised early presentation of a spending program and budget.

He told Social Crediters they had been "cajoled and pampered" by Mr. Pearson. "He loves you, but he loved you not until yesterday."

To the New Democrats, he said: "Greater love hath no man than that the leader of the Opposition for you today."

Mr. Pearson shot back: "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his friend for his life." It was a blunt reference to Mr. Harkness's resignation.

'HOUR OF DECISION'

Tommy Douglas, NDP leader, had the last word in the debate: "The hour of decision has come. Let the people decide."

The House was surprisingly calm as members stood, one by one, to vote on the Social Credit non - confidence motion. Mr. Harkness was vacant. Mr. Diefenbaker quietly read a book. The vote was 142 to 111 for the motion.

An identical division carried the Liberal non-confidence motion as amended by Mr. Thompson's motion.

Desk-thumping and cheers on both sides of the House greeted the decision. Papers flew through the air. Calmly, Mr. Diefenbaker rose to adjournment for the night.

Next morning, Wednesday, some 100 Conservative MPs and senators crowded the big railway committee room for a press conference. The prime minister slipped in by a side door, bypassing reporters.

Periodic cheering and applause sounded from behind the closed doors. After two hours it ended, and reporters jammed around ministers as they emerged.

Senator McCutcheon said the cabinet was "absolutely" united. State Secretary Ernest Halpenny had one word: "Unity." Said Transport Minister Balcer: "We argue, as in all large families."

PARLIAMENT DISSOLVED

"We're going to knock hell out of the Grits," the trade minister cried. The prime minister was "tremendously popular with the party."

After a brief cabinet meeting Mr. Diefenbaker drove through a rainstorm to Government House where, in a 20-minute meeting, Governor - General Vanier approved the dissolution order for an April 8 election.

Meanwhile, conflicting reports circulated as to what had happened behind the closed caucus doors.

Informed sources said the prime minister, strongly supported by back-bench members, had asked for individual pledges of support from each cabinet minister—and got them. Some ministers were said to have broken down with emotion as they pledged loyalty.

Another version was that, at the outset, one minister announced his plan to resign but pulled back when the prime minister gave assurance he would not wage the election campaign on an anti-American theme.

Next day, Feb. 7, the caucus met again to plan election strategy. Mr. Hees told reporters the discussion on party leadership was "over, done, cleaned up, and finished with — and very successfully too."

TWO MORE RESIGN

Thursday and Friday passed peacefully, on the surface, except for a flurry over a move by Acting Defence Minister Sevigny to call himself defence minister.

Mr. Hees and Mr. Sevigny met privately Friday afternoon and late into the evening. They were in touch with some other ministers, apparently seeking support.

Next day both men resigned. Their letters to Mr. Diefenbaker cited two identical reasons — government refusal to accept nuclear warheads and what Mr. Hees termed a trend to deterioration of Canada-U.S. relations. Mr. Sevigny said he couldnot lend himself to "a wholly unwarranted attack" on the U.S. government.

The resignations shook a government still reeling from events of the week. The ebullient Mr. Hees had been a cabinet strongman, widely considered as a possible future leader. Mr. Sevigny had been seen by some as shaping into the role of Mr. Diefenbaker's Quebec lieutenant.

The three cabinet resignations within a week marked the most severe cabinet disruption since 1896 when premier Laurier ministers quit the Conservative cabinet of Sir Mackenzie Bowell on the issue of Manitoba separate schools. Bowell later called them "a nest of traitors."

ELATION FADED

In an interview the following week Mr. Hees gave an explanation for the apparent turnabout from his declaration of party unity following the Wednesday caucus.

He said he had told the caucus he would resign unless defence policy was changed, and that Mr. Diefenbaker had immediately undertaken to work out a "common ground" policy which he could support.

"I felt completely elated. . . I felt there was nothing between us then."

But Mr. Hees added that by the following Friday it was "very apparent" that Mr. Diefenbaker would do nothing to meet his position and that "as a man of honor" he had no choice but to resign.

Following the Saturday resignations the prime minister met most of his ministers in a series of conferences at his 24 Sussex Drive residence. Late that day he went across the street for a call on Gen. Vanier. Cabinet adjustments followed on Monday, Feb. 11.

In post - mortems opposition leaders attributed the government's Commons defeat and cabinet resignations to a lack of policy leadership by Mr. Diefenbaker.

Spread when cold with:

PLAIN BUTTER ICING

Into a bowl measure 2 tablespoons soft butter and add 1 cup sifted fluffy sugar and beat until blended. Slowly add 2 tablespoons milk or cream alternately with additional icing sugar until of smooth spreading consistency. One-half teaspoon vanilla or lemon extract may be added.

Question: Would you be so kind as to print the recipe for the Spanish Bar Cake once again? It was excellent but I have misplaced my recipe. This will be greatly appreciated. It was very similar to the one sold by A & P supermarket. . . . Mrs. Mick.

Answer: You did not include your address. Next time when you write would you please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope?

SPEAKING OF NAMES

—Thomas Campbell (1777 - 1844)

Do you mind being familiarly hailed by your first name on first acquaintance of total strangers?

I think there're times when it's wonderful to go in," said one of a small group in Belleville the other afternoon, when this question was asked. "Take the time I went to Chicago to visit my brother who was attending college there. He was in residence at International House where students from all over the world stayed. Here as a guest, extremely shy being a first time away from home, I think I'd have died — except I didn't have the chance. Every one I met called me by my first name at once. I felt one of them in no time and hated to come home."

"When you're young, some how last names don't seem to count. I well recall the time I brought my chiefly new boy friend (who later became my husband) home to meet my family. I had just told him what his surname was before them; only knew him by his first name!" said another.

"I remember the time I shared an apartment with eight other girls, unable to introduce them to a chum who came to visit me, without asking each their last name. We never used them!" someone added.

"Yes, but I think it's done more and more," declared the one who had posed the question. "Perhaps I'm too old - fashioned but I must confess it always shocks me a little, upon meeting visiting or new players," (she's very active in sports), "and have them call you by your first name, without once mentioning your surname. To me the surname is invaluable. Its use allows, recognizes and insures a certain privacy and respect for the owner. At least so I was taught and so do believe."

"Perhaps its omission is a sign of our times," suggested another.

"Perhaps. But surnames are so very important. The Map of Mankind is largely made legible only by the use of surnames.'

"In what way do you mean?

"For one thing, achievement of man, like it he traced back to a source without the path of surnames? I think not.

For an example, take the French Canadian, Saint-Denys Garneau. As a lad, though he was born in Quebec City, he often used to love to spend his summers on a family estate near Quebec City. Here he read, and dreamed and thought about life. When it was time for him to attend college, he refused to go.

"Instead, he chose to devote his time exclusively to writing. He became most successful. In four years, 1935-39, he wrote the work on which his fame as a poet rests. Perhaps he had received inspiration and talent from his grandfather, the well-known poet Alfred Garneau as well as from his great-grandfather, a famous writer; Francois Xavier Garneau, (I say 'as' because he attained his national fame during a short span of 31 years of life, for he died a tragic death in 1943.

"Now, to go back farther in Canadian history, Lord Durham said in his report that "French Canadiens have no literature and no history." This challenged a young French Canadian to write a book entitled, "The Histoire du Canada" which came the first book written and published by a French Canadian. His book was the beginning, the birth of French Canadian literature. The date was 1846. The book is still a kind of bible for French Canadian writers."

Who was the author everyone wanted to know?

"He was Francois Xavier Garneau, the great-grandfather of the poet Saint-Denys-Garneau. And my point is that surnames allow unmistakable individual identification, without which the biography of the world could scarcely be written. They're the sign-posts of a nation's legacy "in truth, the world's most and heritage.

"In truth, the worlds most priceless treasure is its treasury of surnames.

MAIL CALL

Question: When issuing an invitation to a dinner party, what is the best — written invitation or simply a phone call? I'm planning a large party and phoning would be more convenient, but I'll use whichever method is considered more correct today. — Mrs. B. H., New Haven, Conn.

Answer: Telephoning may save time, but when there's a large party involved, written invitations usually same making mistakes. In talking on the phone, the one doing the inviting may well forget to mention the time or, in haste, give the wrong date. A written invitation saves much trouble in the long run. Incorrect information can be double-checked before the invitations are sealed so there's no danger of making a mistake and there's no chance for those receiving invitations to make any misinterpretation.

Question: A new family has moved into a house quite near ours, and, judging by their appearance, seem pleasant and attractive. I've had no occasion to meet them, but would like to do so in the near future. We're planning a party soon, and I thought it would be a nice idea to invite them, along with several other neighbors. May I do this without any previous introduction? How would the invitation best be issued? — Mrs. C. H., Allentown, Pa.

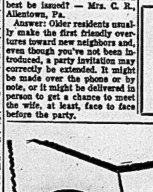
Answer: Older residents usually make the first friendly overtures toward new neighbors and, even though you've not been introduced, a party invitation may correctly be extended. It might be made over the phone or by note, or it might be delivered in person to get a chance to meet the wife, at least, face to face before the party.

A Lift for Living
Man Must Hold Back Nothing When Giving Himself to God

By REV. HAROLD R. KOHN

Those who seek to make progress in political circles through pulling strings, rather than through earnest and skilled public service, use a cynical motto: "It's not what you know; it's who you know." Jesus Christ points beyond cynicism to a profundity the motto - mongers would never suspect. It really is who you know that counts more than what you know. If you know the right marriage partner and know that he is dependably loyal, you don't need to know where he is every moment or what he is doing all the time. He can be trusted with life's details. It's who you know, not what. So it is with our trust in God. If God is good and trustworthy, we don't need to know every particular about Him or concerning His plans for us. His behavior on our behalf can be trusted.

The Book of Hebrews tells of the Old Testament fidelity of Abraham, "By faith Abraham obeyed when he was called to go to a place which he should receive as an inheritance: and he went out, not knowing where he was to go." (Hebrews 11:8, R. S. V.) Abraham sensed a Divine bidding to leave a place of comfortable familiarity, of culture and prosperity and to undertake an unknown destination. He went in the simple faith that if God wanted him to make that move it would turn out all right, somehow, and God's good time, even though to all appearances the end was an unwise one. Certain questions must have come to Abraham. How would he know it was very far away? Could he make friends there? Would he prosper, as he had in the past? Would he? Why would his family accept the change? All of these are natural questions, questions any of us would likely ask. However, such questions were not determinative; they did not decide Abraham's action. Only one thing did Abraham need to know — that he was called by God to go. The details were not known before he marched. "He went out, not knowing where he was to go."



WAS GOD'S MAN

The meaning of dedication is involved in Abraham's journey. He was God's man, all of him. This means that when he went out into the land he journeyed through Syria into Palestine, the Land of Promise, all of Abraham was going — what ever questionings he had, whatever nagging doubts, whatever fears. He did not stay at home until all problems were resolved; neither did Abraham decide on his trip in haste, give the wrong date. A written invitation saves much trouble in the long run. Incorrect information can be double-checked before the invitations are sealed so there's no danger of making a mistake and there's no chance for those receiving invitations to make any misinterpretation.

Question: A new family has moved into a house quite near ours, and, judging by their appearance, seem pleasant and attractive. Tailored Fashions Shown In Spring Collection

PARIS (Reuters) Jacques Griffe showed tailored silhouettes with box - pleated skirts, middies, overblouses, and natural waistlines in pure silk taffeta, cotton, boy linen, light suit-jackets, and a continuous play of belts.

Belts came in every shape, width and geographical location from slated criss-cross belts set on the fronts of coats to low-set, inch-wide sashes looped casually around the hip bones.

Necklines were high in street-clothes, but late day fashions picked up the Paris plunge which Griffe calls the sunshine neckline.

Tall Girl Thinks Tall, Wants to Wear Heels

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — How about settling an argument? I want to buy a pair of heels for dress and my folks think I should stick to flats. I am 17 years of age and 5' 8" tall. My folks keep telling me I will be taller than most of the boys if I wear heels. I say, "So what?"

I love the way heels look and I don't care if they do make me taller than the boys. Will you decide this for me? Do I get heels or not? — UP OR DOWN.

DEAR UP — And that's my advice. Up with your head, up with your shoulders and get up on those heels if you want them. It's how you feel about your height that counts, and you feel just fine. So congratulations and enjoy your new slippers.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Fifteen years ago I divorced my husband because he was a Tom Cat and a liar. Our daughter was two years old at the time. I went to work because the support cheque always seemed to get lost in the mail.

Three years ago the Tom Cat married a woman with a big house and a healthy inheritance. Our daughter spends every other weekend with her father and his wife. Of late the girl has become critical of me, my clothes, our home, our furniture and the meals. She tells me they live graciously "over there" (two servants) and that I could take lessons from her father's second wife on how to be entertaining. This morning she informed me her father was a wonderful man and that I was a fool to let him go.

How do you tell a 17-year-old girl that her father was a chaser and a louse? — GUT-CLASSED.

DEAR FRIEND — You don't tell a girl of any age that her father was a chaser and a louse.

You tell her you have done your best and that furniture, servants and fancy meals don't necessarily make a home happy. Some of the world's loneliest people live a miserable existence in elegant homes.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Our grandfather is 86 years old. The doctor said there wasn't anything more they could do for him in the hospital and he suggested an Old Folk's Home where grandpa could get nursing care.

Every night after supper our parents insist that my brother and I go with them to visit grandpa. I am 16 and my brother is 14. We don't see any point in killing two hours every evening sitting in a room with somebody who doesn't even know who we are.

Mom says the least we can do for grandpa is to be with him during his last days. Meantime we aren't getting our homework done because by the time we get home the evening is shot. If you say we should be excused from going at night and just go Sundays we'll show your advice to our folks and it will help us a lot. — WALLPAPER STUDIERS.

DEAR STUDIERS — It makes no sense whatever for teen-age kids to spend two hours every evening visiting someone who doesn't know they are there.

If your mother and dad feel they must go, fine. But you and your brother should stay home and do your school work.

Visit to Buenos Aires Takes Tourists Long Way From Home

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

BUENOS AIRES — The distance from New York to here is 5,445 miles. Buenos Aires is farther from New York than however, farther than Los Angeles is from London, than San Francisco, from Tokyo.

As recently as 1957, it took more than a day of flying to get here. Twenty years ago it took four days, 30 years ago a week, and before that, you couldn't even get here from some places (if you were starting out from Caracas, Venezuela, for example — now only about five hours away — you had to take a ship to New York and change there).

Last month Pan American Airways inaugurated a non-stop 10½ hour jet service from New York. In this ho-hum era of new non-stop jet routes inaugurated every Tuesday and Thursday, this huge hop is more than a little worth noting, especially in view of South America's long and painful isolation from the tourist world. Only about 35,000 North Americans a year visit Argentina, though it is significant that even this small number is double what it was a couple of years ago, before jet service (albeit with stops) was introduced.

UNKNOWN JUNGLES

The air route, possibly the single longest hop in the world, is also one of the most dramatic. Once past the well plied routes of the Caribbean and South Atlantic, the jet passes over the mountains of Venezuela, then the vastness of the wild and unknown Brazilian jungle, thousands of square miles where no man has ever set foot, beneath flow the rivers with the magic geography book names. . . Orinoco, Rio Negro, and the mighty Amazon. And then, the city with the magic name, the great cosmopolitan city of this continent so near to us, yet so far.

It is summer in the Western Hemisphere's second largest city now. Not the palm-tree tropical warmth so commonplace these days to the West-Indies-wintering jet set, but a temperate land like ours, where trees blossom and flowers bloom only in season.

Also blooming and blossoming are the sidewalk cafes with their outdoor asados — aromatic with the savor of whole goats, lambs and sides of beef barbecuing. The ponies are running at the Jockey Club; the first tee is backed up for hours at both of San Isidro's layouts, the beach at nearby Mar del Plata looks like Coney Island in August; and the soccer season is in the fulness of its mightiness.

Like all great cities, Buenos Aires has many faces. The most familiar is that of the typical Latin city — unbelievably broad boulevards (Ninth of July Ave. is said to be the widest in the world, and we wouldn't argue), unbelievably long ones (Rivada. via Cabildo for 12 miles in the city, 33 in the suburbs), and magnificent plazas with the inevitable equestrian statues and monuments to the Revolution. In Buenos Aires, it is all framed by brilliant lavender jacarandá trees, and there is a stately magnificence about the city that, to say the least, is impressive.

But great boulevards do not a city make, and we found ourselves on a January summer evening poking around the docks and cow-yards of La Boca. B.A.'s Greenwich Village, where at the turn of the century, the tango was born. It has, we believe, since died here.

ITALIAN RESTAURANTS

La Boca is the Italian section. This is a little difficult to explain in view of the fact that there are more people of Italian blood in Argentina than of Spanish blood, and you might envision millions of Italians crammed into a few square blocks. But that's the way it looks, and where you've got Italians, you've got Italian restaurants. The likes of those in La Boca you've never seen, nor have we.

Block after block, chek to jowl, they stand, with the proprietor out front shouting at the strolling throngs to come in. Inside, each place looks as if it is on fire and sounds as if the patrons are stampeding in panic.

Out-of-work artists appear to have decorated the walls in smears of yellow, pistachio, and orange, with murals of Naples and Genoa thrown in when they were sober enough. Garish lights festooned with New Year's Eve streamers hang from the ceiling. Rows of wooden benches and tables hold scallop-the-unsuspecting strangers in hip-to-hip communion. And above the normal din of so many diners, an accordion, saxophone, and anything else that is loud blasts Latin - flavoured twists and "Come Back to Sorrento" over their heads and into the street via loudspeaker.

Until now, things have been quiet in La Boca. About 11 o'clock the dancing begins. Only there is no space for dancing. So after a few half-hearted attempts at folk dances and chachas, a snake line forms. It undulates its way between the tables and under the lasagna-loaded waiters, who may join in on the line as it heads to the kitchen. Those who can't get into the line stand on the benches and tables, and patrons who can't stand sit and cheer, or sing.

There is entertainment tax. By the time you stagger out in the wee hours, horse and stuffed, it will have cost you $3.00, an aching head, including several magnums of Chianti-La Boca, "mucho mouth". No wonder they call it that.

W. A. Groups Enjoy Talk, Colored Slides

On Thursday afternoon, the members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Anglican churches were hostesses to other members west of Kingston, at a meeting in the visit of Miss Winifred Gray, nurse at Maple Leaf Hospital, Kangra.

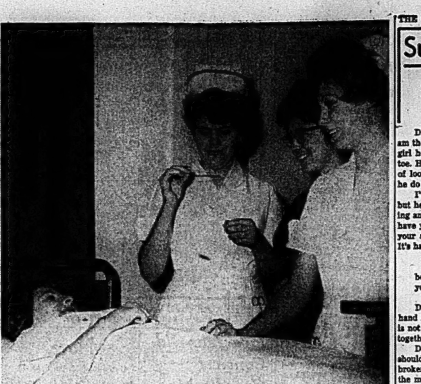
Mrs. H. Fleming, Diocesan officer presided.

Rev. R. Fleming took the devotional period, speaking on the Anglican World Mission, life of prayer in the Church, referring also to the Anglican congress and the Diocesan congress, stating there would be challenging, exciting and disturbing times ahead.

Mrs. H. Fleming, on behalf of Christ Church welcomed all present.

Miss Gray was introduced by Mrs. W. F. H. Mitchell, Diocesan president, stating Miss Gray had come from Calgary and had been in Kangra since 1947.

In her opening remarks Miss Gray thanked all for their prayers and funds and told the meeting of the great need for an unmarried lady doctor for the hospital and also an unmarried schoolmistress for Simla. She was dressed in a beautiful blue sari, gold blouse and gold sandals and explained the great use of silver jewellery by all women, excepting a widow who wears no jewellery. Miss Gray stated that when a young couple get married, they invested it in silver bracelets for the woman to wear, thinking it safer than in cash, and that it can be sold at any time for its value.



Miss Gray illustrated her talk with slides, which were most beautiful, showing the rugged country, the Maple Leaf Hospital, the Church of St. James with its stained glass window "Come unto me all that labour" and the Feast of Lights, a typical "sweet shop" and how and where the tools are that are used in farming. Miss Gray's commentary was most interesting and humorous.

Mrs. J. Utley, Trenton, expressed the thanks of all present.

It was decided that the collection would be given for the work of the Maple Leaf Hospital.

It was regretted that members of the Hastings Deanery were unable to be present, due to the fact notification of this meeting had been lost in the mail.

At the close of the meeting a cup of tea was served.

By GLADYS WARD

Ask any little girl what she wants to be when she grows up and the answer is almost invariably, "A nurse." There is something inborn in the make-up of the feminine nature that wants to nurture, tend, and care for the sick and helpless. Not all little girls will grow up to be nurses, but quite a few will, and some of them will become registered nursing assistants.

Twenty girls who have completed Grade X are now studying at Quinte Secondary School under the supervision of Mrs. H. McLachlan, Reg. N., and when they have completed the four - year course they will receive a Grade XII diploma from the Home Economics division of the science, technology and trade branch of the Department of Education as Registered Nursing Assistants.

WORK IN HOSPITAL

Twice a week the girls and their instructor, assisted by Mrs. Hughes of the Belleville General Hospital from 9 to 12 o'clock, and carry out their classroom work under actual hospital conditions.

Besides receiving transportation from the hospital, and furnishes each girl with two uniforms, shoes and freshly laundered each week.

Back at school the classes take place in a new wing of the school which is air-conditioned and fitted with five hospital beds, equipped in every detail with hospital requirements.

Academic subjects take up 20 periods a week, when English, mathematics, social studies, science, home economics and physical education are studied. Nursing theory and practice in school take up the rest, and ten periods are spent in clinical experience at the hospital, and other available institutions, such as the home for retarded children at Plainfield, and the O.S.D. hospital.

So enthusiastic are the girls who are taking this course that a marked improvement in their academic subjects has been noticed by the teachers. Next year a new class of 20 students will start at the Grade XI level, which will mean 40 girls in the program.

The remuneration is good with the girls earning from $250. to $275 a month on completion of the program. After graduation the girs are qualified to write examinations for registration as nursing assistants set by the College of Nurses and when qualified, can practise anywhere in Canada, in most of the States and probably in Great Britain.

Under the direction of a registered nurse the girls learn by doing in the hospital. They can look around after second and third day post-operative patients, care for patients in an oxygen tent, bathe elderly people who require this care, make beds, but they cannot give medication, or sterile treatments in hospital. However they are taught to do home nursing, and on graduation can assist the V.O.N. in bedside nursing care.

Mrs. H. McLachan, Reg. N., who originally came from Welington, is a graduate of the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto; a Bachelor of Nursing Science from Queen's University, Kingston, and has worked as a nurse instructor at the Hospital for Sick Children and Kingston General Hospital. Recently Mrs. McLachlan, furnished in nursing at the University of New Brunswick.

This is the first school in Eastern Ontario to offer this program but enquiries are coming in from other centres, and Kingston and Ottawa have shown interest in the course.

Dior Look Is Young Look Like Dressed-up Children

PARIS (Reuters)—Dior's look is the "young look" with sweater dresses, shirt waist styles and two-piece effects in the spring fashion collection shown today.

Coming in are short, puffed-sleeved, baby-bodied dresses, and suit jackets cropped short like a British schoolboy's.

Last season's military shoulders are absent, replaced by casual silhouettes with a natural waistline, natural shoulderline and hem length, dropped a fraction of an inch so that it neatly covers the knee.

They wore box-pleated skirts, blouses and sweater tops, neatly striped or checked Eton suits and hats that prove to be an almost exact copy of a boy scout's hat.

Girls grew up fast after lunch however and the first afternoon dresses brought in deep pointed decolletes.

Newest suits had flared or box pleated skirts paired with waist-length lightly fitted jackets.

Schoolboy jackets or blazers came in double version. Both had flat revers and collars, but the under jacket worn as a blouse was sleeveless.

Shirt and tie is a theme teamed with pleated skirts and established the two-piece look in dresses. Long shirt sleeves and French cuffs, bodices were gently bloused with rounded or revers or collars. Other dresses revive the short puffed sleeve associated with the 1930s.

Pleats turned up again in shirtwaist coats with a narrow belt slotted loosely round the waistline. Inverted pleats were set at the sides and back.

Newest themes are the fabric marriages combining two bold geometric patterns in the same ensemble. Striped bodices were shown with broken line plaid skirts and jackets.

Fiance's Wandering Eyes Not Necessarily Flirting

DORIS CLARK

DEAR BOTHERED — Take it as a compliment. If your beloved were blind to feminine beauty, would he have picked you? Flirting is an entirely different matter.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — My friend is very unhappy and her husband and she go separate ways. The reason for this: her sex life is not successful. As for myself, my husband and I had relations together before marriage and we are very happy.

Doris, we feel that every girl and boy thinking of marriage should have relations before they are married, as quite a few broken homes are because of sex. There are enough products on the market that, a girl doesn't have to worry about getting pregnant.

I would like to know other people's opinions on this. — STRONG BELIEVER.

* * *

DEAR BELIEVER — The love that lasts is more than physical attraction. Where partners have a high regard for each other's basic lasting virtues, a study of sex can bring happiness in this area too.

As for premarital experiments, there is neither the emotional poise nor reasonable physical protection to safeguard the young person from tragic consequences.

The Golden Years

Becoming Birth-Year Expert Gives You Retirement Chore

By THOMAS COLLINS

People coming up to age 65 and retirement this year were born in 1899. Which wasn't a bad year.

Maybe you can do something with it, if nobody is hanging around to give you a $25,00 consultant job when you retire. Or if, in fact, you have nothing to do.

Wallace A. Stephens, who is 65 and will retire July 1, discovered 1899 about two years ago. He has been studying it since, and plans to make a second career of it.

"I think I could make some money with my rather odd-ball project," he says, "and I have no doubt I have stumbled upon something that will absorb me for the next 20 years. But I did not start it for either reason. I just got curious about what the world was like in that wonderful year when I was"born."

A dinner-table conversation about President Teddy Roosevelt was the beginning. It led to an argument over when he became Vice President, which led to the name of Garret A. Hobart who preceded Roosevelt as Vice President, and was holding the office in 1899.

Mr. Stephens, having lost the argument, pursued the subject further the next day and discovered that also in the year 1899 an ancestor named David B. Henderson was Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, and Henderson was a distant relative of the Stephens family.

OFF AND RUNNING

With that he was off and running. And over the next year he read all the books he could find on the period from the Gay Nineties to about 1910. But always he drifted back to the clean-up of the Spanish-American War, the close - out of a Century, and his year of 1899.

Mrs. Stephens encouraged him. She gave him a couple of books that were published in 1899. She picked out for him a few coins minted in that year. She wrote letters for him to relatives still very sending family letters and family Bibles covering the 1899 period.

"With this, I moved into collecting," Mr. Stephens says. "I got particularly interested in the 1899 magazines, some of which I found in bound volumes. I began looking for picture prints, other books and newspapers with the 1899 imprint.

"When I discovered that such glamor boys as Fred Astaire and Charles Boyer were born along with me in 1899, and that O'Brien got their diapers they took, I decided I was riding in fine company with my profession. . ."

Until now, Mr. Stephens has collected autographs of famous people living in 1899, glassware and small pieces of furniture made then (though he says he's having a rough time pinning down dates on these), all sorts of time-pieces, and any and all small bells. He wanted to get into wagons and buggies, but has no place to keep them. He did get into railroads and is now trying to compile evidence on what trains ran where, when and how fast — in 1899.

"COLLECTING A YEAR"

"In fact, I'm not collecting things so much as I am a year" he says, "if its got 1899 on it I'll take it, no matter what it is."

Mr. Stephens doesn't think he'll ever want to sell what he's collecting. Nor does he really intend to sell the knowledge he's learning on 1899. But he thinks it quite possible that some day he could get a job with a museum or a library as an expert on this particular period of history. "You see, it wasn't a historic year, in that no wars were being fought and no nations being born. And it's that kind of year that attracts the experts. I'm unique in becoming a specialist in 1899. . ."

What Mr. Stephens is doing will seem like pablum to some men who are coming up to repeep it in mind for that day some dragons. But they might interest this year, and with vim and vigor are going out to slay when they meet that dragon doesn't want to be slain.

Found Guilty On $960,000 Fraud Charge

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury, after 25 hours' deliberation has found 30 - year - old hotel owner Ben Smith of Toronto guilty of defrauding Brilund Mines Limited of $960,000 in 1957.

Smith was not in the courtroom Friday to hear the verdict. He was in jail about a half hour before the all-male jury made its decision and was taken to hospital by ambulance.

He was remanded in custody until Tuesday for sentence. Mr. Justice James F. Donnelly told the jury he agreed with its verdict.

Smith was charged on four counts of conspiracy and fraud involving Brilund Mines and the Imperial Bank of Canada and a further count of forgery involving a $960,000 cheque in 1957.

Stockholders Authorize Rebuilding of Can Plant

PICTON (Staff) — After an emergency meeting of the shareholders of the Baxter Canning Company, Harold A. Cleave, president of the company announced that it was the unanimous decision of the stockholders that the directors be empowered to rebuild the plant which was destroyed by fire last Monday night.

On Friday, the Ontario Intelligencer made a trip through the ruins of the plant where local labor has been recruited and are attacking the enormous task of "getting things cleaned up."

Mountains of canned peas, pork and beans and pumpkin are being loaded into trucks for removal from the wrecked plant. Oddly enough where the piles were located, the very inside cases show little if any damage, but salvage operations will be costly.

As one of the workmen working at the removal said: "We always made the finest canned pork and beans in the country, now we can add a special label, "Bloomfield Smoke Cured"— pork and beans.

The plant before the fire was about 600 feet long, averaged about 60 feet in width and most of this was of two and three construction. The "mess" can well be imagined as they start the "clean-up."

Harold Cleave, president of the company, said, "it will take some time, but plans and specifications for a new and modern canning plant will be secured as soon as possible."

CAN'T BE ROBBED

BIRMINGHAM, England (CP)—A new security van has gone into operation in the Birmingham area. It will be used mainly for carrying bullion by factory guards and is claimed to be bandit-proof. One of its features is an alarm siren which can be heard a quarter of a mile away.

Cherry Valley Plant Rented By Baxter Co.

PICTON (Staff) — J. Donald Baxter, vice-president and general manager of the Baxter Canning Company has announced that despite Monday's fire that destroyed the entire plant, that the company has been able to retain its contract as sole supplier of canned pork and beans to A. and P. Tea Company in Canada.

This has been accomplished, Mr. Baxter reported through co-operation of the Hyatt Canning Company whose plant at Cherry Valley has been rented by Baxter's for this portion of the plant's canning operation.

"We will work around the clock to get into production in the Cherry Valley plant in ten days," said Mr. Baxter.

Five-Year-Old Convicts Grandfather

BALTIMORE (AP) — "God doesn't like people who lie," five-year-old Madelyn Stanton told the court.

Prosecutor Donald Needle gave an amused shrug and withdrew his objection to the little girl's testifying Wednesday in defence of her grandfather, who was charged with arson.

The oath was given, but had to be repeated because Madelyn raised the wrong hand.

"Now, Madelyn, what do you know about the fire?" defence counsel Louis Close asked.

Madelyn hesitated.

"I saw grandpa go down to the cellar and throw a burning match on the rug," the little girl said.

"Don't you say that, child," said the grandmother.

"Get that woman out of there and back where she belongs," Judge James Cullen told the bailiff.

"What did you say, young lady?" asked the judge.

"There, you see! That's what can happen," the judge told the defence.

"Well, that's not what she told me before," Close said.

Grandpa, Frank Stanton, 53, was found guilty and given a six months' suspended sentence.

"Who knows what may come out of closer relations with China?" he said. However, "no doubt for a long time to come the effects may still be limited."

CHINA HAS INTEREST

He said in Asia "there is no political reality that can exist concerning Indochina, India Pakistan, Korea, Japan or Russia and other parts of Asia which does not concern or interest China."

When explaining the historical developments in China which led to French recognition, de Gaulle also said the time had passed when "Peking was under the thumb" of Russia.

He used the same expression when he spoke about one aspect of relations between the United States and Europe.

Certain supranational and other plans for a united Europe, he said, would place Europe "under the thumb" of the U.S. or keep it sterile.

Japanese Steambath Like Strip Poker With Marked Deck

By DAVE STOCKAND

But beware if you're the bashful type.

You wait your fate in an outer room, thumbing innocuously through unillustrated magazines which have texts besmirched entirely in Japanese characters. It's like being in a dentist's office far from home, not knowing the drill.

The appointed hour, the solemn start of the task, arrives with a smiling escort service into the inner chamber by a transistorized girl in white who, it turns out, has the hands of a karate champion and the professional dedication of a kamikaze pilot.

Now the stage is set for the start of a burlesque show in reverse with an audience of one who has seen it all before.

She points to shoes. You hand over shoes. Previously. You hand over trousers. The sign language continues.

It's a one-way street, strip poker with a marked deck.

Quick bows accompany the ultimate exchange—skirt for shorts—and into the steam cabinet full steam ahead. There you simmer feeling silly, like a naughty pilgrim locked in the stocks in the village square.

CLOSE YOUR EYES

The cooking—an hour-long 15 minutes—is followed by a towel-flapping scramble to a tub of tepid water and a lathering; a limb - by - limb lathering, inch by blushing inch, administered by the same unflappable girl in white.

"You shy," says the girl, "you close your eyes."

The logic leaves something to be desired, but you're ready to grasp any suggestion short of hara kiri. You close your eyes. It helps.

The next stop, after a top-to-bottom rinse which destroys any hopes of salvaging even a fragment of privacy, is a low table where you flop down. Thus they go to the like a well-boiled side of Japanese beef.

Prize Japanese cattle reach maturity on a beer-and-rice diet spiced by a daily rub-down. Thus they go the the slaughterhouse truly contented cows, producing beef so tender it falls apart under the shadow of a chopstick.

Not when you're being punched, poked, prodded, squeezed, thumped, gouged and otherwise womanhandled —and not when the horrible realization dawns under the relentless third-degree therapy that muscles you never knew existed don't exist.

"You no very relax," says the girl in white, her English and probably her patience strained to the limit. "This first-time Japan steambath?"

Ah so. First time, honey. And last time, too.

United Church Opposes Lotteries

OTTAWA (CP) — Year-round navigation in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and along the St. Lawrence River to Montreal now is possible and practical, says federal government evidence.

This conclusion is based on information gathered in a four-year period by the glaciology section of the geophysical branch of the department of mines and technical surveys.

The information was obtained in aerial surveys conducted annually from 1959 to 1962 to map the distribution of the winter ice cover in the gulf and river.

W. A. Black, a geographer and iceologist in charge of the surveys, said Thursday in an interview that winter navigation upstream to Montreal now can be achieved every year with proper aerial reconnaissance of ice conditions and icebreaker support.

Mr. Black said costs involved would be more than offset over a period of years as a result of the increased economic opportunity that would be created by having Montreal and other St. Lawrence ports open in winter.

WATERLOO, Que. He took his bicycle and spent much of his time sightseeing.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It should be interesting to note what the Prague, Moscow, Helsinki and Stockholm boys, among other European journalists column in their usually well editorialized stories about the Bauer-Swede javelin incident.

At the same time I shudder to think what glaring headlines and assertions would have colored their press reports had the darts-minded culprit wore a Canadian hockey uniform.

What actually overshadows the act of the Swedish player was the gallantry, courage and sportsmanship of the Canadian priest-coach who met an emergency like the sports gentleman he is.

Had it been one of some of the Canadian coaches who have mentored our international clubs, the Canadians' bench would have sprouted battle-minded hockey players like an ancient cornucopia.

Cut and bleeding as he was Father Bauer sensed the situation and restrained his young proteges from creating a bad incident. And who could have blamed them? After all the "wounding" of the Canadian coach was not a hazard of the play. The Swedish player, Innsbruck reports state, skated to the Canadian bench and hurled the spear-like remnant of his stick.

Fortunately for all concerned the "missile" did not find a target two inches lower. It might have cost Father Bauer an eye.

Tumba Johansson, the Swedish captain, wise in the ways of international hockey, immediately skated to the Canadian bench and apologized for the incident. The stick-tossing clubmate also expressed his regrets after the game, and was told to "Forget it" by Father Bauer.

What the incident did bring forth was a more or less substantiation of complaints by previous Canadian international coaches and players of playing inefficiency of some of the European officials.

The Smoke Eaters from Trail, the Dunlops from Whitby and the McFarlands from Belleville came home with a low opinion of overseas officiating attached to world championships.

This agent personally witnessed some of the work of glaringly inept whistle-blowers whose only thing in common was a thumb-happy complex, where the Canadian players were concerned.

No wonder the CAHA's Potter and other Canadian officials attending the Olympics "blew their tops." The offending Swedish player was not assessed even a minor sentence for his action. Nor did, at the moment, International Ice Federation officials appear to want to take any action. Later after the Canuck pressure was put on, the official was suspended.

Exhibition tours off visiting hockey teams may be used as testing and instructional grounds for the millrun of overseas officials, but when it comes to the Olympic and world "semi-pro" championships it is about time the International Ice Hockey Federation sent their best men into action.

The sportsmanship and gallantry of Father Bauer and the restraint exercised by his youthful proteges in the face of a sudden emergency has regained a lot of that hockey "prestige" Canadians are alleged to have lost in European junkets.

Nor did the outstanding display when they defeated the "tough Swedes" in the chips-down round lose them any friends over there in the shadow of the Austrian Alps.

Now if they can turn back the victory-hungry hardchecking Czechs next Friday all will be well in the Canadian camps at home and abroad and Canada's Right Bauer can train his "aces" sights on that favored Red galaxy from the shadow of the Kremlin.

Colorless Russ Squeeze Past Czechs

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP) — The Soviet Union has been called by the experts as a mortal cinch to whip through the seven-game round-robin Olympic hockey tournament without a loss and recapture the gold medal it first won in 1956.

On the scoreboard Friday the Russian squad seemed to prove the punchs right defeating Czechoslovakia's high - rated national team 7-5 for their second-straight victory.

But the Russians did not look good in beating the Czechs showing only flashes of good hockey and displaying an inability to find the target with their shooting.

They floated around inside the Czech blueline but their shooting was something less than accurate — something many observers noticed in Russia's previous championship game when the Soviets beat the defending-champion United States 5-1.

The game, which put Russia into a first-place tie with Canada's young Olympic squad in the championship standings, raised some hopes in the Canadian camp that the gold medal will return to Canada for the first time since 1952.

CAN TAKE 'EM

Art Potter of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, watched the game and said later:

"We can take these guys."

He added: "They might have been playing possum against the Czechs, but at their best we can go all the way."

Canadian coach Rev. David Bauer, who took Sweden's Karl Oberg to the game with him as his guest, had little comment except to say that "the championship will be decided when Canada meets Russia Feb.8."

"You know," he added, "we could surprise a great many people."

Father Bauer, with two tickets for the game, invited Oberg to join him and the two sat side by side in the ice stadium crowd of 11,000.

Oberg had been suspended for one game earlier in the day for an incident when Canada beat Sweden 3-1 Thursday night in which he threw his broken stick into the Canadian players' bench, striking Father Bauer and opening a cut above his right eye.

The Russia-Czech game was one of two played in the championship round Friday. The United States whipped Germany 8-0 in the other.

Father Bauer's young Canadian squad, which beat Switzerland 8-0 in its opening game and now is tied with Russia for first place in the eight-nation championship group, plays its next game Sunday against Germany.

The Russians proved themselves strong skaters, but they tend to panic when the going gets rough and they did just that Friday night when the Czechs followed them four easy first-period goals, then came within two goals of catching up twice in the second and third periods.

The Soviets became confused, uncertain and scrambly when the Czechs—who at times played as if they weren't interested in winning—turned on the pressure.

Veniamin Alexandrov, Alexander Almetov and Anatoly Firsov pumped shots past Czech goalie Vlado Dzurila in the first 10 minutes. The Czechs sent Vladimir Nadrchal into the nets then and he gave up his first score to Konstantin Loktev before the period ended.

Stanislav Petukhov scored for Russia in the second period and Eduard Ivanov and Victor Yakushev counted in the third.

Czech forwards Josef Golonka got three of the Czech goals, two in the second period when Russia was outscored 3-1. Jiri Dolana got the other second-period goal and Frantisek Tikal got the last one in the third.

Swedes Bleat 'Lynch Law'

STOCKHOLM (CP-AP)—Swedish newspapers reacted angrily today to the suspension of one of their Olympic hockey stars for a stick-throwing incident in which Canadian coach Rev. David Bauer suffered a cut forehead.

"Sheer lynch law," said one paper. "Judicial murder," said a second, quoting a Swedish team official at the Winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria.

The Swedish sports writers, who often in the past have pulled out all the stops in attacking Canadian hockey teams for alleged rough play, were unanimous in criticizing their own star, Karl-Gofan Oberg, for tossing the broken stick that hit Father Bauer on the Canadian bench during Thursday's match — which the Canadians won 3-1.

But they also were unanimous in taking to task the International Ice Hockey Federation for suspending Oberg for one game without giving him a chance to explain his behavior.

The incident also brought a two-day suspension for Genaro Olivieri, the Swiss referee, for not cracking down hard enough on Oberg.

Both suspensions were criticized by the press here.

"The first Olympic scandal is a fact," said Svenska Dagbladet.

"The International Ice Hockey Association on Friday in Innsbruck introduced sheer lynch law and sentenced entirely dictatorially the Swedish ice hockey player "Little Boot" Oberg to suspension for one match and the referee Olivieri to suspension for two days."

The chief sports editor of Dagens Nyheter, Rudolf Ekelow, himself a member of the board of the international association, abstained from voting when the issue was decided on, but reports in his paper that he met Father Bauer immediately after-wards. He said he was rather sorry for this development.

"I have not protested," Father Bauer was quoted as telling Ekloew. "I am convinced that he never meant to hurt me deliberately. . . .

Quinte Downs Napanee

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

All three Quinte Secondary School teams defeated Napanee in Bay of Quinte COSSA basketball play yesterday at Quinte. The seniors won by a 70-47 score, the juniors by a close 60-58 score and the bantams 45-29.

The Quinte seniors used an all-court pressure, which was a main factor in their win, as Napanee could never really get organized.

In the first quarter Quinte dominated play, with both teams playing sloppily and furiously.

Play slowed down in the second quarter and became fairly even. In this quarter Brian McBride scored eight points and Quinte and Gary Coulthys scored all of Napanee's 11 points as Quinte increased their lead by 10 points.

The third quarter also went in Quinte's favor, ending 53-33. McBride and Coulthys were top scorers in this quarter too.

Grant Hancock of Quinte was outstanding in the fourth quarter as he rebounded well and contributed eight points. Overall, both teams played a scrambly game. McBride and Coulthys were high scorers, netting 26 and 24 points respectively. Mike Chitland of Quinte dominated both backboards and played a good defensive game.

Napanee had all the way in the closer Junior game with Tony Meddings of the winners hitting 20 points. Forbes of Napanee was the all-round top scorer, as he shovelled in 28 points. Steve Bylsma of Quinte played a good defensive game and potted nine points.

The Quinte bantams led by Larry Seelys' 21 point performance, won an easy 45-29 victory. Best for Napanee was J. M. Grange, who had 16 points.

Seniors:

Quinte (70): McBride 26, Leslie 12, Reppard 10, Hancock 9, Eaves 6, Chatland 5, Morton 2, Bardy, Champagne, Middleton, Valyear.

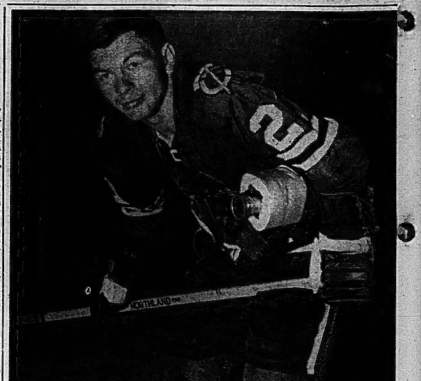
Dogs Dump Flags 4-1, Zephyrs Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Not too long ago Muskegon Zephyrs were a good bet to wind up last in the International Hockey League standings—but things have changed.

The rejuvenated Zephyrs registered their seventh triumph in their last eight games by shading the second-place Toledo Blades 5-4 Friday night on home ice.



The win enabled Muskegon to break a tie with Chatham Maroons for fifth place and left them just one point back of Windsor Bulldogs. The Bulldogs held on to their slim margin by dumping Port Huron Flags 4-1 in Port Huron.

SMILE, HERE COMES MIKITA — Fiery Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks isn't looking for portraits of smiling opposition goaltenders with this camera. In fact, being one of the more prolific goal scorers in the National Hockey League, he probably wouldn't catch many goalies grinning while he's within shooting distance. The camera, and a microphone, were strapped to him in preparing a television film of Mikita and the Hawks. (CP Photo)

Hockey World Of Stan Mikita

An inside look at big-league professional hockey with special emphasis on the Chicago Black Hawks and their, All-Star centre Stan Mikita will be presented on the Twentieth Century, Sunday, Feb. 2 at 4.30 p.m. EST in the CBC-TV network.

This half-hour documentary, entitled Firebrand on Ice, was filmed at rinks in Hamilton, Ont., and St. Catharines, Ont., prior to the current NHL season. It traces the gruelling training process that players go through to get up to regular starting team and also shows the team in pre-season action.

In filming the documentary, air force gun-cameras were mounted in shoulder holsters in Mikita, who also wore a microphone as did coach Billy Reay and a referee. As well, five cameras were placed in strategic locations around the rink. One of them, encased in plexiglass, was embedded in the ice, back of goalie Glenn Hall.

Manager Tommy Ivan, who also appears on the program explains the draw of Canada's popular sport and tells why it is regarded as a good way of making a living despite statistics showing that a player requires between 100 and 500 surgical stitches and suffers several broken bones during his playing career.

Also seen in this program is part of a pre-season game between the Hawks and the Detroit Red Wings. In these segments the cameras followed Gordie Howe, who has scored more goals than any man in history; the Hawks' Reg Fleming, who holds a record of 37 minutes of penalty time in one game; and Bobby Hull, one of only three players ever to score 50 goals in a single season.

Bauer Brushes Off Stick Incident

—Officials Differ

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—The stick-throwing incident in which Swedish forward Karl-Goran Oberg opened a cut on the forehead of Canada's Olympic hockey coach, Father David Bauer, caused a lot of fuss and talk around this Olympic centre.

But everything was just fine with Father Bauer and Oberg.

They went to the Russia-Czechoslovakia hockey game Friday on Father Bauer's two tickets.

"He's a fine, clean-cut boy," the Canadian coach commented as he sat beside Oberg and watched the Russians beat the Czechs 7-6 to climb into a first-place tie with Canada's young Olympic squad in the championship hockey standings.

"You know," Father Bauer added, "I talked with him (Oberg) extensively in Vancouver when the Swedish team was in Canada for exhibition games last December, and I like him."

Oberg's stick throwing incident, which occurred Thursday night as Canada beat Sweden 3-1, aside as lightly.

SUSPEND OBERG

The International Ice Hockey Federation, governing body of world amateur hockey, called a special meeting Friday and suspended Oberg for today's U.S.-Sweden game.

The IIHF also suspended, for two days, referee Georges Udriot of Switzerland for unsatisfactory officiating because he did not penalize Oberg, Swedish player for throwing his broken stick into the Canadian players' bench where it struck Father Bauer.

The incident occurred, with the score 2-1 for Canada with eight minutes of the third period Thursday night and it came after Oberg and Larry Pleau of Montreal, who had been bumping each other, drew minor penalties. Oberg's stick broke in the Canadian zone and he skated past the Canadian bench and threw it.

Father Bauer wrote it off immediately, but J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, IIHF British president of the IIHF, called a special meeting to deal with it.

"Little kids like that happen in sport," said Father Bauer, a Roman Catholic who gave up a promising hockey career to enter the priesthood. WAS IN THE WAY

"I just considered to be in the way of the stick. I know Oberg very well and I like him a lot. A little excitable maybe, but he is still a very fine boy in my book."

Ahearne said the IIHF "wants to thank Father Bauer for exercising control over his players on the ice and after the incident."

"If he had not done this we may have had to deal with six or seven players."

Some of the Canadians were prepared to jump over the boards and retaliate against Oberg, a 25-year-old left winger, but Father Bauer ordered them to sit down.

of the corner and deflected past a surprised Bob Moon. Jim Stinson was credited with the goal, Mr. Civil and Dowdell assisting.

Napanee outshot the "B's" 36-25 with both goalies robbing the opposition more than once. The losers had their biggest edge in the first while Moon's toughest work came in the third.

Coach Bob Taylor shook up his lineup, using forward Boyle on defence, defenceman Rowland up front and putting Grant Hagerman with Jones and Pringle. The move failed to pay off, however, with Rowland's good point shots and hard-hitting defensive play sorely missed by the "B's."

It was announced that Belleville will play the high-flying Trenton Legion Juveniles in an exhibition game here this Wednesday at 8:45. Trenton has defeated several good junior teams and the game is expected to be quite a test for the "B's."

Come From Behind

Napanee Nips Jrs. 3-2

Staff Sportswriter

Working their skate-and-check style to the limit, Napanee Red Wings overcame a first-period 2-0 deficit to edge Belleville "B's" 3-2 in a fast and hard-fought OHA Eastern Junior tilt here last night.

Walt Gerow's hard-skating crew fought back to dissipate the contest with two goals in the middle frame and both clubs went all out in end-to-end play during the final twenty minutes.

Napanee scored the winning goal at 14:31 of the third period with defenceman Chuck Richardson the marksman, assisted by Rick Gerow. Both clubs had been stopped by some sharp goaltending in the wide open period just prior to the deciding goal. Gerow worked the puck in close but had the disc checked away before he could make a play on the net. Richardson rushed in quickly and fired the loose puck between several players from point blank range.

Belleville battled hard to get the equalizer but Napanee survived a penalty at 14:37 and a six-man attack with Moon on the bench during the final minute to preserve the decision.

On the ice-time ledger the "B's" held on through three early penalties then missed goals from Jim Jones and Lang in the 13:13 two occasions before potting their two markers.

Jim Pringle steered Gerry Jones' goal-mouth pass past Tom Mercer to open the scoring at 10:32, Bob Boyle also assisting on the play. Jim Rutherford scored his 20th goal of the campaign, starting a quick backhander Bill Lang's way after he had stolen the puck from Napanee defenceman Martin.

The teams were playing five aside from the first period when Napanee got on the scoresheet after 25 seconds of the middle period. Winston Dowdell cut across in front of the net to score after Mike Cruji had started the play.

Wings tied it on a fluke goal at 4:25. The puck was shot out

City Secondary School Athletes

PAUL HOWE
By Bradley Mann
(St. Michael's)

Telling Paul Howe that he hasn't the ability to play a certain sport is like daring him to try it. Paul, who is one of St. Michael's more talented prospects for future C.O.S.S.A. glories, is an excellent runner among other talents and has done well at almost every sport he has attempted.

With intra-mural hockey and basketball champions-ships under his belt he tackled baseball and hockey in the city leagues for the first time in the 1960-61 season and was a success at both.

Paul found it necessary to participate in a sports-man-like manner but he also found that extra push, the drive to win. His second championship in 1960, his baseball and softball titles in '61 and his repetition to the pewee all-stars in hardball are but some proofs of his drive and keen spirit.

At Cobourg in 1962 at his first track meet, Paul won the tape in the 100 and 75 yd. dashes and stood runner-up in the running broad-jump.

Paul, since reaching high school, has played interform basketball and softball and was elected to S.M.A.'s basketball squad in 1964.

LEN KING
(Moira S.S.)

Until last year Len did not participate in any inter-scholastic activities but when wrestling was introduced on a competitive level, he was one of the first to sign up and one of the team's hardest workers. Leonard acted as captain of the Trojan team last year and climaxed a personal undefeated dual meet season with a win in the 165 lbs. class of the 1st Quinte District Wrestling Championships.

This year Len has been a very sound performer. He presently holds a record of 10 victories and 2 losses against excellent competition. Len's biggest victory to date was in the recent Ontario-AAU novice wrestling meet in which he won a 1-0 decision over a top-notch performer from Nelson High School. This win enabled him to win the 132 lbs. novice title.

The entire student body is looking on in anticipation of continued success for Leonard in his remaining dual meets and also the three remaining tournaments. His tremendously hard work has not been done in vain as he now is starting to receive the rewards for his diligent service.

BOB McLAUGHLIN
(Nicholson College)

Football, basketball and hockey are the chief sports loves of Nicholson College's Bob McLaughlin but they are running a close second to an important matte, of education.

McLaughlin, with a little urging from his parents, curtailed his athletic activities this season, participating only in football. Bob apparently has no regrets concerning the matter however since he enjoyed a most successful season as quarterback of Nicholson's senior football squad.

In previous years, McLaughlin played junior basketball and football while in grade 11 and also played midget hockey in the S.M.I.A. During his grade 13 school year, Bob was quarterback for the Bay of Quinte COSSA senior football champions. He was captain of the junior basketball team. Juvenile hockey was just one of his sports menu.

Now in grade 13 and with plans to attend University of Toronto to study teaching next year, Bob is content with football for the club physical outlet.

Bob is president of his school's student council for the 1963-64 school year.

Russian Girl Is Triple Gold Medalist

By ROD CURRIE

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—A dimple - cheeked Russian school teacher who gets wires of encouragement daily from her husband at home in Siberia rewarded him today by winning her third straight Olympic gold medal.

Lidia Skoblikova became the first triple Olympic champion since Australia's Toni Sailer swept the men's Alpine skiing program in 1956 when she streaked to victory in the women's 1,000-metre speed-skating event the Olympic record time of one minute 33.2 seconds.

It was the second Russian victory of the day as Claudia Boyarskikh spearheaded a 1-2-3 Soviet sweep in the 10-kilometre skiing cross-country race.

The dark-horse British entry of Tony Nash and Robin Dixon got ahead of two favored Russian entries to take top honors in the two-man bobsleds with the No. 2 Canadian sled of Vic Emery of Montreal and Peter Kirby of St. Jovite, Que., taking fourth place after leading the field on the first run. FINISH POORLY

Canada's entries were well back in the speed skating. There was no Canadian contestant in the cross-country ski race.

Mrs. Skoblikova, with the 500 and 1,500 metres already under her belt, also in record time, shoots for an unprecedented fourth gold medal Sunday in the 3,000 metres, which she won in the 1960 Games at Squaw Valley, Calif.

The 24-year-old blonde speedster finished ahead of Irina Yegorova of Russia in the 1,000 metres, bettering the old Olympic mark of Russia's Clara Guseva by nine-tenths of a second.

Kalja Mustonen of Finland was third.

Nash and Dixon had a total time of four minutes, 21.9 seconds for their four bobsledding runs, beating out Sergio Zardini and Romano Bonagura of Italy, who were time in 4:22.09. Eugenio Monti and Sergio Siorpaes, eight times world champions, eight times world championship when Veikko Kankonen soared 239 feet two inches in an almost perfect, bird-like flight from the 70-metre ski jump at Seefeld to win the special ski jump event, original.

These were the only two titles decided Friday.

The program was busy, however, with Russia beating Czechoslovakia 7-6 and the 12,5-drawing Germany 8-0 in championship-pound hockey; Japan beating Romania 6-4 and Poland upending Norway 4-2 in consolation hockey; second runs completed in men's and women's toboggan racing in which Germans lead both events; the first of the five compulsory figures being completed in the women's figure skating; and the first two runs carried out in the two-man bobsled.

ARE BUNCHED

The Friday bobsled runs left the four leading contenders bunched together only six of a second separating their times.

Britain's Tony Nash and Robin Dixon had the best time after two runs down the icy Igls runs, completing them in two minutes 10.63 seconds. Sergio Zardini and Romano Bonagura of Italy were second in 2:10.76, Eugenio Monti and Sergio Siorpaes of Italy third in 2:10.84, and Canada's Vic Emery of Montreal and Peter Kirby of St. Jovite, Que., fourth in 2:11.1.

In women's figure skating, favored Sjoukje Dijkstra of The Netherlands topped all five figures and all but wrapped up the gold medal, which will be decided Saturday with the free-skating portion.

Canada's Petra Burka, a 17-year-old Austrian girl who now living in Toronto, was in third place, but was close enough to second-place Regina Heitzer of Austria to have a chance at a silver medal if she can outskate the Austrian in freestyle skating.

Canada's other two figure-skating entrants, Shirra Kenworthy of Vancouver and Wendy Griner of Toronto, were 10th and 11th, respectively.

IS FAR BACK

And Doug Anakin of Montreal, the lone Canadian in the single luge (toboggan) event, was in 32nd place and too far back to have any hope of catching the German leaders when the final two runs are staged Monday.

Canadians fared poorly in the 1,500-metre speedskating final and even worse in the ski jumping.

Finland's Kalja Mustonen was second behind Mrs. Skoblikova's record time of 2:22.6, which cut 30.2 seconds off her record set in 1960, and another Soviet skater — Berta Kolokoltseva — third.

Kankkonen, a 23 - year - old Finn, pulled his victory out of the bag with a sensational final jump in which his form was nearly perfect and his distance as great as the best by Toralf Engan, Norway's world champion. The Finn scored 225.90 points, leaving Engan in second place with 226.60. Norway's Roger Ruud was third.

Kaare Lien of Vernon, B.C. finished 43rd and John McInnes of Revelstoke, B.C. was 53rd.

"Women of the World," a Joseph E. Levine presentation in Technicolor, released through Embassy Pictures, opens Monday at the Park Theatre, and tackles the ageless question that has defied authors, poets and philosophers—What makes woman tick?

To turn his probing cameras on the ways and wiles of the elusive female, Qualitico Jacopetti, noted Italian director-writer, whose "Mondo Cane" has earned world wide acclaim, girdled the globe, covering more than 75,000 miles.

Jacopetti and his associate directors, Paolo Cavara and Franco Prosperi, ambitiously set out to depict the fascinating female at her best, and worst, in her primitive and sophisticated aspects.

Their quest took them over the five continents of Asia, Africa, America, Europe and Oceania. Among the 30 countries they visited were China, Japan, Russia, Israel, Africa, France, Italy, Germany; Sweden, Borneo, Malaya, New Guinea, Australia, Tahiti, Switzerland and the United States. Wherever Jacopetti's crew went on their global trek, their subject was the same — Women!

In shooting "Women of the World," Jacopetti's camera crew, headed by Antonio Climati and Benito Frattari, exposed more than 128 hours — or in excess of 250,000 feet — of Technicolor film for later editing, over a period of four months. Among the most unusual scenes revealed are: the notorious "Window Girls" of Hamburg; the "children of the night" in Hong Kong; the pearl-diving women of Japan; the warrior-women of the South Pacific; the island where clothing is forbidden; primitive rituals of Borneo and Africa.

Two complete shows each evening, 7:00 - 9:15 p.m.

AT THE PARK — Women in love, Joseph E. Levine's "Women of the World," a Technicolor adventure into the ways and wiles of the elusive female, opens Monday at the Park Theatre. Tough Night On Goalies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a hard night for the goaltenders in the American Hockey League Friday — one failed to start and two failed to finish.

Rochester Americans lost regular netminder Gerry Cheevers prior to their 3-2 victory over Springfield Indians on home ice. Cheevers practised before the game with a badly sprained left ankle but couldn't move it when the teams were ready to start. He was replaced by Ed Babiuk.

In the same game Springfield lost Jacques Caron with a back injury in the third period. George Wood finished.

Hershey Bears emerged from the first period in Baltimore trailing the Clippers 5-1. Exit goalie Ed Chadwick. Enter goalie Gil, who held the Clippers to two goals. Baltimore won 7-5.

The other league game saw Harry Ottenbrirt, released from bench duty after a short stay, score the winning goal as Providence Reds shaded Buffalo Bisons 4-3 in Providence.

Quebec Rink Needs 2 Wins For Grand Slam

QUEBEC (CP) — Robert Lahaie of Cap - de - la - Madeleine, Que., today held the Francois Jobin Trophy and the grand aggregate prize and went to the ice seeking just two more victories to complete a grand slam in the Quebec International Bonspiel.

Lahaie, former Quebec champion, reached two-thirds of his objective Friday when he captured the Jobin and aggregate in a thrilling 8-7 victory over Bill Finlay of Oakville.

The win gave him the trophy and his ninth straight win without a defeat—a record none of the other 127 rinks entered can touch. The only prize left for him is the prestigious Lieutenant-Governor's Trophy, which he can win with victories in this morning's semi - final and the afternoon final.

Lahaie meets Uffe Blok-Andersen of the Mississauga Club in the afternoon match for Port Credit. In the other match, Don Schaeffer of Montreal's Bale-mont Curling Club meets Beaulne, director of theatre for the province of Quebec, and Florent Forget, CBC television producer in Montreal.

If today is your birthday . . . you possess a remarkable sense of humor. You are versatile, able to create "products of the future."

A. Phillips Captures Tankard

TORONTO (CP)—Alf Phillips and his son, from Don Mills, a Toronto suburb, edged two Uxbridge, Ont., rinks 16-15 Friday to capture the Ontario Silver Tankard finals.

Phillips, the first skip to lead two different rinks to tankard wins in the 89-year history of the event, came through with a 7-6 win over Bob Lawrie. His son was shaded 8-7 by Ray Grant.

Ken Phillips of Toronto—no relation—defeated Bruce Anderson's Ottawa Glebe rink 15-4 to wrap up the Governor-General's Trophy. Phillips's partner, Tom Ramsay, was beaten 13-10 by Ottawa's Stan Harper but the two-game total was 25-16 for Toronto.

Brantford won 23-20 over Lindsay in the finals of the Governor - General's consolation series. L. E. Knill defeated Jim Mackey of Lindsay 13-7 but partner Campbell lost 13-10 to Ken Bailey.

Ottawa Granites, skipped by Paul Holton and Colin Markham, won the Silver Tankard consolation by defeating a Toronto team 21-15. Holton dumped Bob Walton 13-8 while Lou Ross edged Martin 10-9.

Generals Nip Rangers

Flyers Shade Petes 4-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Niagara Falls Flyers and Peterborough Petes continue to take turns occupying fourth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series it should prove interesting come the end of the season.

At the beginning of the week the Petes were ahead by one point. Friday the Flyers took a 4-3 decision over Peterborough on home ice and now hold the slim lead.

It could develop into a more complicated battle before too long. The title St. Catharines Black Hawks are in third spot, but only one point up on the Flyers.

In other league action, the Oshawa Generals pulled out a 6-3 win over last-place Kitchener Rangers with just over two minutes remaining in the game to break a tie.

SCORES 29TH GOAL

Captain Ron Schock fired his 29th goal of the season to send the Flyers on the road to victory in the opening period. Schock added his 30th, which turned out to be the eventual winner, when Peterborough goalie Chuck Goddard steered the puck into his own net. Tom Snell and Dave Armstrong picked up Niagara Falls' other goals.

Palm Springs Golf

Sifford, Charles All Even

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Cigar-chomping Charlie Sifford found himself in a tie Friday for the third straight day in the Palm Springs Classic as the competition swung through the third round of the $50,000 golfing marathon.

But Sifford couldn't shake his pursuers. British Open champion Bob Charles of New Zealand came in with a 69 to match Sifford's total.

The weather again was perfect as the 128 pros toured the four courses employed. Each course has par of 36-36—72.

The 27-year-old Charles, who now plays out of De Sota Lakes, Fla., had 34-35—69 at Eldorado Country Club, while Sifford did the job with 36-35—71 at Bermuda Dunes in a round in which he had 17 pars and one birdie on the 18th hole.

Coming up from the ranks with a 67 was veteran Bill Casper Jr. for 69- 209. And two strikes back were Gene Littler, 71; Randy Glover, 67; Bob Adamson, 69, and Jimmy Demaret, one of the all-time gallery favorites and possibly the oldest man in the field at 52. Demaret followed Thursday's 68 with a 67.

Jack Nicklaus, who started out in shaky fashion Wednesday with a 73, produced a 72 Thursday and—only to within six strokes off the lead with a 69 Friday.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver also leaped into contention by shooting a 68 to go with earlier rounds of 74 and 72 for a total of 214. Al Balding of Markham, Ont., was a stroke back after rounds of 73, 71 and 71.

George Knudson of Toronto, in early leader, climbed to a 75 Friday and a total of 216. He had 71 and 70 in earlier rounds.

Cats, Larks In Straight Tackle Deal

TORONTO (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference have traded tackle Don Minihane to Montreal Alouettes in a straight player swap for tackle Bobby Jack Oliver.

Announcement of the swap was made Friday after Teats' president Jake Gaudaur Thursday rejected a $25,000 offer from Alouettes for veteran quarterback Bernie Faloney.

Oliver, who spent most of last season on the sidelines, as a result of a knee injury, is a former eastern conference all-star and Jeff Russel Trophy winner.

Gaudaur denied a report originating in Montreal that he is considering a quarterback trade with the Alouettes.

In Montreal, the Alouettes said today they have made a second offer for Faloney—$15,000 plus an unidentified player.

DEAR HENRY — I don't think that gambling is bad at all. I think that people who are against gambling are money licking tightwads. People aren't forced to gamble. They do it on their own free will. I think that everyone would like to see gambling made legal, everywhere.

DEAR LAS VEGAS — Gambling like everything else is OK if it is within sober limits. But many people think that they were chosen by gambling machines to win and so they try . . . and try again and again.

The results are often very pathetic.

There is one group of people opposing to making gambling legal everywhere: The Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce!

Hunt Reason Why Ranger's Cameras Blind as Moon Hit

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Space scientists sifted through coded tapes today in a search for the reason why spacecraft Ranger VI plunged into the moon with its cameras blind to the wonders of the lunar landscape.

The agonizing ends to a 65-hour flight came at 1:24 a.m. PST Sunday when Ranger VI reached its historic rendezvous —and six television cameras aboard wouldn't function.

The fruitless journey of Ranger VI was the sixth straight failure in the Ranger program. The cost to date: $168,000,000—figured at $28,000,000 a shot.

Ranger VI was the first of the costly spacecraft to complete the difficult moon - approach manoeuvre faultlessly—which made the blind crash even more frustrating for its designers.

The camera system was considered one of the simplest mechanisms on the 850-pound spacecraft.

It was turned on by a command flashed from the ground. There was also an automatic timer aboard to do the job. Ranger radioed back word that the order had been received at 1:09 a.m. as it was nearing the end of a 5,000 m.p.h. - plus plunge toward the moon's Sea of Tranquility.

Reporters and engineers at the jet propulsion laboratory listened to the tone of Ranger's radio signal as it was being amplified through loudspeakers.

Then—when the five-minute warm-up period was over—the emotionless voice of a project engineer announced the first sign that all was not well:

"There is no indication of full video power."

Then, for a tense 400 seconds, the hushed crowd listened to the tone of Ranger's death song.

Suddenly the musical radio tone ceased.

"Impact Impact"

And then:

"No Video."

Red Guerrillas Raid American Army Compound

Grenade-Tossing Squad Burns Down Main Block

CP from Reuters-AP

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — Communist guerrillas penetrated the U.S. military compound at Kontum, 27 miles northeast of Saigon, early today and burned down the main block, including the officers' quarters and the administrative office.

A U.S. Army corporal on guard duty shot and killed two guerrillas but two others escaped, according to a military spokesman.

The only U.S. casualty was one officer slightly injured when the guerrilla sabotage squad tossed three grenades into the building.

The guerrillas cut the barbed wire fence surrounding the compound and the three made for the main building while the fourth waited.

Grenades tossed into the building set it on fire immediately. The sentry, Gale Flinn, 24, of Fowler, Ind., fired at the fleeing guerrillas, felling one and exploding an unused satchel charge in the hand of another, blowing him to pieces.

The attack was made on the headquarters of a detachment of 130 U.S. officers and men. It was the most daring Viet Cong exploit against an American unit since terrorists in 1959 invaded a movie performance at an American billet and killed a U.S. major and a sergeant with grenades and machine-gun fire.

Flinn was on sentry duty because nine Vietnamese civil guards stationed at the eight-building compound had deserted. It was believed they might have been involved in the plan to attack the compound.

Maj. - Gen. Charles J. Timmes, commander of the U.S. Military Advisory Assistance Command in Viet Nam, flew to Kontum to present the army commendation medal to Flinn.

On Saturday night a bomb planted outside a Saigon bar killed a U.S. serviceman, a Vietnamese. Six other Americans were wounded, one critically.

Communist terrorists often plant bombs in Saigon bars and restaurants frequented by American gather, but police said Saturday's incident may have involved personal revenge among Vietnamese.

Johnson Slaps At De Gaulle

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson slapped directly at French President de Gaulle Saturday, saying "it would not be in the interest of freedom to share his view" on neutralizing Southeast Asia.

Johnson, at his first announced-in-advance press conference, said that "as I understand it, the neutralization talk has applied only to South Viet Nam and not to the whole of that area."

"If we could have neutralization of both North Viet Nam and South Viet Nam, I am sure that would be considered sympathetically," Johnson said.

The president's words left reporters somewhat puzzled because de Gaulle has called for neutralization of both halves of Viet Nam as well as neighboring Laos and Cambodia.

Thus while Johnson was saying he disagreed with de Gaulle, in essence he seemed to be agreeing—at least in theory —since Laos has been officially neutralized and Cambodia avows a neutral stance.

CLARIFIES STATEMENTS

A White House spokesman, saying he wanted to clarify Johnson's statements, said later that the French leader's suggestions had been integrated in Saigon as envisaging neutralization only of South Viet Nam. And the spokesman said Johnson was addressing himself to the Saigon interpretation.

Johnson made it clear that his own Viet Nam policy looks toward an immediate stepup in increased military pressure against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

He announced that he had "received assurances from the new and friendly leaders" of the Saigon junta that stepped power Wednesday "that they are proceeding immediately" to implement previous promises on the Viet Cong.

Although Johnson said some

By RONALD LEBEL

Resolutions expressing confidence in John Diefenbaker—signals for rousing ovations to the chief at most conventions—instead sparked bitter wrangles at the annual meetings of the Young Progressive Conservatives and the PC Students' Federation.

The motion carried at both meetings, but not before a string of delegates expressed the view that the former prime minister has lost the confidence of voters in large sections of the country and cannot hope to return to office.

Police Deny They Know Raiders

MONTREAL (CP)—The officer directing the Montreal police investigation into the robbery of arms and ammunition from an armory here says police are tracking down several leads but do not know the identity of the raiders involved.

The officer, Assistant Chief Inspector Russell Seneca, was commenting Sunday night on a published report that police know the names of more than half the men.

The raiders escaped with machine guns, rifles, Bren guns and ammunition, as well as four mortars and three bazooka anti-tank projectors.

An army spokesman at Quebec command headquarters said that if police knew the identities of the raiders, "they certainly haven't told us."

SEES NO LINK

The spokesman also said there has been nothing to indicate a link between a shooting near the headquarters and the Thursday theft.

Three shots were fired into the air in the pre-dawn darkness Saturday outside the headquarters on the slopes of Mount Royal, which rises from the centre of the city.

A sentry said the shots were fired by one of three shadowy figures whom he described as "young men."

The army spokesman said the sentries assigned since Friday night to guard military installations in the Montreal area have "orders not to remain inactive if something develops."

He said this did not mean the guards would fire on sight.

WILL TAKE ACTION

"They will question any suspicious - looking persons and take appropriate action from there."

Heads PC's

OTTAWA (CP) Walter Goodfellow, a 30-year-old lawyer from Halifax was elected president of the young Progressive Conservative Association in Ottawa Sunday. He succeeds Carl Moers of Fredericton.

Mr. Goodfellow defeated Larry Kyle, 30, of Regina for the top executive post.

Several delegates said in corridor interviews that more angering at Mr. Diefenbaker can be expected at the convention at the senior party association opening tonight. No one, however, was predicting a victory for the anti-Diefenbaker forces.

The critics' spokesman said they did not want to stage a palace revolt. They merely wanted to advise their leader in a forceful way that the time had come to groom a successor for a smooth transfer of the leadership.

At the YPC meeting Saturday, the confidence motion carried by a vote of 117 to 51. Another 89 voting delegates either abstained or stayed away from the meeting room.

At Sunday's closing session, the Young Conservatives indirectly rebuked Mr. Diefenbaker by passing a motion regretting that former defence minister Harkness apparently has been "ignored by the hierarchy of the party" since he broke with Mr. Diefenbaker over nuclear arms a year ago.

The motion carried at both meetings, but not before a string of delegates expressed the view that the former prime minister has lost the confidence of voters in large sections of the country and cannot hope to return to office.

At Sunday's closing session, the Young Conservatives indirectly rebuked Mr. Diefenbaker by passing a motion regretting that former defence minister Harkness apparently has been "ignored by the hierarchy of the party" since he broke with Mr. Diefenbaker over nuclear arms a year ago.

Resolutions expressing confidence in John Diefenbaker—signals for rousing ovations to the chief at most conventions—instead sparked bitter wrangles at the annual meetings of the Young Progressive Conservatives and the PC Students' Federation.

The motion carried at both meetings, but not before a string of delegates expressed the view that the former prime minister has lost the confidence of voters in large sections of the country and cannot hope to return to office.

Some 82 delegates took part in the secret ballot and the chair announced only that the motion had been passed. Several delegates close to the scrimmers said the vote was tight and one of them put the margin at four ballots.

This would place the tally at 43 to 39.

Chairman John Sinclair of the University of Manitoba, who was born in Prince Albert and whose late father, LL-Col. Jack Sinclair, once was an election agent for Mr. Diefenbaker in Saskatchewan, declined to disclose the official tally.

The meeting then adopted unanimously a motion asking Mr. Sinclair to inform Mr. Diefenbaker of the results in a confidential letter.

Mr. Diefenbaker made emotional appeals for support party unity to both groups shortly before the votes on his leadership. His appearance at the students' meeting had been added to the program about a week earlier.

The University students were the most blunt in their remarks. Speaker after speaker was interrupted by hisses, boos, sniffs, points of order and shouts of "sit down!"

"How can you have a federal party that has only western support?" asked Gerry Dubin of Loyola University, Montreal. "We have a leader who claims he caused the big Sioe-Soviet split," he snorted.

"It is an unfair allegation to say that the West is for Mr. Diefenbaker," said George Dunlop of the University of British Columbia amid laughter. Conservatives had won only four of the 25 elected seats in the last federal election.

Ed Brown of the University of Manitoba was one of several Prairie delegates to defend the leader. "He has been very effective as opposition leader. He has kept the Liberals constantly on the defensive."

John Ruegi of McMaster University, Hamilton, shot back: "Sure he has been effective in opposition. With him we're going to stay there. How often do we have to be defeated?

"We want a smooth changeover. Let's point out to Mr. Diefenbaker that it's time he should groom effective leadership."

Manufacturers Are Opposed To Large-Scale Tariff Cuts

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Manufacturers' Association said today it is ready and anxious to co-operate with the government and its negotiators in the Kennedy round of tariff-cutting in Geneva next May.

But at the same time, the CMA asked the government to resist the pressures — certain to develop in Geneva—for large cuts in Canadian tariffs on manufactured goods, a weakening or abolition of Canada's anti-dumping laws, and reduction of the Commonwealth tariff preferences.

In a pre-budget brief to Finance Minister Gordon, the association also made these points:

Corporation taxes are too high and should be substantially reduced. They were adding to the cost of finished goods, and thus having a pyramiding effect that was making it more difficult for Canadian manufacturers to compete in export markets.

Personal income tax also should be reduced. Steeply progressive tax rates were discouraging the flow of capital from Canadian investment, not by penalizing non-resident owners, but by the sales tax on production machinery and equipment—imposed in Mr. Gordon's budget last June 13—should be repealed.

Also exempted from the sales tax should be all articles and materials going into the cost of manufacturing or producing goods.

Pugwash Parley In India Wants China in UN

UDAIPUR, India (Reuters)—Scientists from 25 countries ended the 12th Pugwash conference Saturday night with a call for admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

The conference, which first met in 1955 at the Pugwash, N.S., home of Canadian-born industrialist Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland, Ohio, was attended by about 80 leading scientists and observers.

A statement issued after the final session said: "We must realize that disarmament will be neither general nor complete unless all nations, including the People's Republic of China, adhere to the agreements. The whole - hearted adherence of China will be made more likely if she is brought into disarmament deliberations soon."

Erhard's Chief Security Officer, War Crimes Suspect, Hangs Self

DORTMUND, West Germany (AP)—Ewald Peters, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's chief security officer, hanged himself during the night in the jail where he was being held on suspicion of war crimes, the state prosecutor's office announced today.

The prosecutor's office said Peters used a bed sheet for a rope and tied it to the window of his cell.

Peters had made the security arrangements for Erhard's trip to visit the U.S. last December and for his recent visits to London and Rome. He was arrested in Bonn last Friday after he returned from Rome with the chancellor.

He was being held in the Bonn jail on suspicion of taking part in mass killing of Jews in the Soviet Union during the Second World War.

Peters was one of two leading Communist charges that Bellgee Minister Hans Krueger committed such crimes during the Nazi occupation of Poland. Krueger resigned Saturday, saying he had committed no crime but did not want to damage the government.

Details of the charges against Peters were not made public. However, a government official said he had been the head of a police unit. He had been investigated in 1960 by the central office of Nazi crimes in Ludwigsburg but nothing was found to incriminate him.

He Deals Four Perfect Bridge Hands

Meet the men with the golden arm in the bridge world.

Saturday night Harry dealt himself, his partner, and two opponents perfect hands — a possibility the experts say can only happen once in 158,753, 390,000 times.

The Trepaniers were playing bridge with five other couples at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gil Wamboldt when Harry dealt the record hand.

"We didn't believe it, only it happened to us," said Mrs. Trepanier.

They contacted Toronto acquaintances and international bridge player, Percy Shearon. He had never known it to happen in the years he's been playing.

Israeli Commandos Are Rumored Hunting Nazi Near Peru Border

LIMA, Peru (Reuters)—Peruvian security police were keeping a strict check on posts near the Chilean border Sunday night following reports "Israeli commandos" were hunting former Nazi leader Martin Bormann in the area.

Police were placed on alert after a Peruvian fisherman reported being questioned by three "commandos" this week.

A police spokesman quoted Police Chief Juan Rodrigues as saying Bormann would be captured if he tried to enter Peru.

(Bormann, Hitler's former deputy, disappeared in the last days of the Second World War and was sentenced to death in his absence by the Nuernberg war crimes tribunal in 1946. (There have been reports he escaped to South America and is Buenos Aires newspaper said last year he may be living near Bariloche, a resort on the slopes of the Andes in southwest Argentina.

(Israeli agents captured Adolf Eichmann, head of the Gestapo's department for Jewish affairs, in Argentina in May, 1960, and he was executed in Israel two years later after a trial for war crimes.)

Howard Percy Yorke Killed When Hit by Car Saturday

A 70-year-old baker Saturday became Belleville's first traffic fatality of 1964 when Percy Yorke, of Holloway St., died about 8.48 p.m. after he was struck by a car driven by Gordon Donald Lee, of Frank St.

Mr. Yorke was walking home from the downtown area when the accident occurred. He had crossed from Front St. via the footbridge and was crossing Coleman Street, near Cathcart, when he was hit by the northbound car. The car was slightly damaged when it hit a lamppost after an unsuccessful attempt to miss the man.

Russ Burkholder of Burkholder's Bakery, this morning denied the truth of rumors that Mr. Yorke had worked his last day at the bakery Saturday. Mr. Yorke finished Saturday's work about 8 a.m., Mr. Burkholder said, and would have returned to work early this morning.

BORN AT MARLBANK

A resident of this city for the past 30 years, Mr. Yorke was born at Marlbank and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Angus Yorke. Before coming to Belleville he had lived at Syracuse, N.Y., and at Tamworth.

For the past ten years he had worked as a baker for Burkholder's Bakery.

He was a member of Holloway Street United Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Lula Barker, two brothers, Orval and Ronald, both of Tamworth, and four sisters, Mrs. Sherman (Tillie) McQuaid of Bloomfield, Mrs. Ray (Hattie) Lancaster of Syracuse, Mrs. James (Jennie) Rose of Syracuse, and Mrs. Albert (Hazel) Grey of Smiths Falls.

Firemen Had Busy Weekend

City firemen were kept busy over the weekend, answering five calls during a period of seven hours on Saturday.

The first call of the day was received at 12.01 p.m. on the 4th of Thurlow as the result of an accident in which a 1964 model truck burst into flames after striking a tree. The vehicle, owned by E. A. Morton of Toronto, was reported as a complete loss.

At 12.11 p.m. firemen were called to 144 Church Street to attend an overheated stove at the home of C. Mercer. No damage was caused. And then at 6.36 p.m. the department was called to wash down the street following a fatal accident on Coleman street near Catharine.

At 12.51 p.m. the department was sent to the coin laundry in the shopping plaza where it was reported that last in a drying machine caught fire. No damage was reported.

Because firemen had been kept busy during the day, the last incident occurred right in front of No. One Fire Station when a late model car owned by M. Holland of 31 Alexander Street caught fire. No damage was reported.

The department received a call at 9.35 a.m. to Bonsor's Garage on West Bridge Street where a chimney fire was reported. However, there was no damage.

Three Schools Have Many Musical Groups

By RICK EVES and LILLIAN REID

The Junior Band has 54 students from grades 9 and 10, the Glee Club has 24 singers, and the dance band features 14 pieces. There are also several small ensemble groups such as the string quartet and jazz trio. These groups, under the direction of Mr. Harland, are kept busy playing in assemblies, parades, concerts and festivals. Anti-Leukemia Serum Inventor To Face Critics

PARIS (Reuters) — French biologist Gaston Naessens, whose anti-leukemia serum has been declared useless by the French health ministry, arrived here Sunday night from Corsica to answer allegations of illegally practising medicine and pharmacy.

Naessens, who used his serum in treating a number of leukemia victims, was cheered by hundreds of lookers as he and his wife and three children left Bastia airport in Corsica.

Naessens flew to Paris after talks at a local seaside resort with Scottish businessman David Davie, who has offered him £2,000 ($5,600) a year to continue research in Scotland.

Davie said he felt Naessens' serum was "worthy of full investigation" despite its condemnation by the French health ministry. However, he said he was not yet able to say whether the biologist would accept his offer.

Naessens, who is due to appear before a Paris examining magistrate Tuesday, has said despite the allegations against him he had "more confidence than ever" in his serum.

Police were investigating production of the serum and the treatment of leukemia sufferers — including that on a dozen Britons—on the island.

Forbids Man To Drive Car For Pleasure

Judge J. C. Anderson has forbidden a man, charged in an accident that took two lives, to drive for his own pleasure.

The ban was imposed for two years on Robert Golka, aged 20, formerly of Belleville, now living and working in Toronto.

Golka pleaded not guilty to a charge of dangerous driving laid last March 30 after a two-car crash took the lives of two companions. Golka himself was severely injured and hospitalized for weeks after the mishap on the Madoc county road near Moira Lake.

Judge Anderson said he would suspend sentence for two years on condition that during that time, only driver is the automobile supplied by his employer — and for his work.

Belgian Doctors Agree to Truce

BRUSSELS (AP) — A two-month truce has been established between the Belgian government and doctors who called a general strike which was due to start today in protest against a reform of the health insurance system.

The Federation of Belgian Industries of Sickness Funds mediated in the dispute. The truce was agreed on Saturday.

The health insurance reform, effective Jan. 1, provides free medical care to a number of low-income people. Similar doctors fees, partly binds them to mutual aid organizations and imposes some strict control on medicine in general.

Doctors claimed the new system would violate medical secrets and force them to practise chain medicine.

Man Surrenders, SaysHe'sWanted For Robberies

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia—A man known here as a French Canadian named Paul Levesque surrendered a Canadian passport Sunday and claimed he really is a U.S. citizen wanted for two armed robberies in North America.

At a press conference called before he went to see U.S. Consul - General Paul Geren, the man gave his real identity as Frederick Leister, 33, of Portsmouth, Va.

He claimed he had robbed the Toronto Globe and Mail of a cash payroll at gunpoint the day President Kennedy was assassinated, while working there as a linotype operator. Then, he said, he fled to South Africa and later—to Rhodesia with a false passport in the name of Levesque.

(The Globe and Mail reported last Nov. 23 that an armed man with an accomplice walked into the newspaper's pay office the afternoon of Nov. 22, just as clerks were preparing the cash payroll. The newspaper reported the men made off with $25,000).

The man told Geren that he was another man also stole $4,000 from the citizens' bank of Hillside, Md. The man claimed he left his wife, Celine Levesque Stevens, with their two children in Quebec City. He said he surrendered after getting a letter from his wife saying the Royal Canadian Mounted Police were bounding her.

Strike Halts Work on Keed For Second Time

WELLAND (CP) — Construction at a $1,492,000 addition to Sunset Haven, Welland County's home for the aged, was halted Monday for the second time as St. Catharines firm established picket lines at the project.

Members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (CLC) say the project is using materials delivered by Rigby Limited, a St. Catharines lumber yard and millwork supply firm against whom they are striking.

Thomas H. Brooke, general manager of Brooke Construction Company, project contractor, described the picket line as a secondary boycott and an "illegal action." He said his firm has no dispute with the union and would seek an injunction against picketing.

Guelph Workers Return to Jobs

GUELPH (CP) — About 220 suspended day-shift workers in the Canadian General Electric Company Limited plant here returned to their jobs today.

They were described last Wednesday when they failed to return to their work stations after lunch break.

Officials of the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America (Ind.) were to meet with company officials today to discuss the suspension.

Some 80 night-shift workers were not affected by the layoff.

U.S. Union Official Wants Planners to Control Firms

SARNIA (CP) —, A United States labor official says he will recommend to a Senate committee that a national planning agency be established to regulate the bleeding down or opening of industrial plants in the U.S.

Emil Mazey of Detroit, secretary-treasurer of the United Automobile Workers of America, said such an agency is needed to protect workers from "decisions or blunders made by managements" which cause an industry to be closed down or removed.

Addressing a meeting of the Eltra corporation council, he cited the case of 7,000 workers affected when Studebaker Corporation moved its plant from South Bend, Ind., to Hamilton.

At the same time, he said, Chrysler was going ahead with plans to build a plant at Belvedere, Ill., 70 miles from Chicago. If there had been any control over either firm's plans, Chrysler could have moved into South Bend after Studebaker departed, protecting the displaced workers and the centre's economy.

"There should be some licensing mechanism so that the government is made aware of decisions made by industrial plants so that every use may be made of the resources of the nation," Mr. Mazey said.

Mr. Mazey said this year's collective bargaining with automobile corporations may produce "some problems". He said that by July, when the negotiations are under way, the UAW will have about $65,000,000 in its strike fund and will be ready to cope with any problems.

Mr. Mazey said the UAW annual convention in Atlantic City March 9 to 13 will discuss abolition of compulsory overtime, reduction of the work year by 100 hours, improved pension benefits, a lower retirement age and more benefits from profit sharing plans.

Teachers, Papers Seen as Dynamic Educational Team

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Educationists, teachers and newspapers should be combined as a dynamic educational team, Prof. D. W. Wendt of the department of psychology at Carleton University, Ottawa, said Saturday.

He said there is a vital need to teach children to read newspapers for information necessary for survival in the world today.

Newspapers "obviously aren't text books of distilled knowledge . . . they present us with the dynamics of life," he said.

Newspapers are the major source of news of the world and "what we know of the world depends on newspapers. Because of that importance, students must learn to evaluate newspapers and read them logically and critically."

Turning to the problems of newspaper production, Prof. Wendt said newspapers are being "increasingly called upon to report a bunch of exotic junk." He said one result of this is an increasing demand for reports having expert knowledge.

He urged the teachers to remember that claims of big business controlling news are generally unfounded.

"If we think that they will report only a particular biased view then we ought not to read them at all."

Prof. Wendt said he is dismayed by talk that some newspapers want to ask readers what they should be like. A good newspaper, he said, is one that tries to teach us, to tell us things . . . one that tries to reflect what we are thinking. I'm afraid, wouldn't be a very good newspaper."

Symington Accuses Canada Of Damaging U.S. Industries

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — U.S. Senator Stuart Symington said Saturday trade and tariff policies by Canada and other allied nations are hurting U.S. industries and workers.

The Missouri Democrat said a new tariff rebate program by Canada is one of the factors which caused the Studebaker Corp. "to move its entire automobile assembly operation to Canada."

"It ill behooves some of our allies who, in effect, operate under the protection of the nuclear umbrella provided by the American taxpayer, to establish unilateral policies designed to keep our industries and agricultural products out of their markets," Symington said.

The Senator's criticism was in a speech to a banquet of the South Central Business Association.

Symington said the $18,000,000,000 unfavorable balance of payments for the U.S. in recent years was "partially due to quota and tariff manipulations that have taken business away from the United States."

GIVES EXAMPLE

An example of this, he said, is the Canadian tariff rate of 25 per cent on auto parts and says a new policy which promises a refund "to the extent that the same company buys in Canada for shipment to the United States."

Symington said the rebate policy is calculated to reduce Canada's imports from the United States and "Canadian officials estimated it would result in the creation of 60,000 new jobs in their country."

The senator said that Studebaker officials told stockholders that "one of the chief reasons it was leaving this country, depriving many thousands of Americans of work, was this Canadian tariff policy.

Peterborough Man Dies After Crash

Dead is Douglas Davidson, 20 years old, of Peterborough. Taken to Belleville General Hospital by LaSalle Ambulance was Kenneth Nitzel, 18, also of Peterborough. Nitzel suffered facial injuries in the accident, is now in satisfactory condition in hospital after surgery Saturday.

The accident occurred on the fourth concession of Thurlow township, about three miles east of Corbyville. The light van apparently skidded on the icy road just after crossing a small bridge by Douglas Tummon's farm, left the road and went through the ditch and through Tummon's fence to hit a large tree. The truck hit so hard that one of the front springs was partly buried in the tree.

Working about 100 yards from the accident scene at the time, Douglas Tummon and his son Wayne were able to pull the injured Nitzel from the burning truck before the flames reached him. Davidson was already dead by the time they arrived.

Davidson and Nitzel had been in the area several days, working for a Toronto firm doing a traffic survey for the Department of Highways.

Are Picketing Gotham Schools On Race Issue

By JUNIUS GRIFFIN

A spokesman for the one-day protest movement estimated that 362,000 pupils participated—about 65 per cent of the Puerto Rican and Negro pupils among the 1,000,000 pupils in New York city schools.

But the city's 850 schools remained open in the face of the demonstrations—even those instituted with mobile classrooms and some teachers marching in the civil rights picket lines. Normal daily absenteeism is about 100,000.

Shortly after class bells rang, authorities reported only about 2,700 pickets outside 300 schools. This was far short of the 8,000 pickets the demonstration leaders had anticipated.

ESTIMATES NUMBER

Bayard Rustin, who planned the demonstration for the city-wide Committee for School Integration, based his 362,000 estimate on reports the committee compiled, particularly at the 168 "ghetto schools" with predominantly Negro or Puerto Rican enrollment.

Pickets made no effort to interfere with or dissuade pupils arriving at the schools for the start of a new term.

Places Sixth In Figure Skating Phase

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)— An Ontario schoolboy placed a surprising sixth in the initial phase of the Olympic men's figure skating today while a Canadian doctor making a comeback was 13th.

Donald Knight, 16 - year - old Grade 10 student from Dundas, Ont., moved into the sixth spot after the completion of the first two of five compulsory school figures.

Knight had 326.6 points and was more than 36 points behind Scotland's Christopher Dibb of Germany, who moved in front of 24 of the best figure skaters in the world with a total of 363.0 points.

Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia was second with 352.9 points. Three-time European champion Alain Calmat of France, the favorite to win the men's crown, was third with 347.7 followed by Scott Allen of the United States, 342.6; Emmerich Danzer of Austria 338.4 and Knight.

In 12th place was Dr. Charles Snelling of Toronto, Canada's veteran of international competition who graduated last year from the University of Toronto's school of medicine. Snelling had 316.9 points.

Snelling followed his compulsory competition in 1958 but returned to it after five years on the sidelines and was the first Canadian men's title shortly before going to Innsbruck.

Three more figures are scheduled Tuesday followed by the free-skating Thursday. In the sporting, the school figures rated about 60 per cent and the free-skating 40 per cent.

Campbell His Foot in Mouth

Mr. Clarence Campbell was a lawyer before he became president of the National Hockey League. This means he ought to know that more accused people have been convicted because they did not have sense enough to keep quiet than for any other reason.

The other night Mr. Scott Young, who used to comment on NHL hockey games on television broadcasts, undertook another stint for the CBC. He interviewed two former NHL referees, Mr. Dalton McArthur, who was fired, and Mr. Red Storey, who resigned. Both these former referees said they were instructed as to how they were to "call" games, whether they were to be strict or lenient in assessing penalties.

Mr. Campbell could not resist the opportunity to point out that all the participants in the broadcast were "disgruntled ex-employees."

Mr. Campbell said that Mr. Young, when he was commentator on television shows of NHL games, felt "his position as a newspaperman gave him immunity from the rules governing programming in regards to what he said on the air."

If this means anything at all, it can only mean that the TV commentators can say only what is pleasing to the NHL. This will be a revelation for many hockey fans who eagerly watch hockey on TV and it brings up a host of questions.

For instance, is it permissible to pick a man as one of the three stars of the game if he is in the black books of his coach? Can one call a lack-lustre hockey game a dull one?

Come to think of it, we have never heard a TV commentator remark that "the fans certainly did not get their money's worth tonight."

If it were not for the fact that we are certain the same rules never applied to Mr. Young's work as a sports columnist with the Globe and Mail, we should have a ready explanation of his recent sudden switch to the editorial page.

A Point to Consider

And so, perhaps, it would. But then the situation in which the Conservative Party at present finds itself is unprecedented too.

Considering the public discussion and comments by leading Conservatives from one end of the country to the other, there can be no doubt that the party rank and file is sorely divided over the leadership issue. Moreover, there is also little doubt that the youth wing of the party in particular is disenchanted with the Diefenbaker who is seeking acknowledgment on the leadership question.

Conservative Party planners would be well advised to consider this situation with great care. They can, to be sure, outflank the youthful dissenters at the annual meeting. But can they hope to win the next general election without the wholehearted support of the young Turks?

Could Lengthen List

Hon. Henry Leslie Rowntree, Ontario's Minister of Labor, has announced plans to extend a system of compulsory certification to six more trades.

At present auto mechanics, barbers and hairdressers are required to be certified. Within two years certificates will also be required by refrigeration and air-conditioning mechanics, electricians, plumbers, steam-fitters, sheet metal workers and repairmen.

It is possible to make a case against the requirement of certification, but the system if properly administered does provide the public with a measure of protection against exploitation by incompetent workmen.

Now if anybody would only devise a system for certification for would-be politicians!

The absence of serious research into the nature of war constitutes one of the most amazing blind spots in the history of human endeavor. Just over thirty years ago I called attention to the fact that the then League of Nations did not spend a single sou in investigating the causes of war. And I suggested that we ought to initiate at once long-term researches aimed at solving the mystery. Thirty-two years have passed, another world war has come and gone, millions of lives have been lost and millirads of money; and yet we still stand, gun-shy but feckless, before the problem, pinning our faith on rule-of-thumb diplomacy and employing in the name of peace all the childish devices of psychological warfare.—British Psychiatrist Dr. Edward Glover.

Old-Time Saturday Nights

Chicago Tribune

As the Eight-eighth Congress wobbled to adjournment, Senator Jack Miller of Iowa plaintively inquired, "What happened to Saturday night?"

He didn't know what brought up that remarkable rhetorical query in a final session that had been almost 12 straight months of grueling, brilliant daily deliberations dissipated like the snows of yesteryear. But somehow the question had driven to nostalgic memories of the big night in the small towns of long ago.

Saturday night, he mused, had cheated now than the passenger pigeon.

* * *

Senator Miller was born in Chicago in 1916 so we don't know whether he had the first hand acquaintance with the small town Saturday night that some of us enjoyed, if enjoy it we did.

But we can answer the senator's question

Good roads and good automobiles, abetted by radio, killed Saturday night in the small town. Television finished the job.

In the days when paved highways were a blessing, buggies lurched up to the hitching racks and Model T's chugged to a halt around the town square.

The storekeepers, the barber, the harness maker, the garage man, the cafe and soda fountain if there was one, stayed open for business until 9 p.m. and sometimes as late till 10 p.m.

Then, as the city drummers were wont to say, they took in the sidewalks.

It was a big night. The older folks shopped, chatted with their neighbors, attended prayer or church doings, and took in the free movie or the band concert in the evening or the action not generally referred to as the "big."

Teenage boys strolled around the streets in groups until they sort quite by design with groups of teenage girls.

* * *

The Chautauqua was designed to bring culture to the hinterlands, which Champ Clark of Missouri, one-time Speaker of the House of Representatives, described as a "desert between a Methodist camp meeting and a circus."

There were orators, musicians, readers, poets, magicians, impersonators, cartoonists, Shakespearean players — and one who aspired to less august material.

If the town was lucky enough to be on one of the larger Chautauqua circuits, it might have heard William Jennings Bryan "the commoner" who was nominated three times for the presidency, loose his silvertongued oratory on Biblical subjects. Or it might have listened while Billy Sunday, ex-baseball player turned evangelist, railed against John Barleycorn.

* * *

It was in those days that Miss Schumann-Heink brought culture to the sticks in the form of Wagnerian arias and sang such popular numbers as The Last Rose of Summer.

The elder Bob LaFollette sometimes crowded three hours straight. The first hour he had everybody convinced that Wall Street was the pit of hell. The second hour the audience began to think there might be worse places than Wall Street. At the end of the third hour the sentiment was unanimous to run Wall Street, Bob out of town on a rail.

Then, as the city drummers were wont to say, they took in the sidewalks.

It was a big night. The older folks shopped, chatted with their neighbors, attended prayer or church doings, and took in the free movie or the band concert in the evening or the action not generally referred to as the "big."

Teenage boys strolled around the streets in groups until they sort quite by design with groups of teenage girls.

* * *

It was a pretty small town that had a Chautauqua or a tent show or a Chautauqua at least once a year, and when they came Saturday night really boomed.

Fast Cars Aquaplane

Sunday Times

Before expressways, loss of contact between tires and a wet road was called, simply, skidding. Not until after several other accidents on motorways was it appreciated that not all skids are the same and that at high speeds, a car weighing well over a ton might be able to aquaplane, like a boat over the surface of the water, like a surfboard, leaving the steering and brakes useless.

Last week, Dunlop, the tire manufacturer, announced that after a year's research with the Road Research Laboratory they know precisely how aquaplaning happens.

At 40 mph on a wet road water starts to build up beneath a wheel like a ship's bow wave, reducing the contact area. At speed rises, the water moves in until, at 50 mph, the contact area of the tires is a few square inches.

Before the tread of a tire can grip the surface of a wet road it must evacuate wet road, it has to disperse between eight and 10 pints of water — a second. At high speeds, the area of tread contacting the road has about 1/500th sec. in which to do it. And these comes a stage with every tire when the tread cannot get rid of it quickly enough.

Pressure forces the wedge beneath the front of the remaining contact area. Eventually it spreads to the rear and none of the tread touches the road.

All tires aquaplane eventually. With most modern tires in good condition, four cars would be capable of reaching the speed at which it would occur. But, with a wallowing tread which is unable to dissipate the water, aquaplaning can start at speeds as low as 80 mph.

Iron Kettles Were Useful

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

Do you remember the old iron kettle that sat at the front of the gleaming, wood-burning kitchen stove? It had a flange around the bottom to keep it away from the stove, and there were four stubby legs so that a modest coal fire could burn hole and set it back on the stove surface.

The kettle was heavy to handle and the bottom was crusted with soot, but Mother always managed to get the cooking better chowders, stews and soups in an iron kettle than in the new light weight metal affairs.

In the old days when life was more flavorful and less hurried boasted many different and that all kettles. There was a shallow kettle in which they made doughnuts, and another in which they made smooth, delicious Indian puddings.

In pioneering days big iron kettles hung from a wooden framework and men boiled down ashes to make lye. Iron kettles sat in brick arches in summer kitchens to heat water for washing clothes and to render soap from lye and grease. Many farms had a big outdoor kettle to heat water for scalding pigs at butchering time and to boil down sap in maple sugar season.

Old iron kettles have followed bootjacks over the horizon as science has progressed. Now you may see one in an antique shop. Sometimes folks buy them to hold a cluster of dried peas or geraniums beside the path to the front door.

The old kettles were covered to lift, but they represented a step forward when men learned how to cast iron utensils for his use. Here and there in eastern North America you may see the ruins of an old blast furnace where men used locally-dug bog iron and smelted it down with charcoal. The old kettles have gone, but they played their role in a developing nation.

Inner Cabinet System Liked

Ottawa Journal

Mr. Pearson, as did Mr. Diefenbaker before him, looks with longing eye at the British Cabinet pattern.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home on Oct. 20 announced 23 Cabinet ministers, including himself as Prime Minister. That is the inner circle of power in Britain, where the general decisions are made. But beyond it moves an outer circle of lesser ministers who are called to Cabinet meetings when their particular responsibilities are involved. One of these "outer" ministers is Patrick Gordon-Walker, who was in the British Labor administration and has written a vivid description of being called to the "testing ordeal" of meeting the Cabinet seniors:

"Usually you have to wait outside the Cabinet room, alone in the antechamber. Then you are only place I know bleaker than a dentist's waiting room. When the secretary calls you in, you enter a Cabinet in full swing; find a vacant chair and, if you can, hurriedly open your papers and, at the Prime Minister's invitation, embark on your exposition of your case. When the point is settled, you rise and leave the room, and can win Rs remaining business."

When the Canadian Cabinet is called it is usually because the minister will attend, if possible, no matter what business is to be considered. It is the exception; ministers are busy men who have departmental duties pressing upon them. Mr. Diefenbaker did not change the system. Mr. Pearson, at his press conference this week, said it might be desirable to have more ministers in a Cabinet with a smaller executive group; but he did not say he proposed early action to bring this about.

In Britain it is easy enough for the Prime Minister to say that certain ministers shall be in the Cabinet and others not, when he announced his new Cabinet Sir Alec said that the Minister of Power and the Minister of Public Housing and Works would be members, which they had not been before. The Canadian leader, however, has to think of regional factors which do not worry his British counterpart. Ontario and Quebec, for example, would expect to have ministers in any executive Cabinet group, even if the calibre of the man so elected was less than that of MPs from other provinces.

Mr. Pearson plans to give Cabinet committees more work to do and this may ease the burden of work of the full Cabinet. But until the system has been changed every minister can claim the right to participate in every Cabinet discussion and to limit that right for certain matters poses a frightening problem for a leader.

Ear Ailment Is Confused With Meniere's Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My wife, 73, thinks she has Meniere's disease. From time to time she has intense dizzy spells. — H. L. W.

Dear Doctor: I have Meniere's disease and have been told that it is always incurable. I am on a low salt diet and am getting medicine acid, but still have two to four attacks a week. — J. G.

I cannot agree that Meniere's disease is always "incurable" — sometimes it is and sometimes it isn't.

Furthermore, in my opinion too many people think they have Meniere's disease when they don't; they actually have some other kind of ear ailment. They often give up too soon, and just decide to get along as best they can with it, instead of, perhaps tracing the trouble to something else, and having it treated.

Dizziness, instead of recurring dizzy spells (vertigo) are necessarily Meniere's disease. The first letter today is an example.

With Meniere's disease a definite group of symptoms must be present: Dizziness, in which objects seem to move; hearing is decreased or lost; either a low or high tone is ringing in the ears. Along with these are usually nausea, vomiting and sweating. Just one of these symptoms does not constitute Meniere's disease.

But with Meniere's attacks are recurrent and usually come on suddenly. I recall one case vividly. A man was stricken suddenly while driving his automobile. He became dizzy and pulled to the curb.

When he stepped out of his car, he couldn't stand up. His ears rang and he had a good deal of his ability to hear.

He was assumed to be drunk, but examination showed that he wasn't. He had Meniere's disease.

He responded to treatment within 10 days, and to the best of my knowledge has had no further trouble.

What causes the disease is not definitely known, but it is thought to be either a pressure-hage or accumulation of fluid in the structures of the middle ear. The semi-circular canals in that part of the organ control our sense of balance in large degree.

Treatment? Salt restriction to reduce water retention in the body; drugs on the order of nicotinic acid or histamine to better the circulation; dramamine or other drugs to relieve nausea; correction of focal infection in nose or throat — all of these can be of the root of the trouble. In extreme cases, sometimes surgery is required, but this usually involves complete loss of hearing, and therefore not be undertaken until more conservative treatments have been exhausted.

Next week I will write about some of the other conditions which sometimes pass for "Meniere's disease" but aren't.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for an adult to have Coxsackie B virus? I have read that it is prevalent in infants. My doctor-in-law doctor recently diagnosed this disease in his adult son.—Mrs. W. U. A.

Coxsackie is a virus which, among other things, can produce symptoms resembling polio. Yes it can attack adults — not just the polio virus can. Remember, it was once called "infantile paralysis."

Note to K. K.: Yes, there's a very good reason why we should not vaccinate everyone against rabies. It is expensive, painful and time-consuming, and it rarely carries a risk of causing paralysis in some individuals. Besides, it can be used effectively after a person has been bitten by a rabid animal, whereas vaccines for other diseases cannot be used effectively after exposure to the disease.

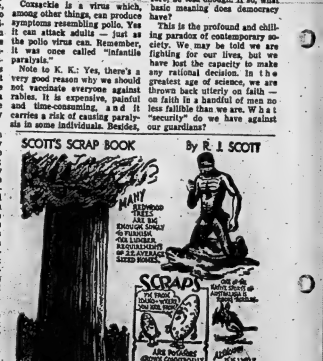
Securities Can Sometimes Be Too Risky

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

The Pentagon last month issued a uniform rule allowing classified defence information to be opened to "trustworthy" scholars and other researchers. Until then, each of the armed services and defence agencies had imposed its own "security" standards on outside researchers.

I was told a true story recently, pointing up some of the absurdities in this situation. A young physicist had done some fundamental research and a graduate students at, say, M. I. T. His research was put in the files there as "highly classified" material.

Shortly afterwards, he went to work for the Defence Department and, what with the university, wanted to refer to his earlier work: But he was denied access to it by top security because his personal "security clear" hadn't high enough to meet the security requirements of his own work!



One of the most obvious dangers of living at the present time — which our nation has increasingly become in the last dozen years — is that the omnibus word "security" may be used to cover a multitude of inadequacies, incompetencies, and bureaucratic asininities. Once the key is turned, it not only locks out "unauthorized personnel," but it also locks in fathheaded personnel.

And, part paranoia as they say at M. I. T. — the two enemies facing each other across the iron curtain slowly begin to look more and more like one another. They both reach a common denominator of suspicion, mistrust, think-skinned irritability, and resentment of outside criticism.

How can any layman, any civilian, have the faintest inkling of what is going on in our defence preparations? Not only is it a modern technology make the whole matter extremely complex and incomprehensible; but also the new weapons and techniques of warfare possess a catastrophic in their effects that scarcely a handful of persons can be trusted with the knowledge and the power.

It was the people themselves, in 1776, who decided to resort to fight the American Revolution; who can say that it will be the people in 1965, or any future year, who will make that decision? We do not know what the people were told, in the very nature of modern warfare, be told enough. If so, what does the meaning does democracy have?

This is the profound and chilling paradox of contemporary society. We may be told we are fighting for our lives, but we have not the means to make any rational decision. In the greatest age of science, we are thrown back utterly on faith — on faith in a handful of men no less fallible than we are. What is "security" do we have against our guardians?

Watered Wine for Children Is Old European Custom

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — I know people who give their children wine in ginger ale. Isn't there a law against giving alcoholic drinks to children? These children get very bad tempered at times. Couldn't this be the reason? — WONDERING.

* * *

DEAR WONDERING — In some provinces the law prohibits "knowingly selling or supplying liquor to a person under 21 years." But some European cultures have countenanced the serving of watered-down wine to their progeny for generations.

If the children's well-being is threatened, it should be brought to the attention of the child care agency in your city.

Bad-tempers could come from other things, you know.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — We are invited to two formal weddings. Would appreciate it if you would tell me if it would be proper for me (a guest) to wear a white dress with fur trimmings to the reception. — UNSURE.

* * *

DEAR UNSURE — No. On The Bride's Day, no one outshines her: etiquette interprets this as avoiding a white dress, even though it may be trimmed with another color.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I have a problem with my hobby. When I ask someone for a foreign coin, how am I supposed to bring up the price of money for their foreign coins? Those coins are worth little in their native country, yet I couldn't accept anything free because I usually do the asking for the coins. Usual, too, they would refuse any money that I offer. — COIN COLLECTOR.

* * *

DEAR COIN COLLECTOR — Are you sure? You must raise the question, otherwise they'll begin thinking you want something for nothing. Simply enquire as to what the coins would be worth in Canadian money. And don't argue — pay it.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — Boy Number One goes to a private school and I write to him and he writes back too, but when he's home he sometimes doesn't even phone.

Boy Number Two, he's tall, dark and dreamy, but my problem with him is that I don't know if he likes me. Before he always ignored me, but now he calls for me and talks to me and asks me to go places with him.

Now for my big problem. Please tell me which one I should go with. — FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD M. H.

* * *

DEAR FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD M. H. — Go out with the one who wants to go out with you and write to the one who wants to write to you. When there's a third, talk to him on the phone!

18-Century "Shepherdess Look" for Spring

PARIS (Reuters)—Yves Saint Laurent scored with a very feminine "shepherdess look" in his spring fashion collection unveiled today.

White box - pleated skirts, belled waistlines, short jackets, bow necklines and romantic bread-brimmed hats symbolized the new wave on which Saint Laurent revives the "all-girl" approach to fashion. White trimmings, including sateway collars, cuffs, short gloves, and scarf or ribbon knotted round the throat, were motifs of the new collection.

Caribbean Sea Subject of Travelogue

On Thursday evening of this week the Kiwanis Club of Belleville will present at the Collegiate auditorium a stirring travelogue of adventuresome happenings, entitled "Over and Under the Caribbean Sea," with Colonel John H. Craig as producer and narrator.

Colonel Craig has spent most of his life in quest of adventure and specializes in making documentary films of strange places, including jungle life and undersea explorations.

The film to be shown will depict the blue waters of the West Indies, providing much scenic beauty, the people of Bimini, Outer Bahamas, Haiti, the Virgin Islands and their adventurous activities, which include diving for sunken treasure, dealing with sharks and their scientific study.

Colonel Craig brings to his audience both scientific data and beauty of scene, accompanied with a most interesting narration pulsing with life and up-to-the-minute facts.

Spring Thaw Hit Revue In Belleville March 25

The first national tour of as one of the major musicals Spring Thaw will give Canadians from one end of the country to the other the opportunity to see sketches and songs by some of Canada's most gifted comedy writers. Eric Nichol, winner of the Leacock Medal for humor on CBC radio's Anthology, has contributed two hilarious sketches. Pierre Berton, Johnny Wayne of the Wayne and Shuster team and Mavor Moore himself, producer of Spring Thaw, are all represented in some of the funniest writing ever done for the Canadian stage.

Other writers whose names may be less known to Canadian audiences but who have earned international reputations are Stan Daniels whose works have been performed on stages in London's West End and on Broadway, and the team of Bernard Cribbett and Ray Jessel whose musical Baker Street is in the first preparatory stages for production of Broadway's next season.

Writer performers known to Canadian television audiences are among those present. Alan Mannings, bearded panelist of the Front Page Flashback has written the long closing sketch for the first act, and Paul Kilgman with Lucio Agostini as musical director provided the lines for the step dance comment on Canadian fashion which was a show stopper in the Toronto version of Spring Thaw last year.

Spring Thaw opened at Vancouver's Queen Elizabeth audition on January 21st and is now touring across Western Canada. It is scheduled to arrive in Belleville on March 25th. Locally it will be presented at the R.C.I.V.S. auditorium under the sponsorship of the Belleville branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

Tickets are now available from any O.M.H.A. board member or by writing Box 381, Belleville or phone WO 8-9100.

Paleface Squares

by Mary Moore

It must be true that we all have sweettike tendencies. A reader wrote saying that when the ladies in her church group were asked to bring some "squares" to serve with coffee after their evening's activities, everyone showed up with a panful of brownies!

The reader asked me for some "white" squares that could be of color-frosted and I have sent her the detailed method for making Petit Fours. But since them I have made a panful of lemon-flavored squares which I have dubbed Palefaces. These would be a nice flavor and color contrast to the brownies which have been done to death.

When bottom has baked 10 minutes remove it from oven, spread topping evenly over and return to oven and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes or until delicately tinged with gold. These squares should be cut with a sharp knife dipped in hot water while hot. If they are left until cold to cut, the knife "drags" the meringue topping a little.

NOTE:

These Palefaces may be cut into 2" squares, topped with a little puff of whipped cream, and served for dessert. Very pretty and popular this way on a buffet table.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Lamb Stew with Vegetables; Curried Rice; Relish Tray; Radishes, Dills, Celery; Plum Pudding with Rich Milk; Coffee.

PALEFACE SQUARES:

Bottom Layer: ½ cup soft butter (or ¼ cup each butter and shortening), ½ cup icing sugar, 2 egg yolks, 1 cup unsifted flour, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind.

Topping: 2 egg whites, ½ cup granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ cup chopped walnuts or pecans or almonds.

Mix together the bottom layer ingredients — butter, icing sugar, yolks, flour and lemon rind — until thoroughly blended. Pat evenly into bottom only of unbuttered 13 x 8" pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes while you prepare topping: Beat egg whites until very stiff, gradually adding sugar while you beat. Fold in lemon juice and chopped nuts.

NOTE:

Banched almonds yield a paler finished square.

THE MANY FACES OF BEAUTY

There are some of us who will receive the news this spring's "Look" with blank indifference. These are the women who for years have avoided the word "pretty", and have mentally substituted "coy", every time they heard it. They are usually called the "sportswear types" in the world of fashion, achieving high standards of chic by their avoidance of ornamentation and their love of line and color. I sincerely hope that they will not back away from the current vogue for prettiness, thinking it too delicate and far too feminine for their tall, rangy figures.

PRETTY LOOK

The "Pretty Look" acknowledges a beauty of line and an imaginative use of color because in 1964's new look cannot be called dainty. It is ideally suited to the way we live, the way we work, the way we travel and the way we think.

It consists of a tempting array of accessories, such as pretty hats, handbags (certainly not for the tall girls, unless for evening wear) and neat ropes of beads and chains. Gloves are long, smooth, soft gloves a and chapeaux with a verve and a flash. It is further made up of low, jet-heeled shoes, patterned stockings, skirts with ease and line, related handbags (certainly as well as bulky sweaters is suggested almost shades.

There is also a new look to the head. I am inclined to think that the secret of the whole "Pretty Look" lies in the hair and the face. If you are still clinging to your bouffant beehive hair style or if you insist on "ironing" your entire head, then the "Pretty Look" will pass you by. A well-known authority on hair styling and hair care told me the other day that, if the average woman does not stop "backcombing" and "back brushing" her hair, the wig makers will add to the large fortunes they have already made. We will not be buying wigs because they are efficient grooming aids, but because we absolutely need them. In other words, "Look Mother — no hair."

SHORT HAIR STYLES

The ideal hair style for this spring is short with a lift to the ends. This is just great for some types of hair, but if your hair is baby fine and inclined to be limp, a long coiffure is best for you. You can still keep your hair long at the back if the sides are cut to the lobe of the ear, fluffed and allowed to find its own level. This style, when lifted away from the face, is attractive on most types. The back hair is rolled into a French knot or simple chignon.

If you have so many new makeup items this year, that it is hard to keep track of them all. Some of them are exciting and some of them pure fantasy. The newest should be called "Instant Health". It is the most complete with a big, soft brush for application to the whole face except the nose and eye areas. Especially good for those wan, pale days.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers in care of this paper.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

ENGLISH SCHOOL PROMOTES GOOD MANNERS

I am not consciously an Anglophile, but there are many things British we ought to make haste to borrow from the "mother country".

For the past ten years a children's school in Liverpool, England, has successfully instilled the principles of good manners into children. There's the homework, of course, done by parents. Not hearing if from the lips of their young fellows makes a tremendous impression.

Vexed parents, trying to steer their youngsters down the path to tasty living, become more vexed when they discover a new bad habit, usually brought home from school when they saw someone else doing it.

Children are clannish, and great imitators. It's just as easy to do the right thing, but they are more apt to do it if a conscientiously is proud enough of his behavior to talk about it.

The procedure for elementary schools here would be simple. The principal could set aside an hour during the school week for his council to meet with the students. If the enrollment is too high, he could form smaller groups of two or three classes, each with its own council.

Thereafter, the principal need only sit and watch. And he might learn a thing or two.

Reserve-Born Counsellor 'Tries to Help My People'

WINNIPEG (CP)—As a counsellor of Indians and mixed-blood Metis, Dorothy Francis speaks with first-hand knowledge. She was born on a reserve.

She learned the ways of the Saulteaux people in a hunting, farming and trapping community in bush country near Russell in western Manitoba. She learned the folklore at the knees of her grandmother. She learned how to skin a rabbit, and that muskrats in spring are good to eat. She also learned Indian handiwork.

Now Mrs. Francis is 51, wife of a Saulteaux carpenter, mother of nine and a 40-hour-a-week counsellor with the Indian and Metis referral service here, often putting in extra hours at her work.

She is doing what she decided she most wanted to do after leaving the reserve herself more than 10 years ago—"trying to help my people."

GIVES WIDE SERVICE

She is one of a staff of five at the centre which aims to help people of Indian origin, offering counsel in time of trouble, often giving direction in finding medical aid, employment, education and the law.

The service is supported by the city and province. Community Chest and other bodies, including churches and service clubs.

Mrs. Francis' qualifications are not limited to her formal education, which stopped after Grade 8.

"My education is experience," she said. "I think experience is just as good an education as formal courses."

But for several reasons, she says, they were not entirely happy aboot their farming life on the reserve. They moved to Regina in 1952 and lived in a tent on the outskirts until moving into a house in 1953.

HELPED FORM GROUP

Mrs. Francis took up work for Indians in Regina and among other things helped to start the Canadian Native Society there in 1953. She worked as a volunteer in the Regina Friendship Centre, a body similar to the referral centre here, and also made television appearances.

They moved again in 1962 and now live in the neighboring city of St. Boniface.

Last summer Mrs. Francis did a series of television shows, telling Indian legends while sitting on a beaskin rug. She visited youngsters in church groups and told them stories.

She posed recently in a caribou skin dress she made herself before a group of Winnipeg Sketch Club members, wearing a bone breast plate that had been handed down in her family for generations.

Talking with a reporter, she revealed a conviction that there was a lot of good in the old Indian ways of life. As a child, she spent much of her time in her grandmother's care, and remembered being loved. She had not wanted to disobey, and she could not remember ever being punished.

"The old people were kind and sincere," she said.

Careless Appearance Could Prevent Job Opportunity

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband is employed at a large industrial plant. He has a college degree, is brilliant in his work and has been invited to attend several executive meetings, so it is apparent the brass in the company values his judgment.

In the past three years he has been overlooked twice for promotion to an executive position. He could have handled either of those positions well and was disappointed when he was passed over.

I feel the reason he was passed over is because he is careless about his appearance. I must nag him to get his hair cut and his shoes shined. He wears sport shirts to the office — and it's a battle to get him to buy a new suit.

When I told him this he became annoyed and insisted that the business world of men is not a fashion show and ability is the only thing that counts. May we hear from you on this? — AT ODDS.

• • •

DEAR AT — There are very few Albert Einsteins around whose brilliance makes them acceptable anywhere in a turtle-neck sweater.

Appearance does count in business and the man who ignores this fact of life hurts himself.

If your husband wants to be an executive he'd better start to look like one.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Before my son left for the West Coast last January he told me he had fathered a child. The girl (I will call her Baby) wasn't pregnant when she left but three months before the child was born. Ruby confessed to this man that the child was not his.

I have never met the girl, nor have I seen the baby, but Ruby has sent me snapshots. The son pictures. The child is beautiful and looks so much like my own boy that I can hardly stand it.

Would it be wrong for me to send gifts? I want very much to do this because I feel the baby is my own flesh and blood.

I have promised my son I would not breathe a word to anyone, not even my husband, and I have kept my promise. Please help me do what is right! I'm lost in a jungle of conflicting emotions. — A. R. P.

• • •

DEAR A. R. P. — Ruby should not be sending your son pictures of the baby and he should not have passed the pictures on to you.

The man who married Ruby is legally the father of her child. He must be a mighty fine person to have accepted the situation. Your son owes it to him (and to the child) to stay out of their lives...And this goes for you, too.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Have I been had? If so, what do you think I ought to do about it?

Several weeks ago a girl who works in this department came up to me and said, "I have been told you have a beautiful voice and that you sing at weddings." I thanked her for the compliment. She then asked me if I would sing at her wedding and I agreed.

The wedding was three weeks ago and the girl is now back from her honeymoon. She has told me twice that I added a great deal to the wedding and has thanked me profusely. But she has said nothing about paying me.

I am not a close friend of hers and I had no idea she meant this to be a favor. Her sister accompanied me at the piano and we usually get $50 for such a performance. Would it be right to send her a bill? — HIGH C.

• • •

DEAR C. — It's too late, dear. Now is no time to let her know it was no "favor." The terms should have been settled before the wedding.

A verbal thank you is not enough. If the girl accepted your services as a favor she should have sent you a gift. But, of course, you can't ask for that either.

• • •

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Increasing Activity in Study Labor-Management Ideas

By FORBES BRUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Co-operation between management and labor on a scale scarcely thought possible a few years ago, is seen by Thomas A. Somerville, president of the Canadian Construction Association.

Speaking in an interview on the eve of the association's annual meeting, Mr. Somerville said there is increasing activity at all levels in the study of labor-management problems.

As examples of a growing recognition of common interests, the association and representatives of building and construction trades had prepared three joint briefs for submission to government bodies—one to the Saskatchewan Power Commission; one to the Unemployment Insurance Commission; and one, yet to be presented, for the federal cabinet committee on employment.

Mr. Somerville, who is vice-president of E. G. M. Cape and Co. Ltd., predicts a relatively peaceful labor relations year, with the bulk of two-year agreements made in 1963 extending into 1964.

He also sees increasing co-operation among other bodies within industry. An instance of this was a joint presentation to the federal government by about a score of national associations interested in highway building—a presentation which urged that the federal government, in conjunction with the provinces, work out a national highways plan.

MAKES PREDICTIONS

Outlining other prospects, Mr. Somerville predicted:

Construction volume this year of around $8,000,000,000, up about $400,000,000 from 1963. Some of the increase, however, would reflect the graduated sales tax on building materials instituted in the last federal budget, rather than any real gain.

At present the industry, its growth stimulated by the all-out demand of the years up to 1957 can handle about 33 per cent more volume than it is; and excess capacity has brought on more competition and slim profit margins.

In this situation," Mr. Somerville stated, "it is all the more important that management be alert and keep abreast and have a clear picture of its operations. Otherwise there will be trouble, as indicated by bankruptcies, which are growing in both number and size."

While battling their problems, there is more tendency for Canadian companies to look abroad in foreign markets and, Mr. Somerville added, "they are demonstrating that they can compete."

SILVERWARE MANUFACTURERS

Big rush has continued for about a year now for wholesalers to buy silverware from Trenton. Reasons are not yet fully explained, but the two firms in town are not complaining. Possible explanation, according to E. M. Parker Jr. of Morton-Parker and W. Critchell of Benedict-Proctor is that two large U.S. owned silverware firms in Canada have recently dropped holloware manufacture in the country. This leaves a total of four firms manufacturing in Canada, and of these the two in Trenton are the only ones making the whole of the product themselves. The other two firms buy pre-stamped blanks.

Employment is about 20-per-cent at Benedict Proctor during the past year, and nearly as much at Morton-Parker. Morton - Parker has increased capacity in the buffing department by 50 per cent during the past two years, and the work is still piling up. The firm is also in the worrying stage of of considering expansion, according to Mr. Parker Jr. "We know we should expand to keep up with present business", he explains," but we're wondering about the long - term picture." The Morton - Parker plant is now working at full capacity for normal operations. Part of the increase at this plant, according to Mr. Parker Jr., is in export sales to the U.S.

Interesting item for VLA Settlers: Mortgage Insurance Aids Many Settlers Under VLA. In the first six months that low-cost group life insurance was available to veterans establishing under the Veterans Land Act, approximately 2,300 applications have been received for policies with a face value of $14 million. About 40 per cent are linked to mortgage insurance. Under this plan, the remaining contract debt of the veteran is paid if he dies, leaving his property clear of debt to the Director, Veterans Land Act, subject to the conditional grant having been earned. The death last November of a veteran in British Columbia demonstrates the value of this insurance. This 50 year old veteran had acquired a new home on Oct. 1, 1963, with a loan of $9,000. Thanks to his VLA Insurance, which had cost him $21.97 for the period before he died, the house is now virtually paid for.

Had this veteran lived for a year, his insurance would have cost him $87.88 or slightly over $7.00 a month. Similar coverage for a 40 year old veteran with the same debt, would cost $43.00 or about $3.50 monthly. Commencing on this insurance, before the Standing Committee on Veterans Affairs, R. W. Pawley, Director of Veterans Land Act, said: "It will be unfortunate if veterans do not take advantage of this scheme before, between now and 1978, an estimated 25 per cent or 12,000 veterans will die."

CANADIAN FLIGHT EQUIPMENT

Moved down from Campbellford last week, Canadian Flight Equipment Co. is starting production in Trenton now. Staff of about 50 — mostly precision assembly — from the Campbellford plant and work is on the same government contracts in Campbellford. The firm has contracts now extending into 1965, for "propellant-actuated devices" used on Starfighters and Tutor jet trainers. The devices operate windows and the ejection equipment pilots use to bail out of modern aircraft.

A crew from Foley's under foreman Ivan Pukancik started the move Monday, had the equipment down by Wednesday, beating the schedule by almost a full day. Most of the setting up, after the machines were put in place, was handled by Flight Equipment employees. Flight Equipment employees also handled electrical work and renovations in the Sidney St. plant, recently vacated by Skil Tools.

The assembly department of Flight Equipment is still operating in Campbellford this week, and will continue there for a week or more. Reason is that production at Flight Equipment is divided into batches — the parts for a designated number of devices are produced, then the devices are assembled all at once. The parts for one batch were left in Campbellford. The devices will be assembled there, resident government inspectors will select a predetermined number for testing, then the lot will be shipping and the assembly department will rejoin the rest of the plant. By that time, the firm hopes, parts for the next batch will be ready at the Trenton plant.

Also remaining in Campbellford is the Flightline firm, a subsidiary of Flight Equipment, which makes convertisine bags and seats for some O.M.C. boats.

In charge of the Trenton operation are Roy Sheaff, vice-president in charge of engineering and R. B. McIntyre, comptroller. President of the firm R. A. J. Murison just returned from a business trip to Europe last week, and has not announced his own plans.

BAXTER CANNING CO.

The Baxter Canning Co. of Bloomfield plans to be in operation again in time for this year's crop, according to Earl Smith, assistant manager. An engineer from the American Can Co. (the firm supplies cans to Baxter's), is expected early this week, to draft plans for the new plant. The same man was at Baxter's two years ago, to plan modifications to the plant and he was due back this summer to plan modernization. Work can be start from scratch this trip. Canning plants use more-or-less standard layouts for any given product, so the designing shouldn't take too long. Several civic officials were offered to handle the reconstruction on a crash-program basis.

CANADA CROSSOTING

The annual rumors about the Canada Creosoting Division of Dominion Tar and Chemical closing its operation in Trenton have cropped up again, and company officials are denying them, as usual. The firm cuts back production every year about this time, because of fluctuations in the market.

Employment is down now from a maximum of nearly 70 to less than 50, and it will drop further to about 18 men during the next month. The cutback is gradual, and when the resumption of full scale operation comes a bit quicker. Usual date for the firm to get back into operation is during early April, but it may be a bit sooner this year, according to Leo Founda of the firm's Montreal office. Production scheduled and employment are dictated by the volume of business available.

ERIE TECHNOLOGICAL PRODUCTS

Elmer Young of Erie Technological Products in Trenton has been shifted to the parent firm's plant in Los Angeles. Starting as supervisor of the final test line in Trenton ten years ago, Mr. Young was then transferred to quality control. He went to New York two years ago as a special engineer in quality control but recently has been working as a salesman for the firm in the Toronto area. Details of his new position have not been revealed.

'God Has Told Me to Stay Out' Says Miner, Saved After 17 Hours

ATIKOKAN, Ont. (CP) — Miner Gerd Eggers, freed from an underground trap that held him for 17 hours, says he "won't go down again."

"God has told me to stay out of mines," the veteran of 11 years in hardrock mining. "And I intend to obey him."

The 31-year-old father of two, a husky, blue-eyed German immigrant, was "doing very well," in hospital Sunday in this north-eastern Ontario town, 140 miles west of Fort William.

Saturday, he was taken gently from a tiny hole in a caved-in working place near the 700-foot level of Steep Rock Iron Mines' nearby Errington Mine.

The cave - in Friday night blocked much of the 30-ft. long drift in which Eggers was working with driller Bill Chambers, who reached safety.

Eggers was operating a mucking machine—a powered shovelling machine — at the time. Timbers fell across the pinning his right hand but providing a protective crevice from tons of falling rock.

SAVED BY MACHINE

"The machine saved him," said Dr. A. B. Adey who was underground for the rescue.

He said later the hand was "badly crushed" but the skin was not broken. It was the only injury except for a few minor bruises. He expected Eggers would be in hospital "a week here or so."

Workers who had been on the night shift with Eggers and with Chambers worked feverishly on through the early hours of Saturday digging the rock away. Day-shift miners continued the job.

Eggers said from his hospital bed: "I had given up hope of getting out alive. I thought I was a goner."

Officials directing the rescue operation underground called a brief halt to the digging early Saturday afternoon to find out whether they could hear Eggers.

They did—about 2:30 p.m. EST —and were "able to understand from him that he was all right," a spokesman said.

MADE CONTACT

The doctor said the rescuers had re-opened about 30 feet of the drift when they made verbal contact.

Leaving the machine, the men used shovels to poke a hole through the remaining three or four feet to penetrate the tiny crevice with light and air.

Says 20,000 Of Watutsi Tribe Slain

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) A British missionary worker says Bahutu warriors have killed between 15,000 and 20,000 members of the Watutsi tribe and are hunting others with the former Belgian colony of Rwanda.

The figures cited by this missionary, who asked that his name not be mentioned for fear of reprisals against his African colleagues, were challenged as a fantasy by Rwanda's foreign minister, Lazare Mpakaniye.

In a broadcast from Kigali, Rwanda's capital, Mpakaniye said 750 persons had been killed and of them Watutsi terrorists attacking from neighbor countries. He said 350 Bahutu tribesmen were killed by the Watutsis.

Braille Pioneer In U. S. Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — J. Robert Atkinson, one-time Montana cowboy who was totally blinded at the age of 25 and went on to found the Braille Institute of America, died Saturday. He was 76.

Atkinson, who lost his sight in a hunting accident, came to Los Angeles in 1914 and founded the Braille institute five years later. He was its managing director until he retired in 1957.

U. S. Shores Gold Drains

NEW YORK (AP)—Busy gold miners, wheat-hungry Russians and less-jittery hoarders, each in their fashion helped the U.S. treasury hold down its losses of gold in 1963.

Few expect the outflow to be stopped entirely in 1964 since the basic cause (excess dollars in foreign hands) remains. But U.S. government officials and international bankers alike take comfort in any partial plugging of the flow that reached alarming proportions in 1960 and persisted through 1961 and 1962.

Here are the figures: The U.S. treasury's monetary gold stock dropped $645,000,000 in 1963 to $15,596,000,000, roughly what it was when the Second World War started in 1939. World upheaval had sent the U.S. reserves to their peak of $24,800,000,000 in August, 1949.

The 1963 loss was $812,000,000 after the top has been cut. Resistant to cold, this extends the season for several weeks into freezing weather. Grits is the other winner. It too has many fine qualities, cold resistant, early maturing and good production of side shoots.

The 1962 and $877,000,000 in 1961.

The last year the United States paid also other leading financial nations agreed to help each other out with reserves from speculators or the temporary strains of trade imbalances. This pact apparently worked well.

At the same time gold mined outside the Communist part of the world rose five per cent to add $1,400,000,000 to gold supplies. Russia sold an estimated $400,000,000 worth to the West, mostly for grain purchases, while another fattening available supplies.

INACTIVE SPECULATORS

And speculators were fairly inactive, with the London free market price holding close to the official price. The treasury sales ($35 an ounce, plus 5¼ cents handling charges). In October, 1960, the price in turn doubled in for gold sent the price to $40 an ounce in London.

Gold hoarding outside the Communist world last year is estimated at 40,000,000 ounces or more—down from 100,000 ounces of that went into monetary reserves, and an equal amount was taken for industrial uses. This would leave about 30,000,000 ounces going into private hands, either for hoarding (historically popular in many parts of the world) or for speculation that the price might rise in the future.

Monetary reserves are usually a combination of gold and holdings of the currencies of other countries. The U.S. dollar is the favorite, with the British pounds next. Most European countries like to keep most of their reserves in gold.

At the end of 1963 Britain's gold holdings were about 92 per cent of total reserves of $2,600,000,000. West Germany's gold holdings last year were $3,900,000,000. France was the leading purchaser of U.S. gold in 1963 and has its stock of more than $3,000,000,000.

Garden Notes

Good New Vegetables for '64

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Several new vegetables will be welcome additions to the garden this spring. Two of the all-American award winners were broccolis. Green Comet received a silver medal. It is very early, vigorous and matures evenly, with rich dark green heads. The heads are round and compact with many small to medium side shoots after the top has been cut. Resistant to cold, this extends the season for several weeks into freezing weather. Grits is the other winner. It too has many fine qualities, cold resistant, early maturing and good production of side shoots.

Delicious is a new hybrid tomato with fruits gaining up to one pound or more. Big Max is a giant pumpkin which will weigh up to 100 pounds.

Market master is a bright red watermelon developed for northern markets. These last two are available from Ferry Morse Seed Company. Also, Burgundy, swiss chard which has maroon stems and lighter leaves.

The new garden catalogues offer many interesting vegetables and it is always exciting to see how new plants will perform. When taste is added to the pleasure of sight there is a double bonus. If you have favorite vegetables, continue to grow them but try something new in the same line too. You may find great improvements have been added.

Dominion Seed Co. offers several new varieties of beans with outstanding qualities. Prostyprof should be planted as soon as the ground is workable. This will mean to be in the table a month earlier than usual. This bean has the fine qualities of the bush bread bean. It is a bush bean with flavor like peas. Delicious cooked fresh or dried for winter. The chestnut bean is not really a bean.A Spanish bush plant with beanlike seeds, good cooked fresh, in soups and stuffing for fowl.

Harvester is a green snap bean new to the home gardener. It has been widely used for commercial canning and freezing. Asparagus bean is a climber, with green crisp pods. Very small seed, and extra long pod. Kinghorn is a new wax type, good for baking, freezing and canning.

Hales best is a very early cantaloupe for northern gardens. Banana muskmelon is a long melon with sweet flavor, salmon flesh is crisp and the seed cavity small. Very prolific.

Butternut lettuce, a bibb type, was a silver medal award winner last year and has proved long, slow to bolt, and tolerates hot weather well.

Cylindra is a new beet with long finger roots. This will give three times the ordinary yield in the same space. Fine for table or pickling.

For the small family or small garden space, choose midget vegetables. Golden midget sweet corn has tender four inch cobs which mature in 60 days. Butter pillow, sugar sweet.

Blue Bantam peas combine extreme earliness with a distinct flavor. Very prostrate and vigorous. Oakview wonder pepper has thick walls rich and meaty red or green fruits.

Hope Makarios May Modify Stand on Force

CP from AP-Reuters

NICOSIA, Cyprus — British and American diplomats held out hope today that Cypriot President Makarios would modify his opposition to the proposed NATO peace force for the troubled Mediterranean island.

The archbishop was expected to give his answer today or Tuesday.

Several thousand Greek-Cypriot students marched through the capital's Greek sections today chanting "Death to NATO" and "long live the United Nations."

The demonstrators were orderly, but police and student leaders halted them half a block from the information ministry.

Makarios appeared at the demonstration and attempted to halt it. But later several hundred adults staged a demonstration protesting the use of NATO troops.

Town Council Sets Back Meeting Date

PICTON, (Staff) — This month, the regular meeting of the Town Council of the Town of Picton has been set back one week, and will be held on Monday, February 10th.

This was made necessary when several members of the council, including Mayor H. J. McFarland and Reeve Barney Hepburn will be attending the National Convention of the Progressive Conservative party at Ottawa.

The County Council of Prince Edward County will hold a special meeting next Friday at 9 a.m. to deal with the hiring of the county assessors to assist County Assessment Commissioner Fred Jennings.

Any other pertinent items will be dealt with at this special meeting.

Three Injured In Car Crash

PICTON — William Sanderson of R.R. 1, Wellington, and Wallace Mindell of R.R. 3, Consecon, were involved in an automobile accident at 9.20 a.m. Saturday morning at the intersection of old and new 33 Highway.

Ontario Provincial Police reported three persons injured, however, no names and no estimate of property damage have been entered in the accident book at the OPP office here.

neutralization plan might receive a sympathetic hearing in Washington, he also said flatly, "I do not agree with General de Gaulle's proposals."

JAM THEATRE

A standing-room-only crowd of reporters jammed into the tiny White House theatre — the press conference at which Johnson also told reporters — Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver will take on additional duties as special presidential assistant to coordinate Johnson's proposed "war on poverty."

He does not expect that the civil rights bill now being debated in the House of Representatives will have to be trimmed back in order to win enactment. But he said he does expect a Senate filibuster on the subject.

The first question of the conference was aimed at determining whether Johnson foresees a time when United States might recognize Communist China—a move undertaken last week by France.

"No, I do not," the president replied.

Bay Skating Draws Large Sunday Crowd

PICTON (Staff) — With the bright sunshiny weather on Sunday and the fact that the warmer weather and rain has melted the snow from the Picton Bay, and the Bay of Quinte, skating was at its best on Sunday.

Hundreds of people took advantage of the excellent skating from the foot of Bridge St. close to the cement plant some three miles distance.

Down the bay along the high shore road, several sailboats could be seen, making good use of the rather stiff breeze.

Sailboating is one of the fastest of winter sports, it does not take much of a breeze to push these vicks with a stiff climb up into the 60 MPH speed. It looks like fun.

With colder weather and no more snow forecast for the area, perhaps the skating will remain fine, for a while at least. It is a most welcome change from the same time last year, when the entire country, at least the southern portion was under snow that was "up to here" in depth.

Cars Damaged In Town Crash

PICTON — A two-car accident at 3.10 a.m. Sunday morning caused an estimated $400 damage to cars being driven by Donald George Miller of R.R. 5, Picton, and Isaac George Marsele of 38 Lake St.

Police say the two vehicles collided on Lake Street in Picton. There were no personal injuries. The accident is still under investigation.

Unbalanced Wheels Are Always Unsafe

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Shimmy, wheel tramp, short tire life, and undue road shock which results in greater suspension and chassis wear can all be caused by wheel unbalance. On some cars, a wheel just a few ounces out of balance can bring on steering difficulties at high speeds. Bounce and car vibration become seriously magnified as wheels rotate faster. Imbalance also causes the front wheel wobble you've probably noticed on many cars.

Wheel balance involves the entire wheel assembly. It isn't something which must be checked every month, but it should be given attention at least a few times a year. With the special equipment service stations have, it takes only a few moments to test each wheel for proper balance. Small lead weights are mounted on the edge of the rim to correct an unbalanced condition.

From E. R.: "My car starts well enough even on the coldest mornings, but it takes an awful long time to warm up and often stalls during the first ten minutes or so."

(A) A faulty thermostat could be the reason — although these same symptoms occur when the exhaust manifold heat valve is sticking.

T. G. writes: "Please settle this question. Since a 6-volt battery has six cells, doesn't a 12-volt battery have double this?"

(A) Twice wrong: A 6-volt battery has but three cells; a 12-volter has six cells — each cell supplies two volts.

R. G. asks: 'Could a knocking, clicking, grinding, noise from a front wheel area be due to the shock absorber?"

(A) A knock — yes, but a click or grind would normally point to dirty or grease-starved wheel bearings.

(A) No. Camber is the angle at which the tops of the wheels are set farther apart than the bottoms. Toe-in refers to the angle at which the front of the wheels are closer together than the backs.

Rule Magazine In Contempt

QUEBEC (CP) — Chief Justice Frederic Dorion ruled Friday that an article in Le Magazine Maclean last November was in contempt of court. The article dealt with Leopold Dion, since convicted of murder in the sex-slaying of a 13-year-old boy last spring.

Mr. Justice Dorion ordered representatives of Maclean's and writer Robert Fulford to appear Feb. 18 to make their pleas. The article was published in Maclean's Magazine in September, then translated and published in Le Magazine Maclean in November.

Mr. Justice Dorion said the article was in contempt because it was published only three weeks before the Dion trial and because it mentioned Dion's criminal history.

Diefenbaker Says Decisions, Proven Correct

HAMILTON (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker says public opinion at the time was opposed to his government's decisions against nuclear weapons and for wheat sales to Communist China.

But in the light of events, he said, those decisions have been proved right.

Mr. Diefenbaker's statements were made in a recorded hour-long broadcast by Hamilton station CHCH-TV of an interview by his Ottawa correspondent, Geoff Scott.

The Progressive Conservative leader said his government was criticized all over Canada and in the United States for its decision to sell wheat to Communist China.

"I could have taken the easy course and not made that decision," he said. The question was reviewed "over and over again" by the cabinet.

"Now in the light of events, a subject of so much criticism and condemnation has become the cornerstone of the government of Canada's policy."

A decision by his government to acquire nuclear warheads "would have been the easiest thing" to do. "But it would have been wrong."

NO REASON FOR ARMS

Because of changing circumstances in defence, and advances in international relations, his government had taken the position that there was "no reason" for Canada to accept nuclear weapons in 1962 or 1963.

Asked to comment on criticisms that his government had been ineffective, Mr. Diefenbaker said he believed decisions had to be made after the fullest study of all circumstances.

"It's so easy to make decisions, and those decisions be completely wrong."

He denied that he had been suspicious of Conservatives who had opposed his policies. He became prime minister in 1957.

"I chose in the cabinet of 1957 at least 10 who had opposed me and I passed up some of my longtime friends . . . they gave me that loyalty during the years that I would expect."

"In 5½ years as the government of this country, there was never one suggestion of scandal or dishonesty. That hasn't been emphasized."

Hope Lakefield School Dispute To Be Settled

TORONTO (CP) — Prospects for an early solution to a teacher dispute have developed in Lakefield, Ont., are good, says Orval Grant, chairman of the Ontario School Trustees Council.

He issued a prepared statement after a meeting here Saturday between representatives of the Lakefield public school board, the Ontario Men Teachers' Federation and the federation of Women Teachers of Ontario. Mr. Grant was chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Grant said another meeting is scheduled for March 14.

Ontario teachers struck against the Lakefield school board last year when the board demanded that a teacher live in Lakefield, 10 miles north of Peterborough, improve their qualifications before they received a raise. The 17 teachers at Lakefield resigned their positions and their places were taken by others.

When an Ontario board is grey-listed, members of the teachers' federations are expected to refuse employment with the board.

Only six of those who resigned have taken employment at other schools and the federations have not announced the salaries of the remaining 11.

Members of the men's and women's federations recently asked the Ontario Teachers' Federation, bargaining and coordinating body for Ontario's 55,000 teachers, to ask the department of education to withdraw the teaching certificates of 17 teachers who took Lakefield posts after the grey-listing.

The board of governors of the Ontario Teachers' Federation refused to act immediately on the request, which would restrict the 17 teachers from teaching anywhere in Ontario, but said it would investigate all aspects of the dispute.

Coast Guard Takes Over Cuban Vessels

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. Coast Guard said today it has boarded four Cuban fishing vessels in U.S. territorial waters off the Florida coast and is escorting them to Key West.

The ultimate disposition of the four fishing vessels is uncertain but they are being detained at present for violating U.S. territory in fishing within the three mile limit.

The exact number of men aboard the boats was uncertain but a Coast Guard spokesman said the number varied from eight to 17 men apiece.

SENT SPECIAL COPIES

WEST BERLIN (AP)—Publishers of Berliner Illustrierte, a picture magazine, said they sent copies of a special 80-page all-color edition of Pope Paul's Holy Land visit to church leaders in Communist bloc countries. It wasn't known whether censors passed the material along.

The luncheon and dansing rounded out an enjoyable all-day tournament which got under way at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Clubs represented were Belleville, Peterborough, Trenton, Napanee, Bowmanville, Cobourg and Peterborough.

RCAF, Kingston Rinks Win Major Events At Successful Bay of Quinte Bonspiel

By CLAUDE TICE

The Bay of Quinte Bonspiel is over, but the memories linger on. The spiel, sponsored by the Bay of Quinte Club, the Trenton Curling Club, and the RCAF Station Trenton club was a huge success in every particular, and the visiting curlers have returned to their homes singing the praises of the hospitality, the new friendships made and a request their entry be received for next year. To the general chairman, Wing Commander "Bud" Powell and his energetic committee—the thanks of all the curlers go out to a job well organized and well done.

There were winners, runners-up, and losers, but all had good curling on splendid ice at all three rinks and to the icemakers at all rinks a special thanks for their co-operation in providing the best ice available. It was always fast, a little tricky in spots but that is what makes for good curling.

Now for the winners. The main event, the North American Van Lines, was won by a rink of Bob Landry, Charles Miller, Jack Sands and skipped by George Gostick, of Kingston.

The Corby trophy was won by Dave Osborn, Murray Loughsey, Ken Barlow and skip Wayne Forster of the RCAF over a Quinte rink skipped by Claude Tice and Bob Benn throwing last stone. The Elliott Motors Trophy was won by a rink of George Peters, Jack Curtis, Art Sharpe and Ed Walker, skip of the RCAF who they defeated a rink skipped by Archie Huber of the RCAF. These games were played at the Quinte rink on Saturday night and the club house was packed for the occasion.

Bob Lanning acted as master of ceremonies at this event and presented the prizes. Percy Johns represented the Corby Distillery and Walter Elliott, personally presented the trophy and prizes in his sponsored event.

On Sunday evening after a delicious buffet lunch at the RCAF station at which the wives and sweethearts of the curlers were invited, all journeyed to the Trenton station, where the finals in four events were played.

A Quinte rink, the only one to win an event in the spiel, took the Bata Shoe event. A rink of Goldie Livingston, Bill Holway, Dave Duffy and Charles Lovett as skip won over Jack Hadley of the Trenton club.

The Quinte shield, representing the high number of wins in the spiel was won by a rink from the RCAF of Bob McInnes, Bill Carss, Grant McCauley with Bill Lewis as skip over a rink skipped by Glen Jerome of Napanee. The presentations were made in the large room at the conclusion of the games. There are many spiels throughout this district but nowhere are the prizes equal to the beautiful ones that are offered for the Bay of Quinte event. It is a real pleasure to win one.

In an event of this kind the amount of work cannot be estimated in hours. Many committee meetings were held and every detail worked out to the exact minute. The games were run according to schedule and the drawmaker, Bill Lewis, deserves a word of praise. The umpires from every club did a terrific job at reporting their games and all in all it was a well run bonspiel.

The class of curling was far superior to other years and that will progressively get better as the years go on. There are a large number of rinks wanting to get in and it is hoped there will be a bigger representation from Napanee, Picton and Kingston in the years ahead. The Bay of Quinte has always been noted for hospitality by its visitors and this spiel afforded an excellent example. The visiting curlers were loud in their praise of this regard and all stated it was the best ever. As Harry Lewis of Ottawa expressed it "This is the best ever".

To the women of the three clubs a special thanks for assisting the wants of the inner man. Steaming hot coffee, sandwiches, desserts were always available while the cheese tables, sponsored by The Ontario Intelligencer was the popular place in all the rinks. The cheese, product of the Quinte district, was excellent.

The entertainment could not have been better. The banquet and dance on Thursday night and the reception for the women on Sunday was a delight and to the staff at the RCAF station a grateful thanks. Nowhere in the province could be found better for setting up an event as this one without arrangements that are outstanding. The station at Trenton. To the Wing Commander, Mr. Butcher and all the staff a grateful thanks.

Everyone will remember this spiel for a long time and may they be asked to be here again. To wee Jamie Duncan of Trenton, who conceived this event and helped get it under way the thanks of all.

Negro Leader Says He Will Burn Himself

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—A Negro integration leader threatened Sunday to burn himself in the streets of Raleigh Sunday if racial discrimination is not ended in this university town.

Rev. B. Elton Cox of High Point, North Carolina field secretary for the Southern Racial Equality, told an integration rally at the First Baptist Church he would burn himself and encouraged other Negroes to do the same.

"If I caught it would do any good," Cox said, "I would come to Chapel Hill, walk in town hall and University of North Carolina) officials. That failing I would burn myself.

"I have been accumulating doing it and am advocating that other Negroes do it," said the bespectacled minister, adding that if Buddhists can burn themselves in protest against Ngo Dinh Diem, Negroes can do it in the U.S.

ARE TO DIE

"If these Negroes can don uniforms to fight for the United States in the war for freedom, then the reverently ought to be able to give their lives for the same right at home," organizer Cox concluded, in amplifying his rally remarks for reporters.

After the rally, about 220 Negroes and whites marched two abreast down the town's main street and returned without incident.

In New York, James Farmer, executive director for National CORE, said "I am sure that Rev. Cox was not seriously suggesting that Negroes in this country adopt the protest methods of Buddhists."

"If he was serious," Farmer said, "I am sure he was speaking only for himself and not for any organization."

Farmer said he had promised novel demonstrations in Chapel Hill, but added, "believe me, this is not what I had in mind."

BEWARE OF ROCKETS

SALISBURY (AP)—The government has warned airlines in the skies over Southern Rhodesia are safer at about 8,000 feet. Below that altitude there is danger from explosive rockets some farmers are firing in hopes of producing rain for the drought-stricken hinterlands.

Britain Gets Few Benefits Through Her Recognition Of Communist Chinese

LONDON (AP)—If President de Gaulle had consulted Sir Alec Douglas-Home before recognizing Communist China, Britain's prime minister probably would have told him:

"Go ahead, it makes sense. We'd do the same if the situation were again because we think we were right. The Chinese ought not to be isolated. But don't expect wonders in your trade and other relations."

Britain's own trial-blazing act of recognition by a Labor government in 1950 aroused perhaps even more criticism from the United States than did de Gaulle's move last Monday.

Fourteen years of stiffly-correct dealings since then have failed to warm the British-Chinese relationship. No obvious rewards have come to Britain. And to this day only partial diplomatic ties have been established.

Britain's trading and political ties with China go back 260 years. By 1950 they had built up a commercial stake in China valued at about $1,000,000,000.

WASN'T MUCH HOPE

There never was much hope in London that these investments would be treated better than Communist interests allowed, with or without recognition. Within two years most of the great British merchant houses, or "hongs," withdrew, shut down, leased or transferred their operations.

Premier Chou En-lai's diplomatic mission in Peking, nevertheless, kept alive the chance that London still might win back its share of the once-lush China market. Traders have been preoccupied with that possibility ever since. To a degree they have succeeded.

In 1961, when Gen. Chiang Kai - shek still controlled the mainland, the grand total volume of Commonwealth trade with China was valued at $440,000,000. By 1962 it had risen to about $712,000,000, much of it purchases of grain and other emergency food supplies.

No balance sheet could accurately show if the sum total of advantages exceeds the disadvantages derived from Britain's recognition of China, or vice versa. The reason is that some of the chief gains and losses are intangible.

HAS ADVANTAGES

On the credit side:

— Peking may well have withheld action against Hong Kong because of British recognition.

— Peking's every link with the non - Communist world may well have helped to keep China's overall reliance on the Soviet Union.

On the debit side:

—London's recognition of Peking over the years has been a festering source of argument with Washington. These differences, resulting from conflicting approaches to the China question, occasionally have mushroomed into crisis.

—London's acceptance of the Communists as the lawful (seizure), not merely the effective (de facto) rulers of China did not encourage Peking to set up full diplomatic relations. Each country is represented in the other's capital only by a charge d'affaires, below the status of an ambassador.

Pearson Back From Holiday Declines to Make Comments

Greeted on arrival by six of his cabinet ministers, Mr. Pearson declined comment on domestic issues until he had "caught up" at the office.

"I'm very glad to be back," he told reporters shivering in zero temperatures on the airport tarmac.

"It was a very good holiday. I read most of the time and got in a few games of golf on the last two or three days."

He was asked whether he had anything to say about the raid last week on a Montreal armory in which a large number of automatic weapons was stolen.

"No, I think I had better wait and read the papers on it," he replied.

HOPES IT'S NOT SIGN

He said he wouldn't like to think that the raid is the forerunner of a further outbreak of terrorist violence in French Canada, adding:

"But I just don't know."

Mr. Pearson was met by, he joked with his cabinet ministers and had a special word for Justice Minister Caverhier, who relinquishes that portfolio today to take up his new post as Canada's high commission in London.

To External Affairs Minister Martin, Mr. Pearson said jokingly:

"I see you recognized Mongolia while I was gone. You ought to be more careful."

HAS NO BUSES

IBADAN, Nigeria (AP)—West German Ambassador Count Posadowsky - Wehner has announced the Bonn government will assist in staff training and organization of a bus service for Ibadan, Nigeria's largest city. This city of 750,000 has no bus service at present.

Estimate 70 Dead in Train Collision

ALTAMIRANO, Argentina (CP-AP)—An estimated 70 persons were killed in a flaming train collision Saturday. The exact toll was still not known today as rescuers recovered 18 bodies and fragments of many more.

Railway officials said a faulty brake may have sent the Firefly Express, jammed with 1,000 persons, hurtling into a standing freight train 65 miles southeast of Buenos Aires at dawn.

Police said the impact of the cars and the fire were so severe that the exact death count might never be known. Several hundred children were aboard the Firefly, bound from the sea resort of Mari del Plata to Buenos Aires.

Russians Ask Newsman to Leave Country

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The press department of the Russian foreign office has asked Peter Johnson, Reuters chief correspondent in Moscow, to leave Russia.

The Soviet news agency Tass says the press department statement that Johnson had been "denied the status of a foreign correspondent in Moscow" because of "dispatches containing gross slanders" about the Soviet Union.

Johnson, a 38-year-old Yorkshireman, married with two sons, has been Reuters chief correspondent in Moscow since May, 1962.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Speckled trout addicts who prefer a wet line in the wild wintry wonderland of the northern haunts to the comfort and warmth of the family living room get an extra day this year to quest their favorite fish.

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests announced Saturday that the season will open this year on Saturday, February 29, instead of March 1st as formerly contemplated.

The announcement said "the early season is effective only east of the western borders of Hastings and Renfrew counties. It is the earliest date speckled trout fishing has been allowed in Ontario."

The announcement that speckled trout fishing would open March 1st in the Tweed district of the Department was issued a few weeks ago by the departmental headquarters in Tweed.

At this time this corner was informed by the official in charge of Fish and Wildlife that there was a possibility the season for rainbow (Kamloops) trout would also open on March 1st.

An advertisement carried by this newspaper some time ago by a northern tourist agency stated that the Kamloops trout season will open on March 1st.

A check with the Tweed Lands and Forests officials revealed that this was not the case; that Ontario headquarters had reissued an such date for the rainbows.

Nor has such an announcement been issued at this writing.

Contrary to the opinions and reports of some outdoor writers, the March 1st opening of the speckled trout season last year was a success insofar as the effect on the trout population was concerned.

Department officials in Tweed told this reporter that that bank of trout taken after May 1st, the former opening date, revealed little change from those taken in years before the March 1st opening was announced.

Despite the difficulties provided by weather and early spring shackling of lakes and streams, fishermen report that the haul was good.

A lot of the die-hards refused to be daunted by snowplugged highways and byways. Far-sighted resort operators opened their places of business and those who had snow-riding "scooters" had a land-office take.

And, I'm told, the early "pioneers" were well rewarded for their hardships they suffered. After all there's nothing tastier than a speckled trout sizzling golden brown in a "spider" minutes after it has been taken from the icy waters of an ice-shackled lake or stream.

Nor did the brook trout aficionados who postponed their safaris until two weeks after season opened suffer any by comparison.

Their take was just as plentiful and the fivookies tasted just as good. And the bitchiga who scoffed at the idea of using the elements around March first, and preferred to wait until May Day rolled around had their innings, too.

They found that the early-season radio had not depleted the trout population to any noticeable extent. Besides the lakes and streams were wide open and hadn't the word got around as to where the elusive speckles were to be found.

But don't bank too much on the rainbows being available before the 1st of March roll around. As was said, there is the possibility but authentic information from governmental sources says nothing is definitive yet.

Wild Brawl In Montreal

Hawks Whip Marlies

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A few weeks ago it would have been almost ridiculous to suggest Montreal Junior Canadiens could catch Toronto Marlboros in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series standings. But now it doesn't appear to be such an impossible task.

The Canadiens, who not too long ago were trailing the Marlboros by 15 points, Sunday pulled within five points of the league - leading Marlboros by walloping Kitchener Rangers 10-4.

Toronto didn't help its own cause by dropping a 5-2 decision to the surging St. Catharines Black Hawks. For the Black Hawks it was their ninth straight game without a loss.

The only other scheduled affair of the weekend saw the sixth - place Oshawa Generals spectacularly shatter Hamilton's hopes of gaining a playoff berth by shading the Red Wings 6-5.

A wild brawl broke out in the third period in Montreal that involved 13 players and resulted in 100 minutes in penalties including game - misconducts to Montreal's Bob Lemieux and Kitchener's Bob Jones and Randy Legge.

Montreal's Yvan Cournoyer, who has been dividing his time between the Junior Canadiens and the National Hockey League parent club, registered his 50th goal of the season. Saturday night Cournoyer chipped in a pair of goals as the NHL Canadiens dumped Detroit Red Wings 9-3.

Andre Boudrias, the league's top scorer, and Rene Drolet also fired two goals each. The others were divided among Serge Savard, Mike Hyndman, Christian Bordeleau and Bob Charlebois. Terry Pahey had a pair for the Rangers while Tommy Miller and Gord Kendall negleaser had one each.

Chuck Kelly paced the Black Hawks with a two-goal effort on home ice. Single goals went to captain Fred Stanfield, Joe Kish and Brian McDonald. Ron Ellis and Brit Selby counted for the visitors.

Wayne Cashman and George Vail showed the way for the Generals, in Hamilton, each clicking for a pair of goals. Bill Little and Ron Buchanan fired one each. Hamilton marksmen were Real Lemieux, Fred Speck, Peter Loveless, Sandy Snow and John DeDiana.

Mikita Gets Four In Two Games ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Habs' Rousseau Explodes For 5 Goals

By MARVEN ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Apart from Stan Mikita, Bobby Hull and one or two others, no one performing with Chicago Black Hawks is doing much with the puck these days.

They had Hull mumbled in the National Hockey League's weekend play. But Mikita's production helped give the Hawks back a share of the No. 1 spot in the standings.

Bellicose Stan supplied a pair of two-goal games and Chicago clipped the Bruins 5-2 in Boston Sunday night after riding Mikita's wrath to a 3-3 tie with the Rangers in a Saturday afternoon game at New York.

Red Sullivan's Rangers, the rags of the league at the moment, bounded ahead of the slump-ridden Detroit Red Wings meanwhile by upending Montreal Canadiens 4-3 at home Sunday night.

A five-goal binge by lithe Bobby Rousseau—the most remarkable scoring feat by one man in the season—enmarked a 9-3 thrashing the Canadiens gave the Red Wings in Montreal Saturday night.

In other games, the Red Wings salvaged a 3-3 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs in Detroit Sunday night and the Leafs creamed the Bruins 5-1 in Toronto Saturday night.

HAWKS, HABS TIED

The Hawks slipped into a 60-point tie with Montreal Canadiens although Montreal has a game in hand—with the win before a full house of 13,909 in Boston.

Mikita's two goals—added to his pair Saturday—gave him 29 for the season, second only to Hull's 33 in the league listings.

With 155 goals, the Black Hawks have produced more than anyone else around the league. The firepower is concentrated in Mikita, Hull, Ken Wharram (25) and Red Hay (17). Together they have accounted for more than two-thirds of the teams aggregate.

HENRY INJURED

But the Rangers lost 24-goal man Henry when bowling over the Canadiens Sunday night. Both games at Madison Square Garden drew sellout crowds of 15,925.

Henry was reported to have suffered an inflamed vein in his left thigh and there was no indication how long he would be sidelined.

Rod Gilbert, Earl Ingarfield, Hadfield and Don Marshall, the one-time Canadien, scored to push the Rangers into fourth place in the standings ahead of the Red Wings. It was New York's tenth win against three setbacks and a pair of ties since the 20th of Dec.

That's the hottest mark around the league.

It was goal No. 20 for Gilbert and carried him to a personal bonus level.

Rousseau's five goals before a crowd of 14,853 Saturday night was a feat no one has been able to perform since his teammate Bernie Geoffrion turned the trick in 1955.

The NHL's all-time record is seven goals—set by Joe Malone of the old Quebec Bulldogs in 1920—and the modern mark is six—pumped in by Detroit's Syd Howe in 1944.

Rousseau, the NHL's prize rookie two seasons ago, counted his fifth on slapshots, once on a breakaway capped by an artistic bit of stickwork and rounded things off with a freakish scoring payoff from a corner passout.

WEIRD DEFENCE WEAK

The goaltending by Detroit's young Roger Crozier was perhaps just as sharp as it might have been. But Crozier—who alternates with Terry Sawchuk—could not be faulted entirely. His defence gave him miserly support.

Yvan Cournoyer, a junior farm hand winding up a five-game stint with the Canadiens, clicked for two goals and Billy Hicks and Gillies Tremblay added one each. Henri Richard meanwhile piled up five assists.

Detroit's young centre Eddie Joyal and Montreal's journeyman defenceman Jean-Guy Talbot were both injured. Joyal's left wrist snapped in two places when he was checked and he is expected to play no more this season. Talbot suffered a severe charley horse and it's not known how long he'll be out.

Before 14,631 fans in Detroit, the Red Wings twice battled back after being down a goal to lead Toronto even after Mac Donald and Ullman got their goals while Frank Mahovlich and Dave Keon scored for the Leafs. It was Mahovlich's 19th goal of the season.

Sawchuk was back in Detroit's net and he made 23 stops, 19 fewer than Toronto's Johnny Bower.

Bob Pulford scored twice and picked up an assist in leading the Leafs to victory. Keon also won before a crowd of 14,255. George Armstrong, Dave Stewart and Billy Harris shared the other Toronto scoring and Bob Nevin helped set up three goals.

For the Bruins, it was Dornhoefer who averted the shutout.

The league's quiet night Wednesday night when the schedule tosses the Canadiens against the Maple Leafs in Toronto and Bruins against the Rangers in New York and the Red Wings against the Black Hawks in Chicago.

The Big Seven

Stan Mikita bounded five points ahead of his teammate Bobby Hull in the National Hockey League scoring race following competition with a pair of two-goal games in weekend play.

That gave Mikita 29 goals for the season and 67 points.

Montreal's Jean Beliveau picked up only a single assist but held third spot with 66 points.

Andy Bathgate of New York was good for three assists and raised his total to 51 points in fourth place. That includes a share of the leadership in the sists—at 38—with Mikita and Beliveau.

The leaders:

Dutch Girl Wins; Petra Is Third

By ROD CURRIE

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Olympic champion Sjoukje Dijkstra, a blonde charmer from the Netherlands who now spends most of her time in England, has demonstrated emphatically that she is undisputed queen of women's amateur figure skating.

At the same time, Petra Burka of Toronto, another Dutch-born girl who now skates for Canada, has firmly established herself as one of the princesses of the sport.

Regina Heitzer, a 19-year-old from Austria, finished second—but she barely made it on the basis of superior school figures. Miss Burka's dramatic bid to overtake the Austrian failed by only 5.3 points.

For Miss Burka, a 17-year-old Toronto high school student and the reigning Canadian champion, the failure to grab the silver medal was no disappointment.

IS FIRST SINCE 1948

Her bronze medal—only the second medal for Canada in this Olympic event, when the first was won by Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa when she took the championship in 1948—is no more than she had expected anyway.

"I couldn't have asked for more," she said as she collected her medal Sunday night in the Olympic ice stadium where Queen Juliana of The Netherlands was among the capacity crowd of 11,000.

"When I left Canada, I didn't expect to take any medals.

"But after I placed third in school figures, I realized I had a chance and from then on I just concentrated on keeping my place."

Miss Dijkstra had compiled such a commanding lead with her five compulsory figures, which count for 60 per cent of the total markings, that neither Miss Heitzer nor Miss Burka had any hope of catching her.

WAR CLOUDS

But Miss Burka was only 24.6 points behind the Austrian after the figures, which is a Canadian skater's reputation is not high. She outskated Miss Heitzer in free skating with a strong performance, but her margin was not quite enough for second place.

"I wasn't worried about moving up to a silver medal," Petra said. "I was just worried about someone moving up to the bronze."

In the future, however, it will be a different story.

From now on, she said, she will be shooting for the gold medal at the 1968 Winter Olympics in France.

Miss Dijkstra, like Miss Burka a native of Amsterdam, now does her training in London where she has spent the last year to take advantage of rinks and coaching there.

Eight years of hard work were culminated in her victory Sunday night as she added the Olympic title to two world titles and five European crowns she has collected since 1959.

She had a perfect ordinal placement score of nine and received 2,081.5 total points from the nine judges to take the Olympic crown on her second try. She was second to Carol Heiss of the United States in finally that she is undisputed queen of women's amateur figure skating.

At the same time, Petra Burka of Toronto, another Dutch-born girl who now skates for Canada, has firmly established herself as one of the princesses of the sport.

The 22-year-old Miss Dijkstra won the women's figure skating gold medal at the ninth Winter Olympics Sunday night, placing far ahead of the field 1 nthe dictative free skating as she had done in the earlier compulsory figures.

Regina Heitzer, a 19-year-old from Austria, finished second—but she barely made it on the basis of superior school figures. Miss Burka's dramatic bid to overtake the Austrian failed by only 5.3 points.

Boosts Soviet Total To 14

Russian Girl Wins Fourth Gold Medal

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP) — The ninth Winter Olympic Games hit the halfway mark in its 12-day program today, leaving behind a history-making weekend in which the girls stole the limelight.

Here's how the girls did it:

1. Lidia Skoblikova, the Soviet Union's speedskating sensation, took her fourth gold medal of the Games when she won the women's 3,000-metre skate Sunday to complete a sweep unprecedented in Winter Olympics history.

The 24-year-old Siberian school teacher won the 1,500-metre race Saturday in record-breaking time and she took the 500- and 1,500-metre skates before that.

2. Christine and Marielle Goitschel of France finished first and second in the women's slalom ski race Saturday, becoming the first sisters ever to place one-two in a Winter Olympics event.

3. Willie Queen Juliana of The Netherlands and 11,000 others watched Sunday night, Sjoukje Dijkstra became the first Dutch girl to win the women's figure-skating gold medal.

BACK TO CONTINENT

Her victory returned the Olympic championship to the Continent for the first time since Norway's Sonja Henie won her third Olympic crown in 1936.

Canada fared well in only two of the eight weekend finals — 4nd did best in the women's figure skating.

There, Petra Burka of Toronto, 17-year-old Dutch-born girl who two weeks ago captured the Canadian championship, won a bronze medal as she finished third—barely missing the silver place silver medal as she outskated everyone except Miss Dijkstra in freeskating.

Regine Heitzer of Austria, superior in compulsory figures, took the silver medal by a 0.2 point margin over Miss Burka, who became only the second Canadian to win a medal in women's figure skating at the Olympics. Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa was the first—she won the gold in 1948.

Second-best Canadian showing of the weekend was made by bobsledders Vic Emery of Montreal and Peter Kirby of St. Jovite, Que., who gave their country a fourth place in the two-man bobsled where Canada was making its first bid in Olympic competition.

BRITAIN'S FIRST MEDAL

Tony Nash and Robin Dixon of Britain, won the bobsled gold medal, giving their country its first medal of any kind at the Winter Games since 1953 when Jeannette Altwegg won the women's figure skating.

Italy's two favored two-man bobsled crews, Sergio Zagilio and Romano Bonagura in one and Eugenio Monti and Sergio Siorpaes in the other, took the silver and bronze medals, respectively.

In Saturday's other final, three Soviet women placed 1-2-3 in the women's 5-kilometre (3.3-mile) cross-country ski race, with Claudia Boyarskikh, another 24-year-old teacher, winning the gold.

Zero Maentyranta, Finnish cartoonist inspector won the 30-kilometre w)(18.6mile) men's cross-country ski race earlier, gave the men's side its first double winner Sunday.

The 24-year-old wisplander sped to victory in the men's 15-kilometre cross-country and now stands a chance to become a triple gold medallist. He is favored in Wednesday's 50-kilometre (30¼-mile) cross-country.

HOPES DASHED

Austria's hopes for a triple champion in men's skiing were dashed Sunday when Egon Zimmermann, the double downhill champion, fell and broke a ski in the men's giant slalom.

Francois Bonlieu, 27, a Frenchman who had consistently fallen in the two previous Winter Olympic ski events, sped down the 73-gate, 1,500-metre course in Lizum Valley Sunday for the giant slalom gold medal. Austria's Karl Schranz and Pepi Stiegler finished second and third, respectively.

Mrs. Skoblikova's fantastic sweep of the speed-skating events helped Russia boost its medal total to 14—six gold, four silver and four bronze.

Finland was next best with five—three gold, one silver and one bronze. France had two golds and two silvers, Austria a gold, two silvers and a bronze.

TWO FOR CANADA

Canada had two bronze medals—the other one won by Guy Revell of Newmarket, Ont., and Debbie Wilkes of Unionville, Ont., in pairs figure skating.

The United States, whose 100-member team is the biggest here, had only one bronze—won by Jeannie Saubert in the women's slalom Saturday.

In the unofficial team standings, the Soviet Union had a whopping 103½ points after 12 of the 34 championships had been decided. Finland had 48, based on the traditional 10-5-4-3-2-1 scoring system for the first six places in each final. Canada was ninth with 11 points.

Mrs. Skoblikova set an Olympic record in the 1,000-metre speed skating Saturday as she finished in one minute 33.2 seconds. She broke the record by a second off the previous mark.

International Bonspiel

Quebec Rink Has Grand Slam

QUEBEC (CP) — Strategy paid off for Robert Lahaie Saturday, as he skipped his Capde-la-Madeleine, Que., rink to a grand slam in the Quebec International Bonspiel.

Holding a comfortable 9-6 lead after 10 ends of the 12-end final for the Lieutenant-Governor's Trophy, Lahaie deliberately let Don Schiefer of Montreal's at the 11th end. Sailing d'Urfe Curling Club take one on the 11th end.

The move enabled the former Quebec champion to come home safely with last rock and a 9-7 lead in the final end. His picked up one more and won the event 10-7.

The Lieutenant - Governor's prize gave Lahaie a sweep of the bonspiel, winning three major events in 11 straight victories without a loss. Earlier, he had captured the Francois Jobin Trophy and the grand aggregate.

DECIDE 7 EVENTS

Seven other events were decided Saturday with Ontario picking up three prizes, Nova Scotia two, Quebec one and the United States one.

W. B. White of Oshawa swamped Allan Gillingham of Bridgewater, N.S., 10-3 to take the Industrial Acceptance Trophy, R. Whitaker of Farnham, Que., beat MacPendley of Barrie, 13-8 to win the Goodwill Shield and Frederick Neil Schaefer captured the Weymand Shield with an 11-6 trouncing of Quebec's Jean Lapointe.

Jake Creighton of Dartmouth and H. S. Fulton of Lunenburg brought trophies home to Nova Scotia. Creighton beat Ivan Pequet Trophy by walloping Orville Hatfield, Eric Inoma, Calgary 61st; Martti Rautio, Long Lac, Ont., 65th.

Men's giant slalom skiing: Peter Duncan, Mont Tremblant, Que., 30th; Barry Ballantine, Agathe, Que., 30th; Garry Battistella, Kimberley, B.C., disqualified for gate fault; Rod Hebron, Vancouver, fell and did not finish.

'Hockey: Canada 4 Germany 2

Racks Up Three-String Over 1,000

Jack Canning became the first Belleville bowler to rack up a three-string of over 1,000 this season in Classic League play Friday night.

Canning had a three-game total of 1001, the same score that Lin McKenzie had for last year's lone 1,000 triple.

Canning had a 401 first game then followed with a 300 and then 371. His 401 single made him the fourth person this season to replace a 400 mark. Others has three of those (405, 405, and 418), Marg Faulkner (410) and Leo Lacelica (400).

Spurs Lose To Chelsea, Retain Lead

LONDON (Reuters) — Tottenham Hotspur, leaders of the first division in the English Soccer League, were shaken Saturday by their London neighbors Chelsea, who beat them 2-1 at home.

It was the second time in less than a month Chelsea has upset Spurs. They knocked them out of the English Football Association Cup Jan. 8.

In spite of their defeat, Spurs have a three-point lead at the head of the division. Blackburn Rovers, their nearest challengers, were beaten 3-1 by Stoke City.

Blackburn was well beaten at Stoke City, without their famous veteran Stanley Matthews. Matthews, who celebrated his 40th birthday Saturday, has a throat infection.

Spurs have 39 points, and Liverpool, 6-1 winner against Sheffield United, now is in second place with 36. Blackburn is third with 35.

LOOKS STRONG

Manchester United looks like it was making a late challenge for the title. It now is in fourth spot, with 34 points after picking up a valuable two points against the Arsenal with a 3-1 win.

In the second division Sunderland took over the leadership from Leeds United with a magnificent 6-0 win over Swindon Town.

Marlins Bow To Carabins Redmen Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Montreal Carabins took over sole possession of third place in the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League by defeating the first-place McMaster University Marlins 7-4 at Dundas, Ont., Saturday.

In other action Saturday, McGill Redmen scored a lopsided 9-2 victory over University of Waterloo at Montreal.

The win by the Carabins ruined a bid for undisputed possession of top spot by McMaster, previously undefeated in seven games and tied with University of Toronto with five wins and one tie each.

Carabins are two points off the pace.

Jacobs Beats Demaret

Playoff Decides Golf Title

By BOB MYERS

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) Young Tommy Jacobs defeated the old master, Jimmy Demaret, in a "dramatic, sudden-death playoff Sunday that ended on the 92nd hole—after two extra holes—of the marathon $50,000 Palm Springs Golf Classic.

The 53-year-old Demaret, who rarely plays tournament golf anymore but who won a winning international fame when today's crop were mere kids, ended the regulation 90 holes deadlocked with the 28-year-old Jacobs at 353, seven shots under par. Demaret finished with a 71 and Jacobs a 70.

Playing the par 36-36—72 Eldorado Country Club course and battling most of the afternoon against a capricious sandstorm, Jacobs and Jacobs quickly went into the playoff with thousands of fans swarming around them.

At stake was the $7,500 top money, with $4,000 awaiting the runner-up.

The co-leaders going into the final day, San Diego's Bill Casper Jr. and Chuck Courtney, soared to a 77 and a 76 respectively.

It was Jacobs's second playoff victory in two years. He defeated Doug Ford in the San Diego Open in 1962.

Courtney and Bob Goalby, the latter with a 71, finished at 355 and Casper was grouped at 356 with Toronto's George Knudson, Bruce Devlin, Dave Marr and Charlie Sifford. Sifford had shared the lead for the first three rounds. All won $1,680.

Al Balding of Toronto had a 358 worth $667.50.

Jack Nicklaus finished with a 74 for 360, which was worth $333. Arnold Palmer, who never did recover from his first-round 78, had a 73 for 363, one shot out of the money.

Tangle With, Arrest Newsmen

Austrian Cops Good In Pinch

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP-AP) — Mike Sone, Vancouver newspaper reporter, was arrested Sunday and charged with disturbing the peace at the Olympic ice stadium here.

It was the latest in a series of incidents involving Olympic competitors, newspaper men and the Austrian police working at the sites of the games.

Sone, who has been writing for the Vancouver Province and Sun, accompanied the Canadian Olympic hockey team since it left Canada, was jailed for the night and was to appear in court today.

He was arrested following an incident in the ice stadium press box shortly after Canada had beaten Germany 4-3 in a championship - round Olympic hockey game.

Ushers had ordered a man sitting in the box unauthorized by his ticket to leave. Eventually police were called.

HIT POLICEMAN

The man swung a hard-covered writing-paper case and a policeman was hit in the face head.

Sone was arrested immediately.

Some of the incidents have brought Olympic officials to the point of considering formal protests and their anger continued to mount over the rough tactics of the Austrian police.

"We are getting so used to being shoved around that our motto is 'Smile and keep smiling'," said U.S. team manager Fred Castoli.

"It's disgusting the way everybody is being treated," said a British official.

Another incident involved a Canadian newspaperman of the British team and a photographer for The Associated Press, who were arrested.

The Britons scuffled with police Saturday night when they tried to get into the ice stadium to witness the awarding of the country's first gold medal since 1956. The British had hockey champions, Tony Nash and Robin Dixon.

The AP photographer, Hans Von Nolde, said he was knocked down by police while he was trying to photograph Francois Bonlieu of France, the winner of Sunday's giant slalom race. Von Nolde said when he protested about being knocked down, he was arrested.

AGREES TO FINE

He was released after agreeing to pay a fine.

Petra Burka Satisfied With Bronze

Eyes Gold Medal In 1968

By ROD CURRIE

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)— Petra Burka set her sights Sunday on a gold medal in women's figure skating at the 1968 Winter Olympics.

The 17 - year - old Dutch-born high school student from Toronto placed third Sunday in the 1964 Olympic championships, barely missing a second silver medal.

"I couldn't have asked for more," the young Canadian champion said after she had finished behind Sjoukje Dijkstra of The Netherlands and Regine Heitzer of Austria.

"When I left Canada, I didn't expect to take any medals.

"But after I placed third in school figures, I realized I had a chance and from then on I just concentrated on keeping my place."

Miss Burka had trailed Miss Heitzer by 24.6 points after the five compulsory school figures. When Sunday night's freeskating was over, she was only 2.6 points out of second place.

"I wasn't worried about moving up to a silver medal," she said. "I was just worried about someone moving up to the bronze."

From now on, she added, her goal will be the gold medal in 1968.

Petra's mother and coach Dutch-born Mrs. Ellen Burka, who was national champion of The Netherlands in 1946, said she was contented that Petra received a medal and did not get a higher one.

"Petra is still only 17. She has many good years of skating ahead of her."

There was cause for joy in another quarter of the Canadian skating camp Sunday, when Judge Dr. Suzanne Morrow Francis of Toronto, a veteran heckled by the crowds, won a decision from the chief referee.

Records Go At Boston

BOSTON (AP)—Sturdy Wendell Mottley of Yale rushed to an indoor 440-yard record and Villanova's brilliant relay team set an indoor two-mile mark Saturday night in the Boston A. A. Games.

Mottley, running in the fourth consecutive indoor hurdle victory and announced he plans to retire at the end of the season.

Mottley bolted through a 48-second quarter to shatter the mark of a second off the 23-year-old mark, while Villanova's relay quartet anchored by Noel Carroll, blazed to a 7:26.4 time, 4.4 better than the recognized mark by Kansas.

Most of the premier attractions were delayed or washed out by weather conditions which locked in Boston's Logan International Airport. They included dash man Bob Hayes of Florida A and M., middle distance man Bill Crothers and miler Eugen Lepa and Jim Irons, all of Toronto.

Shooting With a Young Tiger

By RICHARD ALDEN KNIGHT

He stands four feet, eight inches and has at steady a blue eyed gaze as I have ever encountered. His grin is sudden, like the coming of a tropic sunrise, and his conversation is sparse, completely out of character for his 11 years. His can not reach the pump fore-end of a trap gun, so he is forced to shoot an automatic shotgun. He has to spread his stance just to balance the weapon. His name is Frank "Bobby" Fincel and he is a shooting fool!

Young Bobby Fincel is a paradox in some respects. As I mentioned before, he is close-mouthed for a youngster, seldom saying much unless pressed. He and his tail, rangy father, Frank, were outside their unit, feeding and watering a pair of pointing dogs. After saying hallo, we went inside and talked about young Bob.

The boy first saw a gun when he was 3. Frank then started him potting a B.B. gun. At the age of 4, he was presented with a .410 and by the age of 5 he was shooting pheasant and duck.

Then, at the tender age of 9, he propped himself up on the firing line and walked off with the Iowa State Sub-Junior title in a few hours later, breaking a snappy 98X100 total.

MOVING UPWARD

Not satisfied with this achievement, he turned around and won the same honors at ages 10 and 11, breaking 99, 99 target to 4th. Then, feeling that he had matured to the point that big names did not bother him, he went to the Grand National, the big Roaring Grand out at Vandalia.

The Grand is the biggest, the best. Young Bobby kept banging away at targets, missing precious few and hitting a bunch. Doing this, he wound up with a 98X100 in a head and head tie with 15 others. On the next shoot-off he broke 50 straight to go into another tie with 11 others. In the next shoot-off, he finally emerged at dark finishing 7th in the overall standings. He would have finished 6th but he lost the flip of a coin. That, my friends, is some gunkiss!

The next day we piled into station wagons and went quail shooting. As we moved through the open fields and covers, he became evident that the birds were not out. There was a magic shining period due in later in the afternoon, so we headed back into the resting covers, where Bobby potshotted chuck-block with cat briars and whips. There we found birds, but we also found a fair amount of air around each quail as they took off. When we stopped for lunch, we had birds, but we had expended a fair amount of shells acquiring them.

GOOD GUN MANNERS

I watched Bobby in action out in the field. His gun manners were impeccable; but this is to be expected of a competitive shot of his stature. He moved through the woods patches with the natural skill of a fine bird hunter. Most important, when he popped that little-20 auto at 30 something over that gun barrel and it is coming down.

One point of the hunt stood out with me. We flushed a covey out of a roadside ditch, this the result of a lovely backed-up point from the pair of Fincel retching hounds. As the covey burst clear I swung on a cock single flaring out to my side. Just as I touched off my over and under, the bird crumpled right out of my charge. Pivoting, I swung on another only to have it drop before I squeezed off the shot. By now, the activity had died down and I turned to an apologetic young man.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Knight, I guess we were both shooting at the same bird."

So spoke the tiger, all 80 pounds of him. A grand boy!

But Brew Curlers Don't Like Our Style

Canny Scots Copy Canadians

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

KIRKCALDY, Scotland (CP) — Some Scottish curlers are carefully copying the Canadian style of play in hope of winning the Scotch Cup matches in Calgary in March.

But they don't like the Canadian style.

"We think it is uninteresting and encourages professionalism in the rink," said W. V. Beattie, vice-chairman of the Kirkcaldy Ice Rink Company.

"Most of the young players now coming in are trying to master the Canadian striking style," said Thomas Horne, general manager of the rink.

Beattie and Horne made clear to a visiting reporter that they don't expect their style of play will ever adopt the Canadian knockout system in preference to the traditional draw-and-guard style.

It's only because the spectacular striking game is so consistently the winner that the Scots feel it incumbent on them to modify their ways.

WINNER WILL GO

Kirkcaldy, Perth, Dundee, Glasgow, Ayre, Falkirk and Edinburgh will hold an elimination tournament March 3-4 at Edinburgh to select a representative for the Scotch Cup competition opening at Calgary March 9. Reginald Richardson this won last year's edition at Perth —which, incidentally, is the chief scene of Canadian-type play.

Scotland has never managed to win the Scotch Cup series of curling which brings together four teams—Sweden and the United States being the other two.

"I admit there is quite a lot of skill required in taking a stone by the Canadian method, but I feel more is needed our way," said Beattie.

This Fifeshire town of 53,000 has 800 curlers in its clubs, and a dedicated lot they are they were hard at it at 10 a.m. on a Saturday morning.

"We get them from age 25 to 90," said Horne, grinning happily.

Sailors Bow To Hornets, Oaks Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Hornets are on the move again and Woodstock Athletics will have to hustle to protect their four-point lead atop the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A standings.

A few weeks ago the Hornets were riding high with a comfortable lead. Then a pair of protests washed out two wins and Galt dropped back into third place. The Athletics snapped to life and ran away with first place.

But things have changed. The Hornets dumped Port Colborne Sailors 7-3 Sunday while the Athletics were being beaten 6-5 by Oakville Oaks. A win for Galt over Oakville tonight would cut the margin to two points.

The only other scheduled game tonight sees Wallard Burloaks stay two points back of Galt with a 6-3 triumph over Guelph Regals in Welland.

Gaels Slip Past Blues

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Windsor Lancers broke a three-way tie for top spot in the senior intercollegiate basketball league Saturday night, defeating University of Waterloo Warriors 107-81 at Windsor.

Queen's University Golden Gaels outpointed shorthanded Toronto Blues 72-68 at Kingston in the other Saturday fixture.

The win gave Lancers a 6-0 record in conference play and left Waterloo and University of Western Ontario Mustangs tied for second with a 5-1 win-loss record.

Lancers took an early lead and dominated the play throughout. Bernie Friesmuth paced the Lancers with 18 points, teammates Bill Brown and Angelo Mannchin got 16 each, Bob Horvath contributed 15 and Billy Hasset netted 14.

Centreman Jerry Raphael paced the losers and led all point getters with 28 points while Bob Pando contributed 18. Other high point getters were Dick Aldridge and Don Demko with 12 points each.

3 GOALS, OUCH

In the foul-riddled Queen's-Blues game, three Toronto players were fouled off and the Blues were forced to play the last four minutes of the game with four defenders.

Flags Win Pair Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Port Wayne Komets, with a 13-point lead appear to be home and cooled out as far as first place is concerned in the International Hockey League. But there is a dandy battle going on for second.

Port Huron Flags tightened things up considerably, emerging from weekend action as the lone two-game winner. Saturday the Flags bumped Muskegon Zephyrs 5-3 and then followed up with a Sunday 4-3 triumph over the league-leading Komets.

Port Huron's double win put them only one point back of the second - place Toledo Blades. The Blades managed a 3-3 overtime tie with Windsor Bulldogs Saturday but were drubbed 8-4 by Fort Wayne the previous day.

Chatham Maroons and Des Moines Oak Leafs rounded out weekend action with a win each on the latter's home ice. Chatham took Saturday's game 4-3 but the Oak Leafs surged back with a 5-2 victory Sunday.

Moira S.S. Wins Mat Meet

In a triangular wrestling meet held at Moira Secondary School both Monday and Belleville Collegiates fell before the wrestlers from the host school. Thirty-six matches were held during the afternoon as the schools competed in three interlocking dual meets. Team results were Moira 45, Lindsay 10; Moira 50, BCI 10; Lindsay 30, BCI 27.

Each boy in the competition wrestled two matches throughout the afternoon — one against each of the boys from the other schools in his weight class.

Jim Irwin was the only double winner for BCI. Single winners were Ray Pickall, Joe Maracle, Dave Storey, Brian Henry and Jerry Gregg while Sydney Vanderwilp gained a win and a tie.

The next meet for the Trojans will be tonight when they host Campbellford District High School and Trenton High School in another triangular meet.

Aces Lose Twice As Bisons Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was one of those backward weekends in the American Hockey League with Quebec Aces, the Eastern Division leaders, playing like second-raters and Buffalo Bisons, the Western Division tail-enders, performing just the opposite.

The Aces couldn't do anything right. Saturday they were victims of Hank Bassen's first shutout of the season, as Pittsburgh Hornets carved out a 5-0 win. Sunday they wound up on the short end of a 7-6 call against Rochester Americans.

The Bisons enjoyed a productive weekend, sweeping three of a possible four points. Saturday they drew 4-4 in overtime with Springfield Indians. Sunday they left no room for doubt with a 4-1 win over the Indians.

Other Sunday action saw Hershey Bears and Pittsburgh battle to a 2-2 overtime tie while Providence Reds dumped Cleveland Barons 5-3.

Saturday, Baltimore Clippers shaded Hershey 4-3 and Cleveland drubbed Rochester 6-2.

King of the Hill

Saylor rolled games of 300, 179-and 213 compared to challenger Leo Labelle's 224, 252 and 218.

Labelle topped the quality-ing round with a 1449 five-string, (278, 224, 275, 228 and 340). Harry DeSimone was second with 1314, Saylor was third with 1307 and Ron Elliott followed with 1271.

Games of 300 or better went to Saylor (347, 300, 318), Elliott (324, 313), Labelle (324, 228), DeBusbie (324).

Elliott came closest to the eight strikes in a row "pot of gold" by hitting for six consecutive.

Knights Split With Braves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Omaha Knights are so accustomed to winning almost every time out it must have come as somewhat of a surprise when all they could manage was a split against St. Louis Braves in Central Professional Hockey League action over the week-end.

The Knights, with a 13-point lead over St. Louis, wound up on the short end of a 5-4 decision Saturday night. They snapped back into form Sunday, jumping the Braves 5-3.

Meanwhile, St. Paul Rangers cut loose with their highest output of the season, routing Cincinnati Wings 10-4 on home ice Sunday.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

By GORDIE HOWE

From the standpoint of patrolling my own blueline, I had an exemplary player. I like to wander which is bad. They used to worry about my wandering. I wander more when I'm feeling good, when I want to skate.

The Lake Shore player, once the Red Wing's Chief scout, helped me. He told me to draw an imaginary line 10, 15 or 20 feet from the right boards, the length of the ice and never get out of there.

It was the night of a game in Cleveland. I scored two goals. If I hadn't been playing good positional hockey that night I'd never have been the passes. After the game Jack Adams came in the dressing room and told me they were going to turn you pro.

I still wander, but basically, I try to stay on my side of the ice. Coming back up the ice when the other team has the puck, I try to pick up the left winger on the opposition.

However, if I have another fellow with me, a good shooting position, I'll pick him up and stay with him. I'll holler to the defence that I have him.

Then, when the puck comes out of our end, I try to stay down on the right side where I belong. Then, if my teammate is rushed he doesn't have to stop and take a puck. All he has to do is peak to see any part of me, my sweater, and just throw the puck over that way.

Other times, in coming back down the ice when the opposition has the puck, if I'm the only one coming back on a 2-on-2 break, I try to pick up the one who I figure to be the strongest man on the better scorer on the group and thus possibly cut down the odds against us.

For instance, if Bobby Hull broke out with a unit, I'd pick up Bobby. I'd try to stay with him and stop him from shooting.

If you pick up a man, it's important to stay with him. Then the defencemen can go to a man-to-man basis against the other two.

Question: Please give me information necessary for a trip to Mexico by car, as we will be leaving Belleville in the next few weeks. — Mr. A. C., Belleville.

Answer: You will need a Canadian passport, a Mexican tourist card, obtainable at the Mexican Consulate office, Carlton Street, Toronto, or at the Mexican Government border offices at the official points of entry into Mexico. The Trots

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Batteur and Curious Clover ran off with the honors in the split $50,000 Santa Margarita Handicap Saturday at Santa Anita Park, Arcadia, Calif.

The two-division race, for fillies and mares four years old and up, paid a gross of $45,900 for each division.

In the second division, Batteur was well-placed from the beginning. Under urging by Jockey Manuel Yzaza, she headed close to the leaders in the stretch, then moved up on the outside to take the lead, holding it against fast-closing Jalousie II.

Batteur's time for the 1¼ miles was 1:49 on a fast, clear track. She raced $6.40, $3.80 and $2.80. Jalousie II paid $4.80 and $3. Jazz Queen paid $3.20.

FORCES PACE

In the first half of the Mandarin 'cap, longshot Curious Clover, with Ken Church aboard, forced the pace from the beginning and moved up strongly on the outside entering the stretch. Curious Clover was drawing clear in the final stages.

Curious Clover's time was 1:48 4-5. She paid $21.20, $8.60 and $5. Hi Rated paid $8.80 and $4.60. Sentesta $4.40.

Space Station, owned by Mrs. Violet Stwart of Chicago, scored a neck victory over Bonny Johnny in the $15,000-added Burns Handicap, the first stakes event of the new Maryland turf season.

Space Station returned $6.30 and $2.80 and $2.40. Bonny Johnny paid $3.20 and $2.60, and Lansing Lane $3.20.

Ron Turcotte, of Grand Falls, N.B., who was second aboard Bonny Johnny, rode five winners. Turcotte took a commanding lead for top jockey honors in the meeting with 18.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Long shot bettors hit pay-dirt in the nearly record 9th Western Fair Raceway's Saturday night meet.

Then Eddie Hal, at 9-1 odds, won the second for $11.20 and a daily double of $1139.20 was posted. Eddie Hal is owned by Bev and Alex McDougall of Lambeth, and driven by Mr. McDougall.

Featured race of the day, the Invitation pace and trot, was won by Champ Mon, owned by William Harvey of Norwich. It was the trotter's first start of the year. The seven-year-old finished a neck ahead of Ellis Dell's Dusty Chief from Bedford. Third was Shirley Brooks, owned and driven by Hugh McLean of West Elgin. Champ Mon paid $10.20 to win and trotted the mile in 2:17 1-5.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new type of park for the strong of heart has been developed in the British Columbia interior.

It offers excellent sport fishing, unsurpassed scenery and an opportunity to canoe through a string of lakes and along the white waters of the Cariboo and Thompson rivers.

Bowron Lake Park is 90 miles southeast of Prince George and only a few miles from the historic gold rush centres of Wells and Bakerville.

A canoe trip around the park's 70 - mile rectangular chain of 12 lakes — recommended only for experienced canoeists—takes a week to 10 days.

The trip into the fisherman's and naturalist's paradise starts with the hardest work of the journey, a five-mile hike from the end of the road to Indian Point Lake. Conservationists say it will be eliminated when the road is extended.

Isaac Lake, the longest at 21 miles, has six camping spots on its shores and takes the canoeist into the southeast corner of the mountain wilderness.

TROUT AND WILDLIFE

The forest throughout the park is mainly spruce and balsam with some lodgepole pine on the western perimeter. Red cedar and hemlock are predominant along Isaac and Laneri lakes.

A noiseless canoe trip through the park allows trippers to see wildlife feeding along the waterways, and in season bears can be seen eating spawning sockeye salmon.

Kamloops trout inhabit all the lakes and streams, though Isaac and Indianpoint lakes offer the best fishing. Dolly Varden, lake trout, Rocky Mountain whitefish and kokanee provide sport and food for the voyageur.

Every view from Isaac Lake is of wild magnificent mountain scenery, said an official of the provincial department of conservation and recreation who has made the trip. Moose feeding along the shore or swimming across the lake are a common sight.

An experienced canoeist can run the first portage of Isaac Lake but it's a good idea to land at the outlet and study the water first, or even portage the equipment first and then run the canoe through the white water.

A portage around the 35-foot Isaac Falls is necessary to reach McLeary Lake. From there the trail follows the silt-laden Cariboo River to Laneri Lake.

Speed well in excess of the current is needed to assure steerage way and is a safety factor to avoid numerous sand bars and deadheads, the official said.

Scenery along Laneri Lake is spectacular but the shores offer fewer camping spots. Submerged deadheads in the narrows between Laneri and Sandy lakes are a constant hazard to boaters.

From Sandy Lake and its good camping places the canoeist follows a branch of the lake to Three Mile Creek. From there he travels up Babcock Lake where a handcar on a narrow gauge railway helps with the portage.

The lakes flow into meandering Bowron River and from there to Bowron Lake, the last leap in the navigation of the lake chain.

From here the visitor can board his float or land plane to return to civilization or stay at the lodges on Bowron Lake.

Andy Williams in Movies But It Cost Him $150,000

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Andy Williams is in the movies now and he says it's costing him $150,000.

In these days when you read about Elizabeth Taylor getting millions for Cleopatra, how does such a popular television and recording star as Williams lose money in making movies?

Williams is co-starred with Sandra Dee and Robert Goulet in I'd Rather be Rich. Andy sings in the picture while Goulet, star of Broadway's musical Camelot, does not.

"I'm getting good money for my part in the movie," explains Andy, "but I have to equate it with the concert and other dates I had to turn down.

"There's no other way to figure it. I'm losing $150,000 on the deal—but it's worth it.

"You can only be an international star in movies. So I had to try it. Ross Hunter's pictures make more consistently than any other producer, so I figure I'm lucky to make my debut with him."

Hunter is enthused about Williams.

"He's got a natural flair for light comedy," says the producer. "I noticed it on his television show so I decided to cast him as kind of a schnook comedian a la Tony Randall in the movie.

"After a few days, I figured he had romantic appeal also. So we changed the script so the audience won't really know who gets Sandra until the last reel.

Andy said this is not his first offer for the movies.

"I've had several good ones but I figured this is something that I can do well and I want to come off good in my first movie. Then later on, if I click, I can try the meatier stuff."

Telegrams by journalists addressed to newspapers and news organizations must also be submitted to the government censor.

What's My Line Commences 15th Year Sunday Evening

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — What's with My Line? began its 15th year on television Sunday night. That is a notable feat in an industry where programs age fast and die young.

On its anniversary, the show's panel failed to nail down the occupation of a man who runs a clinic on how to stop smoking. Identified with ease the libe of a young woman who races greyhounds, and were almost fooled by the mystery guest, comedian George Burns.

All this was familiar stuff to millions of viewers. What's My Line? is an institution.

The program maintains an air of slight formality and considerable style. Panelists Arlene Francis and Dorothy Kilgallen are usually pretty dressy. Host John Daly and panelist Bennett Cerf invariably wear dark suits and bow ties.

The program has violent ups and downs. It seems to be my lot inevitably to follow a show on a down night.

This evening, for instance, there was a staff prankster

PLAN ATTACK ON DIEF'S LEADERSHIP

Police Guns, Gas Break Up Negro Demonstration

Traffic Accident Fires 1,000 Students' Protest

By ED McCUSKER

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Policemen firing shotguns loaded with buckshot and using tear gas broke up a demonstration by about 1,000 Negroes Monday night.

The injury of a Negro pedestrian in a traffic accident set off two protests by Negroes, the first racial demonstrations in Mississippi's capital in more than six months. Most of the demonstrators were high school and college students.

Three Negroes received treatment for superficial buckshot wounds following the second flareup on the campus of Jackson State College, a Negro-supported all-Negro institution.

Police made no arrests. Last summer more than 1,000 were arrested here during a month of demonstrations climaxed by the assassination of a Negro leader.

Mamie Balard, 20, of Flora, Miss., a Jackson State coed, reported a fractured leg late Monday when she was struck by a car while crossing Lynch Street, a four-lane thoroughfare which cuts through the campus. Witnesses said the driver was a white person.

MOTORIST ARRESTED

Officers said later they had arrested the motorist, who was summoned for failure to yield to a pedestrian. Police declined to identify the motorist.

Small groups of students began to protest speeding on Lynch Street. As the crowd of protestors grew they began marching in the street, shouting and singing "freedom songs."

Many went to a college basketball game. After the game ended students and spectators streamed out of the gymnasium and the demonstration started again.

Charles Evers, Mississippi field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, walked among the shouting, singing students and urged them to disperse.

Denies Help Cut Because Grit Won

TORONTO (CP) — A Liberal member of the Ontario legislature was accused Monday of trying to make political capital out of the government's attempt to help the unemployment situation in Ontario.

Economics Minister Stanley Randall denied a statement by Eddie Sargent (L—Grey North) that politics was the reason for the government's decision to withdraw financial support from an Owen Sound knitting firm shortly after the Sept. 25 provincial election.

"I . . . wish to make it crystal clear that the decision to end government support of this plant was made solely on business grounds," Mr. Randall said.

The minister said Mr. Sargent, a former mayor of Owen Sound, has "demonstrated himself and his party with his statements last Friday.

This remark resulted in a ruling by Speaker Donald Morrow that Mr. Randall, also a new member of the legislature, was out of order when he began attacking Mr. Sargent.

The Speaker said the subject should have been brought up in the throne speech or budget debate.

LOANS WITHDRAWN

Last Friday, Mr. Sargent said Ontario Development Agency loans to the knitting firm—which had totalled $130,000 — were withdrawn the day after the provincial election.

He changed the day to Sept. 27 Monday but denied it was Oct. 22, the date given Monday by Mr. Randall.

Mr. Sargent defeated the Conservative candidate in the provincial election.

Mr. Randall said the firm was in debt for $175,000 on Sept. 30, 1963. It had $12,000 during September compared to sales of only $3,900 during the same month.

U. S. Navy Has Secret Satellite To Monitor Years of Quiet Sun

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy disclosed today it has secretly launched a satellite to monitor solar x-rays and transmit the information to 15 countries, including Canada, during the period called the Years of the Quiet Sun.

The satellite may help in eventual development of a system for predicting storms on the sun which bedevil some radio communications on earth and pose a threat to manned space flight.

The navy in its announcement didn't give details on the size of the spacecraft or when it was launched but indicated it was put into orbit riding piggyback on some other satellite.

Already, the navy scientists reported, the satellite has determined that the sun is fast approaching its "minimum of activity" in its 11-year cycle of sunspot activity.

This period of relative calm should last about two years, thus the 1964-1965 period was given the scientific designation of the International Years of the Quiet Sun.

The navy noted that the new spacecraft is the latest in a series of navy solar-monitoring satellites. Three others were launched in 1960, 1961 and 1963 but the navy said the newcomer is the "only active solar monitor in orbit."

The announcement added:

"The world scientific interest is accurate monitoring of solar radiation is evidenced by the fact that observatories in Argentina, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, England, France, Germany, Italy, Ireland, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands, Scotland and Sweden have prepared to utilize the continuous data transmissions from the navy's satellite."

PROTEST RACIAL IMBALANCE IN NEW YORK SCHOOLS — Placard-carrying pickets march in front of Seward Park High School on New York's lower East Side during boycott protesting the racial imbalance in the city's public school system, the nation's largest. (AP Wirephoto)

New York School Boycott Called Whoopee Success, Mostly Fizzle

NEW YORK (CP) — A "Whoopee success," said a leader of a boycott for full integration of New York City's schools. "Mostly a fizzle," said the school board president. Both were talking about the 464,362 pupils who stayed away from school for one day Monday.

President James H. Donovan of the board of education said: "All it did was furnish an excuse for kids to stay out . . ."

Normally, 100,000 of the city's 1,000,000 public school pupils stay home each day anyway because of illness or other reasons.

Among the 63,000 public school teachers in the school system, 3,537—three times more than normal—also were absent. Some joined picket lines of Negroes, Puerto Ricans and others outside the schools. Children also marched on picket lines.

There are 3,753 Negro and Puerto Rican teachers in the system.

The absent teachers face penalties ranging from loss of one day's pay to possible dismissal for neglect of duty unless they can give valid reasons for being absent, board of education officials said.

Civil rights groups that spearheaded the boycott had said they would retaliate if the board punishes teachers with anything more than loss of a day's pay. They didn't say how.

Rev. Milton A. Galamison, chairman of the city-wide Committee for Integrated Schools, sponsor of the boycott, said Monday the committee would meet "within the next 24 hours" to discuss whether to hold another boycott.

The board last week offered a program to speed integration in some of the 163 predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican schools among the city's 863 public schools.

But Galamison and other civil rights leaders claimed the program was too limited and too slow and went ahead with the boycott.

Queen Mother's Trip to Australia, N.Z. Cancelled by Emergency Appendectomy

LONDON (CP) — The Queen Mother underwent a successful emergency appendectomy today which forced her to cancel a 30,000-mile trip to Australia and New Zealand via Canada.

Sir Arthur Porritt, the royal surgeon, said the operation on the 63-year-old mother of the Queen lasted about half hour.

"The Queen Mother is very well," he told reporters. "But she will not receive any visitors today."

She was to have left on the tour Friday, flying first to Montreal where Governor-General Vanier and Prime Minister Pearson were to have greeted her. Then she was to have flown on to the west coast, stopping briefly at Vancouver and spending a night at Victoria.

QUEEN ADVISED

Immediately after the operation the news was telephoned to the Duchess of Kent, Princess Alice and to Princess Margaret at Kensington Palace.

The following official bulletin was issued shortly after 10:30 a.m. London time:

"The operation for the removal of the appendix was performed on Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother at 9 a.m. today. Her Majesty's condition after the operation is satisfactory."

Sir Arthur Porritt, on her tour, the Queen Mother was to have travelled a 30,000 miles in seven weeks. She was scheduled to fly from Vancouver to Fiji to join the royal yacht Britannia, which the Queen placed at her mother's disposal for the tour.

The Queen Mother was to have spent two weeks in New Zealand and a month in Australia and was scheduled to return to Britain March 26 by way of Singapore and Karachi, Pakistan.

Elizabeth Taylor Hits Back At Moralists and Curious

TORONTO (CP)—The proud, beautiful film star was angry and defiant, claiming a right to peace and privacy.

"This violence is led by so-called righteous people who sit in judgment on others," Elizabeth Taylor said. "But truly righteous people have learned tolerance and practise it."

Hounded by fans and the press since her arrival here almost a week ago with Welsh actor Richard Burton, scorned and insulted by moralists, Miss Taylor came out of the seclusion of her hotel suite to defend herself.

In an interview—she said it will probably be the only one she will give while here with Burton who is rehearsing the lead role in Hamlet—Miss Taylor talked quietly until her relationship with Burton was mentioned.

"Richard and I love each other and we want to get married as soon as possible," she said defiantly. "I go where Richard goes. We want to be like other people and we don't enjoy being stared at. But there's nothing we can do about it now.

"When all this (the crowds and scandal) dies down, we'll probably get out more and see something of Toronto."

Reminded that the crowds will haunt her every time she visits a public appearance, Miss Taylor quietly replied: "Then I shan't go out at all. I'll stay in the suite."

It was one of her few appearances since her arrival here in Toronto. Apart from a visit to O'Keefe Centre to see the Italian musical Rugantino, Miss Taylor and Burton have spent most of their time inside their hotel suite.

Wishfully, Miss Taylor recalled the quiet, sunny days she and Burton spent in Mexico during filming of the movie Night of the Iguana.

"Mexico was marvellous," she said. "We were accepted and could walk around in our bare feet and take the children for picnics on the beach and no one cared. We were just people. Now we have only each other. We need each other and we'll see it through together."

PC Students Oppose Lower Age for Voting

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservative Students Federation went on record Monday against any move to lower the voting age to 18 from 21. Although many of its members are under 21.

In a surprise development, delegates defeated by a vote of 61 to 54 a resolution advocating the lower voting age which had been recommended by the resolutions committee.

(The Commons elections committee recommended last session that 18 be the new voting age and Parliament will be asked to pass the necessary amendment to the Canada Elections Act at the session opening Feb. 18.)

Tariff Talks Vital

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson, underlining the importance of international trade negotiations opening this spring, said Monday a topflight public servant will be named soon to lead Canada's negotiating team.

"The best and most experienced man we can secure" would be appointed for the Kennedy Round of tariff negotiations under GATT—the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade —opening at Geneva in early May.

He also told a press conference that a 112-nation United Nations trade and development conference at Geneva, starting March 23, "might turn out to be a very important meeting."

"It is obvious this conference could be a turning point, in the sense there will be an effort made by the new countries in Africa and other developing countries to influence the older trading countries to work toward new trading principles."

MEETS NEW CABINET

The prime minister spoke to the press conference following a two-hour meeting of his revamped cabinet which discussed the government's legislative program for the new parliamentary session opening Feb. 18.

A few hours earlier, three new ministers were sworn into the cabinet and six existing ministers changed portfolios, completing the cabinet shuffle announced Jan. 25.

In speaking to reporters, Mr. Pearson appeared to indicate

Fisher Claims Bilingualism Over-Stressed

OTTAWA (CP) — Douglas Fisher, member of Parliament for Port Arthur, said Monday night that the advantages of being bilingual are overriding other qualifications for civil service jobs.

He made the statement during a debate at neighboring the Liberal convention on the subject of bilingualism.

Mr. Fisher said he knew of one case in which a unilingual "leap-frogged" over 10 or 12 others in the civil service just because he was bilingual. Yet the man lacked important academic and scientific qualifications.

"French-speaking Canadians have deliberately set out to protect themselves and their society . . . yet we must remember they made the decision to isolate themselves, not us."

Rockcliffe Rover Denis Coulcan said French should be taught as a living language and should be used to teach other subjects.

Party Opponents May Launch Blast From Floor

Leader Keeps Timing Of Address in Dark

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—It's D-Day for John Diefenbaker's opponents within the Conservative party.

An attack on the former prime minister's party leadership was expected to develop at the annual meeting of the Progressive Conservative Association.

Late Monday night the timing of the challenge still was uncertain but it seemed likely it would be made from the floor when the resolutions committee presents its report in mid-afternoon.

Adding to the suspense, Mr. Diefenbaker's closest aides said the 58-year-old leader had not decided the timing for his address to today's party gathering. Earlier, it had been expected that Mr. Diefenbaker would speak in defence of his leadership at the general morning session due to begin at 11 a.m.

The senior Conservative organization opened its meeting Monday night following a day meeting of the women's group.

MISSED MEETING

Mr. Diefenbaker did not attend the 90-minute night gathering at which five reports were read by heads of various party organizations.

Earlier, Mr. Diefenbaker received a warm welcome from the women's association and responded with the hardest-hitting speech he had made since the party sessions began during the weekend with gatherings of the Young PC Association and the student federation.

He told the women he has one ambition, to return to office as prime minister and—as he put it—restore a sense of purpose to government.

Mr. Diefenbaker devoted most of his speech to an attack on the Liberal government. He said Liberal policy is a combination of economic idiocy and political timidity and accused the government of increasing inflation.

MEETING QUIET

There wasn't even a bint of fireworks at the night meeting which drew 800 delegates into the main ballroom of the Chateau Laurier Hotel. A 250-seat overflow hall was provided but

Trustees Must OK Contracts

MONTREAL (CP) — Federal maritime trustees issued orders Monday to the five unions under their administration saying new labor contracts cannot be signed with shippers without prior approval by the trustees.

The trustees said in a statement the unions to nominate members from which an advisory council of seamen will be established. The trustees requested shippers to establish a comparable body last December and hold their first meeting in mid-January with the management group selected.

The trustees said in a statement the unions—which previously bargained on their own will—refused to formulate their contract demands but will require approval by the trustees before signing any contract.

The major contracts between the shippers and both the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Int.) and the Canadian Maritime Union (CLC) expire at the end of March.

The SIU, largest of the five unions under trustees control, has informed the board that its contracts with shippers could be opened this spring but that no decision to do so has been reached, the statement said.

SIU MEETS

The SIU is holding meetings this week in Toronto to decide whether to open its contracts.

The statement said the trustees will have to be represented in many negotiations "in order to provide sound advice" and should, therefore, be kept informed about the time and place of negotiations and "progress with the management bodies directly concerned."

The unions were advised to "see that this information is frequently provided."

The seamen's council, it said, is designed "to create a more uniform approach to the problems of the industry and the relationship between Canadian Great Lakes and coastal seamen on one hand and management on the other."

Hull Man Tells Court at Ottawa He Planned Break-in With Police

OTTAWA (CP)—A South Hull, Que., man sentenced last December to three years in penitentiary for housebreaking testified Monday that he had planned the break-in with Ottawa police.

Royal Bard, 33, also said that he had been assured that he would not be charged in connection with the crime.

When Bard's lawyer, Dan Chilcott, asked him who had given him this assurance, Assistant Crown Attorney William Greene objected, saying the answer was not relevant.

At this point Magistrate L. A. Sherwood adjourned the preliminary hearing of Jean-Guy Gaudon, 30, of Ottawa until March 10 on a resolution advocating the lower voting age which had been recommended by the resolutions committee.

"Legal points are rising so fast that I can't find an answer to them," the magistrate said.

When Bard was convicted of the housebreaking charge, 30-year-old Magistrate Joachim Sauvé that he had planned the crime with Ottawa detectives in order to set a trap for Guindon and Lemieux. Bard's conviction now is under appeal and he is free on bail.

Detective Inspector Borden Hobbs, were suspended by the police commissioner until the matter was investigated by former Ontario police commissioner, magistrate chairman W. H. Clarke.

The detectives were reinstated when charges against them after it received the Clarke report. However, the report itself was not made public.

Mr. Achbar told the hearing that he had been informed by police that his home would be broken into while he took a Florida vacation.

When Mr. Chilcott tried to question Mr. Achbar on this point there was a shout of laughter from the Clarke observers on the grounds that the Clarke report was privileged.

At one point Magistrate Sherwood said "there is some evil intent here was some sort of a trap."

Gananoque Represents District In Women's Tankard Zone Finals

Gananoque rinks will represent the Quinte district in the Ontario Women's Tankard zone finals at the Toronto Cricket Club on March 3rd.

In the district playdown finals played yesterday the Gananoque rinks won the double-match finals from Quinte Curling Club rinks by 23-12.

The doubles score decided both of the eventual winners after a Quinte rink skipped by Ena Corke was defeated 13-1 by a Gananoque rink skipped by Helen Wright.

In other play Anne Acton's Quinte rink shaded C. Dickson's Gananoque four by an 11-10 score.

Five district clubs were represented in the district playoffs. These included Kingston Curling Club, Trenton Curling Club, Trenton RCAF, Gananoque Curling Club and Quinte Curling Club.

The Ontario Women's Tankard finals will be played in Kingston next month.

Hospital Asked To Make Use Of City Dept.

The Belleville General Hospital will be invited to make use of the services of the city purchasing department with the view of obtaining better prices for many of its requirements.

At yesterday's meeting of city council Alderman Enos David suggested that the hospital board be approached on the matter, noting that with Ex-Mayor A. M. Haig now acting as treasurer of the board, the time might now be opportune to broach the subject.

Alderman David said that it had been the hope of Ex-Mayor Haig during his term of office that more city boards use the services of the city purchasing department.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds told council that Mr. Haig had already spoken to the hospital board on the matter.

Unemployment Down Since Year Ago

The continuance of many construction projects throughout the winter months has resulted in an easing of the unemployment problem particularly noticeable in the jobs relating to the construction industry.

Mr. Cecil Hiuser, manager of the local employment agency states that as of the end of January there were 384 fewer unemployed than at the same date a year ago.

At the end of January there were 2109 persons registered for employment as compared with 2493 a year ago. This is a drop of 11 per cent.

And an active construction industry is accountable for almost all the decline in unemployed.

This year there are 436 construction laborers registered for jobs as compared with 675 a year ago. Carpenters are 79 men looking for jobs in Belleville as compared with 116 a year ago. 70 carpenters as compared with 106 and 10 plasterers as compared with 21 a year ago.

Truck drivers and heavy machine operators are also in better demand than a year ago.

This year there were 403 requests for laborers in January as compared with 314 a year ago, while there were 316 placements as compared with 254, or an increase of 24 per cent.

Applications for benefits by unemployed workers were correspondingly lower.

"Labor demand in construction projects is almost wholly responsible for the better picture," said Mr. Hiuser.

Ask Employers To Interview Course Grads

Approximately 20 persons taking the Program 5 retraining course on building maintenance will graduate on Feb. 14th at the Quinte Industrial School.

Local employers requiring such workers are invited by the National Employment Service office to arrange for interviews with the graduates.

This will be the first local test in the acceptance by employers of Program 5 trainees and we hope the result will be encouraging," said a spokesparts of the province," statman Cecil Hiuser, manager of the local employment office.

Mr. Hiuser said in other centres approximately 80 per cent of trainees in Program 5 courses have been successful in obtaining jobs.

Jerry McNea Heads RCAF Yacht Club

TRENTON — At a meeting in the social centre at RCAF Station Trenton on Saturday night, Jerry McNea was elected commodore of the RCAF Yacht Club. Other officers elected were Joe Bourgeois, captain; Grey Waddell, sailing chairman; John Trethowan, power chairman; Tony Leicester, training chairman; Bob Curran, boat maintenance; Wes Bailey, racing chairman; Wally Koziak, docks and moorings chairman.

Possible expansion of club facilities was discussed but no definite decision reached. A new schedule of club membership fees was decided upon, on with straight membership remaining the same, but a fee for sailing and using docking facilities being charged.

Recent winds damaged two NR 14 boats but this loss is covered by insurance, the club members learned Saturday night.

Kiwanis Key Club Marks Anniversary

TRENTON — With an excellent record of service to the community behind them, the members of the Trenton Kiwanis Key Club celebrated the first anniversary of the club's founding at a banquet in the Gilbert Hotel Friday night.

Charter members of the Key Aets and under his able direction the members undertook such tasks as canvassing for funds for various organizations, ushering at community concerts, providing the local theatre with sports equipment and donating a $100 bursary to the school.

New president is Robert Shoniker and already the club has made strides under his leadership.

Friday night, 14 new members were inducted and were told by Past-President Bob Clubbing means exactly what you want it to mean. Ask yourself if you are getting enough and if the answer is 'yes', that will be the answer of what a Key Club means to you."

Currently, the Key Club is attempting to raise money ($175) as a contribution to the building of six five-roomed schoolhouses in Guatemala. Seventy other Key Clubs in the Ontario - Quebec - Maritime district of Kiwanis are also contributing towards this project.

Credit Union To Receive Dividend

TRENTON — The members of St. Peter's Parish Credit Union were agreeably surprised Sunday night to be told by their president, Richard Descenes that they would receive a five per cent dividend on their shares and a 15 per cent interest rebate.

Forty eight members attended the annual meeting which saw two new persons elected to the board of directors, Stanley Klemencic and Mrs. Maria Rose.

Returned to the board for a fifth term was Martin Murphy. Mr. Murphy is a charter member of the 12 year old group.

Reginald Martin was elected to the credit committee and Jean McEneny elected for a two year term to the supervisory committee for a one-year term.

CNR Objects To Council 'Objection'

TRENTON — Canadian National Railway officials objected to town council's objection to CNR trainmen blowing the whistle when trains proceeding through the downtown area. The six crossings in the immediate downtown area are insufficiently protected, say the officials. If council wants to provide automatic warning systems as principle crossings and make the dead end streets at unimportant crossings, the whistling could be stopped.

Council has been on the verge of passing a by-law requesting CNR engineers to desist from whistling while proceeding through town. Even the form of the sample copy of the by-law sent by the CNR is "unsatisfactory," said the CNR officials in a letter to town council last night. The board of transport commissioners will be asked to make a proper form to the town and council will take it from there.

'Pet Control' Officer Hired

TRENTON — Mrs. Hilda Jones of Carrying Place Road was hired officially last night by Trenton council as "pet control officer". Before the councillors cast the deciding vote for the hiring bylaw, Councillor Edward Todd called town solicitor Roderick Campbell to his seat to ask when they returned, Mr. Campbell said that the by-law should make clear that Mrs. Jones is actually a "dog catcher." Mr. Campbell said Mrs. Jones proceeded to pick up stray cats, skunks, chickens, hawks, sheep, or what have you, she was doing so "on a per year" and this was not part and parcel of the official duties.

Mrs. Jones will receive $250 a month and a $50 per annum uniform allowance.

Public Works Gets Vehicles

TRENTON — Chairman of the public works', Joseph Gould, last night said that he had received permission from council to buy a one-ton truck, a half-ton truck and a car for use by his department. The larger truck will be used for such things as snow removal. The half ton will be used by the town foreman instead of his own car and the new car will be used by the surveying staff. Up to now, the foreman and the surveyors have been using their own cars to haul survey equipment and are objecting.

Permission was also given for Councillor Gould to have the department's foreman act as a town bulldozer. Mr. Gould said that it would be cheaper to have the man do the work than to send the bulldozer out-of-town for repair. Money from the 1963 budget will be used.

1964 Building Has Good Start

TRENTON — Building in Trenton was off to a good start for 1964 in January with 14 permits being issued from the office of building inspector William Anderson and the total value was at $119,295.

The list included permits for the erection of two apartment blocks, value, 381,440; one permit for a semi-detached, $12,000; two commercial repairs, $13,000; two garages, $2,655; two dwelling repairs, $600; one institutional repair, $1,000, and one garage, $1,200.

Permits were also issued for the installation of two new furnaces with a value is set on this type of work in the monthly report.

LIABLE TO FINE

TRENTON — Persons encouraging drainage from their roofs, ground water or seepage from weeping tiles to enter town sewers by hooking up a "y - it - yourself" connection with a sump pump are liable to a minimum fine of $25 from now on. And they will have the new sewer connection which Council passed a necessary bylaw last night making the practice an offence.

Would Purchase Land

TRENTON — Local realtor Thomas Rogers came before council last night with a request that he be given a chance to purchases land in east Trenton for industrial purposes. Mr. Rogers proposes to build an "industrial plaza." The lot he has in mind is situated just north of the Skillfoot plant and measures 184 x 331 feet. The plaza, he said, at first would be 18,000 feet square and individual units would contain from two to five thousand square feet.

Mr. Rogers told council he already had three small manufacturing firms interested in locating in his plaza. His request for an option to buy will be considered by the Industrial and Economic Development committee of council, headed up this year by Councillor C. V. Graham.

Asks for Bylaw

TRENTON — Mayor James MacDonald of Trenton asked at last night's council meeting that a bylaw be passed to keep private citizens to clear their sidewalks of snow, he rushed through the existing bylaw was passed in 1884, provides that offenders be "brought before the mayor." An alternative to an appearance before the chief magistrate is provided in the ancient bylaw and that is that offenders "appear before two justices of the peace."

Would Affect 20 Per Cent Population

TORONTO (CP)—Only about 20 per cent of the population would be immediately affected by measures to promote bilingual and bicultural, Jean-Luc Pepin, parliamentary secretary to Trade Minister Sharp, said Monday.

Federal politicians, particularly cabinet ministers, would be affected first, the member of Parliament for Ottawa-Carleton told the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and Canadian Business and Professional Men's Association.

Civil servants in Ottawa and French-Canadian press, university professors, priests and clergymen and businessmen working in Quebec would be affected next, he said.

He said he doesn't believe all Canadians should be given constitutional guarantees.

"Canada is a multi-cultural land and we might as well just pack up if we are going to be Polish - Canadians, German - Canadians and so on."

ASKS FOR DETAILS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia civil liberties association said Monday it has asked the federal government to give details of its plan to issue identity cards to all working Canadians. A letter to labor Minister MacEachen expressed concern that the registration plan would affect the rights of individuals to privacy and anonymity.

Soaring Education Costs Mark Board-Council Talk

Soaring education costs were the topic of talks at city hall yesterday as a delegation from the Bay of Quinte District High School Board met with city council to discuss future high school needs.

The meeting with the high school board was called in connection with the city's five year capital works program to be submitted to the Ontario Municipal Board.

Council has already tentatively approved its capital works budget program but is calling meetings with the various city boards and commissions before seeking O.M.B. approval.

Thursday meetings will be held with the public school board, the board of police commissioners and the Belleville General Hospital Board.

The district high school board is asking for an allotment of $2,200,000 for a new high school planned for construction next year.

But with the number of other commitments, including installation of services for development of an industrial area, and a new hospital extension, city council claims this cannot go this high.

Council cut the high school board request for $2,200,000 for a school to be built next year, to $1,200,000 for a school to be erected in 1966.

DEVELOPMENT IMPORTANT

"Development of the city as a whole is important," said City Manager J. R. Reynolds.

He said if the city did not get new industry, the high school board projection for school enrolment may be cut out of line and the asked, for school accommodation might actually not be required.

It means that the school boards may have to give a little and put up with a few inconveniences for the next couple of years, he said.

Mr. Reynolds said high school board representatives would be invited to go along with city officials when the capital works budget was presented to the OMB for approval.

Still on the question of education costs, city council at yesterday's meeting concurred in a resolution from the city of Welland requesting legislation to permit payment of high education grants to the municipalities.

Council took no action on a Niagara Falls resolution asking for legislation to permit municipalities to impose a room tax.

This type of tax applies to hotels and is quite popular in the United States, it was stated.

Council concurred in a Cornwall resolution asking revision of the Municipal Act to permit levying to raise money to pay expenses of promoting a municipality as a vacation centre.

Given Year For Passing Bad Cheques

A 30-year-old Belleville man was sentenced to reformatory for at least a year today for passing bad cheques.

Howard Dean was given a year definite and six months concurrent on six charges involving cheques totalling about $150.

He pleaded guilty before Magistrate T. Y. Wills Friday.

The sentence today was passed in Trenton, the remainder in Belleville.

A charge of car theft against Dean has not yet been disposed in court.

Sewer and Road Plan Referred Back to Dept.

A public works committee recommendation for construction of a sanitary sewer on Bridge Street East, from Parrott Drive to Haig Road, and for construction of a surface-dressed road in the same area, was referred back yesterday at city council.

Alderman Ross Bailey said the same condition existed here as was the case at Victoria Ave. Where the road was donated by the sub-divider.

"It seems to me that the city is being taken advantage of in this instance," noted Ald. Bailey, as he moved for the recommendation to be referred back for more considerations.

Also referred back was a recommendation for construction of a four-foot sidewalk on the east side of Sidney Street.

Council was unsure of the exact location of the proposed walk and asked for more specific wording of the recommendation.

Old-Timer Is Given Job Of Yukon's Publicity Man

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP) — The Yukon has sent an emissary to the southlands publicity man with a Rip Van Winkle beard and the pick-and-shovel credentials of a sourdough gold prospector.

Yukon Bud Fisher, an old-timer of uncertain vintage who has hired out to the Yukon department of travel and publicity, is making a personal appearance swing through 23 Canadian and U.S. cities.

Purpose, a 2½-month tour, which began in Vancouver Jan. 27, is to promote tourism in the north. The Yukon, with 19,000 people in 207,000 square miles, advertises itself as "Canada's uncluttered playground" but would like to clutter it a bit with tourists.

Yukon Bud has been a gold-seeker, hunter, businessman and cat-train operator—piloting a tractor that hauls supplies in winter over frozen lakes and rivers.

The travel department says that while his packsack and gold pan, his sheepskin vest and flowing beard make him a traffic - stopping attraction, there's more than just appearance.

It rates him a natural for television, radio and newspaper interviews because of "his intelligent and factual approach to promoting the Gold Rush country."

Before he gets back to White-horse April 6, Yukon Bud will have made appearances in Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Escondido, Calif., Phoenix, Santa Fe, Dallas, Tulsa, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Syracuse, Ottawa, Toronto, Cleveland, Chicago, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Edmonton.

Sightless Team Beats Kinettes In Bowl Games

Five sightless bowlers gave as many blindfolded members of the Belleville Kinette Club a lesson in five-pin kegling at the Bowl-O-Drom last night.

The match was held as an opening feature of "White Cane Week" being currently observed in the city.

The sightless people, four women and a man, rolled a two-match score of 358 to defeat the Kinette quintet who amassed a total count of 279 pins.

The matches were arranged by Clarence Morris, blind convenor of "White Cane Week" activities in the city and Trenton.

The Kinette bowlers included: Mrs. Rae Brain, 57; Mrs. Marlene Parks, 68; Mrs. Norma Bacon, 26; Mrs. Thelma Stefan, 88, and Mrs. Helen Hardy, 36.

Aldermen Protests City Fill on Private Land

For the third time in recent months the question of why city fill was being used to improve private property on Belleville's bay front was asked yesterday in city council.

Alderman Jack Allin said that thousands of loads of fill from road, sewer and other excavation work, were being dumped on the Morch property on the city's waterfront.

"It is highly irregular that city fill is being used to improve private property," he said.

The area in question borders the city land fill area east of the Bay Bridge Road where garbage is now being dumped. Alderman Allin said the by-law allowing city fill to be placed on private property should be reviewed or rescinded if necessary.

Mayor Jack Ellis said his recollection of the facts was that the fill was being placed to provide access to city owned property.

Later Ald. Allin said that placing all available garbage and fill on the city bay front would speed the day when the area east of Bay Bridge could be developed as a park.

With camping popularity on the increase, the bay front area could be developed as a visitors' trailer site, he said.

Council Gives Leave for Raffle But Many Held Without Asking

City council yesterday gave approval for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers entertainment club to hold raffles for charitable or religious purposes, but at the same time posed the question of what could be done about the many local organizations which sell raffle tickets illegally.

Under Section 179 of the Criminal Code, city councils are authorized to grant approval for holding of raffles for prizes of small value.

"Will this start a precedent?" asked Alderman Frank Murray.

Alderman Enos David admitted the B. of L. E. request was legal but said he was opposed to the idea. "It is just the thin edge of the wedge," he said.

Alderman Don Williams felt if this one request was granted council could be flooded with similar requests.

Alderman Don Joss was more worried about the many organizations said to be selling raffle tickets illegally and wondered what was being done to stop the sale.

NOT COUNCIL'S DUTY

Alderman Corke said, however, that it was not council's duty to police illegal sales of raffle tickets.

"These people (the B. of L.E.) are asking us to legalize something which is being done illegally by others.

Mayor Jack Ellis said he agreed it was not council's job to check for illegal sale of raffle tickets but said he would bring the matter before the city police commission.

Y's Activities

Every Monday and Wednesday from 5.30 to 7.00 p.m. a number of men meet at the YMCA gymnasium. Some come to exercise; some come to play volleyball and handball; some come for both exercise and games, but all come for fellowship and for having fun together.

Many people are in search of physical fitness and the art of healthful living can be carried into action through a fitness program at your YMCA.

The Y's way, among others, is the wise way.

Public Works Employees Seek Certification

Employees of the city public works department will ask for union certification before the Labor Board on February 11th, members of city council were advised yesterday.

Alderman Ben Corke told council that the city's personnel manager had been authorized to attend the meeting. The only exemptions to be asked by the city are that three works foremen be not admitted to union membership.

Dairy Princess, Deputy Minister Guest Speakers at Rotary Club

The Rotary Club of Belleville observed "Rural and Urban" week at its regular dinner meeting at the Quinte Hotel on Monday.

Present for the occasion was Ontario's Dairy Princess, Miss Margaret Boyko from Thessalon and guest speaker, Kenneth Lantz, assistant Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

Miss Boyko won the Dairy Princess competition in the Canadian National Exhibition last summer. She lives on a farm and is a grade 12 student. She spoke to the club on Monday morning on them how she became Dairy Princess and the advantages of being a Dairy Princess. Miss Boyko described her recent extensive tour of England, Ireland and Scotland.

Following Miss Boyko's remarks, Mr. Lantz addressed the Rotarians in opening he said, "not too long ago farming was just a way of life. People lived on the land and provided their own needs, but this has changed considerably today."

He went on to say that he was not so sure that there ever had been that a great difference between the "rural" and "urban" people, from a business point of view.

"The trend toward farming has grown," he stated, "and efficiency plays a big part in the agricultural field. But, just because efficiency is a big factor does not mean that a large farm will be more efficient than a small one."

Mr. Lantz said that there was only 10 per cent of the population of Canada and the United States at the farm level. He said that 20 years ago a farmer could feed himself and 10 others while today he was capable of feeding 26 others.

"Farming is part of a great complex, the speaker continued, and is no longer synonymous. About 40 per cent of Canada's labor force is connected in one way or another with agriculture".

Mr. Lantz stated that today farmers are spending 370 million dollars on feed, 85 million dollars on fertilizers and 245 million dollars on machinery, which is a total investment of about 13 billion dollars.

In closing the speaker said, "agriculture does not operate as an isolated industry. Instead it is a vital part of our great economic complex in this country."

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian R. Robson and thanked on behalf of the members by Rotarian H. Mott.

Cuba Will Base Economic Effort on Sugar Production

By JULIAN BATES

HAVANA (Reuters) — Cuba will base its economic effort on sugar production for the next three to five years, leaving industrial development in abeyance, say foreign trade ministry officials here.

Premier Fidel Castro and his economic advisers are counting on the world sugar shortage continuing for several years.

Rather than spread their resources by developing other industries in the island, under almost total trade embargo by the United States, they expect to finance increased manufactured imports from bigger sugar sales abroad.

Foreign trade ministry officials are seeking to broaden their range of trading partners outside the Communist bloc.

A formal agreement with Spain—providing for the sale of 100,000 tons of sugar in exchange for such manufactured goods as trucks, machinery and clothes—was announced recently.

An agreement with Japan is expected to be announced soon, and negotiations are under way with Britain.

LOOK TO CANADA

Cuba would also be interested in formal trade agreements with France and Canada, officials said.

Cuba's other traditional exports of tobacco and coffee will also be strengthened, though the coffee crop was badly hit last year.

October's hurricane Flora dealt a severe blow to the tobacco and sugar province of Oriente, and to a lesser extent to the neighboring province of Camaguey, the two areas of sugar-growing area. The extent of damage to canefields has not yet been fully determined.

However, the current coffee crop, grown on the hills of Sierra Maestra Oriente province, is unofficially reported to be at least, 50 per cent lost. The market-gardening area of northern Oriente was badly hurt.

Western diplomats here estimate the current sugar crop will run at about 3,500,000 tons, compared with the average 5,000,000 tons a year produced in pre-revolutionary days.

U. S. Election Is Barrier

Panamanian - U.S. differences probably will not be settled before the U.S. Presidential election, unless Panama and the U.S. can learn to trust each other, the Inter-American Peace Committee is discovering. And it is not likely the countries can learn to trust each other.

Panama will not trust the U.S. because Panama has had experience with the neo-colonialism of the U.S. in canal building days. It must be hard for Panamanians to forget that their country is the result of a cold-blooded U.S. financial-political manouvre, backed up by Teddy Roosevelt's "Great White Fleet." Columbia had refused to allow construction of the canal in the then-Columbian province of Panama so the U.S. fomented rebellion in the province and backed up the new country's independence with battleships. Panamanians must also remember that the terms under which the Canal Zone is controlled by the U.S. continue while the U.S. fleet was the only barrier between the new nation and the wrath of the former government.

The U.S. on the other hand, knows well that the history of Latin America is liberally strewn with broken promises and cast-off regimes.

The trouble this time seems to be that both Panama and the U.S. recognize as fact that the present treaty ceding control of the canal and the Canal Zone to the U.S. is intolerable. Panama wants this admitted by both sides and firm promises of re-negotiation put on paper before resumption of diplomatic relations. The U.S., with one eye on the coming presidential election, is willing to make the promise verbally but it offers only vage nothings in written form. Panama does not consider the word of the U.S. reliable.

It is unfortunate that the peace of the hemisphere must be threatened because the U.S. is reluctant to make a promise with an election in the offing. It is more unfortunate that the word of representatives of the U.S. is not considered good by the country's own allies. The situation exists, however, and it may serve as a warning to nations both east and west, in the future.

Fluorides LSD and Hashish

Birch Society members who see fluoridation of water as a communist plot to sap the vitality of the western world have suddenly been presented with a counter-weapon.

Dr. Huston Smith of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology says that LSD, a drug which produces hallucinations, can be used to induce religious experiences. And, as everybody knows, Karl Marx, the father of communism, said that religion was the opiate of the people. If the Reds sell us fluoridation, we can send them LSD.

Dr. Smith, addressing a University of Toronto audience, said that there is no real way of distinguishing between natural religious experiences and experiences induced by LSD.

He goes on to justify the use of the drug so that "qualified persons" can experience "a sudden and overwhelming comprehension of mysteries of the universe and a complete understanding of the relationship between man and what philosophers call 'the ultimate being,' which is variously termed God."

Some might regard the course Dr. Smith advocates as the gravest danger to religion since Marx called it an opiate.

The difference between a drug-induced "religious experience" and the sort of communist experiments which became known as "brainwashing" during the Korean War is somewhat difficult to detect, to the unbiased bystander.

The use of drugs to induce religious fervor is nothing new. There is, for instance, the story of the "Assassins" who got their name from being doped with hashish, or marijuana, which left them the illusion that they had spent a period in the Modern paradise, when they were really the guests of their murderous master and his slave girls.

But, to the best of our knowledge, this is the first time that a man of Dr. Smith's stature has urged the use of a drug as a key to the Kingdom of Heaven.

The terrifying characteristic of British society is that many of those who are supposed to be inferior have been brainwashed into believing that they actually are.—Anthony Wedgwood Benn, M.P.

The traditional reason why soldiers are precluded from wearing beards is that it is a convenient thing to get hold of if you want to cut someone's head off, and that occurs more rarely in ships.—Mr. R. T. Paget, British M.P.

Ottawa Offbeat
NDP Deputy Douglas Fisher Feared by Fretting Foes

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Down in the old Confederation Building which is the working headquarters of the Government's money-czar, Finance Minister Walter Gordon and his hand-picked crew of tax-and-spend experts are getting down to what the Commons calls the "estimates" stage of the Budget preparation.

And if they aren't looking over their shoulder for New Democratic Deputy Douglas Fisher, or have posted a guard at the door — they should have.

For like him or not — and even he would admit that some people definitely don't — you've got to hand the fast-rising Fisher his due as probably the most effective MP in all three "Splinter Groups," NDP, Socred and Creditiste, of the Opposition.

This is not merely a personal opinion, but rather the studied assessment of those hard-boiled old pros who ought to know — that little band of Liberal cabinet ministers, usually led by Transport Minister, J. W. (Jack) Pickersgill, who do the Government's political in-fighting in the continuous party war in the Commons.

Except for deadly old foeman, Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker, nobody in the Commons commands more grudging respect and often fear on the Government side of the House than the other hostile and sometimes offensive Fisher.

WAIT FOR THE KILL

From the very outset back in the 1957 election, he came to the Capital with the reputation of a ready-made reputation as a political giant-killer, having knocked off one of the old C. D. "Trader" Howe, until then widely regarded as a key man among the supposedly "indestructible indispensables" of the long and often seemingly everlasting Liberal years.

Next to the Liberal upset itself, Fisher's prime victim was perhaps the most surprising.

Then through six years of the Pearson Liberal minority baker's regime, the Liberals watched and admired him as he needled and harrassed the Conservatives.

And if they came to regard him as a rather silly darling the long flight when the Opposition mounted a co-operative campaign to wreck the Conservative administration, they quickly learned better.

For the way things have been working out, he has done them far more harm than he ever was able to do the Conservatives.

Without doubt, the blow that hurt them most, and shook their new administration hardest was the one Fisher struck on the Budget.

And so, as he gets down to the actual production work on the Budget, Finance Minister Gordon scarcely could help but recall, with a shudder, how the talent Fisher has shown, both for him and what, for a long time, a lot of people thought was going to be a fad.

It happened the morning after the Budget.

Fisher and Walter Gordon about the three Budget "Ghost Writers" had all taken their government months to get the fat out of the fire. In fact, if you listen carefully you can still hear the odd sizzle.

QUIET PATIENCE

It hardly took much of a secret that Walter Gordon imported a trio of financial Whiz Kids from Harvard Business Administration to work on the Budget.

They were seen for weeks around and about the Capital, even in the fashionable restaurant where they became such familiar figures that just about everybody was saying hello.

Then greetings went like this . . .

". . . Hi. How's with the Budget? . . .

". . . Oh, hi. Just great, thanks . . .

If anybody thought it odd that three "strangers," a trio of rank "outsiders," actually were at work on the Budget, that super-secret of all secret Government documents, nobody said anything as the days and weeks went by. Nobody, especially, as it turned out, Douglas Fisher who had noticed and did wonder about it.

He just sat there and waited. Quietly. Patiently, as the clock ticked out on the Budget.

The timing was beautiful, decidedly so.

Had Douglas Fisher so much as let a thing drop that he was aware of the Whiz Kids, or worse, asked a question about it in the Commons before the budget, the finance minister would have sent them packing back to Big Money-Digest and Boston, perhaps before they got that peek at what he confessed to Parliament was the "final draft."

Walter Gordon could have shipped them back to Toronto and Harvard almost any time up to the very day of the Budget and been able to ask innocently, "Who, me?" if questioned about the strange presence of the three "outsiders."

But after the Budget when the astute — and oh, so patient — Douglas Fisher asked his politically devastating question about the Whiz Kids, it was too late by 12 hours for Finance Minister Gordon to disown them. He was stuck with them. All the bright and shining image of the entire Government's supposed super know-how was blurred. Quite an MP, this Douglas Fisher.

Every motor vehicle reported stolen in the city of Belleville during the year 1943 was subsequently recovered, according to the annual report submitted to the Police Commissioners by Chief Constable R. W. Probert over the weekend. In addition to the recovery of the twenty-five motor vehicles reported stolen and recovered, the Belleville Police Department also was instrumental in the recovery of three other motor cars reported stolen by other Ontario police authorities. Court cases in the Belleville police court for 1943 showed an increase of 77 over the previous year when 827 cases were heard before the local tribunal.

Maybe he wanted to make sure he was in ample time for early morning church service. At any rate when the sexton entered Christ Church Parish Hall Sunday morning he was greeted with an unusual sight. Sleeping soundly and comfortably on four chairs was an alarman. Without disturbing the airman the sexton notified police authorities and P.C. Taylor hastened to the scene.

Orders for twenty heavy locomotives and a large number of freight cars of various types were announced last night by Canadian National Railways "in order to cope with the extremely heavy wartime traffic." The mountain-type locomotives were ordered from Montreal Locomotive Works.

White reported that during the past year the circulation of the books was, to adults, 118,976, and to juvenile, 18,463.

During the week ending January there was a falling off in the number of transients who applied at the Belleville relief station for a night's lodging, the number being 403; last January the number was 520. It is said that the long cold snap is keeping many transients off the road.

This Excuse Beats Fiction

RCMP Quarterly

At 11:15 p. m. March 21, 1961, a constable from Carberry RCMP Detachment was driving his car down the Trans-Canada Highway. He noticed a small foreign car travelling west weaving all over the highway. A telephone call was placed to Carberry Detachment as it was presumed the driver was intoxicated.

A patrol car headed west from Carberry and another was dispatched from Brandon travelling east to intercept the errant vehicle. About 15 miles west of Carberry the car was located parked on the shoulder of the highway with the off-duty policeman car directly behind.

In checking the driver, neither the policeman could detect the smell of liquor nor was there any evidence of it in the vehicle. Then the patrol car from Brandon roared up and by the use of a siren and flashing sign car became noticeably nervous.

Questioned, he gave the following story: He was employed by a doctor in Saskatchewan who was conducting a research of animals and at this particular time they were studying mice. Therefore he would drive over the shoulder of the highway and if he could see any mice he would cross over to the opposite shoulder, making sure first there were no cars approaching.

The policeman from Brandon went through the car himself and none of the three thought of asking their "quarry how he was going to catch a mouse if he saw one.

Gold was discovered in the Fraser River area of British Columbia 100 years ago today—in 1858. Tens of thousands of men headed for the west coast and hundreds of ships jammed with gold seekers worked their way through the Gulf of Georgia to the Fraser, then made the dangerous trip up the swift - running river. Hundreds died along the way, but others arrived to pan fortunes from the sandbars at such places as Hope and Barkerville. When the gold fever died, thousands of prospectors stayed and businesses and industries started.

Labyrinthitis Similar To Meniere's Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

(Second of Two Articles)

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been under treatment for labyrinthitis for seven months and would like to know how long it usually lasts. It is very bothersome when you have small children to care for. — Miss F.

Labyrinthitis is one of the ear conditions to which I referred yesterday. It can have symptoms similar to Meniere's disease, and again the trouble is in the ear. However, in this case the specific cause is inflammation of the inner ear, as a result of either bacteria or virus.

Usually the inflammation is a secondary consequence of infection elsewhere, and labyrinthitis is generally self-limited, meaning that it runs its course and stops. It does not continue indefinitely — unless, for some reason, the infection becomes chronic.

Its prognosis is another matter depending on how quickly the infection is overcome, allowing the inner ear tissues to heal. There can be complete or in some cases, complete loss healing, with no ache, effects, or hearing. So immediate treatment is recommended in cases of infection. The antibiotics are very effective in controlling bacterias; virus infections, unfortunately, leave us with a more difficult problem.

There are still other causes of the "Meniere's" symptoms. There may be dizziness, nausea, hearing impairment, ear noises, in various combinations, but not all of them at once.

Toxic effects from certain of the "mycin" drugs can affect ear, or hearing, nerve can be involved. So can toxicity from tobacco or alcohol.

Disturbances in circulation (hardening of the arteries, etc.) must be considered in the case of older people.

Perhaps by now you are asking, "How can I tell whether I have Meniere's disease or something else?" The first answer is that you usually can't. And your doctor may not be able to tell, at the first examination, either. If he is slow to commit himself, that's good. It's better to take the time to be sure.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a nursing mother. I suspect that I may be pregnant again. Will my milk supply dry up because of this? — Mrs. J. D.

Pregnancy has been known to suppress the milk supply — and, contrary to folklore, nursing does not prevent pregnancy. You may find on the other hand, that you do have enough milk to continue nursing. Weigh the baby regularly to determine whether he is getting enough nourishment. If not, then start weaning him promptly.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been hearing about the dangers of obesity. I'm not overweight. I notice that liquid diet foods and low calorie beverages are sometimes calcium or saccharin, and the labels state that they are artificial sweeteners. Are they safe to use by persons who must restrict intake of ordinary sweets. Does this mean that everybody should not use these sweeteners? — C. C.

Did the labels state "only", or did they just state that these artificial sweeteners are for people who must restrict sugar intake?

Artificial sweeteners are for anyone who wants to use them.

Cuba Breaks U. S. Blockade

New York Times

Premier Castro will probably spend more time in talking trade and politics in the Kremlin than in trading down middle in the forests of the Soviet Union. For he is doing surprisingly well in his economic bargaining.

He has managed to shoot a big hole through the United States embargo with the purchase of British buses. He has had little to boast about since the Bay of Pigs; but the bus deal, which drew spirited bidding from competing firms in other Western nations, does represent a significant economic victory.

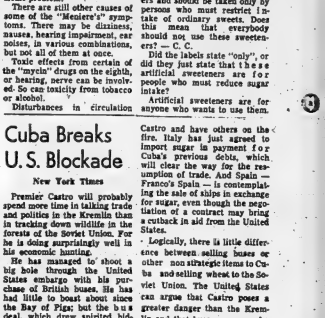
There have always been gaps in Washinton's plan for the economic isolation of Cuba. The Soviet Union has provided the wherewithal not merely to insure the survival of the Castro regime but to enable it to engage in subversive activity throughout Latin America. Its support will undoubtedly continue. As for the free world, with Cuba they have been taking place on a modest scale despite the overt opposition of the United States.

But the $11 million sale of 400 buses by a British company is the first sizable breach in the blockade. The magnitude of the transaction, and the liberal credits that make it a reality, run through. For in granting a five-year credit as well as an option for an additional 1,100 buses, the British are in effect declaring that Castro will not be overthrown by economic pressures. And with Cuban sugar commanding high prices in world markets, other hard-headed businessmen are just as eager to do business with Cuba.

France and West Germany have already made deals with Castro and have others on the fire. Italy has agreed to import sugar in payment for Cuba's previous debts, which will clear the way for the resumption of trade. And Spain — despite U.S. contemplating the sale of ships in exchange for sugar, even though the negotiation of a treaty may bring a cutback in aid from the United States.

Logically, there is little difference between selling buses or other non strategic items to Cuba and selling wheat to the Soviet Union. The United States can argue that Castro poses a greater danger than the Kremlin and that buses are more lethal than food, but our allies are unconvinced. They see nothing wrong in trading with Cuba and consider the matter — provided that commerce is confined to non-strategic material and can be carried out at a profit. Indeed, they are annoyed by the American attitude on shipping, which is considered an unwarranted interference with the traditional freedom of the seas, as long as a policy of sanctions in a state of war does not exist.

Like it or not, Washington must recognize that our allies are not prepared to treat Castro as a commercial outcast. They believe that increased trade is in their interest and may possibly improve the climate for peace.



Inner Cabinet

Winnipeg Free Press

The inner-cabinet system has worked well in the United Kingdom and would probably work well here too, particularly in the way it gives junior ministers more time to attend to their duties instead of attending cabinet meetings on matters which do not affect their departments.

Congregational Meetings

CHRIST CHURCH

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. James P. Archer was honored at the annual meeting of Christ Church on Monday when he resigned his position as chairman and member of the cemetery board. The presentation of a brass plaque to Mr. Archer was made by the rector, Rev. Owen G. Barrow, which was inscribed "To the Glory of God and in gratitude for the contribution to the life and work of this Church of James P. Archer, this pew is designated 'The Archer Pew.'"

A film was made of the presentation and will be added to the others take over the past three years to record the life of the parish.

Mr. Barrow made two requests of the vestry: first, that it approve a "Gift Day." For this he would sit in the church or parish hall all day to receive the gifts of his people for the Anglican World Mission — one part of the $1,000 he was asking for the work of the church outside its own housekeeping. His second request was for a parish visitation to collect complete information in respect of names, addresses, confirmation, baptism, organization membership and Sunday school. It was suggested that this take place before Easter. After encouraging discussion it was agreed to plan for the visitation as being conducted early in May. It will be directed by Mr. B. H. Beatty whose appointment as parish representative of the Anglican World Mission has been announced by Bishop Snell, the Diocesan chairman.

The matter of the memorial vestry was referred to the advisory board for study and report. This decision reflects the thinking of the Anglican Church Council of Canada in the matter of the Anglican Congress last fall. The needs of other churches in the Anglican communion are current in terms of men and money and prayerful interest.

PERSUITE PARIS

Tribute was paid to the church wardens: Messrs. C. J. Gibson and Cyril Johnston, and to their deputies, Messrs. William Dawson and R. H. Eason. Messrs. H. R. Cubitt and W. A. Murray were re-elected chairman and vice-chairman of the sidesmen's committee.

Messrs. B. H. Beatty and T. H. Bennett were again elected lay members of Synod and N. A. Griffiths as lay clerk. The advisory board for 1964 consists of the rector, church wardens and

Successful Living

Without Communication No Union Can Succeed

DEAR DORIS —I would like some advice about my husband. We've been married for ten years and he is still a stranger. He never shares his work and everyday problems that we all have with me.

DEAR MRS. R. — Such unbroken silence must have started away back. Was it Mama or Papa, or both, who told him to fight his own battles? Or did he have neither?

DORIS CLARK

When two people marry they share everything — or just about everything — or the union is a flop.

Since neither a columnist nor a caseworker can work miracles, helping you both to find each other will be a long, tough process. With faith it can be done. Try discussing it with the Children's Aid Society, 62 West Moira Street, Belleville, which counsels on family problems as well as when children are involved.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — One night I discovered by accident that my wife had been seeing an old flame, and had been intimate with him. I made her call him and tell him not to call again.

She says she is sorry. She just can't seem to do enough for me. I have forgiven her. But how am I ever going to restore my faith in her again? Sometimes I look at her with hate. Sometimes I just cry to myself. — LOST.

• • •

DEAR LOST — What about your own part in this? Why is she tempted by another man's interest? Have you been taking her for granted? And are you without sin — of any kind — yourself?

From now on look at her with love and understanding. Banish the tears and laugh with her. Part of forgiving is forgetting.

Almond Torte

A PARTY DESSERT

by Mary Moore

To quiet my guilty conscience over the extravagant party dessert I am giving you today, on Thursday I will give you a gentle lecture on conserving the vitamins and minerals in the vegetables you commonly serve.

Now I can go head and have my fun!

We made an Almond Torte —one of those rich desserts so dear to European palates. This calls for 5 eggs and 1½ cups ground almonds so be prepared.

If you are a spendthrift you can further add to the cost by serving it with whipped cream, which my Hungarian friends do.

Besides its wonderful flavor it has another major virtue. It may be made in advance and keeps well.

TUESDAY
(Guests)

Dinner Menu

Roast Stuffed Pork Shoulder; Pan Roasted Potatoes; Broccoli with Cheese Sauce; Tomato and Lettuce Salad; Canned Pears with Raspberry Sauce; Paleface Squares (see Monday) with Whipped Cream; Tea.

ALMOND TORTE

Batter—5 large eggs—yolks and whites divided, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup sifted dry fine white bread crumbs; 1½ cups finely chopped (almost a powder) almonds, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon almond flavoring.

Filling—1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1½ tablespoons flour, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup sugar, 1 cup milk, 2 large egg yolks, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ square melted chocolate, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Note—1) There is no flour in this torte. 2) You may use imported powdered almonds if you can buy them.

Beat the egg whites until stiff. Without washing beaters transfer to large bowl containing egg yolks and beat them until thick and light. Gradually beat sugar into yolks. Fold in the sifted bread crumbs. Mix the salt and baking powder with the fine almonds and fold into yolks mixture. Add almond flavoring. Fold in whites until incorporated. Turn into wax-paper-lined buttered pan (8 x 9" or 12" x 9".) Note:—Leave enough surplus wax paper above edge of pan to facilitate lifting cake out.) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes. Carefully lift cake from pan and carefully peel off paper. Let cool, right side up, on cake rack. With long sharp knife cut into two layers. Put filling between: In top of double boiler mix together dry the cornstarch, flour, salt and sugar. Over boiling water stir in the milk until thick. Beat yolks and stir a little of the hot mixture into them, then return this to double boiler, stirring for a minute. Stir in butter, melted chocolate and vanilla until smooth. Cool and spread between layers. When you serve this torte cut it into little 1½" or 2" squares and if desired serve a dollop of whipped cream on top which has been flavored with a little instant coffee. This cake keeps exceptionally well if follwrapped and refrigerated.

Protect your hands against wet and harsh winter weather. Campana Italian Balm drinks in moisture and seals out dryness. Helps heal chapped hands, spoiled roughness, redness and chapping. Made chapped hands overnight. At toilet goods counters everywhere.

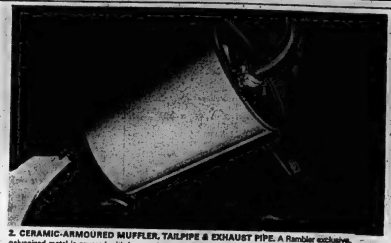
SPEAKING OF MANNERS — BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL



Question: Since we usually entertain quite informally, I find it more convenient simply to call friends on the phone to invite them to our home. Occasionally, the person I'm trying to reach is not at home and the phone is answered by some other member of the household. When this happens, is it permissible to leave a message with her husband, or one of the children, asking that she call when she returns? A friend and I were discussing phone invitations the other day, and she was of the opinion that it's impolite to do so — that the hostess should find out when "Mrs. X" will be home and then phone her a second time to issue the invitation? Is this correct? — Mrs. G. C., Providence, R. I.

Answer: Yes. When an invitation is telephoned, it's more gracious to issue it first-hand rather than leave a message. If "Mrs. X." isn't home at the time, then the caller should plan to call a second time after finding out when she is expected back. I agree with your friend: It's more polite for the hostess to call back, rather than have a potential guest make a return call to be invited.

V.O.N. Elects New Officers

For thirty-nine years the Victorian Order of Nurses has carried out its duties in the Belleville district, giving service for all, regardless of race, color, creed or financial status, and on Monday evening a review of the year's work was given by Miss Dorothy Connor at the annual meeting held in St. Columba Presbyterian Church.

Although governed by national policies, each branch is autonomous, and is headed by a local board of directors, who give assistance to the six nurses of this district, Miss Dorothy Connor, Miss Olive Pryce, Miss Grace Connor, Mrs. Ethel Neil, Mrs. Wanda Bentley and Mrs. Anita Sterne.

Last year the Belleville branch of the VON provided field experience for four post-graduate students, two from Ottawa University and two from Queen's University; also a period of observation for six under-graduate students from the Belleville General Hospital.

IMPORTANT DUTY

One of the important duties of the VON is to bridge the gap between the hospital and the home, particularly for the mother with a new baby. The reassuring presence of a competent professional nurse in the home helps to give the mother a feeling of security until she gains experience.

Home care is given to diabetics in helping them to give themselves insulin; to patients with heart disease, cancer, arthritis, stroke and chronic cases usually with elderly patients. Medical and surgical care for patients accounted for just under one-half of the cases.

Over 600 nurses of the Victorian Order are serving across Canada in 117 branches where they nurse the sick, teach healthful living and assist in training nurses in public health nursing.

NEW OFFICERS

The report of the nominating committee was brought in by Dr. Donald Scott, and read by John Lennox, with the following elected to the Board of Manager:

NEW LOOK FOR SPRING — SLIM

Now is the time to take inventory of yourself and your wardrobe in preparation for the spring changeover when heavy winter coats and boots can be discarded in favor of lightweight coats and suits. If months of huddling under the protective folds of a heavy coat plus a lack of exercise have left your figure in need of trimming, now is the time to do something about it. If you wait until spring has actually arrived, you might just find yourself making compromises. It is easy to quietly say, "they don't make size 14 the way they used to", or "it's a small make" and then accept the next size larger.

The rules of calories and painless dieting are well-known. In some cases, the problem is so individual that no one but a doctor should give advice. Fortunately, when a five or ten pound loss in weight is necessary, the majority of us find that smaller helpings and added exercises will work miracles.

GROUP THERAPY

It is never easy for the average person to lose weight, but it becomes at least bearable when the poor victim has some company in her misery. It could be called group therapy. A community swimming pool, a home exercise class or even following an exercise program on TV, will strengthen a waning will power and provide a few laughs in the process.

Should these extra pounds should be shed now, not when spring is here.

There is one aspect to gaining weight that is often overlooked, perhaps because it is so unpleasant. Aside from the fact that additional excess pounds tend to slow one's steps and effect unwelcome complexion changes, an increase in girth is expensive! Suddenly, seemingly overnight, a favorite suit or dress is tightly uncomfortable, slips have a habit of giving at the seams, collars ride up and nothing looks or feels the way it used to.

To gain comfort and some essence of chic, alterations are necessary. But if seams are too skimpy to let out, then there is only one solution — replacement in a larger size. This can run into money and such a shopping expedition will not be enjoyable. All have a certain image of ourselves in our minds — ten pounds ago. When the actual image is altered, it is terribly hard to accept the fact that those extra pounds have changed a well-toned ankle and a trim waistline into sturdy, thick-ended silhouettes.

Most of us know that certain well-chosen outfits make us feel attractive, confident and euphoric. But who can be euphoric about ten extra pounds?

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers in care of this paper.

Plans for New Hospital Subject of Annual Address

Plans for the new hospital were described by Dr. James Wilson to the Board of Directors of the Victorian Order of Nurses and their guests at St. Columba Presbyterian church on Monday evening. Using diagrams Dr. Neiles described the construction of the $7,200,000 building which will be a partnership undertaking between the city of Belleville and the County of Hastings on a 63-35 percentage basis with government grants to provide about three million of the total cost.

The planning started about two years ago and has progressed to the architects' plans. The old wood piled south wings are to be torn down, the steam stack, boiler building and laboratory will be removed and a new 5-storey modern hospital two the finest facilities will be erected south of the present structure.

At present 206 patients are accommodated on every nook and corner of the hospital which was designed for 270 beds. Despite this overcrowding the hospital staff has worked well and have again been accredited. The new hospital will have a capacity of about 442 beds.

A group from Belleville made a tour of hospitals and studied progressive care in various cities learning the best plans and designs.

The first floor will be a service department with X-ray, operating theatres, intensive care patients, laboratory, department of physical medicine, occupational therapy, physical therapy and dietetic training.

The second service floor will have the cafeteria, tray conveyor, kitchen, central surgical supply room and sterilizers. The third service floor will be converted into rooms for chronic long term care patients. Administration will be here and this floor will lead to the first floor of the patients' tower building. Here will be housed the air-conditioning equipment and other mechanical things. Here too will be the mental health clinic.

The third floor west wing is to be converted to obstetrical units and will have 36 patients with rooming-in instead of a nursery. This will be the first floor of the new wing for patients, and will be used for psychiatric care.

The 5th, 6th and 7th floors will have a double corridor plan with 30 rooms to serve 60 patients, each room with its own bathroom. The 8th floor will be for pediatrics and will have a double corridor and about 64 beds for infants and 20 beds for adolescents.

"We hope the V.O.N. will find their place in the new hospital plans," Dr. Neiles said.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. Taylor Franklin, and appreciation was expressed by Mr. Ray Grant.

Mr. Frank Follwell presided at the annual meeting and reviewed the year's activities, thanking many people including the Kiwanis Club for providing for the V.O.N. the city for its grant of money, the United Appeal, doctors and nurses, press, radio and many others for their support.

Rev. Norman Hutchinson, minister of the church asked that the 30 minutes entertainment was provided by the intermediate choir of the church who sang three sacred songs, directed by Mrs. R. R. Brain, and accompanied by Mrs. Latchford.

Miss Jessie Cunningham read the secretarial report stating that it had been necessary to ask Thurlow Township for an increase in rates from $3.50 to $4.00. Ten meetings were held during the year with an average attendance of ten.

The treasurer's report was given by Mr. Larry Lynch, and the publicity committee report by Mrs. James Nelles.

Greetings were brought to the meeting from the city by Alderman Douglas Boyle, and from Mr. McPherson as a representative from the V.O.N. of Trenton. President "Brad" Bradley brought greetings from the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Larry Lynch thanked Mrs. R. Brain who had organized the annual dinner and the ladies of St. Columba Church for the excellent meal everyone had enjoyed.

Congregational Meeting

Bridge Street United Church

Bridge Street United Church held their annual congregational meeting on January 20 which opened with the Reverend H. M. Davis conducting a devotional and memorial service. All present had been handed a 16-page printed report when they entered the Sunday School room. One page of this report was "In Memoriam" listing the names of those who had died in 1963.

Total church membership was reported at 1864 (775 families). There was an appeal for more members who will dedicate their lives to the winning of more people for the Master's service and give more leadership in church organizations.

Included in 1963 church organizations are the Sunday school with Mr. Leo Reynolds as superintendent, the United Church Women with Mrs. Arthur J. Clare as president and the A.O.T.S. Men's Club with Mr. Charles Bristol as president.

Mr. F. C. Adsett presented a recommendation in acknowledgment of the great sincerity of the minister of the church, the Reverend H. M. Davis, his wife Irene, his home and his presence when ill or bereaved and his thoughtful council.

Tribute was paid to the minister of visitation, the Reverend Alfred Poulter, whose visits to the sick and shut-ins have brought Christian comfort and spiritual help.

The choir under the direction of Mr. Robert Reid and organist Alan Reid were extended appreciation. Mr. Davis announced they would present Handel's Messiah in the church on April 27, with outstanding Canadian soloists and string quartet.

LEADERSHIP EDUCATION

Mrs. Ross Rutherford, director of Christian Education for the church was complimented on her work and she reported 1963 emphasis was focused on leadership education. Mr. G. E. R. Moore, treasurer of the new building fund confirmed that the building fund receipts in 1963 exceeded the amount pledged for that year.

Cubs and Scouts, Canadian Girls in Training (C.G.I.T.), Explorers, Messengers, Young Adults are among the groups directed by many church leaders. The new church hall now has accommodation for basketball, badminton, volley ball and shuffleboard.

Contributions to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of the United Church of Canada were increased by $624. The church Sunday School has over 400 members with over 100 leaders.

Red Chinese Call Mr. K Man With Feudal Outlook

TOKYO (AP)—Red China has called Soviet Premier Khrushchev a man with "a feudal psychology" who befriended Chinese Communists opposed to Mao Tse-tung's leadership, and predicted Khrushchev and his Communist party leaders "will be buried."

The blistering attack on Khrushchev Monday broke a lull in the Moscow-Peking war of words, which flared with great virulence last year. It swept aside Khrushchev's demand for an end to public polemics between the two Communist giants.

At the same time, the Kremlin's mouthpiece, the international theoretical journal Problems of Peace and Socialism, assailed Peking's demands for world revolution.

An article by Greek Communist Leader Kostas Koliyannis accused the Chinese of "proclaiming armed violence as almost the only form of revolutionary struggle" and predicted defeat for Peking's "adventurist tactics."

Peking radio broadcast the text of an article in Red China's two most important publications, the official Peking People's Daily and the party's theoretical journal, Red Flag.

USE E'S BOAST

Khrushchev's boast that communism will bury capitalism was turned against him in a peculiar manner. The article said Soviet leaders are modern revisionists—those who split off from the Lenin-Marx line—and declared:

"Changes contrary to the expectation of the modern revisionists are taking place. The revisionists are producing their own opposites and will be buried by them. This is an inexorable law."

Peking then mentioned what it said was Soviet backing for opposition within the Chinese Communist party to Mao's big-leap - forward industrialization program and the commune farming system.

The article did not identify the anti-party elements nor indicate when Khrushchev had expressed his approval of them.

Chinese Defence Minister Peng Teh-huai, an old crony of Mao was sacked without explanation in September, 1959. He has disappeared from public view. It seems certain he opposed Mao's ambitious communes and industrialization programs. He may have communicated his scepticism to Khrushchev.

The Chinese said Khrushchev more than once described a fraternal party—presumably the Chinese—as a silly boy and called himself its mother. Then they added:

"With his feudal psychology of self-exaltation, he has absolutely no sense of shame."

Sees No Signs Of Hard Stand Toward Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Andre Laurendeau, co - chairman of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturism, said Monday the attitude of Canada's Anglo-Saxon element towards Quebec shows no signs of hardening.

The English attitude is more one of curiosity, he said at a press conference after he and Davidson Dunton, the commission's other co-chairman, met for one hour with Premier Lesage of Quebec, who promised to support them.

The two men are touring the provincial capitals to meet the premiers. Last week they had talks with the premiers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The Anglo-Saxon direct approach of trying to find out exactly what is going on in Quebec was only one of frankness, an attitude that can appear hrutal but not, he said.

"As for me, I like this direct approach," Mr. Laurendeau said.

Mr. Dunton said that his recent trip across Canada convinced him that there is much interest in biculturism and bilingualism.

Mr. Laurendeau said more organizations in Ontario than in Quebec have made known their intention of submitting briefs to the commission.

The commission expected to receive more than 200 briefs from the two provinces. At the present time, morethan 400 organizations in Canada had stated their intention of making a submission.

Mr. Laurendeau and Mr. Dunton travel to Toronto for a meeting with Premier Robarts of Ontario next Monday.

CAMPBELLFORD

School Bus Truck Collide, Child Injured

CAMPBELLFORD—A school bus carrying ten children to St. Mary's Roman Catholic school here collided with a dairy truck shortly before 9 a.m. Monday, slightly injuring one child and causing nearly $700 damage to the two vehicles.

Police said the bus, owned and driven by James Peter Doherty of Hastings was travelling northward on Victoria street, entering the town. A milk delivery truck owned by Rutherford's dairy and driven by Douglas Calver of Campbellford was travelling west when the two vehicles collided on a curve. The road was ice covered at the time.

One of the school children on the bus, Marie Dunlay, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dunlay of R.R. 1, Campbellford was taken to the office of a local doctor where she was treated for lacerations to both knees and a bruised forehead. She was released after treatment.

The bus received about $500 damage and the truck about $175.

Campbellford police chief Sam Baird investigated.

Cancer Clinic Death in Hands Of Top Coroner

TORONTO (CP)—Findings of a jury that investigated the death of a man from Cedar Point, Kan., being treated at the Hett Clinic in Windsor, Ont., have been turned over to Dr. H. B. Cotnam, supervising coroner for Ontario.

Dr. Cotnam said Monday there will be prompt action on the jury's recommendations. He said his office has been working for months, gathering evidence into the death last July 10 of Donald McConnell, 37, who was receiving serum treatment for cancer at the Hett Clinic.

The jury found Dr. Alex Rubinstein of Windsor, "did not complete his duties in not reporting the circumstances of the death to the coroner."

Dr. Rubinstein, who signed Mr. McConnell's death certificate, told the inquest last Thursday he did not know the man had received eight serum injections.

Dr. Cotnam said Monday it will be up to the Ontario department of health to deal with the jury's recommendation that the clinic's charter be revoked.

He said Crown authorities at Windsor or the attorney-general's department will decide whether a charge is to be laid under the Coroner's Act.

Dr. Cotnam said the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario will be informed of the jury's findings that persons not licensed to do so were practising medicine at the Hett Clinic.

Nixon Calls Mr. K World's Ablest Leader

MISENHEIMER, N.C. (AP)—Former U.S. vice - president Richard M. Nixon Monday called Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "without question the most able all-round world leader today."

But Nixon, who gave the convocation address at Pfeiffer College, said he did not include President Johnson in the comparison.

In Washington, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger was asked whether President Johnson would agree with Nixon's comments about Khrushchev.

"I haven't talked to the president about it," Salinger replied, "but it sounds as if Mr. Nixon is propelling him (Khrushchev) as a possible Republican candidate for president."

Cass Calls Inquest Into Hospital Death

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Cass has called an inquest into the hospital death of Patricia Morgan, 23, while the man who championed it was still in doubt about his own future as Metropolitan Toronto's chief coroner.

Dr. Arthur Shulman had asked the attorney-general to order the inquest after an autopsy revealed that a surgical instrument was left in her stomach after an operation.

Mr. Cass, who announced the inquiry in the legislature Monday, said it would be independent of an investigation being carried on by the Toronto hospital where the operation was performed 18 days before Miss Morgan's death Nov. 4.

Dr. Shulman became the subject of public controversy a few days before news of the woman's death made headlines. Deputy Attorney - General William Common had recommended the abolition of the chief coroner's post.

Dr. Shulman subsequently demanded a public inquiry, charging that H. B. Cotnam, Ontario's supervising coroner, and Mr. Common had interferred in the performance of his duties as chief coroner.

CORONER MEETS CASS

Shortly after the inquest was announced Monday, Dr. Shulman presented his allegations of political interference at a private meeting with the attorney-general. Mr. Cotnam and Mr. Common were present.

In the legislature, Mr. Cass had said he was appointing counsel to the inquest. He was replying to A. F. Lawrence (PC—Toronto St. George) who asked whether an investigation was planned into why Dr. Shulman was not informed of the hospital death until last week.

The attorney-general said the inquest will be conducted by Dr. Gerald Blanchett. John Hoolihan will act as counsel.

He said later that Dr. Shulman was not appointed to conduct the inquest because publicly surrounding the case might have a bearing on the conduct of the inquiry. However, the inquest would be postponed until Dr. Shulman returned from a 12-day holiday.

Dr. Shulman expressed confidence in Dr. Blanchett but added: "I would have preferred to do it."

Mr. Cass said in an interview later that a case involving the death of another woman had been brought to his attention by Dr. Shulman. He would say only that it involved a chemist and the advice for treatments in Mexico.

The case has been referred to William Newman, director of public prosecutions, and the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons, Mr. Cass said.

Dr. Shulman explained Monday night the woman died of cancer of the liver in a Toronto hospital last year. The chemist had been treating cancer victims with a serum for at least two years.

Dr. Shulman said he would also order an inquest into a four-year-old boy's death which occurred an hour after a tonsilectomy. The coroner viewed the body at the time and, therefore, permission from the attorney-general for the inquest was not necessary.

A third inquest was also likely, the coroner added, in the death of a man who died in a private hospital when the oxygen he needed was not available.

Sportsmen's Club Partner Of Dept. in Park Project

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford Sportsmen's Club held its annual meeting at the Masonic Temple. Speaker for the evening was Mr. Paul Davidson, superintendent of the Department of Lands and Forests, Lindsay.

In 1957 the Campbellford club assumed charge of the over one hundred acres of wooded land lying adjacent to the Trent River. This property has been in the possession of the Territs family for many years and now at the request of the family it has been put in custody of the Campbellford Sportsmen's Club on the definite understanding that the Department of Lands and Forests would assume responsibility and keep the park in its natural state, should the Campbellford club find it beyond its means to administer it. This arrangement whereby a park is the concern of a governmental department in conjunction with a group of public minded citizens is the only one of its kind in Ontario, said Mr. Davidson.

MUCH HAS BEEN DONE

The Campbellford Club has already done considerable work on the property, roads have been built, a golf run has been developed and memorial gates have been erected. Many more projects could be carried out, such as camp sites, a rifle range, recreational facilities, but these projects require an extensive financial basis, and the dedication of a fairly large membership.

Mr. Davidson, speaking for the Department of Lands and Forests, asked that the club delay further development of the park until an agreement had been entered into by the two interests involved.

The Territs family in making the donation stipulated that the property be preserved in its natural state and their wishes will be respected by whoever is in charge. The property is one of the beauty spots in Campbellford at any season of the year, consisting of a mixed wooded high hillside, with the Trent River below.

only a dozen or so turned up there to watch the proceedings on closed-circuit television.

Registration had been announced as 2,383 delegates and observers.

Egan Chambers of Montreal, national president, outlined his proposals for a national conference to study Conservative policies and stressed the need for national unity.

He referred to the announced candidacy of "my good friend" Dalton Camp of Toronto for the party presidency and pledged that he and Mr. Camp could work together."

Mr. Chambers did not, however, say whether he himself would be running against Mr. Camp, former national party organizer.

CHIDES SENIOR GROUP

Mrs. Smith chided the senior group for its preoccupation with Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership. She said the Conservative women were not "running down the side trails talking about leadership and voting procedures, accomplishing nothing."

Instead, the women were working now to raise funds for the next election campaign. Their goal was to be able to rent, furnish and staff campaign offices for local candidates across the country.

Mrs. Diefenbaker, in one of her rare public speeches, told the Conservative party women they knew the power and need only the will to vote the party back into office. She appealed for party unity and strength and thanked the women of the party for their support of her and Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mrs. Jean Casselman, only Conservative woman in the Commons, told the women's convention she would rather see the party "dismembered and forgotten" than to feel that Conservatives had furthered the cause of racial disunity in Canada.

The member for Grenville-Dundas drew loud applause when she said:

"I want no part of playing the French - speaking Roman Catholic municipalities of Quebec against English - speaking Protestant municipalities of Ontario, nor of setting the agricultural Prairies against industrial Toronto."

He said he likes to see Canadian companies under Canadian control where possible, but added: "This is a matter which is one for the company concerned, the shareholders and investors."

Mr. Pearson declined to indicate who might be named to head the Canadian delegation to the GATT trade negotiations.

The government has already named Dana Wilgress, a former top diplomat, to be senior Canadian representative at the UN trade conference, scheduled to meet between March 23 and June 15.

Mr. Pearson said he knows of no specific request yet by NATO for Canadian troops to serve in a NATO peace-keeping force in Cyprus. He planned to discuss the subject today with External Affairs Minister Martin.

Drama Festival Ticket Sale Proves Heavy

OTTAWA (CP) — Advance ticket sales for the Dominion Drama Festival's national finals in Charlottetown May 18 to 23 are the heaviest in the festival's history, says National Director Richard MacDonald.

"A lot of people are going to be disappointed if they don't get their ticket requests in soon."

The heavy advance sale ended earlier fears that audiences would be sparse at the festival's national competition, which will be the opening event at the $5,000,000 Fathers of Confederation Memorial Centre.

Tickets went on sale before Christmas in the island capital and by January 1, local organizers were reporting that both the opening and closing nights of the May festival were "heavily booked"five months in advance.

"The way things look right now this will be our most successful festival to date," Mr. MacDonald said.

NDP Prepares For Next Vote

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democratic Party, its eye cocked at the prospect of a federal election, has decided on a two - pronged drive to bring party organization up to a high pitch.

Reliable informants said Monday the weekend meeting of the party's governing council took a number of steps in this direction, including a decision to establish a new post of director of organization.

The new director will be appointed in a few weeks. He will report to a special organization committee which will have overall responsibility with Federal Secretary Terry Grier for stepping up activity.

Enjoyable Ups and Downs Of Down-Under Upmanship

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Australia and New Zealand are indulging in another bout of their favorite sport of upbraiding one another and, as usual, are thoroughly enjoying it.

These two Commonwealth countries, isolated in the South Pacific, are so similar in racial origins, interests and outlook that many people elsewhere think of them as one and the same.

True enough they co-operate on defence and many other matters, honor the Queen and vote together on most things at the United Nations. They stick together as a team against the rest of the world.

But between each other, neither loses an opportunity of scoring points. Australia, as much the larger, more populous and more developed, can afford to view its small neighbor, 1,300 miles away across the Tasman Sea, with tolerant eye. Australia is an entire continent of nearly 3,000,000 square miles; New Zealand covers only 103,000 square miles.

HINTS UNION NEEDED

Occasionally Australia drops a hint that it would really be more sensible and efficient if New Zealand were to join up as one of the states of an enlarged Australia.

Such a suggestion invariably draws a howl of indignation from New Zealand which declares that it is hard enough preserving its interests even a an independent country, let alone if it were submerged in the overwhelming mass of Australia.

New Zealand points indignantly to experience in trade. It buys many times more each year from Australia than it is able to sell in return. Latest figures indicate the adverse balance against New Zealand now exceeds $130,000,000 a year.

New Zealanders complain that all sorts of barriers are raised against their goods in response to efforts by Australian pressure groups.

Australians in return claim that New Zealanders are lazy, lacking in drive and ambition, and not able to think big.

LATEST EXCHANGE

The latest exchange of "compliments" began when an official of a hotel trade union spoke in warm praise of Australian girls visiting New Zealand on working holidays. The girls were a fine type and had almost kept the New Zealand hotel industry going, he said, but many Australian men visiting New Zealand were riff raff.

This immediately provoked a bullshaion. Five Australian girls visiting New Zealand, ignoring the compliment to themselves, sprang to the defence of Australian males. New Zealand men in comparison, they said, were ill-mannered, lazy, pot-bellied, scrawny and drank too much.

Thereupon a deluge of letters descended on the editor of every newspaper in the country. Australian males and New Zealanders dashed into the fray with enormous gusto. National characteristics were handled about with the utmost relish. Current grievances and ancient wrongs alike were examined and verdicts pronounced. They are still at it. And probably will be as long as there are any Australians and New Zealanders to join in the game.

Dear Sirs:

We use Chevrolet Trucks in our refuse disposal operations which cover Metropolitan Montreal. To handle industrial and residential collections, our trucks must work 16 hours a day, all year round.

Such multi-stop, heavy-load type of work is very hard on trucks, but our Chevrolets do a fine job for us.

The 348 V8 engine has the power and performance to handle our 30,000 lb. gross vehicle weight without trouble, including the bad roads in and out of the dump. All components have been trouble-free, with no problems from the transmissions, axles or suspensions. As a result, our maintenance costs on Chevrolet trucks have been negligible.

Our drivers like the visibility and handling qualities of the Tilt Cabs we use and we are well pleased with the good all-around performances of these trucks. Our future purchases will be Chevrolets.

Yours truly,
E. White
President.

Gentlemen:

From our Calgary division we cover the southern half of all the western provinces providing 24-hour service to the oil industry of our all-site tubular inspection. To perform this service our trucks average 250,000 miles each annually, a large part of this mileage being "off the road".

The trucks we use are all Chevrolet 20 and 30 series, equipped with special bodies, the 283 cu. in. V8, 4-speed transmissions and standard rear axles. We have used these models since 1959 and have found them consistently a dependable truck that is one of the most economical performers. The 283 engine is good gas mileage. We have never had a transmission or rear axle failure. We have yet to change a clutch. The suspension is excellent and it certainly helps protect our equipment. Our only trade ins are for regular routine mileage.

We place complete confidence in the dependability of our Chevrolet Trucks to give our customers the kind of service necessary in this most important industry.

Yours very truly,

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

With our skiers, sledders, skaters and what not "swichin' and wishin'" in the Gold Medal Stakes over there in Innsbruck our lone hope for one of the glittering medallions rests with Father David Bauer and his youthful hockey hopefuls.

Hope of winning one of the yellow baubles rose noticeably when our side diced the "tough" Swedes 5-2. And the Canadians' stock tipped considerably in the minds of those who predicted nothing more than fifth place.

Against the Swedish team, the Canadians flashed a potential they had not shown before either at home or abroad. Canadian fans at home and in the colorful land of Strauss rubbed their hands. Even the Swedish coach stated "if they play like that against the Russians and Czechs they could take it all."

Then came the Canada-West Germany game. The final score was 4-3 for our side but "Ol' Lady Luck had turned her fickle countenance smilingly the German way, there could have been the biggest upset of the tournament.

A story out of Innsbruck said the Canadian hockey team did an umpteen-miles mountain climb to watch their favorite skiers cavort down the slopes. This took a lot out of them and Father Bauer was quoted as saying, "We'll never do that again."

And that gremlin that has attacked so many clubs before in any phase of sport, the sweet-dog-eyes, may have bothered our side somewhat. They may have acquired some of those "These guys will be pushovers" ideas and didn't extend themselves too much until the Germans tossed a scare into them.

I refuse to purchase this "saving up for the Czechs and Russians package." Nothing is further from the truth. I do not believe such an item is included in Father Bauer's syllabus of training. It looked more like the Germans caught our boys with their pants down —and nearly tacked their tails between their legs.

They had our side 3-1 at first period end, then Father Bauer pulled "Sir Ear" and his charges dug up some potential to score six goals.

That was enough but up to that point Canadian fans did twinkle had all fingers crossed and a few prayers wafting into the Austrian air.

FOOTBALL SCHOOL

The problem of securing city and district officials, that has been benetting the football powers-that-be of the Quinte Athletic Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association could be well on the way to solution.

The high cost of officials' stipends and transportation from Kingston has proved a toughest for the district gridiron people the past few years—and they decided to do something about it. "

They sent the word around via city and district newspapers, schools and advertisements that courses in instruction for football officials past, present and future would be given at one of the city's secondary schools.

The response was surprising and to say the least somewhat unexpected. "The appeal brought in far more applicants for the course than we dreamed of," said Phys-Ed. director Stan Barbour of Belleville Collegiate Institute.

Tonight some 32 hopefuls will attend the opening of the courses at BCI starting at seven o'clock... It is not too late to enrol and latecomers will be made welcome this evening.

Jack Sisson, Phys-Ed director Quinte Secondary, well known football player and coach will be the chief instructor. He will be assisted by Gordon Mutter and others.

Those "graduating" from the courses will be financially reimbursed, Mr. Barbour said.

Canadians' Comeback Beats U.S. 8-6

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)— Three of the four top teams in the Olympic hockey champion-ships get a chance to fatten their goal-scoring totals today.

The fourth, Canada, has a day off after moving alone to the top of the eight-nation standings Monday night with a come-from-behind 8-6 victory over the United States.

That triumph, on six second-period goals, gave Canada a perfect 4-0 record and a two-point lead over the Soviet Union in the standings.

But the heavily-favored Russians, with an unblemished 3-0 record so far, met Finland today and an easy victory was expected.

Czechoslovakia and Sweden tied in third place with 2-1 records, met the United States and West Germany, respectively, and both were expected to win.

The Canadians resume play against Finland. Then come their biggests tests in the seven-game round-robin tournament— against the Czechs Friday and the Russians Saturday.

START POORLY

They were given a little scare Monday night as they got away to a shaky start against the defending champion U.S., giving up a goal after just 12 seconds and trailing 3-2 at the end of the first period.

But in the second period they shook off their early tenseness— brought on at least in part by their sloppy showing in beating the weak Germans team 4-2 Sunday night—and smashed any U.S. hopes for victory with six goals in 16 minutes.

They boosted the margin to 5-3 and were never in any danger with less than a minute left before allowing two U.S. goals within 26 seconds.

When it was over coach Rev. David Bauer told reporters:

"I'm happy. It all right, although they were a little tense in the first period."

Brian Gratchner of Toronto, Ray Cadieux of St. Adele, Que., and George Swarbrick of Moose Jaw, Sask., sparked the Canadian scoring attack with two goals each. Gary Dineen of Montreal and Bob Forhan of Newmarket, Ont., got the other two and Roger Bourbonnais of Riviere Qui Barre, Alta., set up three goals.

RETURNED AFTER INJURY

Bourbonnais, one of the steadiest players on the young squad, sat out the last two periods of the Sunday night game after he had suffered an ankle injury.

The game was rough, especially in the third period, and 4 penalties—nine against Canada—were called.

Neither side was happy with the refereeing, which Father Bauer called "incredible."

"I think it might be better if I did not make any comments tonight, the Canadian coach said after the game. "It will take me until morning to get over this."

Later, however, he relaxed and added: "I guess I'm not really mad. Look, I'm smiling."

Team manager Walter Bush of the U.S. was not smiling.

"There was a great deal of speeding and tripping which the referees did not call," he said. The rough third period, when nine penalties were imposed for such things as slashing, elbowing, holding and tripping, had left many of the U.S. players with welts and bruises.

U.S. TEAMS PROTEST

"Most of those welts weren't called," said Bush as he announced that he would protest the officiating and demand that Swedish referee Ole Wiking not be assigned to any further U.S. games.

U.S. goalkeeper Tom Yurkovich, who missed two games after injuring his knee in the U.S. lost 5-1 to Russia in its opening game, here, was replaced by Pat Rupp in the second period.

Coach Eddy Jeremiah said Yurkovich asked to be taken out after letting in four goals in 10 minutes of play. He also added: "You have to blame it on the knee."

Father Bauer used Ken Broderick of Toronto in goal Monday night. Veteran Seth Martin of Trail, B.C., had manned the other three games and Broderick had played only the third period of the first two.

Broderick played well, kicking out 32 U.S. shots while Yurkovich and Rupp handled 67 between them.

The victory, before a capacity crowd of 11,000, was Canada's first over the U.S. in Olympic competition since the RCAF team from Ottawa whipped the Americans 12-3. The U.S. last Canada's first over the U.S. in Olympic competition since the RCAF team from Ottawa whipped the Americans 12-3. The U.S. last Canada met in Olympic Games and beat the Canadians 4-1 in 1956 and 2-1 in 1960 when it won the Olympic gold medal and Canada finished second.

'Goalie-Out' Strategy Backfires

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — Hey coach! Here's a piece of advice next time you're thinking of yanking the goalie for an extra forward to get you that tying goal:

Don't do it.

It's probably going to cost you another goal.

There is a strong suspicion that virtually all members of the hockey coaching fraternity are aware of this implication.

But how can you expect a guy to stand on the sidelines and do nothing—apart from grimace and grind the chewing gum—while his team blows a game?

Statistics based on National Hockey League play so far this season bear out rather conclusively that it's sheer folly to take the gamble, nonetheless.

For one thing, they show that in the majority of cases nothing happens either way. But when a goal is scored, it's far more likely to be a product of the team that's on-up, anyway.

In the 201 games played so far, the occasions when a goalie might be lifted—a situation where a team is a goal down with scant seconds to play—has arisen 23 times.

STRATEGY REVIVED

Ron Andrews, the NHL's rookie statistician, says the strategem is normally applied in about 80 per cent of these situations.

Only once has it worked.

That was Dec. 4 in Chicago when Bobby Hull beat Boston's Eddie Johnston with a shot for his 31 seconds before the game ended to give the Black Hawks a 2-2 tie. With the goalie out, Glenn Hall was removed for an additional Chicago attacker.

But although he places nothing out the goalie has wound up simply a prelude to the club in front dumping the puck into that wide-open net.

Hall, Toronto's Don Simmons and New York's Jacques Plante have all watched in anguish from the bench while the opposition collected a hit goal—twice against their clubs.

Johnston and Montreal's Charlie Hodge meanwhile have been sideline victims once each. It must hurt badly. The goalies are charged up against the netminder's record in the competition for the Vezina Trophy, which goes to the goaltender who has played the most games for the club with the best defensive record.

HALL TOP GOALIE

Hall and the Black Hawks are still in front after the week's play, yielding an average of 2.28 goals a game to the opposition, down from 2.28 the previous week. The man they call "Mr. Goal" gave up six goals in three games.

Bernie Geoffrion leads with Boomer and Don Simmons (second choice of Montreal) and Hodge into the top three. Boomer dropping the team average six points—from 2.52 to 2.52. He was beaten five times in three games.

On the offensive side, Chicago's Stan Mikita boosted his league-leading point total to 70 with a six-point week in the individual scoring competition. He scored five goals and added an assist.

Would Like Ploen, Thornton As Eye Bomber Quarters

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference are trying to make a deal with the Western Conference Winnipeg Blue Bombers for an experienced quarterback.

The Alouettes announced Monday they have offered Blue Bomber coach Bud Grant "players and cash" for either quarterbacks Ken Ploen or Dick Thornton. Details of the offer were not made public.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, the 1963 Grey Cup champions, spurned two Montreal offers last week for their veteran quarterback Bernie Faloney.

The Alouettes first offered $25,000 cash for Faloney, and when this was rejected, they countered with an offer of $15,000 and an un-named player.

"We are going to pull out all stops to get an experienced quarterback," an Alouette spokesman said.

The Alouettes went through last season with two rookie quarterbacks after releasing the highly-touted Sandy Stephens, picked up by Toronto Argonauts.

Minor Pros To Discuss New Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Three representatives of the American Hockey League will meet with representatives of the Western Hockey League in Chicago Wednesday, Jim Ellery, publicity director of the American League, said Monday that Eddie Shore, president of Springfield Indians, Terry Reardon, general manager of Baltimore Clippers, and Ruby Pasture, president of Buffalo Bisons, will represent the league.

Among the items expected to be discussed at the meeting Wednesday is an equitable player draft involving the National Hockey League, the AHL and the WHL.

Year Ban If Player Strikes Ref.

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Hockey League Monday passed a rule automatically suspending a player for a year if he attacks a referee. Tom Lockhart, league president, said officials include referees, linesmen, scorers, timekeepers, timekeepers and penalty timekeepers. He said there have been a number of instances this season when a player has attacked an official, and the player was fined or suspended for several games.

French Sisters Steal Ski Spotlight

Family Grand Slam?

By ROD CURRIE

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Two French sisters will be shooting for a family grand slam in Olympic Alpine skiing Thursday when they push off in the women's downhill at the ninth Winter Olympic Games.

Christine and Marielle Goitschel, daughters of French innkeeper, are the pick of the field in the third and final event on the women's Alpine program here. Even if they lose, they'll go home as heroines.

They've already given France its first gold medals in women's skiing since the Winter Olympics began—and they've done it in unprecedented fashion by finishing one-two (Christine-Marielle) in the special slalom and one-two (Marielle-Christine) in the giant slalom.

Today they'll be plotting strategy for the downhill while competitors are decided in the men's 500-metre speedskating, the biathlon and—if the weather's cold enough to keep the toboggan run frozen — in men's and women's single luge.

POSTPONE LUGE RUNS

The final two runs in the luge singles, on the Olympic program for the first time, had to be postponed from Monday when a thaw that set in Sunday sent streams of water running down the ice chute. Cooler weather Monday prompted officials to reschedule the events.

The men's compulsory figure skating also will be completed today with the skating of the last three figures, but the title will not be decided until after Thursday's freeskating, of Manfred Schneiddorfer of West Germany, the 24 skaters with 3633 points after Monday's first two figures. Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia was second with 3528.9 and Alain Calmat of France, the favorite, was third with 3477.

Donald Knight, a 16-year-old Dundas, Ont., high school student, was a surprising entry after the first two figures while Canadian champion Dr. Charles Snelling of Welland was 12th and Billy Neale of Fort Erie, Ont., 18th.

HOCKEY TEAM IDLE

Three championship - round hockey games—Russia vs. Finland, Sweden vs. Germany and Canada vs. Switzerland —also were on tap today.

Canada, which defeated the United States 4-0 Monday night, was idle today, resuming action in the seven-game round-robin tournament Wednesday against Finland.

Never before has a sister combination won both the gold and silver medals in an event.

Marielle, at 18 the younger of the two and a tomboyish lass with a penchant for practical jokes, sped to victory in the women's giant slalom Monday.

Her 19-year-old sister finished in a second-place tie with Jean Saubert of the United States and each got a silver medal. No bronze was awarded.

Last Saturday, the picture was reversed as Christine flashed to victory in the two-run slalom while her younger sister finished second.

Miss Saubert finished third that time and is rated as the strongest threat to the French sisters in the downhill.

THE UNPRECEDENTED

Marielle won Monday in one minute, 52.34 seconds. Her sister and Miss Saubert tied in 1:54.11—a tie without precedent in the Olympics and seemingly impossible now that electric clocks, measuring in hundredths of a second, are used.

Marielle took in the world's props with a romantic hoax Monday.

Soon after she'd won the gold medal, she announced to one and all that she was engaged to French skier Jean-Claude Killy.

"I am happy and I am in love," she beamed—and her sister confirmed the engagement.

Jean-Claude later ungallantly broke the whistle, saying: "It's a joke of a tomboy. We like each other, but there never was, nor will there be, any question of marriage."

Canadians were well behind in the giant slalom, Nancy Green of Rossland, B.C., finishing 16th, Nancy Holland of St. Sauveur des Monts, Que., 31st, Linda Crutchfield of Shawinigan, Que., 32nd and Karen Dukka of Burnaby, B.C., 34th.

Tormod Knutsen, a 22-year-old Norwegian with legs of steel, won the other gold medal awarded Monday as he gave Norway its first gold championship of the Games by capturing the men's nordic combined title.

No Canadians were entered.

Second game in the two-out-three semi-final series will be played next Monday night. Winners of this series meet: Public Works for the championship.

In an exhibition game, Public Works downed SACO, top club from the Quinte League, by a 7-3 score.

RCAF Lead Cut By Lightfoots

A strong second-half performance carried Belleville Lightfoots to an important 70-63 victory over Trenton RCAF Flyers in a Bay of Quinte Basketball League game played at the air station last night.

Lightfoots pulled to within two points of the loop-leading RCAF squad with the victory.

RCAF led the Belleville boys 37-28 at half time and appeared to be headed for another win. Lightfoots tightened their defence greatly and followed up with a good offensive, outscoring the home clubs 42-26 in the second half.

Larry Campbell, of Belleville, checked RCAF's Will Borden very closely in the second half and held the high scorer to three points. Borden had hooped 17 in the first half for a 20-point total. Arlen Burleigh was also a double-figures man for the losers with 13 points.

For Lightfoots, Doug Rose paced the comeback by sinking 15 of his 21 points in the second half while Gord Smith got all 12 of his after the half-way mark. Don Smith was the club's top scorer with 22 points.

Belleville Lightfoots (70) — G. Reynolds, D. Smith 22, D. Rose 21, K. Campbell 5, G. Duggan, G. Smith 12, T. Boring, L. Houchin 7, B. Smith, W. Whitley 3.

Quebec Entry In Minor League

'Rifles' New Football Image

By JOE DUPUIS

MONTREAL (CP) Quebec Rifles are going to create "a whole new league" on Canada's professional football scene, general - manager J. I. Albrecht said Monday.

The Rifles are the new Canadian entry in the United Football League, a U.S. - based minor-pro circuit with eight teams from Charleston, Syracuse, Grand Rapids, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Erie, Flint and Wheeling, W.Va.

Albrecht presided at the team's first press reception but spoke only briefly in introducing Coach Clair Bee and Chief President George Gareff of Columbus Ohio.

While flashbulbs popped and reporters swarmed around him, Etcheverry held up a sample of the new team's uniform—blue and white with a fleur-de-lis on the helmet. "We got the idea for the color combination and design from the Quebec flag," said Bill Katz.

COACHES ON HAND

Also on hand were the assistant coaches, Frank Filchock, 47, who sparked the Alouettes to their 1949 Grey Cup victory; Herb Trawick, and George Brancato, who will also play.

Etcheverry said he will quarterback the new outfit and that the UFL is an amateur operation. "I can't stress too much how hard it is to get by in the UFL. There is such a wealth of material that is being wasted with no place to go," he said, mentioning that 3,000 football players graduate from U.S. colleges each year.

The UFL, he said, absorbs a lot of this talent, and much of it is high quality.

"We are starting from scratch," he said. "But we'll have a strong, contending team. I don't anticipate any difficulties in getting players."

THEY'RE PLAYERED

Gareff said the ULF was "plattered" at receiving the National franchise. "I hope we can do you justice, and show you football of which you'll be proud." he said in a brief speech.

Later, he cautioned against the notion that the new UFL is an amateur operation. "I can't stress too much how hard it is to get by in the UFL. There is such a wealth of material that is being wasted with no place to go," he said, mentioning that 3,000 football players graduate from U.S. colleges each year.

The UFL, he said, absorbs a lot of this talent, and much of it is high quality.

Has Three Scoring Records

Sasky Junior NHL-Bound

By RON MacDONALD

REGINA (CP)—Frank Huck has lived his entire life across the street from one of the numerous skating and hockey rinks operated by the City of Regina.

He's been skating on that rink since he was about three years old and he started playing organized hockey there in the City Parks League when he was six.

Now he is 18 and the hottest player in the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League.

He has a single-minded devotion to hockey that he admits has sometimes been at the expense of his schoolwork. He barely passed four Grade 12 Christmas examinations — and failed another.

But on the credit side Huck, still far from finishing his first full season in the SJHL, already can point to three scoring records and a good chance of breaking a fourth.

He has broken the all-time league record for goals scored in a single season (66 by Gordon Turtle of Prince Albert Mintos in 1950-60), has scored three goals a game in three consecutive games and in 12 games altogether this season for two more records.

Del Wilson, manager of Regina Pats, Huck's team, and chief scout for the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens, says after watching the youth work his way up through the Pats' minors chain that he is "the hottest professional prospect in Western Canada."

SCHOOL COMES FIRST

But Huck isn't looking for a professional hockey career just yet.

"I want to get my education first," he says. "I want to go to Teachers' College. Except for Christmas, my marks have been good enough for college. Last year I had a 64-per-cent average."

Huck says his parents "would like to see me study a little harder" but they generally leave the problem of balancing schoolwork and hockey to him.

Balancing the two is a problem. In a normal week the Pats play three games. Each home game requires about three hours of his time after school and each away-from-home game up to nine hours.

Every night of the week the Pats have a practice which takes up another 1½ hours. And that isn't enough for Huck, who likes to get in an hour or so of practice himself at least one night a week.

"I used to practice on my own a lot more, but after my marks at Christmas I'm trying to keep it down to one night," he says. "Even now outside of hockey and studying I haven't got much time.

Huck will be paid a certain amount by the Pats but he doesn't know yet how much because the greater part will be a bonus for his performance this year.

MONEY FOR COLLEGE

The money he makes is going straight into the bank, where he already has almost $1,000 stashed away for college.

Huck keeps busy in the summer, too, staying in shape doing "heavy" work with a construction company and playing third base for Regina Red Sox of the Southern Saskatchewan Baseball League. He was Rookie of the Year in the SSBL in 1962. He has been playing organized baseball since he was eight.

Before getting heavily involved in hockey, he played basketball and football with high school teams.

He was born in Regina Dec 4, 1945, and grew up with two brothers and six sisters. A quiet, almost retiring individual, he is physically small for a hockey player at five-foot-seven and 157 pounds but he obviously isn't letting that bother him.

He says that except for the increased attention of fans and opposing players during hockey games, life now that he is a hockey phenomenon goes on much the same as before.

Even the professional hockey scouts have so far stayed away. "They don't say much to you," Huck says. "That's okay, though. I don't want to sign a professional card for a while yet."

Won It In Second Period

Islanders Down Juniors 5-3

Gananoque Islanders used a two-goal spread in the second period to register a 5-3 victory over the Belleville "B"s in the Thousand Island town last night.

There were also two other games played in the OHA Eastern Junior grouping. Napanee Rod Wings moved into first place by edging Picton Merchants 7-6 in Napanee. Peterborough Monaseo won their second straight decision over Kingston Frontenacs, clipping the K. boys 7-4 in Peterborough.

Napanee now leads the loop with 24 points while Picton has 23 and Gananoque 22 in the tight three-way race for top honors.

In Gananoque, the Belleville squad held leads of 1-0 and 3-2 but were unable to stop the Islanders in the middle frame. It was 1-1 after one period and 4-2 going into the third when the teams once again split a pair of goals.

Jim "Buck" Pringle, Bob Boyle and Grant Hagerman accounted for the Belleville goals. Jim Rutherford and Boyle each earned a pair of assists and Grant Hagerman had one.

Pringle gave the "B"s a 1-0 lead at 12.06 of the first with Roantree knotting the count at 17.47 with Belleville two men short.

Boyle again put Belleville in front at 1.04 of the second and two minutes later R. Hall made it a 2-2 contest.

Two quick goals, Roantree at 11.52 and Higgins at 11.56, gave Gananoque the two-goal lead. Belleville made it a tight game in the third but Hall and Bill Lang toggled at 12.19. Each got an minor and a major but Lang also had a game misconduct tacked on his total. Ted Boyle picked up majors for fighting at 15.10 as the action roughened.

Belleville makes its next start on February 13 in Picton.

Finley, City Agree to More Talk

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles O. Finley asked city officials Monday for another meeting here Thursday in their protracted dispute over a stadium lease for his Kansas City Athletics.

Carleton F. Sharpe, city manager, agreed to the meeting after Finley telephoned him from his Chicago offices. Sharpe said Finley didn't elaborate on whether he would make any new proposals.

The American League turned down Finley's bid to move the club to Louisville and ordered him to sign a lease by Feb. 1 or face expulsion from the league. Last week the league extended the deadline to Feb. 15.

The meeting last week broke up with the city and Finley far apart than ever and the lease, Finley insists he would risk bankruptcy by signing for more than two years and the city stood firm on its stand that a four-year pact is needed to remove the threat of the club leaving the city.

Mentioned As Candidate

'Jungle Jim' Eagles Coach?

PHILADELPHIA (CP-AP)—Jim Trimble has been mentioned as a candidate for the coaching job of Philadelphia Eagles, a team he once led in the National Football League.

Trimble, who came to Canada in 1956 to coach Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League and now is coach of Montreal Alouettes, was among those mentioned Monday when Jerry Wolman, new owner of the Eagles, disclosed he is considering a list of candidates to replace Nick Skorich who has been released.

Wolman's ownership of the Eagles became official Monday when he handed over $5,505,000 to a group of businessmen who bought the club in 1949 for $300,000.

Wolman hopes to make an announcement on a coach by today.

"We feel it is more important to make sure we get the right man than getting him quickly."

He says he has talked with Otto Graham, former Cleveland Browns' quarterback and pro coach at the U.S. Coast Guard Academy.

Syd Howe Would Like 'One Record'

OTTAWA (CP)—It was 20 years ago Monday when Syd Howe set a modern National Hockey League scoring record when he fired six goals to lead Detroit Red Wings to win over New York Rangers.

Now 52 and a civil servant here, Howe said he watched television Saturday "with more interest than most hockey fans" when Bobby Rousseau scored five goals as Canadiens beat Detroit 9-3.

"Records are made to be broken," said the former centre. "But it is fun at least to keep one record if possible."

Howe recalled that he had scored four goals in the first two periods against Rangers and that his coach, Jack Adams, put him on left wing in the third to give him more scoring chances.

The all-time scoring record is held by Joe Malone of the old Quebec Bulldogs. He fired seven goals against Toronto St. Pats Jan. 31, 1920.

Reporter Released On Bail

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Miles Nadal, Associated Press lance sports writer, was released on bail Monday after spending nearly 24 hours in jail on a charge of assaulting an Austrian policeman at the Winter Olympic Games.

Police said he is to be tried Wednesday.

Besides posting bail for an undisclosed amount, Sone also had to surrender his passport and Olympic press credentials to police.

The spokesman said Sone was in the box reserved for special guests and refused to leave when asked to do so by the policeman. When the policeman tried forcibly to eject Sone, the Canadian struck him, the spokesman alleged.

Sone is the third newspaper man here to run afoul of police during the Games. A French-man and an American were fined earlier.

Lucille Ball's Retirement Hits CBS Where It Hurts

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The with-'n' roll group called The Besties. Ed Sullivan will put the quartet live on his CBS show for two consecutive weeks.

The network is swamped with requests for tickets to the show —50,000 by the end of last week. The theatre seats only 723.

Requests by CBS's reporter-dents, even sponsors, have been turned down.

Dorothy Kirsten's daughter, Terrance Knight, has had a sharp change in format Sunday night when he gave Ella Fitzgerald and Sammy Davis Jr. 30 minutes each for their turns. Usually the program moves so fast that, if you didn't like the act, you just wait a minute or two for the next one.

Recommended tonight: Cuba: The Bay of Pigs, NBC, 10-11 EST—Documentary which is the first of two "white papers" on American foreign policy affecting Cuba.

Lucille Ball's withdrawal of Lucille Ball from weekly situation comedy has hit CBS where it hurts most—in the powerful lineup of panel games and comedy that helped turn Monday into the night with the week's heaviest viewing.

The announcement that Lucy would end the series after this season obviously surprised network programmers. They started frantically looking at pilot shows for a comedy replacement.

Danny Thomas' impending departure tore the first big hole in next season's Monday night schedule and CBS expected to patch that with something called December Grove.

Now there is another vital half-hour open.

Established, well-loved situation comedy stars—of Ball and Thomas stature are rare.

The most extraordinary goings-on surround the appearance next Sunday of the British rock

Sought New Acting Career Deep in Viet Nam Jungle

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "You can't go on playing juveniles when you've got grey hair," reasons Marshall Thompson. That helps explain his search for a new career, a career that took him deep into the jungles of Viet Nam.

Marshall is the tall, slender actor who played many a boy-next-door at MGM a decade ago. He left the lot to play the independent field, as well as star in the Angel television series. But as strands of grey began to creep into his blonde thatch, he realized he needed a new "dynamic" in his career.

"I wanted to make a movie of my own—to direct, produce and act in it," he said. "I figured the best chance to hit the market would be to make a good war story that was timely. And what could be more timely than the war in Viet Nam?"

"I had hoped to shoot the picture in five weeks," said Marshall, the only Caucasian in the company. "It took seven. The language barrier was enormous. We had to move the location every 10 days.

SAFE IN SAIGON

"The authorities said we were safe in Saigon, but they couldn't assure our safety outside. We were shooting from five to 30 miles outside the city, and we got used to hearing the pop-pop-pop of gunfire during love scene.

"The reason we had to move every 10 days was simple. We were being watched by the Viet Cong at all times. Our scouts figured it took the Cong five days to report our whereabouts to headquarters and five days to return with troops."

Once the company didn't move soon enough. Marshall said he felt a burning sensation on his back and discovered he had been grazed by a rifle shot. One actor was shot through the hand.

Marshall came back to Hollywood with 35,000 feet of film, which he fashioned into a feature. Both Allied Artists and MGM wanted to release it, but he chose Allied because he figured a smaller company would give the film more push. It has been titled A Yank in Viet Nam and will be released with a Van Heflin war film, Cry of Battle.

PRIVATE WORLD

For the first time, the screen dares to look beneath the makeup, behind the fancy clothes and into the most primitive, private affairs of the sex of the female in Joseph E. Levine's Technicolor adventure "Women of the World," which arrived yesterday at the Park Theatre. This fascinating, shocking and completely authentic account of women in 39 different countries was brilliantly directed by Gualtiero Jacopetti, the creator of the sensational "Mondo Cane." The Embassy Pictures release also features a superbly written script, humorously delivered by noted actor-author, Peter Ustinov.

Taking in such exotic lands where man has never been and never sight that man has never seen, Jacopetti has put together a memorable entertainment that is like nothing you have ever experienced. Every view of "Women of the World" is a photographic gem . . . an adventure into the unusual and provocative.

Among the many never-before-photographed scenes revealed are the notorious "Winter Girls" of Sweden, cavorting their "customers" in broad daylight; the fabulous pearl divers of Japan, challenging the perils of the sea while their men merely sit and watch; women in the agony and ecstacy of actual childbirth in special Swedish clinics; primitive sex rituals of the women of Borneo and Africa; the "children of the night" in Paris.

Every incredible scene is real and as it is dramatically narrated in this exciting Technicolor panorama, it remains etched in your mind's eye as one of the most stimulating and breathtaking depictions of the distaff sex ever captured by the camera.

The female has always been a mystery and here at last is a film that shows her in her most secrets . . . women at play, at work, hail and hail, half-dressed, young, old, little, big, married, single, kept women and mean, and women, things never before known and never before shown about women. "Women of the World" is for a global adventure spiced with imagination and beauty, here is an opportunity to see the curves of mankind's greatest creation, in her infinite variety.

Not to go unmentioned is the brilliant camera work of Jacopetti's crew headed by Antonio Climati and Benito Frattari. And the exciting score by Nino Olivero and Ritz Ortolani is the perfect tempo for this tempestuous treat.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

By GORDIE HOWE

When it comes to warding off checkers, staying out means trying to move in on you and take the puck away from you, my role for one of the greatest performers in that department goes to a fellow by the name of Bert Olmstead.

If there are movies of Olmstead working in the corners, digging up the puck behind the net, I think they would make outstanding training films for hockey players seeking to learn the fine points or puck control under great pressure.

I think he was one of the greatest players I've ever seen. He was possibly one of the main reasons why Montreal had such a fantastic power play a few years back.

He played the left side and he'd stay well wide of the net. He had good puck control and he was a good passer. But his greatest asset was his ability to stay on his feet and keep his body between the checker trying to get the puck away from him and the puck.

In order to get through him you had to either go around him or under him. There was no such thing as getting to the puck by a direct route when Olmstead had it.

On a power play, if they had the puck in our end, say, for the matter of a minute, with a 40 per cent of that time he'd have possession of the puck.

He'd work for that his opportunity. I don't know how he was able to know the position of his teammates because he'd keep his back to the fellow trying to check him, keep him away from the puck.

Montreal would send a big guy like Jean Beliveau about 20 feet out in front of the net. Olmstead would split second timing, would throw it out in front. If it was within six feet of him, Jean would get a good piece of it and bang, bang, it was in the net as a rule.

When Olmstead went to Toronto, I think he was one of the reasons the Leafs were able to take the cup in 1962 for the first time in 11 years.

IOOF CARD PARTY

STIRLING — The three IOOF lodges in Stirling villages sponsored a card party at the IOOF lodge hall, Charlotte St., on Wednesday evening, January 29th, with an attendance of 90 people; guests were in attendance from Belleville, Campbellford, Springbrook, Mt. Pleasant, Bonarlaw, Wellman's and Johnstown. There were 23 tables in play.

Noble Grand Glenn Bush, of IOOF, No. 229, welcomed the guests and announced a dance in Stirling community hall in February.

Mac Sharp was financial treasurer and the receipts of the evening were over $62. The proceeds are designated for the International Peace Garden Entrance Gates, which is sponsored by the IOOF organization.

Charles Carter extended birthday felicitation to one of the players, Miss Delia Descent who will observe her 80th birthday anniversary on St. Valentine's Day, February 14, and she was tendered an ovation.

The awards were:

Ladies' high, Mrs. Charles Carter, Burnbrae; low, Mrs. William Harry, Johnstown; Men's high, Claude Tucker; low, Bert Bedford. Lone hand, Glenn Bush; birthday, Mrs. D. Polloch.

The kitchen conveners were Mrs. Mac Sharp and Mrs. Harold Johnson of Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 211. The lodge members of No. 239 served an abundance of sandwiches, cookies, cake and tarts,' and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Calls 'Funny Hill' Gay Little Book

LONDON (Reuters) — British novelist and literary critic Marghanita Laski describes the 200-year-old novel Fanny Hill, the subject of a court case here, as a "jolly" and "gay little book."

Miss Laski testified in Bow Street magistrates' court for the defence Saturday supporting the publication of John Cleland's novel published The Memoirs of a Woman of Pleasure.

London book sellers G. Gold and Sons were ordered to show why 171 seized copies of the book should not be destroyed under the Obscene Publications Act of 1959.

Publication would be granted if the defence can prove publication is justified because the book has scientific or literary merit or is of legitimate general interest.

Pitcairn Island May Be Abandoned in Near Future

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Pitcairn Island, the remote mid-Pacific island on which the Bounty mutineers settled, is in danger of being abandoned.

Mutineers' descendants are leaving their island home in great numbers and the population now is the lowest it has been for many years.

The island's total population is down to 83, including only 15 males between the ages of 15 and 60. Nearly every ship calling at the island takes small groups of islanders to New Zealand, where many of them are settling. Most of them think that there is little future at Pitcairn.

The island has known many ups and downs since the Bounty mutineers arrived there in 1790. It may overcome the new crisis, but certainly some of the older folk will stay there until they die.

WILL COMPEL CHANGE

But the present crisis will soon compel drastic changes in the way of life of the islanders if they are to survive in their isolated home.

There now are only just enough men to man a longboat. It takes 14 men to handle one of these. They are used for communication with passing ships and to obtain supplies of wood from a neighboring island for carving curios.

The main source of income on the island has been curio carving. But today so few ships call at the island that there are only enough curios for a few people.

Ships of the New Zealand Shipping Company, the island's passenger liners which used to make a stop at Pitcairn, no longer do. Only four liners actually call at Pitcairn and they carry a minimum of 60 passengers.

The threat of radioactive fallout from the proposed French nuclear test site at Mururoa Atoll, not far away, is another reason why Pitcairners despair for the future.

There also are fewer children on the island. Two years ago the school roll was 30. Today it is down to 21.

LAST McCOY DIES

The last of the McCoy line on Pitcairn died a few months ago. Now the male lines of only two of the nine mutineers who settled on Pitcairn are still represented—descendants of Fletcher Christian and Midshipman Young.

The history of Pitcairn has been marked by violence and hardships, but also by piety and faith. The original community of mutineers was almost wiped out by violence and murder in the early years.

But many children had been born and a substantial half-caste population developed. The numbers grew too large for the island to maintain, and at different times the population was moved to Tahiti, back to Pitcairn, and later to Norfolk Island, in the middle of the last century. But many returned to Pitcairn once more to re-establish the Bounty line.

Left almost alone in their remote island, their numbers increased once more. Few people came or went and the Pitcairners developed a distinctive appearance and mode of speech, with some archaic English usages surviving.

Yet inbreeding among a few families brought little sign of deterioration in vitality. The people are healthy, strong, religious and straight-forward.

Their descendants are being made into other ways of earning a livelihood for the islanders.

Russians Win Biathlon 'Gold, Silver'

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Russia's Vladimir Melanin won the biathlon gold medal at the Winter Olympic Games today and officials placed another Russian, Alexander Privalov, ahead of a Norwegian for the second-place silver medal.

The biathlon combines cross-country skiing and rifle shooting at targets.

Melanin also led his team to victory in the world championships of the biathlon which are run separate to the Olympics.

The 24-year-old Russian student won the event with a perfect rifle score, hitting all 20 targets, while aiding cross country over a 20-kilometre course. His official time was one hour, 26.8 minutes for the 12.4-mile distance.

A check of the biathlon targets by the officials elevated Privalov from third place to the second ahead of Norway's Olan Jordet. Privalov had been given two penalty minutes for missing a target at 100 metres. A check showed that he had not missed the target.

Penalty minutes are added to the actual time it takes a skier to cover the course. Therefore Privalov was clocked in 1:23:42.5 and 20 hits and Jordet 1:23:58 and 19 hits.

There were no Canadian entries.

German Wins Toboggan Gold Medal

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Thomas Koehler won the men's individual event today and gave Germany its second gold medal in Olympic Games tobogganing. Ortrun Enderlein won the women's singles earlier today.

The Germans dominated both the men's and women's events in the first tobogganing events ever staged in Olympic history. They took five of the six medals.

Koehler, a 23-year-old student from East Germany, edged out teammate Klaus Michael Bonsack.

The winner finished with an aggregate time for the four runs in three minutes, 28.77 seconds. Bonsack had 3:27.04 and Hans Plenk made it a sweep for Germany by taking the bronze medal with a total time of 3:30.15.

RACING STARTS

POMPANO Beach, Fla. (AP) Harness racing begins at Pompano Park tonight and officials expect some 15,000 persons for the first appearance of trotters and pacers in South Florida. The sparkling new plant, 35 miles north of Miami, has grandstand seats for 5,050 although only four of the seven levels have been completed.

Wins First Gold Medal For Americans

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Terry McDermott won the first gold medal for the United States in the Winter Olympic Games today when he captured the 500-metre men's speedskating championship in Olympic record time of 40.1 seconds. The previous mark of 40.2 was set by Eugene Grishin in 1956.

Grishin today finished in a triple tie for second place with Jan Bols of Holland and Arkadiy Gjestvang of Norway. All three will get a silver medal in the bronze award made.

McDermott, a barber from Evaserville, Mich., gave the U.S. its first Olympic speedskating gold medal since 1952.

Kalii Suzuki of Japan took fifth place with 40.7 and Ed Rudolph of the United States was sixth in 40.9.

Minor Hockey

Trenton Peewee All-Stars edged Belleville MacCormack's Peewee All-Stars 4-3 in an exhibition game played in Trenton Monday evening.

The Trenton Lions Club meet in a return tilt in Belleville Friday night at 8.15. Belleville Bantam Goldsmiths meet the Cobourg Bantan All-Stars in another exhibition at 9.45 the same night.

EQUALS RECORD

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Billy Foster of Southern Methodist equalled the world's indoor record of 6.0 seconds Monday night in the 60-yard dash at the Ludbock indoor track and field meet. Foster's time tied a record set by Herb Carper in 1960 and equalled by four other runners since then, including Bob Hayes of Florida twice this year.

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle

"It's my first painting. I'm rather proud of it."

Badly Beaten, Will Be Back

Mayor's Lady Puck Coach

QUEBEC (CP) — "We may have been beaten badly but we'll be back here next year and to win, even if we have to be rougher. And even if I have to fight myself."

They're familiar words, of course, coming from a hockey coach.

But not from a woman, and especially not from the wife of the mayor of London, Ont.

But Dorothy Stronach drops all femininity when it comes time to lead her hockey team into combat.

"Those guys really wanted to rub it in," she fumed after Toronto Torrids had humiliated her team 11-1 in Class AA competition Monday in the International Peewee Hockey tournament.

"But we showed them, didn't we?—by scoring a goal to keep them honest."

Someone suggested that when London finally did score late in the game it was only 8-0 and perhaps a big one next year shaping up.

"You can laugh," she said. "But we'll not be beaten like this next year. I'm proud of this team, it's a young team, but next year it will be strong-er."

The Londoners could do nothing against the superior Torrids, a highly-rated team that goes against another favorite, Peterborough, in today's second round. The Pats downed Trois-Rivieres, Que., 5-0.

Three other teams, all from Toronto advanced to the second round in Class AA. Cedar Hill upset Toronto Wexford 4-1, Don Mills defeated Ottawa 3-0 and Toronto Township rallied to edge Montreal Verdun 3-2 in overtime.

Gary Crosby paced the Torrids with four goals, Bruce Parsons and Brian added two apiece and Stew Lake, Bob Groom and Doug Marrett contributed singles. Larry Little scored for London.

Only the goaltending of Nick Terkman kept the Ottawa crew from taking a big lead over Don Mills in the first half of the game. But Don Mills rallied behind Cavin Kirk's second-period goal and added insurance markers by Andy Carruthers and Steve Mitchell in the third.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most importan of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

From Coalpit to Cabinet, Cape Breton's MacEachen Has Climbed Far and Fast

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — Allan MacEachen has climbed from the coalpits of Cape Breton to the cabinet of Canada.

His rise has been swift—university professor at 25, member of Parliament at 32, minister of labor at 41.

"There is an old saying," he once said, "that the rung of a ladder was never meant to rest upon but only to hold a man's foot long enough to enable him to put the other somewhat higher up."

Just there the next step will lead the bachelor Nova Scotian is uncertain, but most Ottawa observers agree he is destined for higher duties.

Some see him as a future finance minister. A protege of Prime Minister Pearson, he is also regarded as a potential heir to the 66-year-old Liberal leader.

In the latest cabinet shuffle, Mr. MacEachen firmly resisted opposition that he add the often-thankless task of government leader in the Commons to his responsibilities. As both labor minister and government house leader, he would have gained a formidable and added prestige, but he apparently felt the price of being tied down by day-to-day pressures of Parliament was too high.

BUILDS UP JOB

Soon after becoming labor minister last year, he set out to build up the portfolio from the cabinet's second echelon to a key front-bench, policy-making job.

The National Employment Service was given new powers and more staff and put to work to develop an integrated manpower program. A new manpower consultative service was set up within the department to tackle technological problems. Experts were put to work to fashion a new labor code, overhaul the unemployment insurance program and draft revisions to the industrial relations act.

He was barely on the job when he faced two of the toughest labor challenges of his political career — government trusteeship to clean up labor lawlessness on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River dock strike that threatened grain shipments to the Soviet Union.

His patience, tact and timing in handling both potentially explosive situations won him widespread acclaim and catapulted his name and ability into the political limelight.

COOL UNDER FIRE

His name (it rhymes with reckon) may have been mispronounced, even misspelled, but he quickly became sharply aware of the black - haired, somewhat scholarly man who gained identified by the ironfisted reputation of Seafarers international Union boss Hal C. Banks.

Organized labor was impressed by the cool-headed way the new minister refused to buckle under pressure for government intervention to stop the legal strike of the longshoremen.

During the almost endless negotiations over the trusteeship plan, Mr. MacEachen not only won labor's respect but also gained its promise of cooperation in making the public trusteeship work, a major accomplishment.

As the son of a trade unionist and a specialist in labor economics, he viewed as a friend by most trade union leaders. He delighted the officers of the Canadian Labor Congress by calling on them after his appointment, instead of waiting for them to make their usual courtesy call on him.

Allan Joseph MacEachen's relationship with labor began almost from birth in 1921 in the raw, bleak world of coal mining on Nova Scotia's rugged Cape Breton. He was the youngest of three sons of a Gaelic-speaking miner.

ROSE FROM POVERTY

"People had a hell of hard time," he recalls.

At school he discovered that poverty needn't be inevitable.

"My most vivid impression of my studies was when the realization came that something could be done to improve conditions."

That's when he began his ascent from the coalpits to the cabinet. I took him from St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish, N.S., to the University of Toronto, the University of Chicago and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Awarded his master's degree from the University of Toronto in 1946, he returned immediately to his alma mater, St. F.X., as professor of economics. In 1948, he was made head of the university's department of social sciences.

In 1951, he enrolled at MIT's department of economics and social sciences to work on his doctorate. About this time he made his first bid for a Liberal nomination and failed.

He tried again in 1953 and won the nomination in his home riding of Inverness-Richmond—and a seat in Parliament. Mr. Pearson, then external affairs minister, struck up a friendship with the young backbencher. When Mr. MacEachen was defeated—by 126 votes—in the 1958 Conservative landslide, he remained in Ottawa as a backroom aide to Mr. Pearson.

EXPERT ON RULES

While hiding his time for the next election, he mastered the rules and procedures of Parliament, so that when he returned to the Commons in 1962 he became one of the Liberals' rules experts.

In the labor ministry, he emerged as an articulate prophet of preparedness and planning in economic affairs. His speeches hammered at the need for action now to steer the nation into the promised age of automated abundance without painful economic and social dislocation.

"Changes are inevitable," he warned the nation in his first Labor Day message. "They cannot be halted. But we do not wait for them to overtake us. We must try by intelligent planning to take some of the uncertainty out of the future."

He coaxed, enticed, even badgered labor and management to move closer together to plan for the future as partners.

"Labor and management are approaching a new maturity in their relations with each other," he said. "There is a trend toward a more continuous relationship, towards joint discussion of problems as they arise."

CLIMBED FROM COALPITS — Allan MacEachen, born in 1921 among Cape Breton's bleak coal mining country, has climbed rapidly in his career . . . to university professor at 25, member of Parliament at 32 and minister of labor in the Liberal government at 41. Many see the bachelor Nova Scotian as a potential heir to the party leadership of Prime Minister Pearson. (CP Photo)

Britain to Keep Nuclear Chair At Top Table

BURY, England (Reuters)—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home said Monday night he would not allow Britain to leave "an empty chair" at future East-West nuclear talks by unilaterally giving up its own atomic force.

"The sole result of abandoning our nuclear arm would be that Britain would not be able to sit at the top table when matters of nuclear policy are discussed between East and West," he said.

"I want to make it quite clear that I am not going to get out of that chair and I will not see it empty.

"France, when she has a nuclear arm, will be there," he said. "She is our close and valued ally. So, too, will China be and when she has a nuclear bomb. But they will not, if I have anything to do with it, supplant Britain."

Speaking at a Conservative party rally, Douglas-Home said Britain would work "all out" for balanced and complete disarmament.

The prime minister blamed communism for recent uprisings and unrest in Africa. He said these events make plain the true nature of the threat to freedom and independence.

"It is communism which subverts," Sir Alec said, "and nationalism and racialism are its ready tools."

Libel Actions Against CBC Are Dismissed

TORONTO (CP) — Two libel actions against the CBC, involving a defence lawyer Douglas Fisher, NDP member of Parliament for Port Arthur, were dismissed with costs at Osgoode Hall Monday.

Ronald Gostick of Flesherton, Ont., publisher of the Canadian Intelligence Service, and Pat Walsh of Ottawa, who describes himself as a freelance journalist in anti-Communist publications, complained of a CBC national broadcast Aug. 9 when Mr. Fisher was being interviewed on a program.

Gostick was suing for $100,000 and Walsh was asking $125,000.

Mr. Justice Gregory T. Evans granted the CBC application to dismiss the actions as vexatious and without cause.

Declines Comment on Rumor 300 Guards Going to Quebec

OTTAWA (CP)—Some authorities here are becoming uneasy about the defence department's economy-imposed retreat from the Arctic and sub-Arctic.

In the coming weeks, the RCAF will close out its operations at Resolute on Cornwallis Island and at Fort Churchill, Man., and the army will quit Churchill and the Alaska Highway.

At the same time, the transport department has announced reductions in its operations at Frobisher on Baffin Island.

Last year 20 stations on the distant early warning radar line in the Canadian Arctic were shut down. The western portion of the Mid-Canada warning line now is in the process of being dismantled.

On April 1 the last three Lancaster bombers which have been doing Arctic reconnaissance will be retired, leaving no plane except the even more ancient Dakota for this work.

Officials said Monday it will be 1968 at least before the defence department could obtain any long-range American F-111 jet fighter planes for reconnaissance.

IT'S NOT NEW

The defence department's withdrawal from the Arctic has been going on for a number of years.

The RCAF withdrawal is partly attributable, officials said, to the advent of bigger and longer-range planes.

RCAF and Army Will Quit Posts In Arctic Area

PICTON (Special) — A spokesman at Eastern Ontario Area headquarters at Kingston would not comment today on Battalion Canadian Guards here being used for security measures in the district.

He said that some troops are being used as military guards in parts of Eastern Ontario.

"If the Guards are to be used," he said, "it would mean a platoon or so, nothing more."

Lieut. Col. H .W. Mulherin, commanding officer of the Canadian Guards here said he was in no position to comment.

Earlier in the day rumors were prevalent to the extent that some 300 members of the Guards Battalion were being sent to Quebec.

Aged Woman Badly Burned In Bedroom Fire

PICTON (Staff)—Miss Ethel Hamill, 83, 88 Mary Street, is in Prince Edward Memorial Hospital with severe burns to 50 percent of her body as the result of a fire in the bedroom of her home at 10:15 a.m. Monday.

Fire Chief J. Nelson Bell, who responded to the alarm, said that Miss Hamill was in bed in a second floor bedroom, and when she got out of bed for a moment, her nightgown caught fire from contact with a small square toaster type heater used to help heat the bedroom.

Apparently, not knowing the gown was on fire, the injured woman climbed back into bed and the fire spread to the mattress and bed clothes.

Her younger sister, 77-year-old Laura, somehow managed to carry her downstairs and notify the fire department. She also called Dr. Fred Murphy, their physician.

The fire department moved the burning material from the house, and seeing the condition of the burned woman, Chief Bell called for an ambulance.

Dr. Murphy told the chief that Miss Hamill has severe burns, and at her age, "she faces a very uphill battle."

Miss Hamill was in hospital for a routine check-up and Jack Ward had left word that he might be about 15 minutes late. He was not able to arrive until 4.45 p.m. and, while he and chairman Gordon Nourse started on business at hand, another meeting will be held later this week.

Use of Hydro Shows Increase

PICTON — Figures on electric and water consumption in Picton contained in the monthly report of the Public Utilities Commission manager, H. C. Blakely, showed a continued increase in hydro use and a decrease in water use.

Hydro use for January totalled 2,077,920 kilowatt hours, an average of 69,029 kilowatt hours per day. The average for January of 1963 was 81,843.

Water consumption last month totalled 24,380,000 gallons, or an average of 786,742 gallons per day. January of last year saw an average use of 827,000 gallons per day.

In his report to the regular meeting of the commission, Mr. Blakely also reported progress on the new addition to the water purification plant. He said the roof has been completed and plastering of the inside walls is proceeding.

The meeting was called for 4.00 p.m. Mayor H. J. McFarland was in hospital for a

Terrorists Bomb U.S. Embassy Injuring Guard

Makarios Calls It Work Of 'Heinous Criminals'

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — An emergency airlift began removing hundreds of American women and children from this Mediterranean Seaside spot today as anti-American violence continued on Cyprus.

Terrorists bombed the American embassy in Nicosia Tuesday night, slightly injuring a Marine guard, then set ablaze two cars owned by U.S. government employees.

U.S. Ambassador Fraser Wilkins ordered a "voluntary" evacuation of American dependents to Beirut, Lebanon, explaining he no longer had confidence in the ability of Greek-Cypriot police to keep order.

Archbishop Makarios, the Greek - Cypriot president, inspected damage to the embassy and denounced the bombing as the work of "heinous criminals".

The terrorism appeared designed to demonstrate Greek-Cypriot opposition to an American-Britain plan to assign a NATO peace-force to enforce the truce between the island's warring Greek and Turkish communities.

Makarios, in effect, rejected such a force Tuesday by demanding that it be answereable to the United Nations Security Council, The United States and Britain say such a condition is unacceptable because it would give the Soviet Union a chance to interfere.

France also dimmed the plan's chances of success with an announcement today that it would take no part in the force.

The local situation improved, however, as the British Army announced that 50 Greek-Cypriot soldiers would be released by the Turkish-Cypriots.

An army spokesman said British troops ordered the release of about 50 Greek-Cypriot students and a doctor who disappeared while trapped in a building on buses on the island. All were freed after army patrols visited the Chairivera area held by Turkish-Cypriots, the spokesman said.

Britain said the "cowardly" bombing of the U.S. Embassy showed a general feeling among Greek-Cypriots against the U.S. But he added that "it certainly

Member Changes Mind

TORONTO (CP) — A Progressive Conservative member of the legislature said Tuesday economic pressures exerted on Ontario firms by the Quebec government have changed his mind about separatism.

Louis Hodgson (PC—Scarborough East) said he once thought separatism was a figment of the imagination of a small minority.

But now, he said, economic pressures are doing more to divide Canada than the threat of arms by extreme separatists.

Making his maiden speech during the throne speech debate, he said hundreds of Ontario firms are facing a problem similar to one firm in his constituency. The firm, which he later declined to name, is faced with moving its manufacturing plant to Quebec because of what he described as that province's determination to deal only with firms with 51 per cent French-Canadian ownership.

The firm employs 40 persons and has an investment of $2,-000,000. It says it cannot afford to move to Quebec, therefore cannot compete for government contracts against Quebec firms that are given a 15-per-cent differential over outside competitors, Mr. Hodgson said.

It was the second time during the session that Quebec pressure on Ontario firms has been discussed. George Kerr (PC — Halton) said Jan. 24 threat of a boycott by the Quebec government forced K Hamilton firm to abandon plans to move all its operation to Ontario.

Blizzard Hits Texas Panhandle

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Scores of towns and cities were isolated and traffic was paralyzed as a blizzard swept pondcrushing through portions of the southwestern United States Tuesday.

Snowfalls of six to 25 inches were whipped into drifts up to 10 feet in eastern New Mexico, southeastern Colorado, southwestern Kansas and the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles.

Thousands of cars, trucks and the occasional bus dotted the sides of the highways and streets, abandoned by occupants now snowbound in motels and hotels waiting out the storm before starting the huge task of digging out. Schools, offices and stores remained closed in many cities and towns except for emergency use.

Texas Governor John Connally put Amarillo on an emergency basis and mobilized the National Guard for duty. The snowfall ranged between 10 and 25 inches in the area.

HIT 25 INCHES

The heaviest snow was 25 inches at Borger, Tex. The storm continued through the night over widely scattered areas. The weather was blamed for four deaths in New Mexico and three in southeast Texas.

Helicopters stood by for the weather to clear to join a search for two cowboys missing in the Texas panhandle since Tuesday.

Far to the south of the blizzard, rain was blamed for three deaths in a car-truck collision during a storm near Winnie in southeastern Texas.

A tornado struck near Eagle Lake in the Houston area, injuring a railroad worker when two trailer houses were overturned. Utility poles and trees were felled and a hangar at the Eagle Lake Airport was demolished.

Tory Party Wounds Healing But Some Poison Remains

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — The Tory party's wounds are healing, but all the poison may not be driven out for a long time to come.

This was the assessment of one top party strategist following Tuesday's overwhelming vote of confidence in Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker.

Another said that the smallness of the rebel group—less than five per cent—showed how few cards it had when the chips were down.

He conceded that it had looked last weekend, when the Young Progressive Conservative and University Student Federation held their annual meetings and kicked up their heels, that the anti-Diefenbaker forces might be stronger than anyone had suspected.

But in the final analysis, another source explained, the old Conservative party, with many serious wounds in its history, wasn't going to commit suicide and throw over its leader—especially with no likely successor in the wings.

Mr. Diefenbaker himself was naturally jubilant. For more than two hours Tuesday night he stood in a receiving line shaking hands with hundreds of party supporters and well-wishers, including some of the dissidents.

His eyes sparkled, he grinned, scowled mockingly at a joke, and he patted old friends on the arm or the back. His comment at the end of the day: "Nothing like it in all my political experience."

He was also overheard to say: "There won't be much joy in Gritville."

But representatives of the rebel group and old supporters alike weren't sure that the day's developments would entirely heal the party's wounds.

One of the anti-Diefenbaker leaders, who spoke briefly to him late in the evening, said that Mr. Diefenbaker should have called clearly in his speech for a secret ballot on the motion of confidence in his leadership. As the Torontonian interpreted it, Mr. Diefenbaker had told the party he wasn't afraid of a secret vote because he wanted to know where he stood with the party—but that he wanted to know where party delegates stood with him, too.

Agreement Reached to Shift RCAF Groups to Germany

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer announced today that agreement has been reached with NATO to shift the two RCAF CF-104 squadrons at Zweibrucken, Germany, and the four existing squadrons there will be equipped with the tactical nuclear and conventional weapons.

Meanwhile, a defence department source said the technical agreement between Canada and the United States to supply the CF-104s with small nuclear bombs now has been signed, and the weapons will be delivered to the six squadrons in "early summer."

The Gros Tenquin base will be closed, Mr. Hellyer's statement said.

Remaining in France, at Marville, will be two CF-104 squadrons which will be equipped for reconnaissance "and, in due course, for a ground attack role, armed with conventional weapons.

One of the two CF-104 squadrons at Gros Tenquin will be moved to No. 3 Fighter Wing at Zweibrucken, Germany, and the other to No. 4 Fighter Wing at Baden-Soellingen.

"This move will enable them to carry out their assigned strike role in concert with the two squadrons now at each of these German bases," Mr. Hellyer's statement said.

All six squadrons would be "eventually" equipped with conventional weapons so they would have a "dual capacity" — that is, both nuclear and conventional.

Mr. Hellyer said closing the Gros Tenquin base will save the government about $3,600,000 a year and mean a personnel reduction of 700.

Mr. Hellyer said he could give specific dates of when changes will take place because of the "many adjustments which must be made."

Say Plan Exploits Ailing

TORONTO (CP)—The United Church of Canada said today Ontario's draft medical insurance plan appears to be designed to exploit human need for the benefit of financial interests.

Rev. J. R. Hord, secretary of the church's board of evangelism and social service, asked an inquiry committee studying medical insurance legislation if the plan would "make the economically handicapped or ill geared to the profits of the insurance companies?"

"As a Christian church we believe that financial policies should be adjusted to meet human need," Mr. Hord told the government - appointed committee in a statement preceding presenation of a formal brief.

Mr. Hord's statement paralleled criticism by the Ontario Federation of Labor, which also submitted a brief today at the final public hearing scheduled on Bill 163, the legislation that would provide for standard physician-care plans on a voluntary basis through private insurers.

The bill's intention to let private insurers set the premium rates to be charged for the standard plans represents "tacit capitulation to the demands that profit must be a paramount factor in the provision of medical care for the citizens of Ontario," the OFL said.

Both the OFL and United Church briefs, first published last week, called for a comprehensive medical care program covering all Ontario residents, with the profit-making features removed.

Secret Ballot Pushed Aside Nearly 4 To One

Delegates Now Turn To Economic Policies

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservative annual meeting gave John Diefenbaker an overwhelming vote of confidence Tuesday. It turns attention today to the future course of its economic policies.

As one top party executive put it, it's a question of whether to move to the Conservative right or to the Conservative left.

The vote of confidence in the party leader was surprising mainly for the small size of the little band of dissidents that stood up to register their opposition.

In the crowded, noisy, smoky and air-lighted hotel ballroom, with approximately 880 present only 30 - odd delegates voted against their leader. The cheers of the victors still echoed in the corridors when Senator David J. Walker of Toronto shouted: "Let's make it unanimous."

When it was all over, Dalton K. Camp, Toronto advertising executive who was elected party president said: "The old Tory party had acquitted itself very well."

WAS AT HOME

Word of the victory was telephoned to Mr. Diefenbaker at his home by Senator Allister Grosart of Ottawa, former national director of the party. There was no word of the former prime minister's immediate reaction, but in the evening he was host at a reception and dance for delegates, and was a picture of pleased and composed confidence—a man ready again for a political fight.

Mr. Camp said in an interview he expects to call a conference of Conservative party thinkers this autumn to begin long - range planning for the party's future policy.

In the resolutions coming up for debate in the last day of the three-day annual meeting, there was a high list of proposals for new tax incentives to Canadians and Canadian industries.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in his speech to delegates before the resolutions debate began Tuesday with a motion of loyalty to The Queen and then the motion of confidence in the

Exports Shoot Ahead

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian exports shot ahead 10 per cent in 1963 to produce a year-end trade surplus estimated at $412,600,000, the biggest in 11 years.

It followed surpluses of $90,-000,000 in 1962 and $125,000,000 in 1961. Prior to that, Canada had a string of deficits in the 1953-60 period. The previous high surplus was $421,000,000 in 1952.

Preliminary figures issued today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics indicated that besides the late-1963 boom in sales of grain to the Communist bloc, the year - round improvement resulted mainly from the lower external value of the Canadian dollar which was devalued to 92½ cents in U.S. funds in May, 1962.

DBS said the rise in exports to a record $6,980,000,000 was due almost entirely to an increase in real volume of shipments, up nine per cent from 1962. Average export prices rose only one per cent in the same period.

The reverse was true for imports. They rose to a record $6,567,000,000 up 4.9 per cent from a year earlier. DBS said the gain resulted mainly from the 3per cent price rise, up by about four per cent on the average. Physical volume of imports was only one per cent higher than in 1962.

IMPORTS HIGHER

Meanwhile, DBS estimates for the fourth quarter of 1963 showed a strong surge in Canadian imports.

They were 15.5 per cent higher than in the same quarter of 1962, sharpening a corresponding rise of 14.7 per cent in exports—despite the fact that the Canadian wheat sales to Russia was felt mainly in this period.

Fourth-quarter imports from the United States were 14.1 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Charge School Principal Forged Grade 13 Exam Papers for Son

FERGUS, Ont. (CP)—Donald Tutt, 52, principal of the district high school here, was charged Tuesday on three counts of forging examination papers to gain his son his upper school matriculation standing.

He appeared before a justice of the peace following school classes and was remanded to Feb. 19, when he will appear in magistrate's court at Guelph, 15 miles south of here.

Tutt is charged with forging the name of his son to an envelope containing another student's paper in English literature and with filling in answers in French composition and "certain authors' papers."

Provincial police began an investigation five months ago on orders from Education Minister William Davis, when John Gregg Murray, 19, of Fergus, refused to believe he received only 36 out-of 100 credited to him in English literature.

Police showed him to look at the paper which had been submitted in an envelope bearing Murray's name. Murray claimed handwriting on the examination paper was not his.

Tutt was vice - principal of Fergus High School when Grade 13 examinations were written last summer by his son and Murray. He became principal in September. He was principal of Whitby High School for 13 years.

Canadian Colonel Forgot to Put Bullet in Chamber of Pistol

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (Reuters)—A left-wing guerrilla struck a pistol into a Canadian colonel's stomach and pulled the trigger—but there was only a click.

The officer, Lt. - Col. Paul Mayer, had for the first time on a 10-day UN helicopter rescue mission forgotten to put a bullet into the pistol chamber before the shot was stolen from him by guerrillas in Congo's strife-torn Kwilu province.

Reliable sources told the story Tuesday of how Mayer twice cheated death during one day when bullets smashed into a light plane 10 inches from where he sat.

The Canadian returned here Tuesday night after leading an evacuation of about 1,000 missionaries and teachers from Kwilu.

The sources, who reached Leopoldville at the same time, said Mayer flew to the UN operations base at Tshikapa 10 days ago with orders to rescue all missionaries requesting assistance.

The helicopters flew first into Kzandji Mission to rescue Roman Catholic priests and nuns from a guerrilla - surrounded mission.

The guerrillas demanded the United Nations chiefs go forward alone to discuss terms for the release of the missionaries.

Mayer, armed with only a pistol which he had forgotten to load, went forward to negotiate with the guerrillas as helicopters hovered near by.

During the negotiations he was hit over the head with the blunt end of a machete, jabbed in the face with a spear, and was threatened with having his wedding ring finger cut off "after he is dead."

The helicopters seeing the colonel was in trouble "buzzed" the guerrilla leader and seized Mayer's pistol and thrust it into the colonel's stomach with the threat that the next time the group was "buzzed" he would die.

A few minutes later the helicopter buzzed again. The guerrilla pulled the trigger and got only a click.

Mayor, who had a bullet in his pocket all the time, intends to have it framed.

Mayer, 47-year-old native of Montreal, was formerly deputy director of public relations at army headquarters in Ottawa. His wife lives at the army's assignment with the United Nations Congo Emergency Force last May.

St. John Ambulance Appeals for Funds

TRENTON — In Trenton, as in other centres where it is not part of a United Appeal or Community Chest Fund, St. John Ambulance is this month making a public appeal for funds.

The St. John Ambulance man and women give many, many hours of their free time as a stand-by precaution at hundreds of public functions. While they, services are given without expectation of reward, the cost of first aid materials they use must be paid for by public subscription.

The present day smartsian in their families' black and white uniforms, come from every walk of life, but they have one thing in common, they are highly skilled in the art of first aid. Many of the women were trained nurses who perhaps married and now feel they want to use their skills to benefit others. The men are often company firstaiders who early decided to expand their area of service.

MAY BAR LAGGARDS

EDMONTON (CP) — The Journal says legislation permitting high school principals to suspend students for "habitual neglect of duty" is expected to be introduced during the next session of the Alberta legislature.

Committee 'Cheesed Off' Over Skating Rink Project

TRENTON — The members of a special committee, set up to raise an estimated $18,000 to provide an outdoor skating rink for the town, are "getting pretty well cheesed off" with a situation whereby town council "approves" the venture, "provided the necessary approval of board approves," and the community gardens' board "approves" the project, "provided town council approves."

"This thing is going back and forth from committee to committee," Earl Cruickshank, a spokesman for the special committee said Monday night at council meeting. "We're only trying to do something for the youth of the town."

The members of the special committee, are, with few exceptions, members of the Trenton Lions Club, but Lions Club president Thomas Bedford emphasized Monday night that the committee did not have the town's financial backing . . . as yet.

HAS MORAL SUPPORT

"The committee has the club's moral and physical support," Mr. Bedford told council, "but we can't commit the club financially until such time as the Board of Education decides whether or not it wants us up on the offer of $25,000 to build a swimming pool at the high school." Last night Lions offered the donation. The school board should decide this year if additional pools are to be allocated to construct the pool.

Mr. Bedford, Mr. Cruickshank and Jack Bowerman, secretary, was in the first place to build an outdoor ring adjacent to the arena. It was through that the purchase of land for the rink projects to raise money to construct the rink is being delayed because the committee couldn't get a "go-ahead" from any of the official bodies involved.

The committee members said that the gardens' board had agreed to approve the project, provided the town solicitor drew up an agreement, specifying certain points laid down by the board, and that this agreement be signed by the members of the committee and representatives of council.

AGREEMENT DRAWN

Mr. Bonan said Monday night that the arena "board" hadn't drawn up the agreement," the two chairmen of the arena board, Daniel Seuik, and . . .

Be that as it may, the committee members had agreed to sign the agreement, but had suggested certain modifications, which would not change the essential meaning of the terms of the agreement.

The agreement calls for the carrying out of work in three main phases. First, the committee, having proved that it has the necessary funds available, would build two additional dressing rooms in the arena. Secondly, ice-making equipment, bought and paid for by the committee, would be installed and inspected. Thirdly, the actual construction work on the rink itself would be done. All along the line the committee must prove that it can provide the funds for the separate phases and each phase must be completed before another phase is begun. All must meet with approval from various inspectors.

At each phase of the project is completed, the committee must then turn the completed unit over to the town, outright. Dressing rooms, machinery and the rink itself become the unqualified property of the town and will, if the project is carried through, be administered by the Community Gardens Board.

Monday night, Mayor Macdonald suggested that since the committee meant to construct the dressing rooms and install a compressor as the first two phases in the project, these phases be considered as projects divorced from the rink itself and approved as such.

Mr. Bedford said that the committee would not consider this arrangement as there was a possibility the Lions might get this much of the work done only to find that the town or the Gardens board would not approve of the construction of the rink.

Members of the special committee, with few exceptions, members of the Trenton Lions Club, but Lions Club president Thomas Bedford emphasized Monday night that the committee did not have the town's financial backing . . . as yet.

Herman Rutch, pleading guilty to the charge of driving while his licence was under suspension, pleaded that he "stood a very good chance" of losing his job if imprisoned.

Construction Roundup

By ANDY TURNBULL

BLACK DIAMOND JOB

Thirty men are working in spring weather now, at the Black Diamond Cheese job. The whole job is covered in with plastic hoarding, and the temperature inside is nearly 90 degrees. Peerless Roofing is still out in the cold, finishing up the roof of the building, but R. W. Solmes' men are laying brick and block in their shirtsleeves. The long-est wall of the building will be finished, brick faced block, by the end of the week.

ONTARIO ASSOCIATION OF REAL ESTATE BOARDS

Local realtors will be going to Toronto next week, for the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards' annual convention. President of the local board, Gerald Joyce, was expected to lead the Belleville delegates, but he's in hospital now and will be there for at least another two weeks with an internal rupture of a disk in his spine, the result of lifting some Christmas presents into the trunk of his car the day before Christmas. He has been in bed at home and at Belleville General Hospital for three weeks already, not counting the time he was listed among the walking wounded.

William McCormick, a regional director of the Association, will represent Belleville and district in executive circles at the convention. The whole region he represents includes Belleville, Peterborough, Lindsay and Oshawa. Gerald Joyce also has a director's seat, representing the city realtors only. About a dozen members of the local board are expected to attend.

BELLEVILLE PUBLIC WORKS

City public works crews are improving a ditch now, running up behind the houses on Herman St. from College to Byron Street, and along Byron to the Centre Street. The ditch was there before, but was deep enough to protect the houses on Herman St. from occasional flooding. The rock bottom of the ditch is being lowered with air drills.

Sewer on Gordon St. is installed as far as Earl St. with about a week of cleaning up to do. The line along Earl St. to connect this with North Front probably will not be started until the frost is out of the ground because of the cost of the blasting. Up Gordon St. the top few inches of frozen ground were taken out with dynamite, which costs money. The new line will be connected to North Front St. though, it's only the date that's in doubt.

BUILDING PERMITS

Eighteen building permits were issued during January by the city building inspector, representing $191,000 worth of construction. $124,570 of that total is in new houses, $2,300 in additions and repairs to houses, $10,000 in additions to commercial buildings and $45,000 in addition to industrial plants. One new industrial building is valued at $8,500.

WEST PARK VILLAGE

Three new houses started last week at West Park Village, making a total of fourteen houses for the winter. Five of those are finished, according to Wm. McCormick, and the others will be finished in time to qualify for the $500 winter bonus. Ten of the houses in the project have been sold so far.

SIDNEY ST. APARTMENTS

Bricking now at Leo Buckley's apartments on Sidney St., Martin Geertsma, subcontractor, may have the first three walls of the first building done this week. Four apartments of the six-plex should be ready for renting about the middle of the month, the others by the end of the month. Electrical and plumbing work is roughed in. The building is being heated now by the permanent boiler. The roof is on the second of the two buildings, and insulation is going in this week.

QUINTE HOME BUILDERS' ASSOCIATION

"Most active convention I've ever been to," Patrick Hallcrow of the Quinte Home Builders' Association says of the National House Builders' Association conference in Windsor. As secretary of the local group, he went to the convention Jan. 24, came back a week ago. Other executives of the local body, Don Keller, Jack Parrott, Randy Loewen and Maurice Rollins went down on Sunday and came back Wednesday. Possibly the most important accomplishment of the convention was formation of a manufacturer's council to guarantee building products. The council will issue a seal to houses built wholly of products made and guaranteed by members.

NEW MOTEL

They are starting to lay the carpets now at Goodman's new motel, Highway 14 at the 401. No opening date has been announced yet, but the second floor will be ready as soon as the carpets are down. Some work has to be done on the ground floor and in the public areas.

Y.M.C.A.

Glass is in the windows around the swimming pool at the new Y.M.C.A. building, and preparations for installing the vitreous surface in the pool and shower rooms are under way. The surface will be sprayed on, not tiled. Pidutti and Fabbri has the terrazzo laid on the top floor, and is sanding it now. It still has some to go on the lower floor. The acoustic ceiling is unfinished on both floors and there is some other finishing work to go downstairs. Opening date is around the end of March.

QUINTE NURSERIES

Bill Johnson of Quinte Nurseries has until Feb. 20 to finish planting about 500 trees around the Yorkdale shopping centre, in Toronto. He thinks he will make it with time to spare. He made Canadian history on that job Jan. 16, when he used a helicopter to lift six Linden trees to the roof of the Eaton's store, where they sit outside the restaurant windows to screen off the roof. The six were thirty feet from ground level, and 250 feet from the edge of the roof. A crane would have been little help. The 'copter couldn't lift the trees the first few tries, because of the weight of the mud left around the roots. There was no trouble after they were shaken free and dropped away though. Mud is normally left around the roots of trees being transplanted, to protect them.

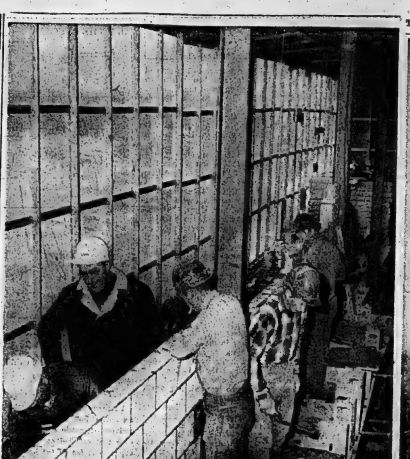
BAY BRIDGE

More than another week of work is to be done welding the bearing on the metal section of the Bay Bridge. Central Bridge men on the job are finding most of the grating is solid, but it has broken loose from the supporting beams below. Work isn't as bad as it would be if there was ice and snow to be chipped away. If there were any, it would collect above the beams — just where the welding is being done.

LATTER DAY SAINTS

The new Mormon Church should be ready to open by mid-March, according to Orval Tuotlan. Plumbing and electrical work is finished, except fixtures, and the heating system is ready to turn on. If a question of specifications can be settled between the heating supplier and the gas company. The second coat of paint will be on the inside walls before the end of the week, and most of the eyebrock should be on the ceiling about the same time.

BANK OF MONTREAL



The basement floor is poured at the new branch of the Bank of Montreal and strapping is on the inside walls and ceiling. The brick is laid, with a few blocks to go, and the precast facade is on around the top. The building will be closed in with plastic before the windows are installed, because the window frames have a lip that goes over the plaster on the inside. That means the finish coat of plaster has to be on before the window frames can be installed.

SMITH'S TRANSPORT BUILDING

ELLIOTT MOTORS

The main workshop of the new Elliott Motors building is closed in, and the supervisory Roy Brooks says he can't pour the slab yet because there's 18 inches of frost in the floor. It will stay there, too, until the gas-fired infra-red heating system is ready to thaw it out. Gas lines are laid on; all he has to wait for is delivery of the heating units. Decking is on the showroom roof and the big rotating sign is up now.

BELL BUILDING

Ken Carr-Braint says he has two-thirds of the columns poured now for the final slab on the new Bell Telephone office building, at Victoria and Pinnacle Streets. He is framing the beams now and preparing to frame the deck. Should be ready to pour in about two weeks. When it's finished, watch for the patterned concrete effect around the roof line. The building looks very good in the drawings.

CAR WASH

Sumps are poured now at the new car wash on Dundas Street East. They're part of the filter system that will take the sand and mud out of the used water, before it's shoved back into the city sewers. About a week's work in filling and grading the floor, according to Fred Smith, then the plumbing can go in. Partitions are being framed now, in the office section.

UNION CARBIDE

Blocks are laid to about half the final height of the new warehouse for Union Carbide. Masonry foreman Frank Edwards has six men on the job, hopes to be finished in another week.

CHEESE WAREHOUSE

Garth Peacock started plastering Friday at the cheese warehouse addition and has the first coat on the ceiling of one cold storage room already. It will take about a month for the whole job, he figures. The job calls for two coats, with some fibreglass cloth between them, on the two cold-storage rooms and the sorting area. Refrigeration units are in place but not installed. A hole left between the cold storage area and the sorting area has been plugged. The floor should be poured in the sorting area within a week.

EDGAR E. BELL

Edgar Bell's new building on Harriet Street will be ready for the roof soon. Block is laid up ceiling height, windows are in place and the job is just about ready for doors. The roof will be prestressed.

Professor on Newspapers

Prof. R. W. Wendt of the department of psychology at Carleton University, Ottawa, says that enthusiastic teachers and lively newspapers should be combined as a dynamic educational team.

We shall leave to educationists the task of deciding whether he is right or wrong. Meanwhile we are happy to report that we ourselves find some of Prof. Wendt's remarks highly educational. His views on the proper role for newspapers make us pause and think.

"What we know of the world depends on newspapers," says Prof. Wendt, a remark which we do not find startling. But later, after saying that a good newspaper is one that "tries to teach us, to tell us things," he adds that "one that tries to reflect what we are thinking, I'm afraid, wouldn't be a very good newspaper."

One's first reaction to the last statement is that, on the contrary, a good newspaper takes pains to endeavor to reflect what people are thinking today, for what they are thinking today provides us with an important clue to what they will probably be doing tomorrow. It seems evident from the context, though, that Prof. Wendt was not using the word "reflect" in this sense, but rather he was deploring, and quite rightly, any newspaper which tries to always be on the popular side in any controversy.

Yet even in this sense, some "reflection" is unavoidable. This is true even of those newspapers which are careful to keep their news columns factual, reserving for the editorial page the expression of opinions. Indeed, one might say that it is particularly true of such papers, because the very fact that they treat news factually means that they will carry many more reports on the popular side of a controversy than on the unpopular. Sometimes there will be many more people who are presenting the poular view than the contrary.

Nobody is more aware of the influence which the changing climate of popular opinion has on newspapers than are newspapermen themselves, providing they have been in the business long enough.

Many subjects are dealt with, as a matter of course, in the news columns of today's newspapers which were seldom or never discussed in print two or three decades ago. This is particularly true of controversies involving sex, morals and religion. In this sense, today's newspapers do reflect what people are thinking, and they would be very poor newspapers indeed, telling their readers little about the world they live in, if their treatment of news did not reflect the intellectual climate in this manner.

Flip for It

Russian proposals for destruction of the world's bomber fleets are impractical, according to U.S. negotiators at Geneva. The Russians had suggested that the great powers destroy all their strategic bombers, on a one-for-one basis. Among the U.S. objections to the scheme is the fact that it would eliminate Britain as a nuclear force. The fact that it would also eliminate France, apparently, is insufficient compensation.

But the U.S. sees in the Russian proposal a sign that the Russians may agree to a U.S. scheme, to ban the sale of obsolete bombers to undeveloped nations. The U.S., it seems, shudders at the thought of a ruler like Dr. Duvalier of Haiti gaining possession of surplus U.S. 47's or Russian Badgers.

The U.S. scheme, one suggests, may be even less practical than that of the Russians. Imagine, for instance, the events once Papa Doc Duvalier or one of his equivalents gets hold of a squadron of 47's. Even if the planes come as a gift, he will have to buy spare parts, train crews to fly them and buy fuel before the planes can be used. If he has the money for this, he might well find that there are no airports in his country able to handle the modern bombers. He is stuck, therefore, with his arms budget spent and nothing to show for it but some expensive monuments.

Destroy the bombers? Never. Deliver them instead, to the underdeveloped nations. They could be safer than rifles.

Things cannot always go your way. Learn to accept in silence the minor aggravations, cultivate the gift of the taciturnity and consume your own smoke with an extra draught of hard work, so that those about you may not be annoyed with the dust and soot of your complaints.—Sir William Osler.

The Levesque Style

By PETER DESBARATS In the Montreal Star

When Rene Levesque is speaking, there isn't much time to think. Ideas flash like computer lights. Impromptu phrases tear through sentences like tracer bullets.

It's heady stuff to listen to, difficult to report. For a journalist, the fortune of the earlier politician makes a journalist more aware of the difficulties of communication, the weaknesses and dangers inherent in the so-called "straight news story."

When Rene Levesque was speaking in Montreal the other night in the Liberals' Reform Club, I wanted to run up from the press table and muzzle him. Even as I frantically scribbled words, I could see the headlines in many newspapers across Canada the next day. Once again Quebec's minister of natural resources would rise up before the quiet people of English Canada like a fire - breathing dragon. More ultimatums. More hysterical statements.

Late that night, as I transferred his sentences to the typewritten page, I found myself but caricaturing his thoughts.

• • •

After a career in journalism, Levesque knows the hazards of this. The trouble is, he is still too often the journalist and too seldom the politician. The line between the journalist's desire to say what he thinks, quickly and under pressure, starting the instinct, and the politicians' calculated reserve.

Every politician, before he utters a word, listens to the word first with an inner ear more sensitive to resonance than the ears of his worry political enemy. Either Levesque has no inner ear, which is hard to believe, or he simply refuses to be crippled in his utterances by what he hears.

He tries honestly to say what he thinks. And he does. But only if it fits in with the context of the history of Levesque and Quebec does it make sense and not sound strange.

For more than three years Levesque has been obsessed, not by politics, but by the knowledge that this is a critical point in the history of Quebec. If English Canada is worried about the future, Levesque is both terrified and elated by it. He wants to take every Canadian, English or French or Ukrainian, and shake him by the top of his pinch of excitement.

• • •

Listen to him speaking in the Reform Club for 30 minutes, without a text, chain-smoking, his voice rough with tobacco tar and conviction.

"For 300 years we have been here and this is the only part of the world where we can feel at home.

"A lot of other people can find their true homeland in the world but there's only one place that we can call home and that's right here.

"Quebec is on a road on which there is hardly any way back, a road leading very quickly to as full a measure of self-determination as can be allowed in the world today to a small, compact and very resistant group of people.

"This requires a sort of life-and-death dedication because there is no other single spot in the world for us."

• • •

Levesque is not talking about Confederation. He is talking about survival. If Canada disappears, what does the English Canadian lose? He trades an imperfect system of parliamentary government for another imperfect system. He gives up British legal practices, the CBC, the Queen, the National Film Board and his treasured and traditional right to consider himself warmer and more aggressive than the British, colder and more dignified than the Americans.

If Quebec disappears, what does the French-Canadian lose? Everything.

This is the chasm that Levesque is running away from. But politicians can't run fast. They are weighted with responsibility, heavy administrative machinery and political considerations. They are harnessed to the creaking wooden wagon of public opinion, or a mercurial character like Levesque, it often must seem that he is running in a nightmare, that every step ahead requires almost unbearable effort.

It is necessary to think about these things when you listen to him; and about the Levesque behind the politician. This is not a fanatic. He can laugh at himself. He has many sides of a question with a mind that is an multi-faceted as a fly's eye.

The headlines obscure the fact that he has also made some of the most sensible speeches in Quebec's recent history, that he appreciates the need for foreign capital and a stable political climate in Quebec, that he fights against isolationist tendencies and that he was advocating cuts in federal defence expenditure long before federal Liberals saw the light.

What is going to happen to Rene Levesque?

In rare moments of relaxation, he talks about going back to journalism. Strangers think that this is a great joke but his long-time friends — and there are many in the English-speaking community here — take it seriously. They say that politics cramps the Levesque style and that he would be far happier in the free-swinging world of journalism.

In recent months, Levesque had slipped farther and farther away from the English Canadian establishment of private hydro-electric companies, Levesque has the courage and the knowledge to lead the people of Quebec into a socialism and quiet, competent Liberal civil-servant minister of youth, is moving closer to the premier's right hand.

For the past year there have been persistent rumors that Levesque will leave the Liberals to form a new political party. Usually these rumors have a trinity at the head of the panel — Levesque, Gerard Pelletier and Jean Drapeau and Jean-Jacques Bertrand, second-in-command of the Union Nationale opposition.

But socialist party in Quebec faces many tough years of organization. Levesque would find this a terrifying world of politics. Separatism, at the moment, is not an alternative. In fact, die-hard separatists find Levesque the way a Communist bates a socialist. Although he hates what they represent in him, he is nationalistic enough to retain the support of many French-Canadians who would be prospective recruits for the separatist movement, particularly among the younger intellectuals.

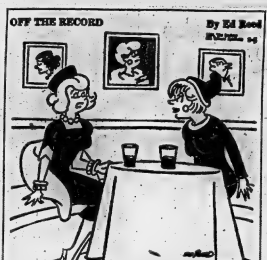
Locked at it in this way, his hankering to return to journalism seems logical. Certainly it is difficult to see him ever returning into anything resembling an elder statesman in the Liberal Party.

So Efficient, So Deadly

Vancouver Sun

The principal danger of a system of national registration is perfectly illustrated by the reaction of Victoria Police Chief John Gregory.

Mr. Gregory welcomes the idea with enthusiasm as a wonderful aid to the police — if the Federal Government will permit it.



Before our Federal Government does so decide, it would be wise to give the matter long considering. No one questions the remarkable efficiency of identity cards for all citizens. Many nations today, the efficiency — conclusive evidence of both eastern and western divisions in our world, issue identity cards to all their adults.

But the tradition of Canadian democracy is to surround such restrictions rather than infringe freedoms.

We had this thing during the Second World War. The national registration system was adopted as a wartime convenience. It gave free men in this country their first taste of the registration system common in other states. But it was war-time and they stomached it. After the war police chiefs and others spoke up everywhere to demand the system's continuance.

What a wonderful thing for us, they chorused. We can identify anyone; people would never be able to evade (read, run from creditors) anywhere in Canada. The people turned thumbs down on all that.

Chief Gregory has revived this attitude and we'll hear more of it from police authorities across Canada. He would also like to have our fingerprints and photos on the cards. A wonderful idea, of course, for the bureaucrats and policemen. And of course, for electronic computers. So efficient, so regimental, so, so, totalitarian.

Nervous Apprehension

Montreal Gazette

If Canadians would trust themselves and their future more, and the freedom of the marketplace, they would find that more problems will be solved by a firm and broad maturity of outlook than will ever be solved by the fits and starts of nervous apprehension.

To Your Good Health

Method Used by Nature To Select Genes Unknown

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What are the chances of a mother of three girls having a son?

What is medical science doing now to help parents plan the sex of their children? — Mrs. J. M. J.

The current ratio of all births is 1,040 boys to 1,000 girls.

In your case looking forward to a fourth baby, the statistical probability of having a boy is about 51 percent.

At any time and for any mother, the probability of having a boy (or a girl) still stays close to 50-50.

Science is trying to find some additional facts on which to proceed. We know that sex is determined by an XX gene combining with either an XX or an XY. But we do not know how Nature selects genes.

There is no way for us to control the sex of babies. But Nature seems to do a fair job of it.

If you happen to have a fourth girl, you can be rather sure that Nature knows what she's doing. Fourth boy. See? Nature at work!

Dear Dr. Molner: My four-year old boy has attacks of fear, "worn about once a year. Does the entire family need to take medication with him? I am enclosing 20 cents in coin and a self-addressed envelope for a copy of your booklet "The Communist Pest — Pinworm". — Mrs. P. W. P.

Your booklet will explain. Frequently the family must be treated, because adults can harbor pinworms. However, if the boy is picking up pinworms from playmates, and the adults in the family are not affected, then the playmates need the simultaneous treatment. I've known of an astonishing number of school children being treated simultaneously in order to put an end to the pinworms.

Dear Dr. Molner: In the sandpaper treatment for acne scars, how long would it take and how long for the face to get back its normal color? And how much would it cost? — Mrs. G.

The term "sandpaper treatment" actually applies to a variety of methods. A rotary steel brush, for example, may be used.

However, the purpose is the same: To remove the outer layers of skin, even off the bumpy scars and allow a new and smoother skin to grow.

This means removing skin to the depth at which a little bleeding occurs. (Naturally, an anesthetic is used.) The planing (or "sandpapering") must be done under antiseptic conditions, and the surface then must be protected with a sterile covering until new skin has formed.

The time required for the procedure, the speed of healing and the cost all vary greatly depending on how much acne needs treatment and the degree of scarring.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any stool softener I can take other than mineral oil? — Mrs. S. S.

There are a dozen or so preparations containing dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate, which is very effective and non-irritating.

Strictly Personal

Children Today Can Recognize Authenticity

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Discussing a common school problem, a parent recently asked me: "How can I help some teachers are able to control their classes with a very light touch and have no disciplinary troubles, while others must sit about and plead and threaten and still get nowhere with the trouble-makers?"

I don't think the answer has much to do with teaching techniques or even approaches, beyond a certain degree. I think it has almost everything to do with the "authenticity" of the teacher.

Notice I do not say "authority," but "authenticity." For genuine authority, which is more a matter of official position and the ability to punish, comes out of the depths of the personality. It has a reserve, a strength in silence that can impress and influence even a six-year-old.

A person is either himself or not himself; is either rooted in his existence, or is a fabrication; is put on and is false to himself.

Children have a built-in method for detecting falsehood or is still playing with masks and roles and status symbols. And nobody is more aware of this difference (although unconsciously) than a child. Only an authentic person can evoke a good response in the core of the other person; only person is reponsent to person.

Knowledge is not enough. Technique is not enough. Mere experience is not enough. This is the mystery at the heart of the teaching process; and the same mystery is at the heart of the healing process. Both are an art, more than a science or a skill; and the art is at bottom the ability to "time in to the other's wave length."

And this ability is not possessed by those who have failed to come to terms with their own individuality and, no matter what other talents they possess. Until they have liberated themselves, they cannot communicate, counsel or control others.

The few teachers who mean the most to me in my school life were not necessarily those who knew the most, but those who gave out of the fullness of themselves; who confronted me face to face, as it were, with a humanhood that awoke and lured my own small and trembling soul and called me to take hold of my own existence with my two hands.

Such persons, of course, are extremely rare, and they are worth more than we can ever pay them. It should be prime task of a good society to recruit and develop these personalities for safeguarding our children's future; failure to do so is our most monstrous sin of omission.

lier. Key factors were higher arrivals of auto parts and engines, and a sizable gain in imports of tractors and farm equipment — probably reflecting higher farm income on the Prairies. Canadian exports to the U.S. were up 4.2 per cent in the same period.

Nevertheless, Canadian trade with all countries in the fourth quarter produced a surplus of exports over imports of $176,400,000, an increase from $164,800,000 in fourth-quarter 1962.

Following are the DBS estimates for the whole of 1963, with figures in millions of dollars:

Luxury Auto Target of Vandals

Malicious damage was estimated at more than $1,000 to a luxury automobile in Belleville today.

Windows were smashed, headlights broken, seats torn, foam rubber ripped from the dash and the instrument panel damaged.

Police also suspect the possibility the motor may have been tampered with. The oil cap had been removed, leading officers to fear an astringent had been poured through the motor.

Headed by Institute president Ross Jewell, vice principal at Queen Mary Schools, the 160 city public school teachers will board three special cars on Train 19 out of Belleville shortly before seven Friday morning.

Arriving in Toronto they will proceed to the City of Toronto Education Centre on College Street where for the remainder of the morning they will tour the new multi-million dollar administration and education centre.

They get down to convention sessions in the afternoon and will hear Mr. E. E. Jardine, principal of Pape Ave. public school speak on "A Principal Speaks to His Teachers on Social Studies".

Schools administrator L. A. Kells in Belleville said local teachers by contract are required to attend the Institute conference.

H. S. Teachers Request Board For More Pay

A staggered system of increments providing for more than a standard annual increase after a specified length of service with the board, is being asked by high school teachers in Belleville.

Now under consideration by members of the board salary committee, the teachers' request includes across the board increase for all categories, an increase in the maximum for principals and vice principals and a staggered system of increments.

Members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board at a special meeting last night gave approval in principal for the Upper Canada News educational book trailer to visit all three Belleville high schools.

Local consulting engineer Frank Quick was authorized to prepare plans and call tenders for another stage of re-wiring at Belleville Collegiate and also to prepare cost estimates for new plumbing at the school science laboratories.

Jim Pearson member of the board advisory vocational committee, was re-elected to another term as committee chairman.

Secret

leadership, urged adoption of new incentives through tax cuts.

But the biggest roar of approval the leader got was for his statement that he was not afraid of a secret ballot on the leadership question. He warned indirectly, however, that it would mean he and other leaders in the party might face another real tests of confidence by secret votes.

"No leader, no matter his dedication, can ever march forward to the foe fearing someone behind him will interfere," he said. "No man can lead if there is uncertainty."

But, he added:

"I want to know where I stand. I want to know where you stand, too."

And stand up they did, after a long debate on whether the vote should be taken openly or by secret ballot.

Cheers and jeers punctuated the argument, and Resolutions Committee Chairman Col. Hallfax had to interrupt frequently, demanding that debaters — including former accreditation mayor Nathan Phillips—stick to the point of open or secret balloting, and not argue about the leadership.

The vote was taken after a 10-minute recess, when all who were not voting delegates were to leave room for those with proper blue accreditation cards.

HAD GOOD MARGIN

On the vote for the secret ballot, the idea was pushed aside by about 4-to-1 as far as reporters watching from a mezzanine could judge.

Then the question was put quickly on the confidence motion, and it swept through by at least 20 to 1. No accurate count was possible in the hubbub of the crowded room.

It was also late last year ago today Mr. Diefenbaker's government was defeated on a vote of confidence in the commons, leading to the April 8 general election.

Mr. Diefenbaker coupled his defence at one who came to the convention by smile, not dismaile, with a blistering attack on the liberal government of the day—an attack he had been building up to in three earlier speeches to convention meetings of the party's university clubs, young people, and women's association.

'ERA OF BUNK'

With an obvious reference to Prime Minister Pearson's call for a new kind of political infighting, Mr. Diefenbaker said: "This is the new era—the era of bunk."

His audience loved it.

And he draped the mantle of the party's most distinguished Quebec founder on a colleague, Leon Balcer of Trois-Rivieres, Que., in one of the warmest of his rare accolades to his former ministers.

Mr. Balcer, said Mr. Diefenbaker, spoke for all Canada and as a new Georges - Etienne Cartier when he spoke in the last parliamentary session on Canadianism.

"We went over that speech together," Mr. Diefenbaker said, "I designated him to make that speech."

It was the same Leon Balcer, who in the 1956 Conservative leadership convention, spoke to Quebec delegates against Mr. Diefenbaker's election as leader. Mr. Diefenbaker now has come close to designating him his Quebec lieutenant.

Works Dept. Tore Down Wrong House

TORONTO (CP) — Like everyone else, the Metropolitan Toronto works department has its bad days.

One was when a department crew set out to demolish a partly - completed house on suburban North York to make way for a public transit garage.

The crew tore down the wrong house.

"It is one of those one-in-a-million incidents," property commissioner Frank Cavill said Thursday.

Labatt Family Have Not Yet Accepted Offer

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The president of John Labatt Limited, J. H. Moore, said Tuesday that as far as he knows members of the Labatt family have not yet accepted the offer made to them by the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company of Milwaukee.

Mr. Moore was replying to questions at meeting of Labatt's supervisors called to inform company employees of the situation.

Mr. Moore termed Thursday the critical day in the negotiations when the Labatt board of directors meets to discuss the offer made to purchase Labatt shares. It is expected the board will then make a recommendation to shareholders.

It was announced Sunday that Schlitz has offered to buy 750,000 shares of Labatt stock from members of the Labatt family at $23 a share in Canadian funds. An additional offer to buy the same number of shares at the same price from public stockholders was due to be mailed by mid-week.

WOULD HAVE CONTROL

Total amount of the Schlitz offers is $34,500,000 for effective control of the company.

The offer made to members of the Labatt family expires at the close of the business day Friday.

The board of directors will discuss other offers made for shares. Mr. Moore said Monday that directors had received three offers from Canadian groups. One was a firm offer made by telephone and to be confirmed in writing and two other tentative offers.

He did not name the groups nor give further details about the offers.

Belleville Rink Loses Playoff In Consols on Last Rock

CORNWALL (Staff) — Jake Edwards of Kingston won a berth in the Ontario curling championship semi-final round defeating Mac White and his rink from the Quinte Curling Club of Belleville in the quarter-finals 7-6. He will compete in the semi-final round at Kingston on Monday against the division one champions and if successful will journey to Niagara Falls for the Ontario finals late, this month. His rink was composed of George Binnington, lead, Bud Beatty, second, Bob Elliott, vice skip with Edwards holding the broom.

There have been many misses recorded in competitive curling through the years but the one rock, that was missed on the last end of the game between Belleville and Kingston will be discussed for many a day, when curlers congregate to reminisce over old times. Mac White and his rink of Al McCallum, Bill Elliott, second and Ken Bean, vice skip had the game in the palm of their hands when they executed and outgeneraled Jake Edwards to the last rock.

At the time the game was lying two shots enough to win, had last rock and everyone was preparing for a well-earned victory over tough opponents. The large delegation that had followed the Kingston rink to Cornwall was hushed. Edwards with his last end to the game made a beautiful "draw" in front of the shot stone but with enough room on either "turn" to be taken out. Mr. White elected to take the rock on the left with the turn but he apparently did not take enough ice and the shot slid by the shot stone and the game was over. A deafening roar went up from the large crowd inside the curling rink and the Kingston players were mobbed by friends as they left the ice.

The losing skip, a very devoted curler, was on hand and presented the winning rink with lighters and the losers with glasses. He congratulated each rink for the fine brand of curling and stated all could not be winners.

KINGSTON WON TOSS

Edwards won the toss and for three ends the score was blank with Kingston deliberately holding the ends to retain last rock. Edwards opened the scoring in the fourth with one shot. White came back with two and Edwards got another on the next end. Again Belleville went ahead but Edwards tied the next end was blanked and then Edwards came up with two to tie the match. White sneaked one home in the tenth but Edwards retaliated with a deuce in the 11th to set the stage for the big ending. The Kingston rink was one up counting four but Bill Riley made a double takeout and rolled to the edge of the twelve foot. Mac White's second shot and the stage was all set. Edwards had to get inside and did that very thing and all that was left was a takeout of the rock and the game was over and the Belleville rink would be on their way to an Ontario championship.

But curling is a "slippery" game and routine shots can be missed. Mr. White's final draw shot as he had had his rink play that ice many times before in the game but a few inches makes a great difference and the rock slid by and the ball game was over. White had an easy time with Gananoque in the morning round winning 14-3 and 17-7 with over Napanee in the second. RCAF rink beat Cornwall in the morning 8-6 but lost to Edwards in the afternoon by the same score. It was curling at its best throughout the day and the hospitality of the Cornwall Curling Club to the visitors was the highlight of a most delightful trip.

There will be another year and the Belleville rink is equal to competing against the best in Ontario at any time and in any place. The games and scores of the Belleville rink follows.

there has been no need for separate schools for Negroes since the beginning of the century.

The need might have existed when many slaves escaped to Canada following the United States Civil War.

"Those who have questioned me on the subject—and myself —cannot understand why separate schools for Negroes ever has not been removed from the statute books," Mr. Braithwaite said in his maiden speech.

Welfare Minister Cecile announced changes in the ceiling on earnings for old-age pensioners and others so that all would be able to take advantage of a recent $10 increase in the OAS age pension to $75 a month.

He said the income ceiling for old-age assistance and disabled persons cases will be raised $10 a month for single persons. This would make the new ceiling $1,200 a year for single persons, $1,200 a year compared to $1,140 a year previously.

For married couples the increase would be $20 a month or $240 a year—putting it at $2,220 annually instead of $1,980.

The figures given for maximum earnings include the $75 of pensions.

The ceiling for widows and married women 60 years of age or more is the same as that for single old-age pensioners.

For a single blind person, the ceiling is increased $120 a year to $1,500; a blind person with a child, $120 to $1,980 a year; a married blind person with blind spouse, $240 a year to $2,700.

Canada Defeats Finland 6-2 Stage Set for Russ, Czechs

By JACK SULLIVAN

Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Forward Bob Forhan scored three goals to lead the undefeated Canadian Olympic hockey team to its fifth straight victory, 6-2 over Finland today, and set the stage for Canada's two big remaining games against Czechoslovakia and Russia.

Forhan, 27 - year - old right winger from Newmarket, Ont., scored two goals in the second period and one in the third.

Russia chalked up the biggest margin of victory against Finland, 100 Tuesday, while Czechoslovakia defeated Finland 4-0 and Sweden beat the Finns 7-0 earlier in the seven-round tournament.

Canada meets once - beaten Czechoslovakia Friday (2:30 p.m. EST) and unbeaten Russia Saturday (11 a.m. EST). Both games will be carried by a CBC national radio network.

The Russians, who have won four straight, play winless Germany today.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

Finland opened the scoring just four minutes after the opening faceoff, and the Canadians couldn't click until midway through the second period. From then on the Canadians dominated the play but their shooting and passing were poor.

The crowd of about 7,000 had no reason to shout or cheer throughout the game because the Canadians never could get organized for a real offensive. The Finns just didn't know how to do with the puck the few times they had it.

The Canadians scored twice in the first period, three times in the second and once in the third.

In addition to the three-goal performance by Forhan, solid hand in international competition, Ray Cadieux of St. Albert, Que., Terry Clancy of Ottawa and team captain Hank Akervall of Port Arthur got one goal each. Juhani Wahlsteln and Matti Reunamaki scored for Finland.

The Russian referees called only two penalties. Cadieux was chased for tripping late in the second period and Rod Seiling of Elmira, Ont., was penalized at 19:36 of the third period for cross checking.

Wahlstein beat Canada's goalkeeper Seth Martin of Trail, B.C., with a low backhanded shot and Reunamaki beat Ken-Broderick of Toronto, who went into Canada's goal at the start of the third period, on a 15-footer.

Juhani Lahtinen of Finland made 42 saves while Martin and Broderick got in front of 27.

Rev. David Bauer, the Canadian coach, said his players "played just well enough to win, but it bothers me when I think of our next two games."

Recall 1,700 Inco Workers

SUDBURY (CP)—Officials of the United Steelworkers (CLC) today welcomed a decision by International Nickel Company to recall 1,700 workers laid off in 1952.

Tony Soden, vice-president of Local 6500 here, said "this is a wonderful thing."

"We hope it's a permanent move. Nothing better could happen in the Sudbury district."

However, a spokesman for the nearby Falconbridge Nickel Mines, which laid off about 530 workers last October, said his company has no immediate plans to recall anyone.

International Nickel laid off 5,000 men in the fall of 1952 when it decided to cut back its stock pile and reduce production. Some 9,000,000 pounds of nickel and team captain Hank Akervall of Port Arthur got one goal a quarter-year until the world-supply was adjusted.

does not reflect the attitude of the Cypriot government."

Bombs and guns were exploded Tuesday night at a Greek-owned hotel where Britons were staying. No one was injured.

Makarios' rejection of the NATO peace force was disclosed in London by the Greek-Cypriot foreign minister, Spyros Kyprianou. At first British sources interpreted Makarios' message as a conditional acceptance but later revised their estimate.

British sources said Makarios insisted the NATO peace force must not only come under the authority of the Security Council but also must derive its orders from the council and be answerable to it.

Moscow radio denounced the NATO plan, charging that "the NATO botsev want to turn the island into a base for their aggressive designs for the further preparation of a thermonuclear war."

The Soviet broadcast said "the voice of the UN must be raised with full force to deal with the Cyprus problem."

Cypriot sources said that since Cyprus is a member of the Commonwealth, Makarios would not object to Commonwealth troops backing up the 12,000 British soldiers enforcing the cease-fire on Cyprus.

WASHINGTON UNHAPPY

In Washington, the state department expressed regret at the "irresponsible" attack on the U.S.- embassy and urged Makarios to restore order and catch the culprits.

Pan American World Airways sent two jetliners from Beirut to make shuttle runs across the Mediterranean to Beirut, 160 miles away. The plane to depart carried 57 women and children.

The evacuation was expected to be completed by Thursday. The American community on Cyprus numbers about 1,700 persons, about 1,200 of them dependents.

FASHIONABLE FRACTURE — The most fashionable broken legs this ski season will feel at home in nylon cast covers in colors matching owner's ski jackets. Mrs. Diefenbaker Called John's First Lieutenant

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP) — Tuesday was a long, emotionally-charged day for hundreds of Progressive Conservative party women members.

Although the women held their own national convention Monday, they wouldn't settle for a back seat at the party's main meeting Tuesday.

In the milling beat of the convention hall or in the crowded corridors of the Chateau Laurier, they distributed pamphlets, made short speeches and gave moral support to voting delegates.

Olive Diefenbaker, quietly dressed in a navy blue suit and rose velvet hat, sat with her husband on the convention platform during his two appearances at the meeting.

It was easy to see why National PC President Egan Chambers, in paying a special tribute to Mrs. Diefenbaker, called her John Diefenbaker's "first lieutenant."

IS CALM

The wife of the party leader sat calmly in the midst of the often hysterical pace of the convention, sometimes turning to her husband to offer a word of encouragement or advice.

Among the prominent PC women at the meeting was former Conservative cabinet minister Ellen Fairclough. She paused in the corridor to have her picture taken with Mr. Diefenbaker.

"Smile, you're on candid camera," said the opposition leader. Mrs. Fairclough did. She later told a reporter that she wasn't interested in returning to politics.

"After all, I had 18 years of it," the former immigration minister said. "Of course it makes me nostalgic to be at the convention and to see all my friends. Its just like old home week."

Senator Josie D. Quart of Sillery, Que., said she was proud of the showing women PCs were making in supporting the party.

"I know that Liberal women resent the fact that their annual meeting is not held at the same time as the main Liberal party meeting.

MEET AT SAME TIME

"We always meet at the same time as the senior PC association and I think this keeps our women in better touch with what is going on in the party."

Senator Quart said she had first started coming to Conservative party national meetings during the time of prime minister R. B. Bennett. "This is the biggest annual meeting I've ever attended," she added.

Typical of the women's attitude was that of tiny, grey-haired Mrs. A. C. Blaikie of Economy, N.S. Mrs. Blaikie won applause from convention delegates when she spoke out against a secret ballot on the leadership question.

Mrs. Ernest G. Mardon of Edmonton took her 19-months-old son Austin to the convention and Austin ended up shaking hands with Davie Fulton, now leader of the Conservative party in British Columbia, and Mrs. Ellen Fairclough.

The most colorful group of women at the convention was the Calgary delegation. They came in "square dresses," the brightly coloured, full - skirted costumes worn each year at the Calgary Stampede.

Meat Prices Will Remain At High Level

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Canadian housewives can look forward to meat prices being maintained at their present levels — or slightly higher — delegates to the meat packers' council of Canada convention were told Tuesday.

The 300 producers, packers and processors were addressed during the opening session of their two-day convention by R. K. Bennett, director of the livestock division, production and marketing branch of the federal department of agriculture.

Mr. Bennett gave delegates a survey of the cattle situation in both Canada and the United States and summed up the Canadian situation:

"There are more cattle on feed than a year ago. At Feb. 1, prices of choice cattle were approximately above the export basis.

"The heavy domestic consumption of beef in the two top grades may make it unnecessary to export feed cattle. If so, prices will remain about the export equivalent.

The January meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Barlow with an attendance of 16 members and one visitor.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. M. Cassidy, after which correspondence was read.

Mrs. W. J. Barlow introduced the guest speaker, F. I. Timmins who gave an address on Hastings County blind. It was most interesting and gave a great deal of information.

He had pamphlets for each member present based on the blind. In this district $103. was collected for the blind and $10 donation from the W.I. for citizenship were in charge Mrs. Cassidy thanked Mr. Timmins and presented him with a small gift.

He Figures Way to Wear Broken Leg Fashionably

MONTREAL (CP)—A sports wear designer here figures he has solved the problem of how to wear a broken leg fashionably after a ski accident.

It's a cast cover designed by Irving of Montreal and it is available in some shops in fabrics and colors to match your ski outfit.

Irving got the idea when first his wife and then his daughter broke their legs skiing. Working closely with a doctor who gets plenty of ski-fracture business, he made several dozen covers before he was satisfied.

They come in three lengths depending on the height of the cast and location of the fracture.

The covers are made of nylon ski-jacket fabric and bear some resemblance to fashionable Cossack boots. They can be sponged clean with soapy water and are an improvement over the old sock or plastic bag usually worn by fracture victims. They have a soft leather sole and zip up the front.

The effect is to protect the white plaster of paris from the slush and snow.

Irving figures February and March will be the big months for the item since 'thats when ski bums become a little more reckless and conditions a little more treacherous.

However, he had one order last summer from a water skier who wanted to protect his fracture while continuing to ski on one leg.

WHAT'S PAST IS PROLOGUE

That is the title of a book by the Right Honorable Vincent Massey, C.H., recently published by the Macmillan Company of Canada, Ltd.

If there is an aristocracy in Canada certainly the Massey family would be a part of it. Raymond Massey, the well-known actor, presently appearing as Dr. Gillespie in television's Dr. Kildare series, was his brother's junior by several years, and Vincent appears to have had a rather protective attitude toward him in their younger years. Vincent too, was interested in acting, and appeared in a number of plays as an amateur.

It is inevitable in this book that there should be a good deal of name dropping, because the Masseys associated with the greats of many countries, particularly in England and the United States.

It is revealing to read in these memoirs of the establishing of a legation at Washington, and the problems that had to be overcome. Mr. Massey was the first Minister to Washington, and he helped greatly to make people aware that Canada had a viewpoint, and was not merely an echo of British official opinion.

The book gives intimate glimpses of the home life of Vincent Massey and of his great devotion to Mrs. Massey with her warmth, dignity, and elegance as he described her. To his grandchildren, the children of Hart and Lionel Massey, he was "Gaudy" with its pleasant overtones of gaiety and friendliness.

Mr. Massey was distinguished by becoming the first Canadian-born Governor-General of Canada. He was chairman of the important Royal Commission on the Arts and Sciences.

The interests of the Massey family were wide, ranging from politics to the arts, and their influence has been felt in many areas of Canadian life.

The book is an absorbing account of a great Canadian, and will prove of great interest to anyone concerned with the history of Canada.

I am indebted to Miss Olive Delaney, chief librarian of the Corby Public Library, for the privilege of reading this book.

I.O.D.E. Will Mark 64 Years Of Service

The I.O.D.E. (Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire) will celebrate its 64th birthday on February 12th.

At Founder's Day meetings from coast to coast, the Order's 876 chapters will recall its growth from a small group of Canadian women supplying clothes for War soldiers, to a National voluntary organization raising over $1,000,000 for education, emergency welfare, and other community services.

Activities in the educational field, where more than $350,000 is spent annually, have been expanded within the past two years to include a school of option program in Canada's far North.

Sixty-two schools and eight hostels in the Yukon and Northwest Territories have been adopted. Forty-two schools in Northern and Southern Labrador, and 34 remote and isolated schools in Newfoundland, have recently become part of this project. The I.O.D.E. school of option program now extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Arctic to the Caribbean. School adoption involves gifts of new libraries, library additions, prize books, visual aids, recreational and study material.

SUPPORTS CANADIAN ARTS

The I.O.D.E. continues its work to support Canadian arts. The National Chapter has recently presented a $500 bursary to the Montreal National Theatre School of Canada for students completing acting and production courses, and 30 books for the library of the National Ballet School of Canada.

An amount of $64,000 was awarded from I.O.D.E. First and Second War Memorial Funds for 12 Post-Graduate scholarships (Overseas) valued at $2,000 each and 25 bursaries at $1600 each, in Canadian universities for children of Canadian war veterans.

On welfare services, four hundred thousand dollars ($400,000) is spent in Canada, and one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) for supplies to the needy ones in the stricken areas Europe, Africa, Korea, the West Indies, Hong Kong and India.

Through the tireless efforts of the members, thousands of knitted and sewn articles of clothing are made for distribution. Chapter members give countless hours of service to institutions such as the mental palsy, blind, retarded, blood donors and Canadian Friendship Centres.

The Eskimos in the Canadian Arctic are now the proud owners of three community halls which was a National I.O.D.E. project. They are located at Frobisher Bay in the Eastern Arctic, Tuktoyaktuk in the Western Arctic, and the final one, completed and opened last summer at Baker Lake, is in the Central Arctic.

EQUALITY FOR CANADIAN INDIANS

The I.O.D.E. is fighting for equality for Canadian Indians. A brief was presented this past year to the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, urging the government to extend its work by initiating a research program in co-operation with Canadian universities, which would cover not only the field of education, but all aspects of the life of Indian citizens.

The I.O.D.E. is raising a maximum of $60,000.00 for the National Fund known as the I.O.D.E. Canadian Centenary Fund." Disposition of this fund will be decided at the 1964 National annual meeting.

Today, the I.O.D.E. is one of the largest voluntary women's organizations in Canada. In this fast changing world it strives to keep pace through education, promote unity within the Commonwealth, and give service to the needy.

COUNCIL TO MEET

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Council meets in Quebec City Feb. 10-11 to select winners of its post - doctoral research and senior arts scholarships, to consider applications for assistance in the arts, humanities and social sciences, and to discuss policy.

French-Canadian Girl Chosen to Open New Travel Office in Paris

By JIM PEACOCK

NEW YORK (CP)—When Arlette Fortier was chosen from among 487 applicants to head the Canadian government travel bureau's new office in Paris, her career returned to the highway she had mapped some years ago.

She is in a different lane now than she had intended originally, the result of a detour of 20 years in Quebec government service, but it is one in which she loves to travel and is highly qualified to do so.

That lane is tourist promotion, in which Mlle. Fortier has had experience including 14 years at head of the Quebec tourist bureau in New York city, and in which she now will be mapping routes to Canada for European travellers.

Mlle. Fortier's appointment as the travel bureau's first tourist - promotion representative in France was announced last December by Trade Minister Mitchell Sharpe, the ministry responsible for the bureau.

From then until her departure from New York for Paris, she was in a mad whirl of activities in preparation for the move overseas, including a trip to Ottawa for a three-day session with department heads. But on the eve of her flight from here she took time out for an interview.

LOVES FISHING

Mlle. Fortier recalled that she was born in Ste. Cloir, Que., but as a matter of official policy she refused to say when. She spent her childhood at La Tuque in the fishing wonderland of St. Maurice Valley 75 miles northwest of Quebec City and there grew to love fishing and hunting.

She remains an active participant in these sports, as well as golf, tennis and skiing, when her schedule permits.

She attended Laval University to study politics and economics and there learned Portuguese and Spanish languages in addition to English and French, and she did post-graduate work at Columbia University here and at the University of Mexico.

Why she was to get into the foreign service with the external affairs department," Mlle. Fortier said, "I learned the languages of South America and with Latin-American service in mind."

Instead, she went to work at the Quebec legislature in 1940, as secretary to secretary to Liberal Premier J. A. Godbout. When Premier Maurice Duplessis and the Union Nationale came to power in 1944, she was shifted to the provincial tourist department.

LONG DETOUR

That was the beginning of what she now describes as "my long, long detour." Her ambition of foreign service was partially fulfilled, however, when the Quebec government loaned her to the United Nations in 1946 as an assistant documents officer at the first General Assembly session.

The following year, when the Quebec tourist office here suddenly needed personnel, she was assigned to New York.

"I was given three days' notice and I came here for three months," she said. "That was in May, 1947.

In 1950, she was appointed head of the Quebec bureau here and she held that post until her appointment to Paris.

She became a member of the American societies of travel agents and travel writers and through those groups met hundreds of persons from the tourist industry and made many friends in many lands.

As a tourist herself, she visited Europe several times, the first in 1956 when she went in a travel agents' convention in Switzerland followed by a tour of the Middle East. She also has visited South America, but her travels in Canada give her greater pride.

"I have visited Canada from coast to coast," Mlle. Fortier said, "and I've even been to the Yukon. Last year, in September, you know where I spent my vacation? In the Northwest Territories. I went all the way to Resolute Bay because I wanted to do some fishing for Arctic char. When I got there, it was too late in the year for the fishing, but I enjoyed the beautiful sights."

TRADE MISSION

She said her assignment in Paris poses many interesting problems, the first of which will be the planning for a visit there late in February of a 15-member Canadian trade and tourist mission. Then will come the opening of Paris offices, probably in May, and working initially from the Canadian Embassy.

"I know the provinces in Canada are all very busy now thinking about the centennial celebrations in 1967," Mlle. Fortier said. "But our most important thing this year will be to encourage the thousands of Europeans who will be coming to New York for its world's fair this year and to cross the border into Canada.

"All the provincial tourist offices should contact us. We have material in Europe for distribution to tell the people to come to Canada first, then New York."

Mlle. Fortier said the four-member Paris office will work first for Canada, and will cooperate with all the provinces. Her personal allegiance, she said, will be to Canada as a whole.

"People often are surprised when I say this," she said. "But I am not French. I am a Canadian. I am French extractions, but I am a Canadian. I always say that first I am a Canadian."

She added:

"I have been around very much in Canada. I love my country so much and that makes my work so easy. I have realized I travelled outside Canada that the moment you mention Canada, arms and hearts are open to you. That makes my work easier, too. I am very proud to have been selected to open the Paris office, and I will do my very best for Canada."

Fish With Sauces

by Mary Moore

Extend the variety in your menus by making better use of the increasing number of fishes that are available to us.

Take your choice of fresh or salt waley, fish. Many of these may be purchased fresh, but nearly all may be bought frozen or frozen shipped from our own Maritime provinces.

I selected fresh frozen sole fillets from Nova Scotia for use of the fish dishes I am giving. You might be glad to clip this for Lent begins next week.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Broiled Liver and Bacon with Onion Rings; Buttered Noodles; Crumbed Tomato Casserole; Celery Hearts; Tuna Puffs Supreme (filled with Ice Cream topped with Caramel Sauce); Tea.

BAKED SOLE FILLETS WITH HERB SAUCE (to serve 3):

NOTE:

Any fillets or steaks may be used; but I noticed in the frozen fish counter that sole, perch, cod, haddock and halibut were most plentiful, with cod the cheapest.

1 lb. fresh frozen sole fillets (4c), 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon green onion flakes, ¼ teaspoon thyme, ¼ of a bay leaf, broken up, 2 teaspoons flour, 1 cup milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

If frozen fillets are used thaw them and carefully separate without breaking. Arrange in one layer, on buttered shallow baking dish (preferably one you can carry to the table). Make this Sauce: Melt the butter, add the onion flakes, thyme, bay leaf, flour and salt and stir to blend. Stir in milk until thick. Remove from heat and add lemon juice. Pour this hot sauce evenly over the fillets and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until it bubbles —only about 15 minutes. The fillets are this so only short baking time is required. When the sauce bubbles the fillets will be cooked.

This herb-seasoned sauce stretches this fish dish and in some families these amounts will serve 4, especially if 2 of them are young children.

If you have to coax your family to eat fish, croquettes are a successful method.

FISH CROQUETTES (serves 4):

NOTE:

For this you may use flaked cooked fish, or canned tuna flakes, crabmeat or pink or red salmon. A half-lb. can is sufficient for this recipe.

Make Thick White Sauce by melting 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, stirring in 4 tablespoons flour, and ½ teaspoon salt, then add 1 cup milk and stir until thick. Remove from heat and add ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley and 1 teaspoon green onion flakes. Add 1 cup flaked fish (see above), 2 hardcoo ked eggs, chopped finely. Chill into croquettes, dip in fine crumbs then in one beaten egg diluted with 1 tablespoon water, then in crumbs again. Let stand to dry for 15 or 20 minutes. Fry in deep fat at 375 deg. Fahr. until golden brown. Drain on paper towel. Or bake at 375 deg. Fahr. on buttered pan for about 20 minutes.

Nagging Nellie Urges Flabby Gord to Exercise

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband is 36 years old and 35 pounds overweight. When I married Gordon 11 years ago he was actually skinny. In fact his nickname was "Slim."

New Year's Eve Gordon put on his tuxedo for the first time in four years and he looked like a stuffed sausage. He was unable to button the trousers and had to use a large safety pin. If the cummerbund had not been adjustable he could not have worn the tux at all.

When I mentioned exercise to Gordon he triumphantly pointed out that in the past five years three of his close friends who were athletes in college had died of heart attacks. He also gave me chapter and verse on nationally famous sports figures who suffered heart attacks at an early age.

If exercise is so good for people (as I know it must be) why do so many athletes die young? — NAGGING NELLIE.

* * *

DEAR NELL — The athletes who drop dead are usually the ones who trained vigorously during their adolescent and post-adolescent years and then quit.

Any physician will tell you that moderate, regular, and frequent exercise is very good for middle-aged people. This does not mean an hour of hand-ball or three sets of tennis under a blazing sun — particularly for the man who has sat in the spectator stands during his younger years.

You can tell Gordon for me that more people die from over-sitting than from over-exercise. And the best exercise of all is pushing one's self away from the table.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm a middle-aged career woman, not a giddy teen-ager, so please bear this in mind when you respond to my inquiry.

The man I am dating asked me what I would like for Valentine's Day. He then quoted a maximum figure of how much he would spend.

In all my life I was never so astonished. Since he has put the gift on such a cash basis I am not at all sure I want anything from him for Valentine's Day — or any other day, for that matter.

Am I mistaken or did the gentleman show very poor taste? — NO GOLD DIGGER.

* * *

DEAR NO GOLD — Obviously the gentleman is vastly more practical than romantic. And he wanted to make sure his gift to you is something you can use and he can afford.

In my opinion he said it awkwardly, but the offer was better than a poke in the eye with a sharp stick.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — All we need from you is a yes or a no. The question I am about to pose has been chewed back and forth in our bridge club for several weeks. The ladies are evenly divided. Here is the question:

You you approve or disapprove of young male children (aged 8 to 11 years) dancing with their mother, an aunt or other adults on a hotel or night club dance floor? We'd also like to know your reasons. Thank you. — BRIDGETTES.

* * *

DEAR BRIDGETTES — My answer is based strictly on a personal opinion and has nothing to do with right or wrong, correct or incorrect. I do not like to see little kids on a public dance floor — dancing with adults or with each other. Young children are out of place in such an environment. They look like midgets.

Attractive Girl Seeking Place on Jumping Team

EDMONTON (CP) — An attractive laboratory technician with 78 jumps to her credit plans to compete in the Canadian parachute - jumping trials tentatively set for Brockville, Ont., May 15-17.

Betty-Lou Archibald, 24, safety officer of the 30-member Edmonton Parachute Club, has her eye on a place on the Canadian team in the world championships to be held at Leutkitch, West Germany, in August.

U.S. Army judges will be invited to the trials and their appraisal of the jumpers will be the basis for selecting the Canadian team of five men and three women.

Canada placed fourth in the last world competition, held at Orange, Mass., in 1960.

Miss Archibald has set herself an ambitious goal. She has been jumping just three years and she will be competing against the best jumpers in the country.

She became interested in parachuting as a high school student after reading a magazine article on the sport. But regulations required that she wait until she was 21 to obtain a parachuting licence. She passed the time learning to fly and has her pilot's licence.

"Parachuting isn't dangerous as long as you're careful," she says, but it is rather expensive. An individual jump costs at least $4, a pack and parachute run $491 to $130 plus $20 for a reserve chute. Helmet, boots, goggles and gloves add another $60.

"You can do everything an airplane can do except go up," Betty-Lou adds, explaining that competitors are judged on their skill in a series of free-fall manoeuvres and the ability to land on a specified ground target.

Free - fall manoeuvres — known as the world series — involve 30 seconds of free fall during which the jumper must do a 360-degree turn to the left, a back loop and a 360-degree turn right, the order of the manoeuvres depending on signals from the ground.

The jumper must start the series within 10 seconds and complete it in another 20, pulling the ripcord no later than 30 seconds from the moment of leaving the aircraft.

Russian Spacewoman Ready to Go to Moon

LONDON (Reuters) — Russian spacewoman Valentina Tereshkova said on arrival here Tuesday for a three-day visit that her next destination may be the moon.

"I am always ready to go to the moon," she said. "We have a number of women cosmonauts in training, but if they think me fit I will be glad.

"Women are as fit to fly in space as men."

Waiting crowds cheered her when she arrived at London Airport from Moscow in a Russian jet airliner.

The blue-eyed wife of Soviet cosmonaut Major Andrian Nikolayev was the height of feminimity in a soft grey Russian lamb coat and high - heeled black shoes. Her make-up was subtle and her nail-polish a vivid pink.

Her visit to receive Thursday the British Interplanetary Society's gold medal for her space achievement — orbiting the earth 49 times last June — is likely to be the last official overseas engagement before she goes into temporary retirement to prepare for the birth of a baby this summer.

Valentina, who is 26, said she is determined the retirement would only be temporary.

Grocer Is No Authority On Adoption Regulations

DORIS CLARE

DEAR DORIS — We'd love to adopt a child but the grocer tells us we wouldn't qualify because neither my husband nor myself finished high school.

Is this true? What about the couples who have natural children and haven't even seen the inside of a secondary school?

Is it some sort of crime not to be educated? I had to work to support my widowed mother when I was 18. — BORN TOO SOON.

DEAR TOO SOON — If you ask a grocer about adoptions, do you ask a lawyer about measles? And why ask me, a social worker, about anything?

Here are the facts: You don't need money in the bank, nor high school graduation, nor seniority in the job, nor your own house, nor a seperate room for him. You do need to match, in principle, your child's mental capacity and general learnings, if possible. You do need sufficient maturity to give love without asking anything in return, at first.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — I've liked a boy in my room for years, but not until September did he start to notice me. Lately a girl who used to know him started to like him; as soon as he found out he started seeing her too. I'm so much for her and I feel he's giving me the slip. What can I do to keep him or is he worth it? —UPSET LOVER.

DEAR UPSET LOVER — Let him slip. If he's your type, he'll be back. Keep on with your search for your type, by playing the field.

• • •

Confidential to ADMIRER — Whom are you admiring? You would not be keeping so many girls on a string if you were't so impressed with your own charms.

Going a little deeper, one sees that you do, after all, lack self-confidence. Start keeping the record straight; let the girls know you have no intention of going steady. If you gain a little self-respect, based on honest dealings, you have taken the first step towards making (and keeping!) friends.

• • •

Confidential to HERE. — True; love does hurt and burn and scar and is not to be trifled with. Keep on romancing, little Rebel. The search for truth is a life-long pilgrimage.

• • •

(Doris will welcome your questions or ideas. Write to her about what's troubling you.)

Women's Institute

MELROSE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The January meeting of Melrose W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. J. McFarlane with an attendance of over 30.

The president, Mrs. W. Lasley, welcomed all and presided over the business period during which a quilting was planned on the third Monday in February at the home of Mrs. O. McLaren, also a "Spring Tea" on May 20th to which neighboring Institutes shall be invited. Leaders for the Girls' Club were appointed to attend the Training School on "Sleeping Garments" at Stirling, February 18th and 14th. A gift of several ash trays from Mr. Barberstock to the Institute was greatly appreciated.

Mrs. R. Clarke reported on a meeting for district branches which she had attended to hear Mr. Workman, member of the advisory committee, explain the working method and proper procedure to obtain a "County Library."

RESOLUTIONS

The topic of "Resolutions" was under the convenership of Mrs. Clare Wooes who reviewed several resolutions which had been submitted and rewarded with direct action. She stressed the importance of never being discouraged as continuity generally achieves its purposes like the old saying "Constant dropping of water wears away a stone." She conducted a most informating panel discussion on this important subject. The members of the panel were Mesdmes Onasdinger, Howard and Bates who in the course of questioning explained in detail the definition the beginning and purpose; the wording which must express the reasons and material to support it; where to send it; the different kinds of resolutions including an "emergency" one.

SHORT RESUME

Mrs. G. McLaren, Board Director for Trent Valley Area, gave a short resume of the 33 resolutions submitted to the Provincial Board at the fall session, with less than 50 per cent being sustained. A resolution was passed resolving that Melrose W.I. request the Tyendinaga Township Council to support without delay the Area School Board in their efforts to have a Central School erected for the pressing needs of this community.

Further numbers on the program were: a poem by Mrs. T. Howard; a humorous reading by Mrs. C. Saits (Jr.); piano solos by two Junior girls, the Misses Patsy Pascoe and Gloria McFarlane; the motto, "Standing At the Gate of the New Year," by Mrs. L. Onasdinger. A birthday elimination contest was won by Mrs. H. Melburn after which a vote of thanks was tendered to those taking part in the program and to the hostess for kindness in opening her home.

Refreshments were served and a social hour was spefit.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"If she's elected, will we have to call her husband the 'First Man'?"

LABOR FORCE UP

Sweden's labor force increased by about 40,000 persons to 3,810,000 in 1962.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: When my husband and I were dining in a restaurant recently, a man who works in my office stopped at our table to say hello. My husband stood up and shook hands with him when I made the proper introductions, but he sat down immediately, before my co-worker moved on. I thought it was discourteous, and that he should have remained standing until the other man left. Would you tell me the correct procedure when someone stops to chat when you're dining in a public place? — Mrs. C. W., Washington, D.C.

Answer: A man rises to acknowledge an introduction to another man who stops at the table but he doesn't have to remain standing, especially if the visitor isn't in any particular hurry to move on. If a woman stops to say hello, he should remain standing until she leaves the table.

Centre to Promote Better French-English Relations

TORONTO (CP) — A young Belgian-born Canadian is devoting her spare time to boosting relations between Quebec and Ontario.

Miss Matton, who came here two years ago following high school and university in Montreal, set up the centre in the offices of the French-language newspaper L'Aloustte, which began monthly publication last fall.

"The centre provides an opportunity for English-speaking persons to learn about the French language and culture," she says. At the same time, it serves as a communication medium and co-ordination centre for the 20 French-language organizations in Toronto.

Miss Matton, who started the centre with Jeannine Venne last November, hopes that a closer tie among the associations will result in possible French-Canadian theatrical and cultural productions here.

The centre's objectives are to help Ontario residents get to know more about Quebec, to publicize Ontario in Quebec, to help French-language people set up recreational activities and to help them find employment.

Women Turn Puppetry Art Into Profitable Project

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—A group of Ottawa women has turned the ancient art of puppetry into a money-raising project for charity and turned themselves into "marionette addicts" in the process.

Ann Wilson, who trained 12 members of the Ottawa May Court Club to create the magical world of the marionette theatre, says she has yet to find a person who isn't irresistibly drawn to puppetry after being introduced to it.

"It gets into your blood like the sawdust of the circus or the smell of greasepaint in the theatre," says Mrs. Wilson, who ran a similar project for the May Court Club in London, Ont., for 10 years before moving to Ottawa.

When the curtain went up recently on the first public performance of the Ottawa Marionette Theatre, its creators had a year of training behind them.

Under direction of Mrs. Wilson, the 12 young married women met once a week to learn to design, dress and to manipulate puppets. They also designed the props, arranged lighting and music and painted the backdrops for the miniature stage.

"I started them off with stuffed puppets, as they are the easiest to learn on. They are specially-weighted so they can be controlled on the familiar marionette strings."

Next in the learning process, and the most difficult step, was showing the women how to manipulate the puppets.

BEGAN WITH ANIMALS

"Animal puppets are easier to manipulate than human figures, so I always start my students off on those. The members of the group had to learn not only how to manipulate the puppets but how to make their actions life-like."

The women sold 250 tickets to friends for their children and the proceeds of the first show, in mid-January, went to the May Court Convalescent Home.

"It was a terrific success," Mrs. Wilson says.

The group put on Rumplestiltskin, a fairy story, and a three-minute skit, The Bumble Bee. All in verse, it was written by Anne Gillies, one of the members.

Nimo the clown, Mrs. Wilson's own puppet, introduced his trained animals of the Marionette Circus.

The excited reception from the audience is proof that children don't need to watch all the "gruesome" shows on television to be entertained, she says.

The Marionette Theatre group now is making plans for another production in April and intends to hold benefit shows for children in hospital.

Sales of Plastic Household Articles Are Almost Doubled

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—Thanks to newly created high-fashion designs and pretty colors, sales of plastic household articles have almost doubled in popular priced stores throughout France.

Until the last year, any woman who appreciated the practicality and economy of plastics was condemned to live with ugly, abstract prints and crude colors.

Responsible for bringing the luxury look to low-priced plastic items is a leading Paris society woman, the Countess Bernard de Vesian. In last 18 months, she has become solely responsible for styling in two distinct French firms.

Under the watchful blue eyes of this blonde, elegant, and youthful grandmother, the factories of these two firms are making plastic piece goods, table cloths and accessories for the kitchen, bathroom, lavatory and nursery.

The countess insists that because an item is inexpensive, it does not have to be made in brash poster paint colors. And as colors for plastics are not as easy to mix as dyes for fabrics, she often works with a chemist for several weeks to achieve a particular soft shade which she has in mind.

PLASTIC ACCESSORIES

The countess's own mansion, with its acre of walls dazzles in the centre of Paris, has several bathrooms decorated with plastic accessories. Shower curtains from a plastic manufacturer in the north of France imitate English eyelet embroidery designs.

When the countess's infant grand-daughter comes to visit, the baby's belongings are packed into pale pink sevetopes, matching the bassinet, the portable bath and curtains, all made of sheer opaque plastic.

In spite of a full-time career in plastics, the Countess de Vesian finds time for her husband and five children. A prominent Parisian hostess, she is also vice - president of the Paris Fashion Group.

She even designs her own clothes and those worn by her two daughters. A sewing room in the spacious town house is given up to a dressmaker two days a week although for haute couture fashions, the countess is a client of Christian Dior and Nina Ricci.

Meat Packers Told to Treat Women Shoppers as Adults

WINDSOR (CP)—Meat packers were told Tuesday to treat Canadian women shoppers as adults. They were told the average Canadian housewife is not stupid or unimaginative, but is an intelligent and discriminating shopper.

The 300 delegates to the annual convention of the Meat Packers' Council of Canada were being addressed by Miss Elaine Collett, director of Chatelaine Institute of Canada.

Miss Collett asked why the women shopper should have to be subjected to the chore of ripping off layers of cardboard and plastic to see whether she is being offered lean meat, fat or bacon.

She said the packaging procedures were a constant source of irritation to shoppers. "It may be a necessary part of the industry's marketing," she said, "but it is a mystery to many women shoppers.

"Why not tell Canadian women why you have to wrap the meat the way you do?" she asked. "I think if you took the trouble to give them the story, they would understand and appreciate your position more."

MAKES SUGGESTION

Miss Collett suggested the packers and retailers should promote some of the less expensive cuts of meat rather than pushing only the expensive cuts. She also suggested liver and related types of meat could be ground and treated in other ways to make them more popular.

"Don't ever forget," she said, "Canadian women are hungry for information that will help them do a better job of homemaking; they want to learn how to shop more economically."

She said explanatory notes at or near meat counters describing how best to prepare and cook various cuts of meat could be helpful. A simple explanation of how to do what with a certain cut of meat is often all that is needed, she said, since some housewives are too proud to confess to the butcher they don't know how best to cook a different cut of meat.

Women's Institutes

Redeerville W.I.

The January meeting of Redeerville W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Onderdonk, the County president on January 23.

Mrs. Clarence Vandlet, the president, opened the meeting in the usual manner and welcomed members and visitors. Miss Joan Onderdonk was pianist.

During the business session it was noted that the fees this year would amount to $1. per person. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Johnny's Restaurant, Bellerille. Mrs. George Roblin will be the convener on the fourth Thursday. A lovely blanket donated by Mrs. Onderdonk was on display and tickets will be sold to aid in the work of the Institute.

Mrs. Winston Fulver the convener for home economics was in charge of the program and gave a talk on various colors. Mrs. Kenneth Green gave a reading in connection with flowers. Mrs. Elmer Young gave a demonstration on "Safety".

A vote of thanks was extended to all who had helped with the program, to the hostess and to the lunch conveners.

The W.I. euchre will be held February 11th at the school.

Two Chinas as Dissimilar As David and Goliath Are Contending for Top Spot

With the "two Chinas" problem now spotlighted before the world again by French recognition of Communist China, an AP correspondent with long experience in Asia has prepared articles spelling out the complexities involved. In this first of the series he delineates the contenders.

By ROY ESSOYAN

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Two Chinas as dissimilar as David and Goliath are contending for world recognition.

They will be fighting it out for a United Nations seat late this year.

The prospects for Communist China will be somewhat improved if current diplomatic muddle over relations with France is cleared up.

But Nationalist China still has a slingshot full of pellets.

Paris and Peking got off to a poor start when they announced establishment of diplomatic relations Jan. 27 without clarifying how it would affect the theory "Two Chinas" concept, according to which both Chinas have announced they refuse to maintain relations with any government recognizing the other.

There's an Alice in Wonderland quality about the whole situation.

FACT FOR 14 YEARS

Two Chinas have been an operating fact of life on the world stage since the Chinese Communists drove Nationalist Chiang's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his battered armies off the mainland 14 years ago, and Chiang established himself on Formosa, 100 miles off the China coast.

Since then Chiang and Communist China's party boss Mao Tse-tung have each claimed to be the only true and legal representative of China. Communist China and Nationalist China operate in a vacuum as far as relations between them are concerned.

They don't talk to each other, except to call each other "bandit."

This they do periodically in the press, on the radio and over electronic loudspeakers blaring across the narrow straits separating the Chinese Communist mainland from the Nationalist-held offshore island of Quemoy.

Representatives of the two Chinas flatly refuse to associate with each other, even socially, on neutral ground such as the nearby British Colony of Hong Kong.

In some slight way Peking has been more flexible in its attitude than Taipei. There have been occasional reports in Hong Kong of Chinese Communist feelers aimed at reaching a settlement with Formosa. All of these approaches apparently have been spurned by Chiang.

One reported formula provided for an autonomous government for Formosa and honorable retirement for Chiang on condition the Nationalists severed all relations with the United States. The Chinese Communist emissary carrying his proposal never even made contact with Chiang's men.

Communist China dwarfs Formosa in size, population and military strength. Formosa's 14,000 square miles cover less than half of one per cent of China's vast area. Its population is 12,000,000 compared to the mainland's 700,000,000. And though Formosa has an impressively more men under arms—600,000—than any other country, it cannot compare with Peking's 2,600,000-man army.

Economically, Formosa is healthy, though much of its health has been pumped in by the United States. Experts say it could be a lot healthier if red tape were swept away.

And the economic development projects, incidentally, are frequently stymied by the Nationalist government's fixation about "getting back to the mainland."

STILL HUNGRY

Communist China, 14 years after it was founded, is still economically sick, and frequently hungry.

Life in both Chinas is strictly controlled. The control in Formosa is not as total as right and effective as on the mainland. But freedom of the press, speech and assembly are limited within what the government describes as the bounds of national security.

No one criticizes Chiang aloud. There is no effective opposition movement. And in elections, opposition candidates are said to be held criminally liable for speeches attacking the president, questioning the "back to the mainland" thesis or criticizing relations between the 10,000,000 native Formosans and the 2,000,000 mainlanders on the island.

Some of Tension Removed In Panama Canal Zone

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Mexico appears to have maneuvered successfully to eliminate some of the immediate danger from the explosive nature of the Panama Canal crisis.

Both the United States and Panama now have the opportunity to back away a bit from their stiff and uncompromising attitudes which threaten to indame Central America.

The mere opportunity for fact - finding and discussion, opened by the Mexican proposal before the Organization of American states, does not by itself remove the roots of the canal crisis.

These are imbedded deep in the ownership and operation of the canal itself and they are likely to remain as long as the U.S. retains control over the 50-mile waterway and its adjoining 10-mile zone strip.

Nor is it likely that any inter-American fact-finding body would be able to sustain Panama's charges that the U.S. committed aggression during the January riots that caused more than a score of deaths.

The Americans may have in allowing an American flag acted to a high-handed manner to fly over a zone school, but this could hardly be considered the beginning of a military offensive.

PRIVATE TALKS

The importance of any new committee investigation is that it will present a vehicle for resumption of private U.S.-Panamanian talks, without either side giving the appearance of yielding ground.

Panama still demands that the U.S. agree to negotiate a new treaty to replace the existing document which gives the U.S. the right to control the Canal Zone in perpetuity. The U.S. refuses, saying, as one high official put it: "We won't negotiate with a pistol at our head."

Mrs. Johnson administration, in fact, has adopted a slightly tougher attitude towards the Panamanians than had the previous Kennedy government. The present administration has concluded that the Roberto Chiari regime is really after the dollar itself and won't rest until it gets it.

However, the longer the two countries are able to talk, the greater the possibility of mutual restraint. In May, the Panamanian election will be over and the present problem may be allowed to gather dust a bit longer—perhaps until the next election comes along.

A NEW CANAL

And in November, the American people will vote and then the White House may find it easier to make concessions without worrying about the reaction at the polls.

Some Panamanians thought it being given in the U.S. to the eventual need of a new canal. The present one is becoming obsolete and may become totally uneconomic within a quarter of a century. A new one—a building a sea-level waterway, using "clean" atomic underwater detonations to reduce cost.

If that should ever come about, and there is some question whether atomic bombs will be used in this fashion, the world would be prepared to bring the new canal under inter-American control.

But in the meantime, it won't give up control over the Panama—not until it becomes completely obsolete or is made so by sabotage.

Retarded Children's School Here Exhibits Its Work

It was "open house" last night at the Belleville Association for Retarded Children school on John Street.

Throughout the evening interested Belleville and district residents, visited the local school and saw at first hand what is being done to assist mentally handicapped children to help themselves.

The Belleville school for retarded children had its birth in a basement room at Queen Victoria School, with the local school board providing the accommodation for privately arranged instruction.

Then, with a big lift from the Belleville "Lion's Club, the old Catholic High School on John Street was purchased and fitted for classroom use. The school for retarded children moved into its John Street home just under four years ago.

SERVES DISTRICT

Today there are 22 children from as far south as Picton and as far North as Madoc attending classes supervised by three teachers.

School principal is Mrs. Arthur Bradford; Mrs. Durand has the kindergarten class, and Mrs. Clarence Gibson the senior class. Also in the building is a class for young adults, although this phase of instruction is not under the direction of the association for retarded children. Dr. Charles Dondale is the current president of the Belleville Association for Retarded Children.

Mrs. Donald Maddocks, educational committee chairman, last night told what was being done for the 22 children whom she referred to as "handicapped", not retarded.

"Children attending here are trainable, but cannot be educated," she said. "They learn by doing and we try to help them to help themselves."

FINANCES A PROBLEM

The school does get a provincial grant for students up to 18 years, but no local school taxes are received.

It is expected, however, that regulations will be changed to permit a share of local school taxes to be turned over to the school for retarded children.

While able to be trained in simple tasks, retarded children can never be expected to be self sustaining and therefore special workshops will be required for after-school years.

Among the training given at the John Street school is basket weaving, kitchen duties, baking and other minor tasks. The children can never learn to read as a normal person while even simple mathematics is also beyond their mental capacity.

But despite their handicap they still have the right to what training they can absorb, say Association members.

RANKS SIXTH

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada ranks sixth in estimated world electrical power production and takes second place when her production is related to the size of population, the U.S. Federal Power Commission reported Tuesday. Canada had 21,945,000 kilowatts of installed capacity, up from 23,918,000 at the end of 1961.

Again Probing Sales of Sweep Tickets

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A second major investigation into the sale and distribution of sweepstake tickets is being centred on western Ontario by members of the provincial police anti-gambling squad, Assistant Commissioner Harold Graham said Tuesday.

The investigation is the second major attack on sweepstakes operations in the area in the last six months. A crackdown late last year resulted in more than $7,000 in fines imposed by London Magistrate Donald B. Menzies on persons convicted of advertising or selling tickets in the area.

The assistant commissioner, in a telephone interview from Timmins, said the OPP is cooperating with Sarnia and London city police morality officers.

"Charges are being considered at the present time," he said and added the investigation into illicit sweeps operations is being conducted throughout much of the province but is concentrated on the London area.

A series of raids, involving Irish Sweepstake tickets drawn on the Grand National steeplechase in England, have already been made by morality officers.

"I can't elaborate more than that," said Assistant Commissioner Graham.

Queen Mother Resting Well

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth spent a comfortable night and slept well following her emergency appendectomy Tuesday, a medical bulletin said today.

"Her condition generally is satisfactory," the bulletin added.

The bulletin was issued at London's King Edward VII Hospital for officers. The 63-year-old Queen Mother entered the hospital Monday night.

She had to cancel a 30,000-mile trip to New Zealand and Australia, by way of Canada, due to start Friday.

One of the Queen Mother's closest friends — her lady-in-waiting Lady Jean Rankine, said when leaving the hospital it was unlikely there would be any visitors today.

Wants Schlitz Free to Bid For Labatt's

TORONTO (CP) — Economics Minister Stanley Randall of Ontario says nothing should be done to prevent the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Company of Milwaukee from bidding for control of Labatt Breweries.

"In our free enterprise system there is no effective way to stop this from the point of view," and I don't think legislation should attempt it," he said in an interview.

Schlitz Brewery has offered $34,500,000 to buy about 25 per cent of Labatt common stock which would represent effective control of the company.

The best way to combat imbalance of trade was to sell more to the United States, not legislation, he said.

In London, Ont., Tuesday, J. H. Moore, president of the Labatt company, said as far as he knows the offer was made by family have not yet accepted the offer made to them by the Schlitz Company.

SENTENCE DEFERRED

TORONTO (CP) — Millionaire boilerman Ben Smith, 50, was reprimanded by Judge Donald Morand in Supreme Court of Ontario Tuesday for Mr. Justice Smith is in hospital undergoing treatment for coronary thrombosis. Smith was convicted of fraud involving Brilund Mines Limited.

Princess Irene of Holland Breaks Engagement With Mystery Suitor in Spain

THE HAGUE (AP) — Hollanders, already roused by Princess Irene's conversion to Roman Catholicism, were boiling today about Queen Juliana's announcement that plans for her daughter's engagement had fallen through.

In a broadcast Tuesday night, the Queen said Irene had been "the happy possibility of an engagement" for Irene but "unfortunately we now must tell you that our daughter Irene has informed us this afternoon that this engagement will not take place."

"Our daughter is passing now an extremely difficult time," Juliana said, asking her people to give the princess "the rest which she needs so much in these circumstances."

Irene's whereabouts were a mystery, but The Queen said: "We hope to see our daughter shortly in our midst."

The romance of the 24-year-old blonde princess and a mystery suitor, said to be Spanish, apparently caused deep government concern.

Shortly after The Queen spoke, a government spokesman announced that the breaking off of engagement plans was Irene's decision. Then Premier Victor van Maritnen summoned reporters and insisted government pressure had not been exerted on the princess, who has been in Spain for the last month.

The Queen gave no clue to the identity of the suitor involved. But since Irene went to Spain Jan. 9, her name has been linked romantically with several young Spanish aristocrats. They include Prince Alfonso de Bourbon-Orleans, 28, who works in a Madrid bank, and Santiago Ibarra, de Churruca of Bilbao, 30, whose family owns large steel mills in northern Spain.

British Aircraft Carrier Stands on Guard in East Africa to Ease Crisis

DAR ES SALAAM (AP)—The British aircraft carrier Victorious stands grey and powerful off the Tanganyika coast symbolizing the West's continuing unease at East Africa's military crisis.

With its jets, helicopters and 600 marines, the Victorious is a formidable force. The Royal Navy and British troops who landed here Jan. 25 are in fact Tanganyika's only protection against subversion or attack.

Final underlining of the country's defencelessness came with President Julius Nyrerere's decision last weekend to disband half his tiny army.

All private soldiers in the 1st Battalion of the Tanganyika Rifles—about 700 men—will be sent home in their villages. They will face trial if they try to leave.

Many of the unit's corporals and sergeants already are in prison as ringleaders of last month's mutiny and other conspirators with leftist labor union leaders in a plot to overthrow the government.

MAY WANT JOINT FORCE

To fill the power vacuum resulting from the army dismissals, Nyerere may be hoping for some sort of joint force to emerge from a conference of independent African states to be held in Dar es Salaam this month.

A further solution canvassed in London has been for an East African federal force made up of officers and men from Tanganyika, Kenya and Uganda—all hit recently by army mutiny.

Twenty of 35 members of the Organization for African Unity already have accepted Nyerere's call for a conference on the East African crisis, although no agenda has been fixed. They include some of the most powerful members such as Nigeria, Algeria and Ghana.

They include, too, the infant revolutionary government of Zanzibar which may hold the key to all East Africa's future. The Zanzibar council aligns itself entirely with the Communist bloc, as many diplomats believe is also possible, it could become a base for subversion aimed at the entire African continent.

Communist China was among the first to send an envoy to the new Soviet Union followed through by establishing a three-man mission on Zanzibar last weekend.

Princess Irene of Holland Says Hoffa Told of Plans To Buy Jurors

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A Teamster official turned informer testified today that James R. Hoffa told him of plans to try to get to a few scattered jurors in the Teamsters president's conspiracy case.

Edward Grady Partin, Baton Rouge, La., Teamsters officer, testified over heated defense objections at the jury-tampering trial of Hoffa and five other men. He said Hoffa told him today linking Hoffa himself with any alleged jury-fixing effort in the trial, now in its third week.

"He called me to his room," said Partin, business manager of Baton Rouge Local 5. "He told me he'd like for me to be sticks around a few days, he might want me to talk to a few people.

He said they were going to get to one juror and try to get to a few scattered jurors and take a chance."

Hoffa and the others are accused of trying to influence jurors in the 1962 Chattanooga trial.

The government won a major victory when U.S. District Judge William Miller ruled Partin could be permitted Partin to testify.

HEADS SERVICE

OTTAWA (CP) — David A. Munro, 40, of Ottawa and Victoria, has been appointed chief of the Canadian Wildlife Service, it was announced Tuesday. Agriculture Minister W. W. Mair said Munro has taken a position with the national parks branch of northern affairs department. Mr. Munro joined the government service in 1948 as a management officer and has appointed chief ornithologist in 1953.

George Drew Retires

40 Years in His Country's Service

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — George Drew is retiring in name only.

He leaves public life this week after 42 crowded years, but no slippered ease awaits. His official retirement as Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom was effective last weekend, and he is in his office this week pending sailing for Sicily on Feb. 8.

Three months from his 70th birthday, he feels in "first-class" physical condition and has large plans to write, work and travel.

Standing beside the big red high commissioner's desk in Canada House, his broad shoulders turning away from windows reflecting the illuminated fountains of Trafalgar Square at dusk, Drew told a reporter:

"I'm looking forward to doing some writing. I had a lot of material before I came here, but I'll have to make some changes. I've known every Canadian prime minister from the days of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, whom I met when I was a young man, and-I should have something to say."

Would he be spicily controversial?

Drew smiled: "I am not in the habit of concealing my meaning."

HARD WORKER

Drew was premier of Ontario from 1943 to 1948, when he was elected national leader of the Progressive Conservative party to succeed John Bracken. He resigned the latter post in 1956. John Diefenbaker, then prime minister, announced Drew's appointment to London in 1957.

The new high commissioner wasted no time. Arriving late September evening, he got off a boat train, climbed into an automobile and made his first speech half an hour later.

In the six years and four months since then, he has consistently worked 80 to 90 hours a week as London's "Mr. Canada," entertaining an ever-increasing flow of Canadian visitors at his home near Hyde Park, gathering scattered government departments into one building, handling such hot issues as Britain's attempted entry into the European Common Market and generally, as one admiring aide said, "leading everybody's life but his own."

BUSY CENTRE

There may be more difficult posts but people who know say that Canada House is the busiest diplomatic and reception centre in London, after the American and Soviet embassies.

By statute, the high commissioner is responsible for the supervision and administration of all Canadian government branches and agencies in Britain, covering some 800 employees. Canada House is the heart of a vast communications system, the "tunnel" into Canada for Europe and the Middle East, a many-sided operation whose administrative arm even encompasses Canadian trade offices in Singapore and Hong Kong, since these are in colonial areas.

Jet flights have jacked up the number of Canadians visiting Britain to something approaching 150,000, many of whom get in touch with Canada House. Pressure for tickets to the trooping the color ceremony and to Buckingham Palace garden party poses a major problem for Drew and the social secretary, Mrs. Jean Halton, formerly of Pincher Creek, Alta. Mrs. Halton is the widow of well-known CBC commentator Matt Halton.

KEEPS FIT

Still a tall and handsome man, Drew keeps fit by frequent walking, sometimes making a five-mile circuit of Hyde Park. He seems little changed from the days when his upstanding bearing and Roman senator's head won him the nickname "Gorgeous George."

He is a gifted "front man," and the social pressure comes "as natural as breathing," friends said. The same goes for his vivacious, multilingual wife, Florenza, whose last two years here have been clouded by recurrent hospital visits.

"The high commissioner's real problem is not leisure time but how to get his real work done in view of the heavy social schedule," said a former associate.

Drew's lifetime fondness for travel and his long experience of public affairs, dating to his appointment as an alderman in his native Guelph, Ont., when still in his 20s, help to make things easier.

VALUABLE CONTACTS

He is on first - name basis with British ministers. How valuable "contacts" can be was emphasized when his friendship with former ambassador J. H. Whitney gave him the inside track in negotiations for the old American embassy.

With property values booming, the building—now named for Sir John A. Macdonald—is probably worth twice what Canada paid for it. Officials estimated the purchase may eventually save Canadian taxpayers millions of dollars.

From many highlights of his London stay, the high commissioner vividly recalls being summoned to Whitehall to sign the test-ban treaty for Canada. He was relaxing on a beach in Elba when the call came and it took a fantastic combination of taxis, trains and aircraft to make connections. He was the first to sign apart from the Big Three.

When an American military plane was ditched in the Atlantic with loss of life, the Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure and three Canadian destroyers aided in rescue attempts. Drew immediately went to Ireland and flew out by helicopter to watch operations.

COMMON MARKET

There were moments of controversy. Always a man of forceful political views, the high commissioner had little liking for Britain's bid to join the Common Market, fearing its effect on Commonwealth trade. He was reported to have had sharp differences with Duncan Sandys, Britain's Commonwealth secretary who has a fearsome reputation for blunt speaking.

Drew speeches mostly deal with "my faith and my concern" in relation to the Commonwealth connection. He says there are "immense possibilities" for a much closer trading relationship between Canada and Britain.

When a British television program, Boxing with a Giant, left the impression that Canada was becoming increasingly dependent on the United States, Drew attacked the film as strongly in a Canada Club speech but The Daily Mirror, in a front-page headline, labelled him "An Angry Canadian."

The Guardian of Manchester, whose political line sometimes crossed Drew's, gave him praise when it was announced that he would be succeeded in London by bilingual Lionel Chevrier.

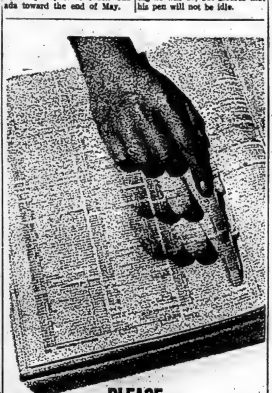
"In seven years of tenancy he has become as much a part of the London scene as Canada House itself," said The Guardian, describing Drew as an "institution."

MILITARY CRITIC

A regular guest at rallies of Canadian veterans, Drew retains a strong interest in military matters. He joined the 16th battery at Guelph in 1914 and served in the Canadian Expeditionary Force overseas from 1915 to 1917, returning to Canada because of wounds.

He commanded the 16th battery, Canadian Artillery, from 1920 to 1929 and later took command of the 11th Field Brigade with headquarters at Guelph. He also served as aide de camp to the Earl of Bessborough when the latter was governor-general of Canada.

His war books include Canada's Fighting Airmen, The Truth About War and Salesmen of Death.



He plans to leave London Feb. 8, accompanied by his wife. After relaxing in Italy and Sicily, they expect to reach Canada toward the end of May.

Drew was recently named a director of a uranium company in Toronto and will continue his close connection with the powerful United Dominions Trust headed by J. G. Jarvie.

He says he hasn't "fixed any definite pattern" for the writing he will do, but assures that his pen will not be idle.

TOKEN RETIREMENT — When George Drew leaves public life this week after 42 years, he will be retiring in name only. Mr. Drew, who officially retired as Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, plans to spend his time writing, working and travelling. He will be succeeded in London by former justice minister Lionel Chevrier. (CP Photo)

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The last few days—and running currently—have been TDTWAA (The Days That Were and Are.)

The highlight was the billion-and-half shot of Harry Trepanier dealing four perfect bridge hands. If Harry can pick horses like he deals cards I'd like to know his opinion on a 100-1 shot called "Square Dealer."

Jim Matthews has entered a bobsled team in a Kingston slide, slip and slough duel with Limestone Carnivaleers. A report from the shadow of the Kingston Alps rumors that Matthews will face two opposing sled crews. One is dubbed the Speeding Spiders, the other the Crudelovey Cockroaches.

Matthews is said to be considering hanged sharpy-dog wigs for his downhillers and will call them the Belleville Beetles. They will likely warble to the music of transistor radios since "glitters," skos, and bunjos are not standard equipment for bobsled joyriders.

The Quinte Bonspiel was a rousing success, according to the public prints and opinions of the brame-and-stoners from the city and district.

The famous hospitality of the Quinte district with the three clubs, Quinte, Trenton and Trenton RCAF contributing equally to the two-day smorgasbords, was again in evidence and not a few out-of-town curlers took home some avoirdupois they didn't bring with them.

In fact my undercover operator at one of the clubs who fashions brush-cuts for old or wearing-out brooms, tells me that business was so good that a bicarbonate firm is thinking seriously of donating a trophy next year.

I tried curling once but after I failed to get my curves working and could only cause my rock a slewish straight ball, I decided the sport was not for me... I'll try it again when the powers-that-be allow as standard equipment derricks installed in the hack positions to enable would-be curlers to assume the upright stance without loss of dignity.

I'm sure "Herroner" Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa will second the motion.

But the prize catch of TDTWAA is a serious-minded fight fan who picks Cassius Clay to cause "an eclipse of the Sonny."

Swelp me, he believes the Louisville Lip will not only strut out of Miami later this month with a few million shekels cached in his Cadillacs but will be seeing the world championship in a golden trailer.

Says he read somewhere that a reporter wrote that Clay's sporting and "poem-izing" was a bit sour and his challenge of Liston not being taken too seriously.

He says that Clay stated "I made Liston the favorite of the fans. He used to be the villain and people wanted to see him beat. Then I came along and they got an awful of me and they began rooting for Liston to shut me up. I'll be fighting him and the fans, too."

The man said that Clay's ballyhoo about disposing of Liston in five rounds has been laid aside; that Sonny is stronger, pretty fast, better developed and might not fall."

He said he believes Clay when he says that he has had 186 amateur fights, that he's young and still growing and has been through the mill.

"And don't forget," he said behind a pointed finger, "that Mr. Clay has intense desire to win despite his sputtering. He wants that title as less than he wants the gold that goes with it and comes afterwards. Sonny has been shooting off, too. He's not selling Cassius as short as he would have you believe."

That might be so, Buster, but if I were in there with The Bulldozer from Philly and saw that right-handed thunderbolt coming at me, I would not want my unclassic features cast as a catching mitt.

Within Reach of Gold Medal

Bobsledders Lead

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Canada's four - man bobsled team, piloted by Vic Emery of Montreal today grabbed a commanding lead after the first two of four Olympic runs and moved within reach of the gold medal. The Canadians had a combined time of two minutes, 6.34 seconds for the first two runs over the tricky Olympic chute.

The Canadians got off to a faster start than they did in winning the first heat and zoomed into the plunging curves over the rugged course made difficult by a thaw. There were many spots of soft ice and slush.

The organizers said that if the course did not hold up for the remaining two runs scheduled for Thursday and Friday, then the gold medal would go to the Canadians as the crew with the best aggregate time for the first two races.

The Canadian sled hung precariously at one curve but managed to stay clear of the walls and was clocked in 1:02.82 to take second place in the second heat after leading in the first course without a mishap.

Italy's No. 2 sled, piloted by Eugenio Monti, was second with a total of 2:07.50. Monti is an eight-time world champion.

Austria's No. 1, driven by Erich Thaler, was third with 2:07.81 and Germany's No. 1, piloted by Frans Schelle, fourth with 2:07.91.

The U.S. No. 1, led by Bill Hickey, placed fifth with 2:08.01 in both heats. Hickey displayed masterful manoeuvred expertly past two critical walls known as the Fox-hole and the Witches Cauldron.

The Canadian bob's crew was made up of Emery, a 36-year-old graduate of University of Western Ontario, his brother, John, a Toronto plastic surgeon, Peter Kirby of St. Jovite, Que., and Douglas Anakin of Montreal.

The Canadian No. 2 sled, piloted by Gordon Lemont, a New York investment broker who was born in Harriston, Ont., finished 12th with runs of 1:04.83 and 1:04.43 for a total of 2:09.06.

Eighteen teams from 11 countries competed. All finished the heat after leading in the first course without a mishap.

Russians Corner Gold Medal Market

By ROD CURRIE

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—The United States, in winning the men's 500-metre speedskating championship, has stolen an Olympic gold medal from the private preserve of the Soviet Union.

But the Russians aren't feeling the pinch in the over-all picture at the Winter Olympic Games.

They're already won seven gold medals to equal their output at Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960 and they have a chance at championship in their trophy bag than they won in their first crack at the Winter Olympics in 1956.

And they're a safe bet for at least a couple more before the Games end Sunday.

The Soviets should dominate top placings in today's five kilometre women's cross-country skiing and they are favored to take the gold in the women's 15-kilometre relay Friday.

STRONG IN SKATING

They must be considered, too, in today's 5,000-metre men's speed skating, which Victor Kosichin of Russia won in 1960, although Jonny Nilsson of Sweden is favored.

The third final scheduled today — the 10,000-metre (20¾-mile) cross - country ski race—is expected to be a run between the 1956 Olympic champion Sergei of Sweden and Finland's Eero Maentyranta, who already has won the 15- and 30-kilometre races.

The Soviets also have hopes in the men's 1,500- and 10,000-metre speed skating and in hockey, where the Russian squad was tied for first place with Canada after Tuesday's play in the seven-game, round-robin tournament. Both has won four games and lost none, the Russians opening their 1964 victory Tuesday by whipping Finland 10-0.

Czechoslovakia beat Switzerland 5-1 and Sweden downed Germany 10-2 in other championship play while Canada and the United States were idle. The Czechs and Swedes were tied for third place with 3-1 records.

FAVORITE UPSET

McDermott finished half a second ahead of Kosichin (including Eugenij Grischin of Russia, who won the event in 1956 and 1960, the record time of 40.1 seconds clipped one-tenth of a second off Grischin's Olympic record.

Grischin, 32, slipped going into the first turn and had to settle for a second-place tie with teammate Vladimir Orlov and Ale Ljestvang of Norway. Each received a silver medal and no bronze was awarded.

Ralf Gin of Calgary, only Canadian entered in the day's finals, was 39th.

Russia picked up a gold medal elsewhere Tuesday as world champion Vladimir Melnin won the biathlon, an event combining cross-country skiing and rifle shooting.

HITS ALL TARGETS

Melnin covered the 20-kilometre race in one hour, 20 minutes and 26.8 seconds and hit all 20 targets in prone stage for shooting from distances of 250, 200, 150 and 100 metres.

Alexander Privalov of Russia also hit all 20 targets and took second place with a time of 1:23:42.5. Olav Jordet of Norway missed one target, which added two minutes to his time, and left him third in 1:24:46.6.

The one-two showing, coupled with a repeat victory in the women's 10 - kilometre cross - country skiing, a sensational four gold medals by Siberian school teacher Lidia Skoblikova in the four women's speed-skating finals, and the first Soviet figure-skating triumph in the pairs final, gave Russia seven gold medals in seven days.

The total equals the 1960 catch, when three of the gold medals came in each of the men's and women's figure skating and the biathlon and in the women's cross-country ski.

SAYS CLAY CAN HIT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Former sparring partner of world heavyweight champion Sonny Liston went three rounds with challenger Cassius Clay Tuesday and concluded "Clay can hit hard." Dave Bailey, who sparred with Liston three years ago in Philadelphia, said the champ is going to be is for a surprise when he and Clay meet Feb. 28 in a title bout.

Charged With 'Incompetency'

Olympics Referees On Carpet

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—International Ice Hockey Federation officials held a series of emergency meetings Tuesday to consider charges of incompetent refereeing and soft ice conditions in the Winter Olympics hockey tournament.

Kaur Hauser of Switzerland, chief referee of the IIHF, it was learned, called all 20 referees on the mat early Tuesday after Canada defeated the United States 8-0 in a game marred by 14 penalties.

Hauser called the meeting after he received a complaint from Art Potter, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

"We aren't crying," Potter said. "Every country in Olympic hockey is in the same boat.

The referees are inefficient and unfortunately we have to put up with them," he added. "They don't use their heads. It seems futile to spoil games with petty penalties, such as every country here has been getting.

ALL SUFFER

"Everybody is suffering. Monday night, when the Americans were losing, they began to spear our boys, who protected themselves and were given unnecessary penalties."

Potter said that Rev. David Bauer, coach of Canada's team which now has a 4-0 record in the seven - game round - robin tournament, had "shown admirable restraint until Monday night when the refereeing became too much for him." The Canadians received nine of the 14 penalties and Father Bauer said the officiating was "incredible."

Meanwhile, John F. (Bunny) Ahearne, IIHF president, met with Prof. Fried! Wolfgang, general secretary of the Austrian Olympic Organizing Committee, to complain about the ice surface at Olympia Stadium where hockey and figure skating are held.

The figure skaters want soft ice and hard ice is needed for hockey," Ahearne said in an interview later. "I simply pointed out that the IIHF interest is in the players and if ice conditions aren't satisfactory for hockey we would take necessary action."

He refused to say what this action would be.

COACH LEAVES

EDMONTON (CP) — Dennis Kadatz, coach of the Canadian junior football champion Edmonton Huskies, tendered his resignation at the club's annual meeting Monday night. Reports have been circulating that Kadatz, who also led Huskies to the Canadian crown in 1962, will assume head coach duties at the University of Alberta, Calgary next season.

Believes Off-Track Bets Legal

VANCOUVER (CP) — The chairman of the B.C. racing commission says he believes off-track betting is legal.

Glen McDonald, also the city coroner, was commenting Monday on a statement made in Toronto by S. Tupper Bigelow, chairman of the Ontario Racing Commission, that such betting is legal under the Criminal Code of Canada.

"As a magistrate and chairman of the racing commission I would say Bigelow is quite correct," McDonald said. "And I personally see nothing wrong with it providing it doesn't detract from attendance at the race track."

Marlies Dump Flyers

Red Wings Upset Petes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The hapless Kitchener Rangers, completely out of the running in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, absorbed their 33rd loss of the season Tuesday.

They didn't give up easily as they bowed 4-3 to Oshawa Generals, who hold down sixth and final playoff berth in the eight-team circuit.

The Generals have a comfortable 14-point margin over the seventh-place Hamilton Red Wings, who upset Peterborough Petes 6-1 while the front running Toronto Marlboros downed Niagara Falls Flyers 4-2.

Kitchener, deep in the cellar, has only 15 points on five wins and five ties this season in 43 games.

But they threatened the Generals at Bowmanville Tuesday, taking a 4-1 first-period lead and staying ahead 5-3 after the second. Oshawa had to come up with a last-period outburst for the victory.

SCORE 2 EACH

Ron Buchanan and Bill Little scored two goals each for the Generals. Danny O'Shea, Bill Smith and Bobby Orr added the others.

Sandy Fitzpatrick paced the Rangers with two goals and Trevor Aker, Randy Legge, John Beechey and Pete Brennan got one apiece.

Will Probe Violence Outbreaks

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Lockhart, president of the Eastern Hockey League, turned down a request by Philadelphia for a game against Greensboro, and set up a committee of three men to meet next Monday with the league's governors to discuss recent outbreaks of violence by players.

The league set its next meeting for the Jacksonville, Fla., area May 27 in hopes that it may attract a team from that area to become a fifth club in its southern division along with Nashville, Greensboro, N.C., Charlotte and Knoxville.

The nonplus members are Clinton, N.Y., Commack, N.Y., Philadelphia, New Haven and Johnstown, Pa.

Five players, previously suspended for fighting, were fined $50 each and placed on probation. They are Ted McCaskill, Red Murphy and Marv Edwards of Nashville, Joe Daley of Johnstown and Ray Larose of Commack.

Blades Nip Komets 6-4, Flags Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The win brought the second-place Blades to within 10 points of the pace - setting Komets while Port Huron Flags were defeating the Bulldogs 6-4 at Windsor to stay one point behind Toledo.

Morissette crashed a 4-4 deadlock with less than eight minutes remaining and Greg Jablonski added the insurance goal. Larry Maverty and Moe Benoit got the others for Toledo.

Could Kill Tournaments

Pro Golfers Ask Lions' Share TV Take

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A withthe sponsoring Phoenix dispute between the Professional Golfers' Association and sponsors of the Phoenix Open has been settled, but the issue that divided them already threatens at least one other tournament.

The issue is television rights or, more precisely, money. For one thing, the pros want a pension plan.

The other tournament endangered is the Bing Crosby clambake.

Larry Crosby accused professional golfers Tuesday of trying to take over the Crosby tournament and said they may kill it, instead.

Larry, who runs the tournament for his brother, said the event cannot be continued if the PGA refuses to withdraw what he called a "outrageous demands" for television money.

He said the PGA wants 75 per cent of the television proceeds from the Crosby tournament and other events on the PGA tour, including the upcoming in and saying "we're taking over," Crosby said. "Have you ever heard of anything like that?"

WORSE THAN CAPONE

He said that's "worse than the Capone mob moving in."

The PGA announced Sunday it would not permit its members to play in the $50,000 Phoenix Open because it had no contract able to participate.

The sponsors announced Monday night that the dispute had been resolved. Jay Hebert, chairman of the PGA tournament committee, said in a statement released Tuesday in New York:

"The tournament sponsors signed the contract exactly as submitted to them, including recognition that television rights go to the players."

WANT 50 PER CENT

Sources close to touring professionals say the players want 50 percent of the television proceeds from each tournament assigned to their pension fund and 25 per cent added to the tournament purse.

One source described the golfers' object as "just a good social, security program."

Crosby said he and sponsors of 26 other tournaments decided at a meeting in Dallas last summer that they would give the PGA no money from tournament telecasts. Crosby said his position is still the same.

If TV proceeds from the Crosby tournament went to the PGA, Crosby said, he would be said, the event would no longer be classified as a charity and many celebrities would be unable to participate.

Tars Lose To Welland

PORT COLBORNE (CP) — After ending the first period with a 3-3 tie, Welland Burokes fired two goals in the second and three in the third to take an 8-3 win over Port Colborne Sailors in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior game here Tuesday night.

The win put Welland within two points of second-place Galt Hornets. It was the only league game of the night.

Vance Millar led Welland scorers with two goals. Other goal-getters were Jim Robertson, Sonny Dessen, Bill Owens, Leo Cunningham, Chester Waschol and Fern Belanger.

Winter Car Rally Has 274 Entries

TORONTO (CP) — Three previous champions, all from Toronto, are among 274 entries in the 12th annual, 1,250-mile Winter Car Rally which begins in Toronto Feb. 7 and finishes here Feb. 9.

Chuck Stockey and John Bird, 1963 winners; Paul MacLennan and Art Dempsey, 1962 winners and Lloyd Howell and Bill Silvers, 1961 winners, will compete over the circular route that winds through Northern Ontario.

The course takes the competitors east through Renfrew County, back through Bancroft and Huntsville to North Bay for a compulsory 10-hour stop and then back to Toronto over isolated logging roads and concessions.

Entered in this year's rally are 30 domestic cars, 20 sports cars and 87 miscellaneous imported models.

Twenty-four teams will compete, consisting of six manufacturers and dealers, five private and 13 clubs.

Eric Jackson of Great Britain, winner of the European entry class for the last two years, will participate again this year.

Clippers Trip Barons

BALTIMORE (AP) — A pair of rookies, Gordon Labossiere and Gilles Villemure, paced Baltimore Clippers to a 4-0 American Hockey League triumph over Cleveland Barons Tuesday night.

Villemure's second shutout of the season marked the first time this season the Barons have been blanked. He turned aside 32 Cleveland shots.

Labossiere scored Baltimore's first two goals, each time being assisted by defenceman Noel Price and winger George Dudley.

Another rookie, Eddie Ehrenworth, scored the third Clipper goal and centre Jean-Gilles Ratelle got the final tally.

The victory extended Baltimore's longest winning streak of the season to four and moved the Clippers within five points of second-place Hershey in the eastern division of the AHL. The Clippers moved six points ahead of fourth-place Providence in the battle for a playoff position.

TOP WINNER

Starlet to Star was Canada's winningest three-year-old thoroughbred in 1963, with 10 wins. $25,000.

Minor Hockey

Hawks and Wings chalked up decisive victories in the Minor Hockey Association last night.

In a third game, Rangers [illegible] to a 3-1 deadlock. Goals triggered the nine Local Rick Meagher scored the equalizer for Rangers.

Wings shutout Canadiens 4-0. Bill Coughlan scored one goal and assisted on another. Ken Cochrane, Pete Scott and Cam Destor fired the other goals.

Hawks downed the Bruins 6-2 behind John Mulvihill's high-scoring performance. Mulvihill hit the hemp for four goals. Jim Richardson and Paul Reid also scored and Ed Morrison got an assist. D. Chatterly potted both Bruin markers, Chrisley helping on one.

MIDGET

In a pair of Midget tilts, Hawks nipped Leafs 4-2 while Bruins clipped the Wings 7-4.

Paul Ford got two goals and an assist for Hawks. John Cole collecting one of each with Ted Hurlington also scoring. Beattie and Doran were Leaf marksmen, Tomaso aiding on one.

Rick Ellis and Fullerton scored two goals apiece while sparking the Bruin victory. Ray Summers, Cecil Haley and David Akey had the other goals. Cameron, Summers and Swager drew assists. Dickey starred for Wings with three goals and an assist on the offer. Mike Smith also scored with two. Lane and White getting helpers.

Montreal Canadiens, a surprise team in the National Hockey League, are facing the big test.

According to pre-season talk they were not supposed to be in first place at the All-Star break, they're at the top, tied with Chicago Black Hawks.

Whether the Habs stay there depends on how they make out in their next three games—all on foreign ice.

They took Ted Harris of Cleveland and Terry Gray of Quebec, both of the American Hockey League, along to fill in spots vacated by defencemen Jean-Guy Talbot and right-winger Bernie Geoffrion.

Talbot suffered a charley-horse early in Saturday's 5-3 win by Canadiens over Detroit Red Wings.

Geoffrion, injured in Boston Jan. 19, has been out to practices but is not ready for action.

Canadiens take on the Maple Leafs in Toronto tonight before they move to New York for a clash with the Rangers Saturday and head for Boston to meet the Bruins Sunday.

ALSO PLAY TONIGHT

Two other games are set for tonight—Boston at New York and Chicago Black Hawks at Detroit.

It will be the 10th meeting between the Canadiens and Leafs, all even this season with nine and a tie apiece. Montreal won the last two encounters, 3-0 and 2-1.

Montreal hasn't decided whether to sign Yvon Cournoyer, star winger with Montreal Junior Canadiens of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Cournoyer scored four goals in five games with the parent club—against New Wings Saturday—while on trial.

"When a fellow gets four goals in five games he's bound to be some discussion about signing him," said Montreal coach Toe Blake.

The Bruins also dipped into the OHA for a junior player, picking up centre Ron Schock from Niagara Falls Flyers for a two-game tryout.

Detroit sent goalie Roger Crozier to Pittsburgh Hornets of the AHL. The Hornets said the deal was arranged because Hank Bassen is out with torn ligaments. Crozier was in the Detroit net during the 5-3 pasting by Canadiens.

McIntyre Won Coach For Guelph

GUELPH (CP)—Jack McIntyre, a 13-year veteran of professional hockey, will take over as playing-coach of Guelph Regals of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior League, replacing Art Stellen.

The announcement came Tuesday from Bud Kemp, president of the club.

McIntyre scored 109 goals during his National Hockey League career.

The Regals tried to acquire him when the club was formed last October but he was unable to secure a release from Detroit Red Wings and was assigned to Indianapolis of the United States Central Professional League.

McIntyre retired from pro hockey in December and joined the Regals Jan. 2.

Heller, a former defenceman with New York Rangers of the NHL, was not blamed by Kemp for the Regals fifth-place standings in the six-team league.

AIM FOR PLAYOFFS

"We still feel we can make the playoffs," Kemp said, "and we think McIntyre is the man to get us into fourth place."

Guelph trails fourth - place Oakville Oaks by five points and has 10 games left, while the Oaks have nine left to play. They play each other twice before conclusion of the schedule March 1.

McIntyre will make his debut as playing-coach here Friday night against Port Colborne Sailors.

Hec Gervais Defends Agreement

No Regrets For Split Purse

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

EDMONTON (CP)—The burly 50-year-old farmer, a best-of-three series we probably would not have made a deal. If I had known it was going to cause much trouble, we probably would not have made it either."

Gervais, his wife and five children run a 100-acre potato farm and chicken ranch at St. Albert, five miles northwest of Edmonton. He finds time to play six games a week and curling three hours practising as he prepares for his "major" target—the Canadian championship.

He said he is opposed to attempts by eastern curling associations to limit first prize in bonspiels to $1,000, with any curler competing for a higher prize barred from the Canadian championships.

"There seems to be little point to it. There's only one bonspiel in Western Canada that has a first prize worth more than $1,000 anyway."

WINS IN P.E.I.

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP) A rink skipped by Roger Clair of Montague will represent Prince Edward Island in the 1964 Canadian schoolboy curling championships at Regina this month. The Montague Regional High rink ran up an undefeated record against four other high school rinks in the provincial schoolboy bonspiel here.

Gold Medal Winners

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Sweden's Sixten Jernberg established himself as the greatest nordic ski racer in Olympic history when he won the 50-kilometre (30¾-mile) race to give Sweden its first gold medal of the Winter Olympic Games today.

Jernberg raced over the hilly Seefeld course in two hours, 43.52.6 seconds.

He overtook defending champion Kalevi Hamalainen of Finland in the 10-kilometre stretch in one of the most exciting duels of the games.

Sweden also took the second-place silver medal and Finland the third-place bronze medal.

In second place, more than a minute behind Jernberg, was Assar Roennlund of Sweden in 2:44.58.2 and third was Arto Tiainen of Finland in 2:45.30.4.

Jernberg, who will be 32 Thursday, is a lanky salesman from Lima, Sweden, with hawk-like features.

He now has won a gold medal in the last three Olympic Games. He captured the 50 kilometres in 1956 and took second in the 30 kilometres and in the 15 kilometres and won a bronze medal in the relay.

At Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960 he won the 30 kilometres and was second in the 15 kilometres. In the current games he took the bronze in the 15 kilometres.

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Claudia Boyarskikh of Russia won the women's five-kilometre ski race at the Winter Olympics today for her second gold medal of the games. Her time was 17 minutes, 50.5 seconds.

Runner-up was Finland's Mirja Lehtonen in 17:52.9 and third was Alevtina Kolchina of Russia in 18:04.4.

Miss Boyarskikh, a blonde 23-year-old teacher from Sverdlovsk, earlier won the ladies 10-kilometre race.

Brighton HS Girls Bow To Quinte

The two leading teams in the girls' Quinte COSSA basketball grouping clashed yesterday in a hard-fought game that saw Quinte Secondary School capture a 53-37 victory over Brighton High School.

The Brighton guards slowed down Quinte's fast-moving attack at times with quick-thinking and rugged play before the Belleville girls built their decisive margin.

Quinte scored first for a 2-0 lead but were held down to a 16-11 lead at the end of the first quarter. Quinte guards stopped the Brighton team cold to up their lead to 28-11 by half time, led by Kirkham, Miller and Clause.

The winners increased the score to 38-14 after three quarters and finished strongly in the final quarter, widening their lead with some accurate shooting.

High scorers for Quinte were Kirkham, with 21 points, Clause with 18, and Millar with ten.

LEADS QUALIFIERS

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Barbara McIntire of Colorado Springs, Colo., shot a 36-40—76 in a driving rain Tuesday to lead 64 qualifiers in the annual women's championship of Palm Beach. The low scorers included Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto with 39-40—79.

Picton Ints. Defeat Napanee

By JACK FAWKES

PICTON (Staff) — Led by the hat trick scoring of John (Shaker) Baker, the Picton Intermediates made every period a winning one as they dropped the Napanee Pringles by a close 7-5 score in the last regular scheduled Picton-home game this season here last night.

Next Thursday night, the Picton club takes on the Trenton RCAF in a two-game home and home round robin series during which time they will also play home and home games with Napanee. The two top teams will play a best of seven for the championship and go to the OHA Intermediate finals.

Last night's game was any indication the series will be a dandy. These two teams gave everything they had last night, with Picton having a slight edge all down the line.

Pug Kellar opened the scoring at the 1.06 mark of the first period, banging home Carl Stacey's rebound. Napanee tied it up at the 17.36 mark with Eric Bartlett connecting after taking passes from Roger Smith and Bill McNevin. Stacey put Picton one up as he fired a Bob Fawcett-Keith McDonald pass into the nets behind Norm Parrish. Shots were even at 14 each in the first period.

Baker fired his first of three at the 2.02 mark of the second period on an unassisted effort. Napanee came right back with Don Aylesworth converting passes from David Brady and McNevin at the 6.50 mark. Picton's stalwart defenceman Bob Fawcett belted home Stacey's pass at the 7.18 mark. Napanee bounced back when McNevin fired one after taking passes from Aylesworth and Jack Cox. Picton had a 4-3 edge going into the last period. Picton outshot Napanee 16 to 10 in the middle stanza.

Baker fired his second of the night as he tipped in Davy Jones pass from the crease at 1.40. Brady fired McNevin's pass into the Picton nets at the 9.21 mark to keep them in the game.

Jack Kennedy then scored and Baker completed his hat trick just eight seconds later when he took a pot shot at a pass from Jones and Fawcett at the 15.32 mark. Eric Bartlett fired one at the 16.44 mark with Gerald Murphy and Carl Gray helping, but in spite of some terrific drives, they were unable to puncture the armor of Tom O'Halloran in the Picton nets.

There were only ten minors called in the game, but at the 16.53 mark of the last period, Carl Gray and Ron Weese went at it, with each getting in a few good slugs before being separated by the officials. They were banished with majors.

Gathering of the Clans Takes on a Modern Twist

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

MOY, Scotland (CP)—Here amid the haunting beauty of the highlands the Mackintosh of Mackintosh is preparing a gathering of the clans—a gathering with a difference.

The hills and glens abound in stories of Bonnie Prince Charlie and Gaelic derring - do, but you'll be welcome at the August rally even if your clan name sounds no more Scottish than Cohen, Chan or Callaghan.

For Mackintosh, clan chief and forward-looking scion of an ancient line, wants his kinsmen and others from Canada and around the world to see what the highlands are doing now in crafts and industry.

A highland exhibition will be held for the first time in conjunction with a clan reunion, displaying everything from bagpipes to welding machines. And you'll be able to see a bed in which the bonnie prince once slumbered.

There is always enormous interest and goodwill toward clan gatherings and it seemed a good idea to inform our friends on what is happening today, rather than simply recalling what has happened in the past," says Lachlan Mackintosh, who has spent 21 of his 35 years in the Royal Navy.

"I hope this event will be used for the dual purpose of showing people something of what is going on in the highlands now and giving those engaged in works in the highlands a chance to display what they are doing.

"The objects of the exhibition are the fostering and extension of highland industry and commerce and it is hoped that by the clan acting as host to the exhibition at Moy a small step will be taken in this direction."

MODERN CHIEF

Hector Russell of Inverness, associated with Mackintosh Highland Exhibitions Limited, the firm founded to stage the non-profit show, declared:

"Clan gatherings are old but this is a case of a modern chief leading his people in a practical way. I predict the idea will catch on."

Actually, the gathering itself will be held Aug. 8, a Saturday, weather the exhibition which—open to the public—will run Aug. 6-8 at Moy Hall, ancestral seat of the Mackintoshes and clans associated with them in the Clan Chattan Association, whose president is the Mackintosh chief.

Invitations include association members and the clans MacLean of Dochgarroch, MacIntyre, Farquharson, Macgillivray, Macqueen, Shaw, Mac of Badenoch, and many septs, such as Kider, Hardy, Niven, Noble, Ritchie, Crerar and Clark.

"For clansfolk the concept of this gathering is new," said the chief when he received a Canadian reporter at Moy Hall, his spacious, six - bedroom, stone home 11 miles south of Inverness.

"However, by acting as hosts to the exhibition they will be giving practical and worthwhile support to the highlands and it's hoped a very large number from all over the world will attend.

"I hope people who are planning a trip to Britain this summer will include the gathering in their itinerary."

VISITED CANADA

The Mackintosh, 30th in his line, became chief in 1957 on the death of his father, an admiral, who once was guest of honor at the Gaelic mod at St. Anns, N.S. The younger man, a communications specialist, visited Halifax, Montreal and Quebec during his naval career which he began as a boy at Royal Naval College and ended as a lieutenant-commander last May to take care of his 10,000-acre estate.

The chief, whose appearance is engagingly youthful in kilt and tweeds, met his visitor at the tiny Moy railway station and over tea discussed incidents of clan history stretching to antiquity, illustrated by paintings on the walls of Moy Hall.

"And we have links with Canada," he said with a grin, after introducing his attractive wife and daughter.

He showed a section from an early Macintosh apple tree, said to date from 1796, and two salmon from the trading vessel Nancy, owned by a Mackintosh chief, which plied the Great Lakes during the 1812 war.

The chief seemed proud of a clipping from the weekly Prescott (Ont.) Journal, telling how Dr. P. A. Macintosh conducted the 264th annual gathering of the clan for Canada and the United States.

The Mackintosh estate surrounds Loch Moy and the island on which the chiefs maintained their fortified homes for centuries.

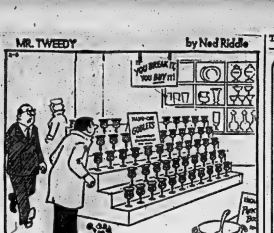
"They moved ashore about 1700 and built a hall that lasted 100 years," said the Mackintosh who traces his ancestry to a chief who died in 1210.

"Bonnie Prince Charlie stayed there before the Battle of Culloden, and we have a few things, including the bed he slept in, a letter from him and a bonnet he left behind, in this house which is only about eight years old."

RECOUNTS HISTORY

Then the Mackintosh recounted this vignette of Scottish history:

When the prince, seeking to wrest the crown from George II, stayed at Moy Hall, the Mackintosh chief of the day was away in the king's army although his wife was an ardent Jacobite.



A boy ran from Inverness to warn that a strong English detachment was marching on the house, planned to capture the prince, who was virtually alone.

Five Moy men, led by a blacksmith, hid in the heather and when the English arrived the hidden ones banged away on muskets, gave bursts of pipe music, yelled war cries and screamed orders like "Take no prisoners."

"They created such an infernal din in the darkness that the English thought they were confronted by the whole Scottish army and retreated in haste," said the Mackintosh.

Later Prince Charlie's men captured the unhappy clan chieftain but, as a token of gratitude, returned him unharmed to his wife. That formidable woman raised a force of 300 men who shared heavily in the prince's defeat at Culloden April 16, 1746.

"I was reminded of all this the other day when I received a visit from the caterer for the August gathering," said the Mackintosh. "He told me he is a descendant of the hidden blacksmith, a freezer."

Y Basketball

Pollock's Shoe Store defeated Holloway 48-38 and a number of the winning players also played for both teams as C.N.R. topped the Teachers 85-50 in "Y" Men's League basketball.

CNR and Teachers, slated for the earlier game, were both very shorthanded so used players from the other teams.

Teachers held a slim 33-32 lead at half time but CNR pulled into the lead and grabbed the final 55-50 win in the second half.

Ian Houchin starred for the CNR with 31 points while George Campbell and Gary Williams hooped 12 apiece. Other players were Mike Virgrass, Lionel Bovay and Paul Bridges.

Max Woolley sparked the Teachers with 22 points. Terry Parker got 16, Paul Breese and Dave Ball six apiece and Rick Clarke none.

In the second game Pollock's led all the way, 36-26 at the half-way mark.

Ian Houchin was again top scorer for Pollock's, with 18 points. Terry Parker, Geo. Campbell and Gary Williams each collected eight while Graham Geldart had six.

Ron Denyes was best for Holloway with 14 points. Larry Gerow struck for eight, Don Wilson seven, Lynn Reynolds six and Rich Clarke three.

Actor, 13, Quits 'Show Biz' Sister, 11, Decides to Stay

By JIM PEACOCK

NEW YORK (CP) — Mark Hunter, with four Broadway shows and numerous television appearances among his credits, has quit show business to concentrate on studies leading to a new career.

Mark is 13, Lesley just turned 11.

"I want to study law eventually in college," said Mark. "I feel I have to prepare myself thoroughly (HE) am to get into a good college."

With Lesley, now in her sixth Broadway show, it's a different story. She is playing a feature role as Diane in Nobody Loves an Albatross, a hit comedy starring Robert Preston.

"I'm going to continue as long as I possibly can," she said. After a moment, her big brown eyes twinkling, she tossed her long brown hair playfully and added: "And that probably will be forever."

The two remarkable youngsters have been in show business four years. Canadian TV audiences have seen them in such shows as The Defenders, Route 66, Ben Casey and The Nurses. And they've both done many television commercials.

They were born in New York, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roth, and took the name Hunter because Equity, the actors' union, won't list two performers with the same name and it already had registered a Mark Roth. Their father is a jewelry manufacturer.

Mark related how he got into show business.

"We were living in Jericho on Long Island and going to public school several years ago. My music teacher told me one day I had a good voice. So I came to New York to study dancing and singing and Lesley just came along for the ride.

"One day, as a sort of joke, the school sent Lesley for an audition (for a TV variety program) and she was hired. We've been busy in the middle of show business ever since."

Mark won a song-and-dance part in another TV variety show soon after that, then was hired for Broadway's Gypsy. Later he played in Camelot, Bye, Bye Birdie and Stop the World—I Want to Get Off.

Lesley had a bit in Broadway at the age of seven in Christine. She played with Preston in Music Man. Other credits include Gypsy, Garden of Sweets and A Gift of Time.

FIRST COMEDY

Albatross, which opened to critical acclaim several weeks ago, is her first comedy but both she and her brother have played musical and dramatic roles.

In this era of medical television shows she has had a lot of TV ailments.

She had a broken arm for Ben Casey, a broken leg for The Doctors, a kidney disease for The Nurses and was mentally disturbed for The Defenders."

In real life, she's healthy, physically and mentally. In four years she has missed only one performance because of illness. In school work, which under city regulations she must keep up to retain her work permit, her average is in the 90s.

A typical day in a busy week that includes six evenings and two matinee performances as Preston's daughter goes like this:

"I get up about 7:45 in the morning and start classes in school at 9:35. We're out at 2:05 p.m. Mommy picks us up and takes us either to singing, dance or dance classes, and sometimes we have two of these in a day. Then it's home for dinner and off to the theatre by 8 p.m. I do my homework at the theatre between stage entrances, and I'm usually in bed by midnight."

She and Mark have put their earnings—as high as $1,500 for a single TV show—into savings, getting weekly spending allowances from their father.

Sergio Franchi Tells Why He Is Making U. S. His Home

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I pay my taxes here, so why shouldn't I enjoy living in this country?" Thus singing sensation Sergio Franchi explains why he is making the U.S. his home.

His taxes are getting higher all the time but he doesn't seem to mind paying. He even admires the honesty of American taxpayers.

"In Italy it is different," he said. "There you wear a beard and your oldest clothes when you go to declare your income. You say you earned 1,000,000 lire last year, and the tax collector immediately figures you earned 10,000,000. So you haggle back and forth until you slip some money into his hand. Then he puts you down for 1,000,000 and everybody is happy."

Franchi's career has been snowballing with appearances in Las Vegas and top supper clubs, television dates with Ed Sullivan and Victor Borge, and a Carnegie Hall concert.

IN OPERA FIRST

He is bringing his wife and two children to New York next month.

Franchi was born in Cremona, Italy, then emigrated with his parents to South Africa in 1952. He studied voice and scored a success in operas. But he knew he would have to return to Italy for additional seasoning.

He made his debut in Cremona and toured Europe until he landed in England. As appearance on the television show resulted in a RCA-Victor recording contract, and he was on his way.

Franchi has no regrets about pursuing the pop field instead of opera.

"It's not only the money that I like," he said. "You're much closer to an audience in a night club, and you get a warmer response.

"And singing in the pop field is more of a challenge. Opera is easy. You sing an aria, then you get to rest while the others are singing. Maybe you sing 20 minutes in an evening. You overact, you show off with a few high notes, and you get by. But you don't make it in a night club with only a smile. You've got to keep working hard in 15 to 17 numbers, two or three shows a night. Opera is simple after that."

'Bay of Pigs' Invasion Low Point in JFK Regime

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—In March, 1960, President Dwight D. Eisenhower ordered the government to help Cuban refugees organize, train and equip a force so they might, "when the time came if ever" as he explained later, overthrow Fidel Castro.

A year and a month later, a small invasion force at Cuba's Bay of Pigs was destroyed, killed or captured. It was "a failure of United States policy that led to a failure of United States power," says Chet Huntley.

The jigsaw of events that resulted in the invasion fiasco was painstakingly pieced together Tuesday by NBC in a White Paper documentary.

Cuban exile leaders said the operation was planned, organized and controlled by agents of the Central Intelligence Agency. Huntley, the narrator, said the plans were approved by the joint chiefs of staff and President John F. Kennedy.

Summing up the complicated events that led to disaster, Huntley noted that "the tactical errors reminiscent of the days of the United States' Big Stick diplomacy." He called it "probably the low point, the worst moment for the U.S. Presidency in his three years in the White House."

ABC reporter Lisa Howard has waggled her way back into Cuba. She hopes to do interviews and travel—with a Canadian crew carrying the camera equipment. Last time she was there she got a long interview with Premier Castro.

Quinte Secondary School Holds 'Variety Revue' Before Large Audience

A large crowd jammed the auditorium at Quinte Secondary High School to see the first performance of the "Quinte Variety Revue". From the Senior band and chorus under the direction of Arthur Harland, to the "Finale," an enthusiastic audience enjoyed a fine display of student talent.

The theme of "Variety Revue," a look at vaudeville, was presented by the master of ceremonies, Ted Butcher, Ted's assistant, Miss Quinte Variety Revue, Linda Tearwood announced each act in turn.

Music for the show was provided by the Quinte Senior Band, the Quinte Dance Band, accordionist Darwin Hoskin, the Quinte String Quartet, vocalist Pat Shorey, pianist Stephen Flindall, the Quinte Junior Band, the Quinte Jazz Trio, the Singing Sophisticates and the Quinte Chorus.

The (Quinte) boys' and girls' gym club provided the audience with a breath-taking display of gymnastic stunts, while the majorettes gave an appealing display of their baton twirling abilities as they performed to music provided by the Quinte Dance Band.

VARIED ACTS

Other acts included a monologue by Garnet Hamilton, a magic act by Gerald Jordinson, a ventriloquist act by Howard Tait and Douglas Stephens and a modern dance solo by Dianne Muckleston.

Drama for the evening was provided by Quinte's Shakespearian tragic players. This group of students kept the audience roaring with laughter as they presented a deeply serious tragic "tragedy".

The "variety revue" was designed to provide an opportunity for a maximum number of students to gain knowledge and pleasure from the stage with a minimum loss of school time.

Some three hundred students took part in last night's performance, a new and rewarding experience for the students at Quinte Secondary.

The program, under the general direction of Clare Howard, will be staged again tonight and Friday night at 8.00 p.m. in the auditorium at Quinte Secondary High School on College Street West.

WON'T INVITE THEM

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada isn't inviting Communist China to the 1967 world's fair in Montreal because it doesn't formally recognize the Peking government, an external affairs department spokesman said Monday. "The countries to which invitations are being sent are those we recognize," he said.

'Undue Delay' In Transfer Jury's Verdict

TORONTO (CP)—There was "undue delay" at Wellesley Hospital in sending a seriously injured railway worker to another hospital for "more qualified treatment," a coroner's jury ruled Wednesday night.

The jury, investigating the death of Rosaire Beaudry, 37, ruled he died in Toronto General Hospital of acute meningitis and a fractured skull, eight days after being admitted to Wellesley Hospital Dec. 12. The meningitis was caused by the skull fracture, suffered when he fell 15 feet through a subway ventilator hole.

The jury said: "We feel that the initial treatment at the Wellesley Hospital was adequate but that his (Beaudry's) transfer to the Toronto General Hospital, where more qualified treatment for injuries to the head is available, was unduly delayed." It made no recommendations.

Coroner Eli Cass told the jury Beaudry would not have survived had he received more attentive care or been treated by people more aware of complications from such injuries.

12-HOUR LAG

He said there seemed to be a 12-hour lag between the time Beaudry was seriously hurt and when he began receiving expert attention. The first symptom of meningitis may have appeared two days before he received the specialized care.

Beaudry's condition worsened Dec. 19, Dr. Lajos said. The decision to send Beaudry to Toronto General hospital for specialized treatment was made at 7 a.m. the next day.

Dr. Ian Turnbull, a Toronto General Hospital neurosurgeon, said Beaudry died two hours after treatment began.

The condition might have been recognized earlier by Toronto General Hospital neurosurgeons, Dr. Turnbull said. The earlier the ailment is diagnosed the better the chance of a cure, although the mortality rate is 30 to 40 per cent, he added.

FLUID FIRST SYMPTOM

Dr. Cass, in summing up the evidence for the jury, said the first sign of Beaudry's "turn for the worse" was fluid running from the nose and mouth two days before his death.

Beaudry's widow, Irene, who said she was "concerned" about the treatment given her husband, testified there was much "water pouring out of his nose" that a puddle had formed by the bed.

She drew it to a nurse's attention. The nurse said she would mention it the next day or write the doctor a note, Mrs. Beaudry said.

Dr. Cass said after the inquest that "water" was probably spinal fluid. He explained the fact that a neurosurgeon hadn't been called to examine Beaudry at Wellesley Hospital.

John Ardell, the dead man's brother-in-law, visited Beaudry the next day and found "pus and blood" coming from his nose.

He said a nurse told him: "Oh, he's just got a headache." The nurse later gave Beaudry a pill for the headache, Ardell said.

Lengthy Hospital Strike Ends, Workers Back Monday

TRENTON — The 14-week-old strike by Trenton Memorial Hospital employees, ended Wednesday night. A three-year agreement, effective from Feb. 1, 1964 to Jan. 31, 1967, was signed by union and hospital board representatives yesterday morning.

In announcing the signing of the contract, Albert G. Hearn, international vice-president of the Hospital Services International Union, gave "full credit" to the efforts of a special committee, appointed by the Ontario government, to study the advisability of government arbitration in hospital disputes. Chairman of the committee was Judge Colin Bennett of Owen Sound.

The settlement of the strike was brought about by recent co-operation between the union and the hospital board," said Mr. Hearn in a statement to the Ontario Intelligencer, "Now the two factions are off to a new and better relationship.

Mr. Hearn said that all unitis members at the hospital will be back to work by Monday, Feb. 10.

The new contract provides for the adoption of the wage schedule suggested by the hospital administration on Jan. 1 this year. On Feb. 1, 1965, all employees will receive an increase of $7.50 a month. The "time" spread between employees getting the minimum wage and the maximum wage has been reduced to three years from five.

Employees will be entitled to eight statutory holidays with time-and-a-half for work on holidays. Each employee will be given a day a month sick leave with half of any portion of sick leave accumulating from year to year up to a maximum 30 days.

Mr. Hearn said that the members of the union local 183 voted 100 per cent to accept the terms of the agreement. The union did not gain the asked for check-off system of dues and there are no compulsory union membership clauses in the agreement.

IT'S UP TO CHINA

LONDON (Reuters) — Peter Thomas, minister of state for foreign affairs, told Parliament Monday any new initiative to raise diplomatic relations between Britain and Communist China is up to the Chinese. Answering an opposition Labor party MP who suggested Britain make the move, Thomas said: "No, we made this very proposal to the Chinese in 1954 but they rejected it. We think it is for the Chinese rather than for ourselves to make any new initiative."

Mr. and Mrs. Allen H. (Ack) Ketcheson of this city and his brother, H. Clifford Ketcheson and Mrs. Ketcheson of Vancouver, B.C., are vacationing in Honolulu and staying at the Foster Tower Hotel. Standing and sitting in their suite at the hotel are, from left to right, Clifford and Allen Ketcheson and seated Mrs. Clifford Ketcheson and Mrs. Allen (Helen) Ketcheson.

Murray Council Against Pound In Township

TRENTON — Alarmed at complaints from Murray township residents living in the near vicinity of the new Trenton dog pound, the members of the township council voted yesterday to push through a by-law prohibiting the presence of kennels in populated areas of the township.

Kennels and the dog pound, operated by Trenton's recently hired pet control officer, Mrs. Hilda Gunter, are situated on the Murray Place road, just over the town's boundary and in Murray township.

Last week, Reeve Douglas McMaster and Murray township clerk Angus Gunter requested Trenton's mayor, James MacDonald and clerk-comptroller O. W. Lacy to hold off the official hiring of Mrs. Jones as dog catcher until her neighbors' protests could be considered.

"Town council passed the necessary hiring by-law the very next day, without one dissenting vote," Mr. Gunter said today. "If that's their answer, we intend to pass a by-law of our own."

Persons living in the neighborhood of the kennels object to the odor and the noise of barking, Mr. Gunter said.

In reference to another zone of contention, Mr. Gunter said that the reeve and township council had prepared a brief for presentation at next week's Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities' convention in Toronto, asking that the municipal act be changed to give rural areas a better deal in annexation deals with urban municipalities. "The fire vehicle cost will feel, in effect, that "it has been had," in recent annexation dealings with the town of Trenton. Certain compensations asked for by the township were denied by the Ontario Municipal Board.

Home Owners Not Satisfied With Zone Plan

TRENTON— A proposal that land fronting on County Road No. 3 in Ameliasburg Township be changed up into three different lot size tolerance by the terms of a proposed zoning by-law, met with very little enthusiasm from township residents meeting in the parish hall at Carrying Place last night. A spokesman for the Ameliasburg Home Owners Association said today, "It just doesn't seem realistic."

Association members Stanley Downing and Chris. Frost will meet with the township planning board on Feb. 18 to lay the residents' protests to the proposed zoning by-law before the board members.

By the proposed zoning plan, road class No. 3 would be designated "agricultural" in some spots, which would mean that lot sizes must be comprised of 175-foot frontage and the overall lot size be one acre. In other spots along the road, "residential" lot sizes would be tolerated. Lots would have to have a 100-foot frontage and an overall area of 15,000 square feet. The minimum house size on such a lot would be 1,100 sq. feet. Across the road, frontage would have to be 100 feet with an overall area of 30,000 sq. feet in the lot.

One resident at the meeting complained that he had a chance to sell off bayshore property for residential purposes and the proposed zoning bylaw, if passed, would designate his land "industrial".

Mutual Aid Members Guests Of Fire Dept.

TRENTON — Ninety - five firemen, their chiefs and 16 visitors enjoyed the town hall on last night at the monthly meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward Mutual Aid Association. Hosts for the meeting were Fire Chief Cecil Hicks and the members of the Trenton fire department. The meeting was conducted by association president, Chief Mervyn Dafoe of Frankford.

Guest of honor, co-ordinator, Chief Gerald Vance of Belleville, brought before the assembly nominated prizes for the installation of radio hook-ups at the various departments and asked for a clear-cut decision on the part of the departments about whether or not he should approach county councils with a request for the necessary funds. Estimated run from $3,500 for Batawa to $2,200 for smaller centres. He suggested the municipal councils could equally pay back the county council over a five - year period. A 20 per cent government grant applies to such installations. The installation would consist of one mobile unit, to be installed in a fire vehicle and one master station at the fire hall.

A suggestion from the Mutual Aid set up in the North Bay area that the Quinte Association join in an attempt to have the wording of the highway traffic act changed to make various references to "fire alarm" or "emergency," was considered. Under the present system, flashing lights on vehicles, although exempted from speed limit are tolerated only in cases of fire duty. In the event of emergencies other than fires, if firmen adhered to the letter of the law the fire vehicles would be forced to observe rules applicable to other motor vehicles.

"Where would you run into a police department that would stop you on the way to answer a call?" asked Chief Vance, adding, "in this area we appreciate the courtesy extended to us by the police department."

The North Bay association will be told by letter that the area association is not interested in changing the wording of the act.

Councillor Edward Todd, representing the mayor and council, welcomed the men and assured them of council's interest in the work of the Mutual Aid Association.

The guest speaker at last night's meeting, Percy Hitchcocks, a teacher on the staff at Albert College, described the symptoms and treatment of muscular dystrophy to the men. Mr. Hitchcocks is the father of three boys, who are victims of the disease. "There is no known cause or cure for this disease," he said. In the case of children, the disease is almost always fatal. Adults who contract muscular dystrophy may lead a fairly normal life.

Mr. Hitchcocks praised the area firemen for their participation in M-D fund raising campaigns and urged them to keep up the good work in the hope that a cure may be found in the near future.

Following the business meeting, the firemen and their guests enjoyed a social hour at the fire hall.

Principal Says He Will Remain At His Post

FERGUS, Ont. (CP)—A high school principal charged with forging examination papers to gain his son his upper school matriculation standing said Wednesday he will retain his position until he appears in court Feb. 19.

Fergus high school board officials said they agreed that Donald Tutt, 52, principal at the school since 1951, should remain at his post.

"Any decision to take a leave of absence would have to be his (Mr. Tutt's) decision," said board chairman P. M. Marsden said. "The board and the teaching staff have agreed that for the time being he should carry on as if nothing has happened."

Tutt was released on $1,000 bail Tuesday after he was arraigned on three charges of forging examination papers to give his son, Bruce, a matriculation pass.

FURGERY CHARGED

He is charged with forging his son's name on an envelope containing another student's English paper, and with two with filling in answers on his son's French composition and French author papers.

Provincial police began an investigation on orders from Education Minister Davis after charges ago from John Gregg Murray, 19, son of the high school principal, claimed his father refused to believe he received only 36 marks out of a possible 100 for his English literature paper.

Meanwhile, students at the University of Western Ontario in London, where both Bruce and John are studying, say the two youths are "real buddies."

University president Dr. G. E. Wynn said: "If the students keep up their marks, I see no reason why they should not graduate. I have checked their records and both are relatively good students."

Water Service To Guantanamo Bay Base Cut

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Havana radio said Cuba's water service to Guantanamo naval base was cut off today and will remain off until 36 hours after a summit meeting in the United States are freed.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami quoted a statement prepared by Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa for delivery to the United Nations.

"Since noon today water service to Guantanamo Bay has been suspended and the suspension will continue until the Cuban fishermen are released," the statement said.

"The Cuban government has no obligation to supply water to the naval base under any international treaty, and has been doing so only for the sake of not increasing tension between the two countries."

South Hastings PC's Attend Convention

South Hastings Progressive Conservatives attended this week's Ottawa convention in record numbers. Delegates travelled to Ottawa by car and chartered bus, and made their contribution to the overwhelming endorsation of the leadership of the Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Jack Ireland, riding president, and Mrs. Fred Parker, president of the Trenton P-C Association were official delegates along with party spokesman Lee Grills. Mrs. Max Haggarty was official delegate representing the Women's Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Grills entertained approximately fifty at a dinner Tuesday noon in the beautiful "Bonsoir Room" of the famous La Paloma on Rideau Street in the Nation's Capital. Organist at the La Paloma is a former resident of Belleville, William Nevan, whose daily renditions at the console of the Wurlitzer is a constant source of entertainment.

To Mrs. S. A. Willman, president of the Women's Progressive P-C Association, assisted by Mrs. Morley Tugnett, Mrs. Stuart Hewitt and Mrs. Annalisa Atkins, must go the credit of organizing and arranging for the chartered bus which left Trenton at 6:30 a.m. The passengers were pleased that the Trenton Bus Company had arranged to have Mr. Ken. Bond in charge. His courtesy and skill were reassuring and appreciated. His ability and personality had won him the original honor of being chosen driver for Her Majesty The Queen in the cities of Ottawa, Montreal, and Quebec, when she visited Canada in 1959.

Somebody Erred

Rookie members of Parliament and provincial legislatures are generally accorded silk-glove treatment for their maiden speeches. In return, they are supposed to make some innocuous address, a favorite subject being a description of the wonders of their home riding.

R. C. Sargent, the Liberal member for North Grey, did not follow that pattern last Friday. Instead he charged the Roberts Government with having cut off financial aid to an Owen Sound firm the day after he, Sargent, defeated the Progressive Conservative candidate.

Sargent's performance could hardly have come as any surprise to any of the voters in his riding, where he has been mayor of Owen Sound, off and on, practically whenever he wanted to be, for almost two decades. His foes will say that it was also no surprise that Hon. Stanley Randall, Minister of Economics, was able to put up a defence which, on the surface, appeared convincing, before the wind went out of Sargent's sails. Randall's defence was that the firm in question had lost $12,000 in September, a month in which its sales had been only $3,900, that it was in debt to the tune of $175,000, and that the provincial aid was not cut off until Oct. 22, approximately a month after the election.

If the difference holds up, it will not be the first time that Sargent has levled charges which an investigation has failed to subsantiate.

In all this political infighting, though, nobody seems to have noted one point. The loan to the Owen Sound firm was the first made by the Ontario Development Agency, set up to assist with government funds promising industries which were having difficulty in obtaining the necessary financing. There were those who regarded this agency as shockingly like socialism by a government which called itself Conservative.

By Randall's own figures, the Ontario Development Agency appears to have been something less than astute in selecting the first recipient of its assistance. A firm which loses three times as much money as its total sales, a firm whose debt reaches a point which is over three times its gross annual revenue on the basis of its September sales, is hardly the type which justifies the risking of government money.

This Is News?

Shocking news on the front page of a recent newspaper. Man in Hamilton—name of W. G. Harris—says the provincial government is asleep, and that means that this fear prevents enforcement of adequate air pollution regulations.

It follows that little or nothing will be done about air pollution until the situation becomes blatantly dangerous. This has proved to be true in the past.

In Los Angeles, air pollution regulations extend even to the exhaust pipe of the family automobile. The regulations were made possible by a smog which literally killed people in the streets. Similar disasters have brought strict regulations in England and on the European continent.

But in Canada, the air pollution situation is not yet disastrous. It is serious, certainly, in the heavily industrialized southwest corner of Ontario, but that area has the relatively open spaces of Lake Ontario and Eastern Ontario on which to dump its airborne garbage.

So the factories of Sarnia, Windsor, Hamilton, Kitchener and Toronto belch forth their smoke unhindered, for the time being. When the situation gets bad enough, though, that the people of those areas have to wear dust masks in the streets, (as they have in some cities of the U.S. and Europe), Canadians can expect concerted action.

Two Can Play

This is understandable. Canadian shipowners, and even Canadian sailors, have no votes in the U.S. The SIU, which may this spring conduct boycotts of Canadian vessels visiting U.S. ports, controls a lot of U.S. votes.

There is nothing much that Canadians can do about this situation, except to take a lesson from it. Should some Canadian union, by any queer quirk of fate, arrange a boycott of U.S. ships visiting Canadian ports, or of U.S. ships passing through the Welland canal; the Canadian Government might find that copying the U.S. policy of unconcern would bring about a change of heart south of the border.

Political Patronage Can Be Punitive or Rewarding

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Pat bluntly, political patronage is the not-so-fine art of rewarding friends and punishing enemies.

It takes a sensitive hand to practise — and get away with it.

For it can operate in two extremely different ways.

Former Conservative External Affairs Minister Howard Green, in his early Cabinet days as Public Works Minister, plus —and, as it turned out, pretty inexpertly — refused utterly to have any part of it and got himself into all kinds of difficulties.

Straight off the top of his head he announced that nobody would be given a departmental job or a contract by Public Works simply because he might happen to be a deserving Conservative.

In short, political pull, dress influence or, as it is more crudely known, clout, was out.

There were some pretty stunned Conservatives around. There they were, some MPs and organization partisans alike, waiting impatiently in the wings, some for as long as 22 years, fumbled after the loaves and hungry exile in the unrewarding Opposition — and now, almost irredibly, there was Howard Green, in control of a department notoriously rich in jobs and contracts, telling them it was no dice.

ANGUISH:

You could hear the weeping for miles around Parliament Hill, and the Ottawa River rose a few inches, flooded with political tears.

They simply had to get the good Mr. Green out of Public Works post and shunted

Companies Agree? Arab Nations Seeking Boosted Oil Royalties

By DAVE LANCASHIRE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Oil paints a mixed picture in the Middle East: Steel rigs in the desert, a child playing in a new schoolyard on the Persian Gulf, a barefoot sheik peering through the venetian blinds of his chauffeur-driven limousine, modern hospitals and neon-lit palaces, jet airliners with strange Arab markings.

Oil pays for all of them, and this year the countries that produce it are determined to get more of the same, with a faster share of the ever-increasing profits.

The Middle East last year produced 343,900,000 tons of oil, an increase of about 10 per cent over 1962 and almost half the total produced in the West, excluding the United States. The oil companies and countries split the profits 50-50.

The Western - owned companies that control the wealth, their tankers and pipelines bulging from last year's record production, are going into 1964 with cautious optimism.

They hope to pump more crude oil than ever before—about six percent above last year—but for the first time they may have to argue their terms with a united front of oil-producing governments.

OIL AS WEAPON

Some Arab newspapers have urged that oil be used as a weapon against Israel, by cutting off shipments to the West if Europe and the United States should support Israel in the quarrel over the Jordan River waters. The oil companies, however, tend to shrug off the issue and regard the editorials as simply propaganda.

More important, they believe, is the united front, consisting of eight nations — Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, Libya, Venezuela and Indonesia — banded together in the organization of petroleum exporting countries. Just after Christmas their delegates met in Saudi Arabia and passed a series of resolutions.

Plans call for these to be initialed by the governments and then used as a basis for bargaining with the international companies.

The resolutions are aimed at boosting the posted price for crude oil back to its pre-1960 level, increasing royalties, and "expensing" them, so that they are no longer figured as part of the 50-percent profits but part of the cost of production. Such "expensing" could cost the companies up to $300,000,000 a year.

Oil authorities in Beirut say the companies have quietly told the organization they will agree to the extra cost of "expensing" some royalties if the organization will drop its demand for raising crude oil's posted price — a theoretical figure on which profits are calculated, although companies usually have to sell below it.

Oakville Man Facing Charge Of Murder

OAKVILLE (CP) — Kenneth Shirley, 21, of Oakville was charged with murder today after police found the body of his brother - in - law Raymond Nichol, 23, in a car outside the home where the men lived.

Police said they have not decided whether the charge will be capital or non-capital murder. They believe Nichol was strangled and a post-mortem will be conducted to determine the exact cause of death.

Shirley appeared before Magistrate K. M. Langdon in Magistrate's Court and was remanded to Feb. 13.

Nichol came from Drumbeller, Alta., three years ago. Shirley and his sister Lisa, who married Nichol last year, came to Oakville two years ago from the east coast.

Police said the two men had been celebrating Shirley's birthday at a nearby inn before the slaying. They were called to the house by a neighbor and found the body.

A policeman awakened Mrs. Nichol, who was asleep with her month-old daughter, to tell her her husband had been killed.

BLUE BABY mascot of fire department is fed by Chief Vance after its arrival yesterday.

Carson Elliott Presents Goat As Mascot for Fire Dept.

Belleville firemen have the hottest thing for a mascot.

Covered all over with blue hair, sprouting a pair of horns and intermittently going "muh-huh-huh" it sounds like a candidate for Ripley's cartoon collection.

However, it's not as weird as it sounds. In fact, the new mascot is a regular billy goat pup (or whatever they call a young goat — goatee??) different only in one essential detail — it's bright duck-egg blue coloring.

But it's suspected the effect is achieved by dye and will soon fade.

The mascot is the gift of an old friend of fire chief Gerald Vance — Carson Elliott, one-time resident of Belleville and now living in Bowmanville.

For the time being they're keeping the goat around the West Moira Street fire hall feeding it from a regulation-size baby bottle. After that — time will tell.

Income Tax Explained

By C. A. MILLER

Taxpayers sometimes are at a loss as to whom they may claim as dependants. Dependants allowable are those persons the taxpayer supports, who are related to him by blood, marriage or adoption and whose income does not exceed $660 in the taxation year.

Such dependants include children, brothers, sisters, fathers, mothers and in-laws. Children over 21 years of age may not be claimed unless they are in full time attendance at a recognized school or university. This also includes training for a nurse, but does not include training for an X-ray or laboratory technician.

A business college or other trade school does not qualify as a recognized school. To qualify, such school must be strictly academic.

Brothers and sisters including in-laws may be claimed, providing they are under 21 years of age and supported by the taxpayer. If their income exceeds $600 in the year no claim may be made. Any dependant whom the taxpayer supports, that is mentally or physically infirm, may be claimed regardless of what their age may be.

Fathers and mothers including in-laws supported by the taxpayer may be claimed regardless of the fact that they receive the old age pension. The old age pension only totals $780 for the year, therefore being well under the statutory limit of $950 for dependants income.

There is no claim allowance for aunts, uncles, nieces, or nephews unless there are circumstances which take them out of this category for income tax purposes. This will be covered in a future article.

For personal replies pertaining to income tax problems please enclose a self-addressed five cent stamped envelope and 25c in coin for each question you wish answered.

Question: Can I still claim my mother now that she is receiving the old age pension?

Answer: Yes. She may have income up to $950 before she cannot claim her.

Question: My son, an epileptic is now over 21. Can I still claim him? He does earn a little money cutting lawns.

Answer: Yes. As long as his income is under $950 in the year. He would be classed as physically infirm.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

Question: Looking forward to this coming summer's vacations, I understand that there is a new Provincial Park located on the area of Killarney, Ont. Have you any information on this? — C. D. Belleville.

Answer: No doubt you refer to Silver Peaks Provincial Park located just east of Killarney on Highway 637. It covers an area of about 40,000 acres of some of the highest hills in Ontario whose scenic beauty inspired many of the fine works of Canada's famous Group of Seven artists. The Department of Lands and Forests is engaged in developing the facilities and, by the summer of 1965, hopes to have established camping areas, boat-launching facilities, trails and roads. In the meantime, there are parts of it that can be used by those who don't mind roughing it a bit.

Question: A friend of mine mentioned that she had stayed at a new motel designed along the lines of an old English Inn, located near the International Airport. Do you have information available on this? — Mrs. G. Picton.

Answer: There are a number of good hotels and motels in that district. We suggest that you contact the Metropolitan Toronto Convention and Visitor Association, 97 King Street E., Toronto, or your local travel agent.

Immigration Dept. Plays Part of Cupid

HALIFAX (CP) — Canada's immigration department played Cupid in carrying an American lover's proposal of marriage to his Cuban refugee girl friend aboard the freighter Habana here Tuesday night.

The girl, named only Pilar, accepted the proposal by Jerry Gottlieb of Cliffside Park, N.J., came ashore with immigration men, and announced the wedding will be held as soon as possible.

Jerry arrived on the pier after a hurried trip from his home after he learned the girl had decided to go back to Cuba because of complications in her love life.

Pilar made working for the same photography company in the United States.

Pilar made arrangements to sail for Cuba aboard the Habana which runs regularly between Saint John, N.B., and Cuba.

Jerry caught a plane to Canada and told the immigration department his story. The ship meanwhile left for Cuba, normally a non - stop voyage.

But for the first time she stopped at Halifax.

Officers warned him not to go on board the ship himself. Pilar had gone aboard voluntarily and was not being held against her will if she came ashore. It would also have to be on her own free will.

Immigration men delivered his message and the girl.

CARRY MORE FREIGHT

Railways in Canada transported 16,214,000 tons of revenue freight last September, an increase of 13 per cent compared with the same month of 1962, the bureau of statistics said Wednesday. The gain in September was due largely to an increase of 48.1 per cent in iron ore loadings in Quebec and a 23.8 per cent rise in wheat loadings in the Prairie provinces.

SIGNS SALES PACT

Lake Dufault Mines Ltd. has signed a four-year contract with Noranda Sales Corp. Ltd., a subsidiary of Noranda Mines Ltd., for the sale of its copper and zinc concentrates when production starts in September, 1964. The company's mine in the Normeta-Rouyn mining district of Quebec, will produce about 1,800 tons of ore daily.

AGREE ON PLANT

The CarSteben Steel Co. Ltd. has reached agreement with the Jamaican government for the construction of a 50,000,000 steel plant in the Spanish Town-Old Harbour area, the Jamaican Industrial Development Corp. said. The company is backed by Canadian, U.S. and Jamaican funds. Completion of the plant is scheduled for early next year.

NAME NEW DIRECTORS

Five new directors have been appointed to the board of Tevecs Marts and Properties Ltd. by the firm's creditors' committee, and one of them is Spencier Maxwell Goldhart. Mr. Goldhart is also chairman of Industrial Wire and Cable Co. Ltd. and National Automatic Vending Co. Ltd. as well as a director of several other firms.

REPORTS STOPPAGES

There were 32 work stoppages in Canada during December, the labor department said Wednesday. The strikes or lockouts involved 4,541 workers with a time loss of 36,329 man-days. More than 42 per cent of the December time loss was accounted for by two disputes—one involving food and beverage workers at Montreal and the other primary metal workers at Welland.

themselves:

2. It will consider issuing a bilingual publication to keep party members abreast of current political activity.

3. A national organization committee will undertake "an all-out broadly financed drive" to emphasize constituency groups as the basis for party organization.

4. Permanent lines of communication will be established between the constituencies and the leadership ranks of the party that will "ensure a continuing two-way exchange."

Party officials emphasized that the last point means a two-way exchange of views between the party's brass and the grass which will flow both up and down.

RECOGNIZE GRUMBLERS

They seemed anxious to ensure that any further grumblings in the ranks will be recognized by the leaders quickly and dealt with before reaching crisis proportions.

In the final hours of the meeting, delegates continued to heap praise on Mr. Diefenbaker personally, after the challengers to his leadership were revealed to be less than two score.

He issued a statement branding as "the latest invention" of anti-Diefenbaker propagandists a report that backroom compromises had been made before Saturday's vote of confidence in his leadership.

"I have been given this mandate and it is subject to no qualification," he said. "It's a great day for the Conservative party."

The party's defence policy statement provoked no discussion. It called for more emphasis on reserve force training and no cuts in regular force expenditures that would weaken defences. Last year, the nuclear arms issue threatened to tear the party apart at the annual meeting.

FREED LEVESQUE

They freed Levesque, who was in a cell not far from those of three women who were arrested with him Saturday in a Rosemount district apartment. The women are being held without bail on charges of conspiracy and accessories after the fact in connection with the gang's robberies.

The women yelled to be freed also, but the escapees ignored their calls.

The men fled down the remaining two flights of stairs and emerged from the rear of the courthouse where they hailed two cabs.

Falardeau and Darveau got into one cab, the four others into a second. They fled just as the escape alarm sounded.

Constable Marcel Tasse, having lunch in the courthouse when the alarm sounded, told his table companions he knew Darveau and probably could catch him. He took off in a police cruiser and 15 minutes later he captured Darveau and Falardeau when their cab stopped at an intersection for a traffic light.

J. Cleminson, Wellington Clerk-Treasurer, Resigns

WELLINGTON (Special) — A personal attitude toward the establishment of liquor and beer outlets here has prompted a village official to resign his position.

Village clerk-treasurer and former Reeve, James Cleminson, tendered his resignation at the Monday night meeting of council. He did not prefer any verbal or written reason to the body.

In an exclusive interview with The Ontario Intelligencer today, Mr. Cleminson gave his reasons for his withdrawal from office.

Monday night council was presented with a petition containing the signatures of 25 percent of the village voters' list in favor of the establishment of a combination beer and liquor warehouse here.

Reeve Robert Boyce stated that when such a petition containing the required percentage of signatures is brought to any council, the law requires it must be recognized and council must place the question before the taxpayers in the form of a plebiscite.

Mr. Cleminson said that he is strongly opposed to the establishment of the beer-liquor outlet.

"In my capacity as clerk-treasurer, I would have to act as returning officer for the plebiscite and would be forced to take a neutral position," he said.

"I cannot see my way clear to remain aloof on the question and therefore I submitted my resignation."

NO ENMITY

He strongly emphasized the fact that his withdrawal from office had nothing to do with his associations with the reeve and council.

"I have always enjoyed the most cordial relations with the body and have had its fullest co-operation," he said.

MORE . . . agelwicz

Reeve Boyce said that he spoke for members of his council "and most certainly for myself when I say we all sincerely regret Mr. Cleminson's decision to resign his post. We all hope he will reconsider."

Mr. Cleminson said he believed the establishment of the beer-liquor outlet here "is only an initial step "toward more activities."

"It seems to me" he said, "that it could be the thin end of the wedge that would open the way to lounge licences and liquor served with meals."

Mr. Cleminson has been active in municipal and other affairs of the village for many years. He has sat on council and served as reeve. He has been clerk-treasurer for the past four years, succeeding the late Ralph MacDonald.

MAY TEST DRUNKS

PARIS (AP)—President de Gaulle's government, cracking down on drunken drivers, will introduce a bill in the National Assembly to require a blood or breath test in every traffic accident or breach of rules.

Three Cases Are Remanded

PICTON (Staff) — In Magistrate's Court here Wednesday only three cases were heard, with all of them being remanded.

Of the 31 cases on court docket, no less than 30 were for speeding.

Ronald Johnson, of the RSA-SC Camp Picton appeared on a drunk driving charge, and at his own request was remanded for one week.

Raymond Ward, Canadian Guards, Camp Picton, charged with having liquor in a place other than his residence, asked for a remand. "I was supposed to have my discharge today, but the troop movement to Ontario held things up," he offered. He was remanded for one week.

Clare E. Jessup, RR 6 Picton was charged with car and driving a car while impaired and with having liquor.

After listening to extensive cross examination of three Crown witnesses, R. E. Nourse, defence attorney asked for a dismissal of the charge of care and control while impaired as he claimed his client was not operating the car at the time in question.

Magistrate R. C. Jackson, adjourned the case until March 4 in order that he may study a recent verdict handed down in a similar case in a higher court.

Mr. Nourse based his submission on the fact that two Picton Constables, George Wright and Cecil Farrington, testified that when they were called to Broad St. on December 26, 21 last year, they found the accused slumped in the front street. "His legs were on the pedals, but his head was lying on the seat, sort of slumped over," they told the court.

Another crown witness, Everett Dalmage, service manager of McKee Motors who lives on Broad St. told the court he had noticed the car, apparently stuck in a snow bank outside his home and went out and offered assistance which was refused. He said the motor was running when he first went out to offer help.

The constables both testified that when they arrived and asked the accused to step out of the car, he would have fallen on his face if they had not held him by the arms. The accused, according to both officers, could not walk without assistance.

The officers further, testified that before they left the scene, with the accused under arrest, Constable Wright had easily backed the accused's car from the snowbank.

It becomes now the problem of the court to decide whether a person lying in the front seat of a car, has care and control of this car.

B and P Women's Club Presents Fashion Show Of Handmade Costumes

By MARIE HUFFMAN

Beauty of fabric, quality of workmanship and faultless tailoring were all evident in the collection of fashions presented in "Originally Yours in Fashion and Music" presented by the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club at the Belleville Collegiate Auditorium Wednesday evening.

A capacity audience attended the event that featured entirely hand made costumes created by Originally Yours and its modiste, Mrs. Enid Richards, who directed the production.

The entire production was pleasing to both eye and ear, and the beautiful fashions were presented in a setting that was enhanced by the various musical and dancing numbers that were offered during the evening.

Barbershop singing by the Cavaliers was especially enjoyed by the audience; as were the performances of Gail Chapman and Jacky Cook and group, and the singing of Diana Woolley.

TWO COMENTATORS

An original note was injected into the show when the duties of commentator were shared by Miss Dorothy Brown, and a gentleman commentator, Mr. Phil Squires, who was both interested and interesting in his descriptions of the beautiful clothes.

Greetings to the audience were extended by Mrs. Maria Hoffman and Miss Florence Fitzgerald, who spoke briefly on the activities of the club, on international, national and local levels.

The first group of fashions was a smart collection of loungewear, that featured a number of matching pyjamas and housecoats, and many very feminine knee-length nighties with matching coats.

The second ensemble consisted of a handsome coat of fine white corduroy trimmed daringly with black fur at the bottom. The coat was gathered on a deep, square yoke with four fur collar and deep square pockets. The % sleeves were gathered on wide cuffs, and the coat was worn over a black satin, with a short, saucy sleeveless top in contrasting white.

Striking a more sophisticated note in this group was a silk coat of flower-garden shades. The buttoned front and gathered skirt were trimmed with bands of brown contrast, with a deep pleat fastened in the back. The matching pyjamas were cut from the same colorful silk with tapered ankle-length trousers and a straight-cut top trimmed with brown.

The collection of sportswear was distinguished once again with faultless tailoring, especially evident in one pair of wool linen of basket-weave wool in "World's Fair" blue, one of the season's newest shades. It was worn with a silk back-lip blouse in a colorful diamond print with tailored roll-up sleeves and smart Bermuda collar. The blouse was closed at centre front with frosted oriental buttons.

A number of mix and match sets were also shown to very good advantage in this group, which was outstanding in the versatility of design and fabric.

SQUARE DANCE

One unique feature in the cotton group was the presentation of four gay square-dance dresses, that were shown to them best advantage — in action — by a set of the Quinte Twirlers, with Mr. Norm Wilcox as caller. This provided a refreshing change of pace, as well as giving the audience a chance to see the full-skirted crinolined dresses to their best advantage — not to mention the tantalizing glimpses one caught of lace frilled, old fashioned "pantaloons" that were worn underneath.

The nautical cotton wear collection had something for everyone, from the petite to move mature figure and the choice of color and fabric was excellent.

One particularly crisp and fresh looking costume was a two-piece cut from white cotton pique and scrolled with a smart design of gold. The waist length jacket was cut simply with almost elbow length sleeves and a round neckline. The jacket was fully lined with solid gold cotton, and the dress featured a swish summerhood of gold, round neckline, short cut-in one sleeves and an A-line skirt.

GROUP OF SUITS

The group of suits and ensembles was outstandingly good, and here again, featured a number of designs that were smart not only on the smaller figure, but the simple lines and good tailoring rendered a number of them equally suitable for the fuller figure.

One particularly smart dress was a charming slim gown of silk crepe in shades of blue on a white ground. The slender skirt was accentuated with a soft blouson bodice, buttoned with large white buttons at the centre back and topped with a crisp white Arnel rolled collar which extends to a low back "v".

The suit collection was highlighted by a three piece ensemble of grey and black English wool tweed. The hat was a high crown affair with shallow rolled down brim and softly draped with black silk chiffon in an all over sweep. The overblouse was hip length and loosely fitted with % sleeves, back opening and self covered buttons with softly rolled wide collar.

WEDDING ENSEMBLE

The traditional wedding party were gowned in the fashionable "Empire" mode. The maid of honor and bridesmaids were attired in soft sheer over silk taffeta in fascinating shades of pastel. Interesting was the daring orchid and glamorous green. Their gowns featured bouffant skirts with crown style head-dress, were further complemented by a single spray of white lilies that was carried.

The Empire look was also featured in the collection of wedding and evening dresses that completed the presentation. It was shown to advantage in a floor-length gown of silk jersey knit Matelasse. This lovely fabric was an excellent choice for the flowing lines of this charmer, worn with skirt tied high under the bustline and featured daring side slits.

PRESENTS BOUQUET

During the intermission a large number of door prizes were drawn, which had been generously donated by local merchants. The entire show was conceived by Mrs. Lorraine Reid, who made a presentation of a corsage bouquet of roses to the director, Mrs. Enid Richards.

Those assisting in the production were as follows: Hats and bags provided by Vanessa. Make-up was by Beauty Counsellor, applied by Muriel Attwood, assisted by Mary and Ann Seeley.

Organist: Wm. Quinte Twirlers, Dorothy Benedict, Shirley Woodcox, Lois Hopkins, Lois Brown, Gord Priest, Dick Brettingham, Bob Rohston and Larry Lynch; caller, Norm Wilcox; show committee, official hostess, Florence Fitzgerald.

Chairman, Lorraine Reid; program and advertising, Kathy Lambert; publicity, Marie Huffman; tickets, Charlotte Strachan; door prizes, Jane McCabe; director of ushers, Colombe Both; director of dressing rooms, Arlene Kennedy; continuity, Georgina Rendell, Ruth McMullen.

The grateful thanks of the club is extended to all who helped make this evening such an outstanding success, and to all those who assisted by their attendance and support.

Wrap-Around Was Theme of Spring Show

By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP) — Blue was the color and "wrap-around" was the theme in Raoul-Jean Fourer's spring-summer 1964 collection shown here Wednesday.

Fourer, president of the Association of Canadian Couturiers, used blues of all hues, from pale eggshell to peacock and navy. A second favorite color was white — but the whites usually had blue trims.

The wrapped-around look was achieved with pencils or unpressed pleats. The skirt of one evening costume was shaded of two large panels of handblocked silk, draped together in a sarong effect. The top was of plain white camisole.

Fabrics were cottons — white pique was most popular in this group — silks, linens and soft wool or wool and man-made fibre blends.

Models wore clinging silks, some with pointed waists, others with hints of waistlines, in neat dots and loud prints. Set — in sequins was a broad-shouldered "epaulette" look.

HEMS BELOW KNEES

Hems were below the knees and necklines were low-daring, especially in evening wear where some took a deep plunge.

In sportswear, Fourer showed stretchy blue slacks and bell-bottom trousers in his "marin-ières" theme. These were with printed bare midriff tops and matching jackets.

A full-length terry beach dress was made of two giant printed towels stitched together.

In dresses and suit costumes, skirts were softly pleated at the sides or wrapped around with panels. Several models had contrasting sleeveless silk blouses and matching linings. Shocking pink was a favorite color with blue suit. Coat matched, some sleeveless covering long-sleeve suits or dresses, others with three - quarter sleeves and wrapped around to button on one side or at the shoulder.

Blazer jackets in stripes or checks, in gay blues and reds topped swinging white pleated skirts.

NECKLINES DIP

In evening wear, necklines dipped both front and back. Long, draped around skirts were covered with matching or white camisoles. Foure showed two spectacular flowing chiffon gowns. One, made of two large squares and pleated with giant orchids, had a long, cloaked effect.

White was popular for cocktail wear. One was of orion lace with blue velvet ribbons for shoulder straps which were thrown to the waist.

Yet another short dress of white Swiss eyelet, Foure embroidered tiny turquoise and pink beads.

Beads were also used on a full length three-piece gown called "A Rose Is a Rose Is a Rose." In white cotton with a rose print, it had a long, draped skirt and wrap-around cloak. Roses on the camisole were embroidered with tiny jet beads.

For the bride, the designer had a beautiful gown of puckered or "scrioque" white chiffon, with beaded waistband and flowing veil resembling a large hood and long cloak, also in white chiffon.

PRESERVING FORESTS

Some 150,000,000 saplings were planted in 1963 as part of Norway's nation-wide reforestation program.

Conserve Those Vitamins, Minerals

by Mary Moore

(In 3 Bestal.)

In the Thirties a letter came from a reader in Leduc, Alberta, asking me how to make frozen root vegetables palatable. They stewed their carrots and turnips and potatoes in a homemade root cellar outside the house and by January and February in that cold community they were all frozen.

Obviously they had to be buried deeper so I sent to her a Department of Agriculture bulletin telling how to construct a root cellar below the frost line.

So they can afford to buy the lovely imported vegetables in question now is free we conserve the vitamins and minerals in these carefully grown and shipped vegetables? Or do we trim them too closely or pare them too deeply or too soon and let them soak in cold water too long?"

The difference between good and poor nutrition often lies in attention to such small details.

For instance, broccoli leaves have much more vitamin A than the stalks and flower buds. If broccoli leaves are tender, plan to leave them attached to the stalks when you quickly cook them, and eat them.

The coarse outer leaves of head lettuce contain higher concentration of vitamins than the inner, tender leaves. Wash crisp outer lettuce leaves and dry them and shred them and add them to your tossed salads.

In preparing cabbage remember that the core, as well as the leaves, is high in Vitamin C. A good trick is to shred the core and add it to the cooking pot too.

Some of the vegetables that are high in iron content are raw lima and navy beans, beet greens, spinach, chard, parsley, watercress, dandelion greens, kale, lentils, fresh and dried peas, potatoes cooked or baked with skin on. Rolled oats, whole wheat, wheat germ, rye flour should be included in this list of high-iron content vegetables for they do belong to the vegetable kingdom.

See next Thursday for second instalment of "Conserve Those Vitamins and Minerals".

This story has a delightful sequel. Late in the Forties I received a letter from the same reader written on heavy yellow paper thanking me for the most useful information and saying they had struck oil through the bottom of it. This is a true story.

Lavish Gift-Giver Lacks Instincts of Integrity

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a sophomore in high school and my steady is a junior. I moved to this city at the beginning of my freshman year and went absolutely scoochy-dooby-do over Brad. He didn't pay any attention to me at first. When he finally asked me for a date I was psychotic with joy.

Brad has a big allowance and has given me a lot of gifts, like a little camera, an FM radio, a life-sized stuffed poodle with a rhinestone collar, and a heart locket. Last week he gave me a bracelet with fine stones. I like died from excitement.

Yesterday his mother phoned my mother and said Brad had accidentally given me her very expensive bracelet by mistake and that if I would give it back she would replace it with a less valuable one.

I am shocked, hurt, humiliated and disgusted but I still like Brad loads. My father took the bracelet over there last night but what should I do about Brad? — LITTLE GIRL, BIG PROBLEM.

DEAR GIRL — Give everything back — including your introduction to Brad. He sounds like a spoiled kid with no integrity and poor judgment. Who needs him?

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Millions read your column. You have no idea the wide influence you wield. Please, Ann, will you say something about the rudeness of people who insist on keeping their TV sets on when company arrives. If we had wanted to watch TV we would have stayed at home in front of our own set.

We have some dear friends who will watch anything that moves. It is impossible to carry on a conversation with these folks, yet they actually beg us to visit them at least twice a week. When we arrive at their home the TV set is always on full blast and it stays on throughout our visit.

I'm sure millions of people would appreciate a word from you on this subject. — HOARSE FROM YELLING OVER JOHNNY CARSON.

DEAR HOARSE — If you are drop-ins you deserve the "treatment." Invited guests, however, should not have to compete with the boob tube when they arrive at the home of friends.

Assuming that you belong to the latter category, determine when the invitation is extended if they intend to talk or look at TV. If they tell you they want to talk then insist on hocking their eyeballs to the screen take your leave — and make your company hard to come by in the future.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Should a 14-year-old girl have to share a bedroom with her 10-year-old brother? Our home is small. We have only two bedrooms. Mom and dad have the big bedroom. I had the small bedroom until six months ago. My brother used to sleep in the dinette till Mom decided he was inconveniencing the family, so she moved his bed into my room.

Dad plans to add another bedroom next year, so my mother keeps telling me to be patient. I just hate this arrangement because my brother's bed took up the space where my dresser used to be. Now I have to go in the dining room every time I want a piece of underwear. Whenever I dress, I have to go into the tiny bathroom.

What's selfish as my mother says? — SLEEPLESS NIGHTS AND MISERABLE DAYS.

DEAR SLEEPLESS AND MISERABLE — I vote in favor of moving your brother's bed back into the dinette. Apparently the family stood it for several years, so a little while longer won't kill anybody.

A 14-year-old girl is no baby, she's a young lady. And a young lady should not have to share a bedroom with her 10-year-old brother.

Congregational Meeting

HOLLOWAY ST. - UNITED CHURCH

The annual congregational meeting of Holloway St. United Church was held on February 3rd. A sumptuous potluck supper was enjoyed at 8 p.m. and served by the AOTS Men's Club.

The meeting was opened by Rev. C. W. Coleman who led in a devotional service. The names of those of the congregation who had passed away during the past year were read and silent prayer in their memory followed.

The annual reports were presented in a printed form and were received as printed by the congregation. Several questions were raised and explained about the activities of various departments of the church work.

Mr. Douglas Ptolemy was welcomed back to his work as church school superintendent, following a recent vacation. He stated in his comments on the work of the church school that it was still growing in the number of children receiving teaching and that the accommodations were overcrowded. The Holloway St. church school has during the past year received official recognition for the top average attendance in the conference.

Mr. Fred Nelson presented the list of nominations for the session for the committee. Those to be renewed were: V. Bailey, Rev. T. F. Townsend, William Phillips, J. Simpson, L. Knight, J. Rapino, L. Morton. Those appointed to the session were: F. Wilson, B. Tripp and A. Olsen.

The nominations for the Committee of Stewards were presented by Mr. Richard Dossee for the committee. Those nominated were: F. Dickens, G. McGaughey, E. Tuck, S. Reid, J. Bush, N. Hall, H. Danford and Mrs. R. Taylor as representative of the United Church Women.

Thanks were tendered to the AOTS Men's Club for helping with the dinner. The committee consisted of Mrs. C. Holmes, Mrs. G. Dobbs and Mrs. H. Dixon were thanked for their work in compiling the annual report.

NEW ORGANIZATION

Rev. Scott spoke on the United Church Men which will be organized in the following year.

A report was received from a committee which had been appointed to investigate the cost of repairs needed at the manse and the cost of buying a new manse. This business was referred back to the official board for further consideration.

Rev. O. Wagar gave a report of the building project and it is expected that this project will be proceeded with in the near future. The committees appointed were instructed to continue with the work.

Mr. Fred Stephen thanked Rev. C. W. Coleman for the work he is doing at Holloway St. Church and the community and Presbytery.

Mrs. G. Dobbs thanked those who worked during the year, naming the choir leader and the caretaker and all others who continue to serve the congregation.

Mr. K. Parks expressed the thanks of the congregation for the work of the committees who look after the various work of the church.

The meeting was brought to a close with prayer lead by Rev. C. W. Coleman.

Children Can Learn Two Languages Easily

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Twenty years' experience operating a kindergarten have convinced Mme. Eugene Ragot that young children can learn easily two languages without confusion.

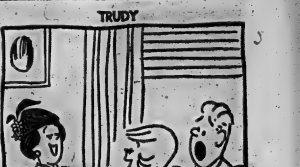
Mme. Ragot says "children play in all languages."

She has discovered that children who have been enrolled in the kindergarten she operates in her home here at the age of three often are able to speak fluently in two languages by the time they're five.

Assisted by Mme. Marc Sourisseau, she has children from both English and French-speaking homes who attend her classes daily. Both women explain the lessons in French and English. The children absorb another tongue naturally, and develop an excellent accent.

The school's program is similar to that used by the sisters of the congregation of Notre Dame de Sion in Montreal who work with Dr. Wilder Penfield's theory that children can easily learn as many as three languages between the ages of four and 10.

This year, children from Trinidad, England, Belgium and the Philippines also have attended the kindergarten.



Mme. Sourisseau says one little girl, who spoke only Italian when she enrolled, was completely trilingual within three years.

Mme. Ragot received her education in France and opened the kindergarten when she came here 20 years ago. Mme. Sourisseau joined her five years later.

ACADIAN FAVORITE — Mrs. Henri Landry of Moncton serves the specialty dish of her restaurant, "La Poutine Rapee". The "poutine" or pudding is a ball about the size of an orange, made of boiled potato and stuffed with pork. A favorite among New Brunswick Acadians, it is often referred to as their "national dish." Sale of Festive Dish Said to Have Paid For a Moncton Church

By LOUIS BODOIN
of Moncton L' Evangeline

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—The Canadians of New Brunswick, especially in the Moncton area, have a favorite dish for festive occasions called La Poutine Rapee.

The poutine, or pudding, is a ball about the size of an orange made of boiled potatoes and stuffed with pork.

The dish is so popular in the area that some 10 restaurants specialize in poutines, sold at 20 cents each.

And one Moncton church, nicknamed Notre Dame de la Poutine, is said to have been paid for solely from the sale of the puddings cooked by women of the parish.

Poutines are made of grated mature potatoes mixed with enough mashed potatoes and flour for a thick consistency, then filled with cubed pork and pork fat in equal measures.

They must be thick enough to stand two hours of boiling in water. Two or three poutines make a meal.

The Acadians say their "national dish" had its origins in Germany. The story is that after the expulsion of the Acadians in 1775 three German families established themselves on the land that now is Moncton.

NEW YEARS TREAT

These families started serving a German version of the dish to new settlers in the area, and eventually they caught on as a holiday treat in Acadian homes. On New Year's Day in Westmorland County poutines now are served in nearly every Acadian home.

French writer Jean Catelin and his wife, who writes under the name Danielle Gray, were introduced to poutines during their tour of Canada in 1961. They liked the dish so much that they mentioned it in their book, J'ai vu Vivre le Canada.

Here's the recipe for Acadian Poutines Rapees:

Ingredients—4 peck potatoes, peeled and grated; 2 cups cooked, mashed potatoes; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 lb. fresh pork, lean and fat, cubed, or 1 lb. salt pork with fat (in which case cut salt to ¼ teaspoon).

Squeeze water out of grated potatoes and add to warm mashed potatoes. Roll into balls filled with the pork-and-fat mixture. Boil two hours in gently boiling water.

Yield should be about 20 poutines.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

CANNIFTON - CORBYVILLE

The regular meeting of Canniffon - Corbyville Women's Institute which was held at the Canniffon Town Hall, took the form of a social evening with business cut to a minimum.

The directors, Mrs. G. Hamilton, Mrs. W. Wannamaker and Mrs. G. Moore, were in charge and made the occasion a pleasant one. Games and court whist were played with some hilarity. Among the winners were: Mrs. F. Reid, Mrs. T. Kelly, Mrs. R. Stewart, Mrs. C. Thomas, Mrs. D. Winsor, Mrs. A. Eves; Mrs. W. Latchford, Mrs. G. Wilson.

Guest speaker for the evening was the district president, Mrs. T. Kelly. As always Mrs. Kelly had many interesting items to report as well as her thought provoking talk on public relations. She reminded the members that everyone was a public relations officer, that it is the impression of each as individuals which decides in what esteem a branch is held; that indeed, public relations was putting the golden rule to work for everyone.

AREA'S RESOLUTION

Mrs. Kelly also reported the area's resolution for the Centennial Year of 1967 was to be beautification, starting with each member's own home and branching into the community. This was particularly pleasant news since the branch, having become a member of the Gold-en Book for Charity, has decided to use their premiums on a project of renovation and beautifying of Canniffon cemetery.

The meeting was brought to a close with a pleasant half hour over coffee and hamburgs at a Belleville restaurant.

KEEP BRUSHES CLEAN

UNITED CHURCH

DESERONTO — It appears that heating problems have been plaguing more than the local Anglican Church.

In his address to the congregation of the United Church in Deseronto the Reverend Douglas Blair outlined the steps that had been taken to replace the old furnace with a new heating unit. He described the old plant as being dangerous and said that a new installation would be made by the Acme Heating Company of Belleville for $2000.

The new installation will include two furnaces to provide adequate permiter heating to the church and hall.

Funds for the work will be raised through local canvass.

A highlight in the report of the communion was the indication that two thirds of a 15-year-old debt of $1500 had been paid.

Earnings for the congregation totalled $4,200 with the Sunday School showing an income of $385 and the United Church Women over $2,000 through group activities.

Mr. Blair gave a report on his activities for 1963 and stated that the burden of his religious teaching schedule in the public school had been reduced.

New members to the church board in 1964 are: Gordon Bailey, Donald Fingland, R. Lloyd, Harold Piercy and Mr. William Schell.

The board extended an invitation to Mr. Blair to continue as pastor of the Deseronto congregation for another year.

CHATHAM, Ont. Miss Sharpe made the suggestion at the opening of the $340,000 nurses education building at the public general hospital here.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Many of us travel through life, as we travel through strange and interesting countries — clicking away at what we see in order to get a picture. Sure, truth to tell, we are often in a hurry scurrying from place to place, that we rarely get to know or to understand what we are seeing. We are forgetful, though, to take the picture!

The average western traveler seems more interested in visiting buildings, or viewing landscapes than in understanding people. He rarely takes the time to meet the folks of the lands he visits or save for those who collect around hotel lobbies or dining room tables. He is overyboay clicking away — taking pictures of bridges, museums, gardens or obelisks. After two or three days of this, however, he cheerfully moves on to another country. Upon his return home, having encountered little more than bricks, mortar or greenery, he becomes an expert on foreign policy, trade and tariff, nuclear testing and economic aid.

Unfortunately the North American remains one of the most provincial humans to be found anywhere in the civilized world. He generally speaks but one language well, his own. (If he once studied a smattering of High School French he is simply amazed that a three year old French child can speak that language better than he!) He is sadly deficient in his knowledge of the history of any other people but his own. He has small, meagre knowledge about geography.

It has been said that travel broadens and that visits to other lands sharpen our perspectives. True. Like a painter moving away from his artistic creation, distance from our own home can help correct our vision of the things to which we are overly-attached because of their intimacy. Often what one seems so important is discarded or reduced in size when we learn to view it from afar.

The average tourist, however, is at a great disadvantage — despite the fact that he has removed from home physically, he takes with him a whole bag of narrow prejudices — prejudices which blind him from seeing what is truly before him. Thus, when he does not receive deferential or adoring treatment at the hands of the "natives", he vows: that he will petition his government to refuse future foreign aid to these "ungrateful people". When he is not served with speed and alacrity and hears no clicking of heels in his presence, he will often generalize: "Well, what can you expect from the French; they are a lazy lot and like to spend their time doing nothing." He may be visiting France, yet it is quite clear that he has never left home. Besides huge trunks of unnecessary clothing and assorted bags containing cameras equipment, he often brings very little else with him.

Here is still another famous last word which bears looking into: his facile report describing his "visit" to that world-famous museum: "We did the Louvre in 15 minutes!" (Of course, he probably spent 3 hours that night viewing a different kind of "art" than what he "saw" in 15 minutes at the Louvre).

At bottom, two human and sympathetic qualities or character are lacking in such people — patience and imagination. The North American is too often an impatient, unimaginative creature. If he does not see immediate results or gain rapid pleasure he is often uninterested in what is before him. Lacking patience he often lacks imagination. Much that is good in life can only be enjoyed and experienced, slowly and tenderly. The Frenchman does not guzzle his wine, but savours its taste to the very last drop. He is wiser than the American who downs a Coca-Cola in 2 seconds flat-straight out of the bottle!

There is a lesson here not only for tourists but also for the man who stays at home. In every day's habit or thought we meet more than we can see. Do we have the patience and the imagination to see between the lines of life or are our noses stuck so closely to the print that we miss the real, the vital and the throbbing?

THE PRETTY LOOK — SPRING 1964

It does not seem to matter what it is that comes — if it is pretty, it is good fashion! Certainly the designers have adapted the same and the feeling of the look.

The milliners are way out in front of the field this season, with some of the most charming, flattering silhouettes in years. High crowns are now balanced with brims — and what brims! Wide, swooping, tipped pretlle brims cannot help but flatter and cast interesting shadows. Shades of a Watteau painting! When hats crush as these come in pink, paled-blue, green or oyster, pastely trimmed with a vaguest rose, the effect is charming, sophisticated and pretty.

Everything contributes to the "Pretty Look" this spring, even tweeds and wools. These pretty tweeds are woven in unexpected colors — pink blended with dresden blue, orange lightened with yellow or lilac sparked with rose. These have to be seen to be appreciated. While in all its fifty-seven tones — and I am not joking — ultra out to be a crescendo of ivory in wool, a rich mushroom in heavy silk and chalk-pure white in piqué. When you buy white this spring, and I hope you will, you can be sure that it will be in a pretty style whether you choose a coat, dress, suit or sportswear.

WARDROBE THEME

As usual, a knowledge of how to keep clothes of the same category together in the wardrob theme is very important this spring. Few of us are now guilty of the old classic crime of the trench coat worn with the sequin-covered hat. This season, because some of the raincoats are quite dressy, they will naturally call for softer, prettier hats — yes, even flowered ones, but not worn in the rain, please!

This feeling for "what goes with what" is not even an indirect anymore, although there was a time, not so many years ago, when the fashion education of the average woman was limited to local custom. Today, we have developed a knowledge of how to balance accessories. Seldom now do we see silk pumps worn with tweed suits or tailored carry-all handbags worn with dressy silk dresses.

Sometimes, Canadians are accused of being too basic in their fashion tastes. This may be because Canada has a very expensive climate. Consider how many coats of varying weights we could use to accommodate the insectalities of our climate — from a sub-zero reading to the high eighties in a few short months. But basic or not, it is the "pretty look" for the first half of 1964.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers, in care of this paper.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS
MAIL CALL

Question: I take a bus to my office each morning and frequently ride down with a fellow who happens to live in our apartment house. When we board the bus, he never says whether I should pay my own fare or let him pay for both of us, which he usually does. I don't feel that this is correct, especially since he's only a neighbor and I don't know him socially. What I always feel at a loss to know how to handle this situation. I know he's trying to be gentlemanly, and I don't want to hurt his feelings. Would it seem discourteous on my part to insist I pay my own fare whenever I meet him at the bus stop? — C. A. C., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Answer: Since you haven't demurred so far, the young man may think you expect him to pay your bus fare. After this, if you want him to discontinue the practice, have your own money ready so you can deposit it in the box as soon as you board the bus. If occasionally he should beat you to the draw, then you should simply say "thank you" without making any to-do about it. Generally, though, a woman should always pay her own fare on a public conveyance. While it's permissible to let a man she's acquainted with pay occasionally, it's not very courteous or correct to let the practice become habit-forming.

Every Man's Life Is Measured by His Memories

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YOR K (AP)—Every man's life is measured by his memories.

They are his mental Basdeker, the fadeless guidebook of the mind.

You've passed a lot of milestones if you can remember when—

Dad first let you drink from the nozzle of the garden hose as he watered the lawn—and it had the most wonderful flavor in the world.

White collar workers earned more than blue collar workers.

The wealthiest guy in the block was the kid with the most marbles.

A boy had a hard time deciding whether he wanted to grow up to be like Tom Swift or Frank Merriwell.

The worst fate that could befall you was to be picked last when the gang was choosing up sides to play a game of scrub football.

Many a lad soaked his hands secretly in salt water, hoping that would give him fists as tough as Jack Dempsey's.

The greatest traffic hazard was little old ladies steering black electric-powered automobiles.

Girls thought curls were a blessing and freckles a disaster. Only farm girls had a tan; mothers of city girls never let their daughters venture out bareheaded in the summer for fear this would ruin their complexion.

Every young lady could play a musical instrument—even if it was only the tambourine.

You could tell how cold it was in winter by how far the frozen cream stuck out of the bottle the milkman left at the front door.

Only rich families had oranges except at Christmas—or when one of the children had to take castor oil.

A low-class saloon was one which didn't keep its brass cuspidors brightly shined.

The barber either knew everything that was going on in town—or suspected it.

If epsom salts wouldn't cure you, calomel would.

Amos and Andy were a radio team as popular with the Negro people as the white folks.

Most people not only knew how to milk a cow—they had done it.

A specialist was a doctor who charged $5 for an office visit.

The loveliest wallpaper was the kind that had the most roses in it.

People went to the church to get married—but they were born and they died at home.

You could almost be sure a family had a daughter of marriageable age if they bought a new swing for the front porch.

Those were the days. Remember?

Landlord Is Compared To Shylock

TORONTO (CP) —A suburban Etobicoke landlord, who enforced every measure of law to collect his rent, Tuesday was compared by a judge with Shylock, a character in the Shakespearean play Merchant of Venice.

Mr. Justice Leo Landreville dismissed a $50,600 malicious prosecution suit against office landlord Sanford Brooks in Ontario Supreme Court. But he ordered Brooks to pay legal costs of about $1,500 involved in the suit.

Mr. Justice Landreville said Brooks action was reprehensible when he refused tenant James Charles Fuller, 42, a showbusiness electrician, an extra day's occupation of the premises.

"An understanding landlord would have closed his eyes to a technical and legal breach of the contract, said, Mr. Justice Landreville. He added that Fuller had paid his $300 rent for the full month, but had agreed to leave the premises March 29, 1960.

DIDNT LEAVE

The court was told that Fuller didn't leave March 30 because he had to take his ill father to hospital. Brooks then ordered padlocks placed on the doors of Fullers office.

Fuller than returned and broke the locks to get lighting equipment he needed for his work, the court was told. As a result of the action, Brooks charged Fuller with theft of some lighting equipment and fire extinguishers.

Fuller was acquitted of the charge and then sued Brooks for malicious prosecution.

"Brooks' course of action was reprehensible from a businessman's approach, or a gentleman's approach, but not from a legal point," said Mr. Justice Landreville.

Lesage Says Statue Not Presentable

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Lesage, under fire from the the Union Nationale opposition, said Wednesday a $33,000 statue of the late premier Maurice Duplessis hasn't been set up in public because "of the reputation of the man i- question."

"One does not set up monuments to people whose reputation is still the subject of sharp controversy," said the premier in the legislature during a heated argument with the Opposition

The statue, ordered in 1960 by the Union Nationale administration, has never been seen in public. It was completed after the Liberals took office.

The statue isn't "presentable," Mr. Lesage said. "If it is not presentable, it is not because of the esthetics involved, it is because of the reputation of the man in question."

Union Nationale Leader Daniel Johnson said Mr. Lesage's statements "were perhaps the lowest I have ever heard in this house."

Mr. Johnson demanded to know where the statue is located The government was being "childish" to hide it.

Mr. Lesage replied he considered "that it is contrary to he public interest to- bow this thing at the present time."

DESERONTO

Candy and Pop Stand Protested By Residents

DESERONTO — "A hangout for the teen-age element," protested Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jordan of Stanley Street in their letter to town council over a neighbor's refreshment booth.

The candy and pop stand is only a few yards from the Public School and depends largely on the younger element for its business.

Owned and operated by Mr. Henry Klaver and his family, the booth stands on the lawn between his and Mr. Jordan's property.

"Our lawn is continually littered with debris," said Mr. Thomas. "There is a constant litter of paper, broken bottles, wagon parts and other items," stated the couple in their letter. This has made it difficult to sell the property.

They added that the place became a hangout for young teenagers particularly in the good weather months. These young people make it difficult for the couple to enjoy their property as well.

In complaining about the refreshment stand the letter noted that the stand had been erected before the zoning by law prohibiting such commercial buildings came into effect in that area.

The letter asked for a scrutiny of the by-law in order to close the booth since they felt had been allowed to remain to protect the establishment already built in a residential area.

Council moved that the letter be handed over to the committee on by-laws and that a report be made to the next meeting of council . .

SPUTNIKS DOING WELL

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet scientists reported Wednesday night that the twin Soviet sputniks—Elektron I and Elektron 2—are sending "valuable scientific information" back to earth. The official news agency, Tass said Elektron I has made 33 revolutions and the other, which has a long, looping orbit, more than six revolutions. Both were launched by a single rocket Jan. 30, to study the earth's radiation belts.

Legal Advice Is Needed To End Unhappy Situation

DEAR DORIS — The other night, after my husband beat up my daughter, she went to the phone and was going to phone the police as she was tired of his drinking and talk. He pulled the phone from the wall and said he would not stay in the house another night, so took his clothes and moved out. He has moved out three times before but comes back when he is broke and has nothing but bills.

My daughter is a good girl and works hard but says she isn't going to keep me and the house if I take him back again. She is planning on getting married and can't afford too much help.

DORIS CLARK

Could you please tell me what steps I have to take to get a legal separation so I know where I stand after 23 years of his drinking and dirty talk? — CONFUSED AND NEED OF HELP.

* * *

DEAR CONFUSED — Your girl has the right idea. You should have stopped this when it started, 23 years ago. Apply for legal aid to Mr. L. Roscoe Robson, Sheriff and Legal Aid Director for the County of Hastings, Belleville.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — My friend and I have a certain girl friend whom we like, but she gets on our nerves every day almost. She is terribly conceited and brags quite a bit.

Do you think we should continue hanging on to a shoe-string friendship, or should we drop it? — CONFUSED.

* * *

DEAR CONFUSED — Can't you keep more than one friend on your shoe-string? If you're waiting for the perfect pal before you bend a little, pull up a chair. You've got a long wait.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I would like to take horseback riding this summer, but my parents feel that I should pay the fee of $25.00 and they will buy the riding clothes. Could you please give me a few suggestions as to how to earn the $25.00? I am only 13 years old but I am willing to work hard to be near horses. — HORSE LOVER.

* * *

DEAR HORSE LOVER — Once there was a girl — a neighbor of yours — who took over the weekly housecleaning at ten; corners, eobwebs and all. Mother knew it was done well because mother supervised. In a year and a half Doris Lever Number One had saved up enough to buy a horse.

Now "Quicksilver" is her pride and joy. Her young brother has succeeded her on the end of a scrubbing brush —for his horse! 'Nuff said?

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I was invited to a party one Saturday night, and then a boy I like asked me to another party the same night. I decided to go to the first one, where I was asked first.

Then the first party was called off because the girl's uncle died. So I told the boy I like I could go to his party. But he said no, because I had turned him down before. He hasn't spoken to me since. I feel awful.

Was I wrong to turn him down before? — UNHAPPY.

* * *

DEAR UNHAPPY — No. He's wrong. His inferiority complex is showing.

* * *

To R.F., C.S. and M.H. — I have some excellent suggestions with regard to party games, on making conversation and on exercises for the figure. You may have these by writing again, his time enclosing a five-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope, and repeating your questions.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am studying for the ministry. One thing that worries me is that I have great trouble remembering names. Do you think this is something which will stand in the way of my becoming a good minister? — THEOLOG.

* * *

DEAR THEOLOG. — It's not fatal. But you don't have to be stuck with this failing.

Train yourself. Next time you are introduced to someone, make special note of the name as you repeat it: "How do you do, Mr. Woohis!" Next one in line is Mr. Whatsis. Same here. Third — Mr. Howdy.

First available moment, review. Look at the person, think of the name. Use it again in dressing the owner.

If the name is strange, ask to have it repeated: "Did you say Kadidlehopper? How do you spell it?" Nobody minds this; it makes a person feel important to have someone interested in his name, however off-beat.

* * *

Confidential to ROUND SHOULDERS—The way you stand, the way you carry yourself, the erectness of your spine—these all count so much that you should be heading all efforts to straightening up. Don't mind it if they nag; be grateful if someone cares enough to keep you reminded.

* * *

France Signs Trade Pact With Poland

PARIS (AP) — France has made another stride toward increased trade with the Communist world by signing a pact with Poland and reporting another in the making for the Soviet Union.

Both agreements would benefit French exports but officials said the goal—to which Poland and the Soviet Union agreed—is an increase of two-way trade.

No sooner had French and Polish officials toasted their signatures Wednesday at a special luncheon than Italy announced that it, too, was increasing trade with the Soviet Union. The four-year Soviet-Italian pact would increase trade by 50 per cent to the figure of 240,000,000,000 lire ($384,000,000)—half each way — by 1969, the last year of the pact.

The French-Polish pact calls for the sale of 600,000 to 800,000 tons of French grain from the 1965, 1966 and 1967 harvests and provides for an 18-month credit for the Poles. No sale prices were mentioned in the official announcement.

Coast Guard Abandon Hunt For Stewardess

NEW YORK (CP) — The U.S. Coast Guard has abandoned the search for a Liverpool, England, stewardess who was reported to have jumped overboard from the liner Empress of Canada early Wednesday as the ship was returning to New York from a 15-day West Indies cruise.

Canadian Pacific Steamships Ltd., owner of the vessel, said Mary Goscombe, 38, jumped overboard off the New Jersey coast, about 160 miles south of New York.

A coast guard vessel and an amphibious aircraft searched for the woman until late Wednesday, a coast guard spokesman said, before giving up.

Elizabeth Arden

If you've tried just about everything Elizabeth Arden's new special cleansing cream for oily, blemished and problem skins can help!

Most angry skins are oily skins, and Elizabeth Arden believes the oily complexion is especially hard to cleanse, difficult to penetrate, soften and heal. To rip the problem at its source, Miss Arden has formulated a new special cleansing cream that balances the amount of oil your pores produce so it can properly cleanse and heal blemishes. In our testing laboratories we actually purported to have pumped overboard from the liner Empress of Canada early Wednesday as the ship was returning to New York from a 15-day West Indies cruise.

In Japan, Half the Fun Is Just Getting There

By DAVE STOCKAND

TOKYO (CP) — She is a many - splendored individual, part and alert, soaring and stimulating, and a tingling massage to the male eye.

She is the Japanese bar hostess — so honest as the night is long but also a business girl who can make a bankroll melt like butter in a burning creamery.

Her dress is a sexy sheath, her mind works with the speed of a computer, but she in her own way is as much a keeper of tradition as the most rock-ribbed protector of protocol in the Imperial household.

This is the tradition, jealously guarded by the Japanese male, that on an evening's pub crawl man does not live by drink alone.

For one thing, he needs somebody to pour it for him. He needs a cigarette lighter that slinks like a girl. He needs an audience when he's talking, amusing chatter when he's silent; compliments for his end-of-day contentment.

Naturally a wife does not share in this relaxation. She can have her usual scintillating evening at home arranging flowers with grandma and looking after the children.

The foreigner is not immune to the charms of the hostess system. He comes, sees, and is conquered. The hostess takes on more responsibilities.

To cater to the combined demand there are 150,000 hostesses in Tokyo alone with one conservative estimate putting the number in all Japan at more than 500,000.

For her part the hostess is far better off financially than he would be as a shop or office worker. She has far more freedom than the average Japanese girl or woman.

Where she goes, what she does, when the last drink is served and the bars latch their shutters for the night is her decision and her business.

Just think of her at work, doing her job with the graces of a geisha who has had to come to terms with the 20th century, comforting the lonely traveller, unfurrowing the worried brow of the busy businessman.

She is nice to have around.

Gore

THE GORE— Victoria school pupils and teacher, Miss Blackburn, enjoyed a skating party on Wednesday evening. Later they were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Hubbs and were served hot weiners, rolls and chocolate milk. A pleasant time was enjoyed by all.

Centre's annual congregational meeting was held Friday evening. Victoria's annual was held Saturday evening at the church preceded by a congregational supper which was enjoyed by a good representation. Later pictures were shown by Mrs. Clifford Calnan and by the Rev. Irwin. During the business meeting reports were received from the various organizations of the church. In the election of officials to carry on the work of the church few changes were made for 1964.

Mrs. Bert Gray and baby daughter spent Friday and Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner. Mrs. Roger Redner is again a patient in Belleville General.

Mr. Morley Dempsey and Mr. Nelson Vanclief collected on the Corn on Friday for Mr. and Mrs. Shannik and family. The Shanniks lost their home and most of contents by fire. The collections were most generous with both cash and goods which will help the fire victims to become re-established.

Miss Blackburn was recently entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Hubbs, also at Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pulver's.

DESERONTO

Salvation Army And VON Ask Financial Aid

DESERONTO — A large number of letters occupied the agenda of the meeting of the town council of Deseronto held in the council chambers on Monday night. Among them two requests for grants were made.

The Salvation Army stood on its reputation and requested council to consider a grant for its 1964 appeal. In addressing itself to council the organization outlined what it had done in the past in welfare work in the area and expressed a hope that the town would once again see fit to make a grant for that work.

The letter was referred to the finances committee along with the letter from The Victorian Order of Nurses that had been carried over from the previous council meeting.

It was noted that the carry over had been made to allow the reeve to report on the outcome of the proposed Health Unit for Hastings County up for discussion in the county's January meeting.

Reeve Alford indicated that the purchase of a Health Unit for the county had been set aside. He felt that this would allow town council to proceed with the contents of the letter if they so wished.

The council invited the VON to set up their clinic for another year and referred the request for a grant to the committee on finance.

WILL HOLD JAMBOREE

Two letters from the Deseronto Fire Department were received. Council okayed the request of the first for permission to hold a jamboree and parade on the days of the 3rd and 4th of July.

In the other letter Fire Chief Al Fraser brought to the attention of the council the fire hazard constituted by the presence of the old dwelling now standing beside Chapman's restaurant on Main St.

He indicated that under the Fire Marshal's Act the presence of such a building was unlawful and that action would be required to repair it or remove it altogether.

Council pointed out that the building was at present up for taxes and that the owner had until November of 1964 to reclaim. Until then no action could be taken other than to inform the owner of the complaint.

It was moved by Reeve Alford that a registered letter be forwarded to the owners appraising them of its situation.

A letter from Wallace and Thiermann concerning the Residue Control Installation was noted and filed.

Golden Hawks Not Wanted At Deseronto

DESERONTO — "They're playing Russian roulette with my wife," accused Mr. Smith of Deseronto in his complaint against the Golden Hawks before the Town Council.

Mr. Smith complained that the precision flying team of the RCAF has been practising in the vicinity of Deseronto. Although the activity of the famed squadron has become a familiar sight to the people of this town not all residents have accepted their presence.

Speaking at the free period after council had completed their agenda Mr. Smith stated that he had cut short his vacation-in order to make protest against the aircraft that have been "using Deseronto homes as a sighting point for training."

"When I go into work in the morning I wonder if I will see my wife alive when I come back," said Mr. Smith.

He commented upon the frequency of dives made in his area and expressed fear that an accident would happen. An aircraft was lost out west last year, he stated.

"I have also seen one crash into Number Six years ago," he said, adding that "a number of accidents of the same nature had taken place among the American squadron."

"Belleville and district have stopped this kind of flying, he continued. Why can't we?"

Mayor Ketcheson informed Council that other complaints had been received in the past and expressed a desire that Council make their own complaint to Trenton.

A motion recommending that a "strong letter be sent to the Commanding Officer of the Golden Hawks asking them to desist" was passed by Council.

LONDON (AP)—The British government has authorized export of 300 guided anti-tank missiles to Saudi Arabia, signalling a drive for new arms sales in the Middle East. British informants, reporting this Wednesday night, said the $1,400,000 contract also provides for training Saudi Arabian soldiers in the use of this modern defensive weapon.

United Church and Labor Federation Fire Critical Volleys at Medicare Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Public hearing of opinions about Ontario's medical insurance plan closed Wednesday with a double-barrelled bang as both the United Church of Canada and the Ontario Federation of Labor fired critical volleys at the draft legislation.

Both groups urged the government appointed inquiry in separate briefs to aim for a state-run, universal program of comprehensive medical care on the Saskatchewan pattern.

The draft Ontario legislation, on which the inquiry committee has been hearing submissions in 11 sessions since early December, would establish standard physician-care plans to be offered on a voluntary basis through private insurers. The government has said it would help pay the insurance premiums for an undefined group of "needy" residents.

The United Church brief, presented by its Board of Evangelism and Social Service, drew attention to the fact that the church's General Council has commended the government's Saskatchewan program as a model of its aim for an integrated, contributory and universal health insurance program.

The OFL presented the committee with some 80,000 mailin cards from Ontario residents asking for a government medical plan.

RAISE EYEBROWS

Submissions presented by the church board's secretary, Rev. J. E. Hord, and his assistant, Rev. Stewart Crysdale, raised some eyebrows and heavy questioning among some members of the 14-member inquiry committee.

Mr. Hord said: "There are indications that the provisions of this proposed Ontario plan are using human need to serve financial ends."

Mr. Crysdale disclosed that a systematic sampling of United Church opinion in the province show 87 per cent of members and adherents favor a government-operated, tax - supported medical care program.

Carmen A. Neylor, a London Life insurance actuary and member of the inquiry, said that although he is a United Church member it was the first he had heard about the church survey and he questioned Mr. Crysdale about his methods.

Mr. Crysdale explained that the figures presented—67 per cent in favor of government medical care, 16 per cent opposed and, 17 per cent undecided — represented a sociologically sound portion of a scientific sampling of church opinion on social issues which is still in progress.

ARE FROM 210 REPLIES

The figures were drawn from about 210 replies—about one third of the total Ontario poll planned—and compare favorably in quantity and method with established polling systems, Mr. Crysdale indicated.

Mr. Naylor and Committee Chairman J. Gerald Hagey of Waterloo said the press should take hold of what they apparently felt were limitations in the poll.

Mr. Crysdale said he expects the sample presented will prove to be a fair representation of final figures. Mr. Hord said he believes that a full plebiscite on the question in Ontario would show the church figures to be fairly accurate.

Mr. Hord said outside the hearing that his and Mr. Crysdale's statements were elaborations and comments to more specific terms in general principle set out in the church-sanctioned brief.

A church spokesman said the brief was presented on the instructions of the general council as a rewrite of one submitted in 1962 to the federal royal commission on health services. The statements by the board of evangelism officers applied specialities to the specific case in Ontario.

QUESTION LOADED?

Mr. Hagey suggested that the question put in the church poll "may be loaded."

Mr. Naylor, one of a series of assorted social issues in the questionnaire: "Do you favor a government - operated, tax-supported plan that would provide all residents with medical care at no direct cost to the family?"

Mr. Hagey later began to suggest that the OFL's petition cards were similarly put in "loaded" language, on the ground that signatories supported "medicare for all . . . rich and poor."

Debating Union Rejects Motion On Que. Issue

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The University of Western Ontario Debating Union rejected a motion Wednesday "Do we favor a government - operated, tax-supported plan that would provide all residents with medical care at no direct cost to the family?"

Mr. Hagey later began to suggest that the OFL's petition cards were similarly put in "loaded" language, on the ground that signatories supported "medicare for all . . . rich and poor."

Pearson Urges Greater Fight Against Mental Retardation

NEW YORK (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson was to fly home to Ottawa early today after a 36-hour visit to New York during which he joined with President Johnson in urging a greater fight against the mysteries of mental retardation.

His main engagement in New York was the annual awards dinner of Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation — an organization set up in 1946 to fight mental illness.

This was an engagement Pearson originally agreed to attend with the late president Kennedy last Dec. 4. The foundation is named after the late president's brother, killed during the war.

"I would have given much to have celebrated this occasion last Dec. 4 as planned," said the Canadian prime minister.

The fight must be carried on, he added. "I can assure you that the heartfelt prayers of some half - million Canadian homes, where retarded children are 'most afflicting to a parent's mind,' are with us here tonight."

FINISH HIS FIGHT

President Johnson, referring to the efforts of his predecessor, said: "We shall finish his fight—and we shall conquer mental retardation, and mental illness, and cancer, and every other foe of the land he loved and the people he served."

The dinner was a $100-a-plate society outing in the huge ballroom of the plush Americana Hotel, where more than 1,200 guests listened to a series of speeches, saw movies and slides of mental health programs, and listened to entertainment by Bobby Darin, Ethel Merman, Nat King Cole and Count Basie.

With Mr. and Mrs. Pearson and the U.S. president on the platform, were Attorney - General Robert Kennedy, his mother, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, his sisters, Mrs. Sargent Shriver and Mrs. Stephen E. Smith, his sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Kennedy, Adlai Stevenson, Francis Cardinal Spellman, and other dignitaries.

STANDING CHEER

The Canadian prime minister received the ovation after he declared that the fight against mental retardation would not end in Canada any more than it would be lost in the United States.

"The two countries will continue to have their differences from time to time, he told the president, "but I am sure that matter most in man's upfirst struggle against poverty and misery, ignorance and disease . . . our countries are one."

"We, like you, are spurred by the prospect of achieving big and cent success in giving to the retarded, useful community lives."

Shriver, executive director of the foundation and a brother-in-law of the late president, called Prime Minister Pearson "one of the great citizens of our age," when he introduced him.

Mrs. Pearson, who remained in Florida after her husband returned to Ottawa from there a few days ago, joined him here for the dinner. They later attended a reception given by Shriver.

ADJUST MEASURES

LONDON (Reuters) — British authorities have adjusted imperial pound Wednesday. The department of scientific and industrial research said the length of the imperial yard measure—a bronze bar that had its standard of origin in Anglo - Saxon times—was suspect. Officially the imperial yard now measured 3141 metres and the pound 453592237 kilograms.

Fair Boards Now Existing In Atmosphere of Economic Change, Delegates Told

Agricultural societies have a responsibility to keep pace with the trend of the times, an Ontario government official warned here yesterday.

The reminder was served in and directors of district fair board officials and delegates attending the annual Central Fairs' Association meeting at the Club Canara.

Ronald Bagg, executive assistant to F. A. Lashley, Director of Agricultural and Horticultural Societies' Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, reminded the association that fair boards exist in an atmosphere of economic change.

"One hundred years ago an agricultural society was a little group in its county, responsible to a little group around it," he said. "In our complex society (today) everybody is responsible to everybody else."

"In this context," Mr. Bagg said, "fair boards must ever bear in mind they have a responsibility to their exhibitors but most of all to their public."

RENAMED DIRECTOR

This responsibility ranges from the directors of administration and upkeep of fairgrounds to ensuring all conveniences to the exhibitor.

Clarence Pitchett of Stirling was renamed Central Fairs' Association district director for another year. He took over the job a year ago from Gordon McCubbin of Warkworth.

Carl Heath of Marmora was named Mr. Fitchett's assistant, while C. W. Varcoe of Rosneath is again secretary treasurer. Phil Dodds of Picton and Jesse Locke of Campbellford are auditors.

Of main importance at the association meeting was the setting of fair dates for the 1964 season, while reports were also heard from the district director on fairs held in the area last year.

The women's section of the fairs' association has its own set of officers and also hear reports and suggestions aimed at the betterment of fair programs.

MADOC WOMAN NAMED

Mrs. Fred Bailey of Madoc was named president of the women's section, succeeding Mrs. A. Wilkes of Denbigh, women's district director for last year.

Mrs. Perry Bronson, Stirling, is 1st vice-president, with Mrs. Hilda Scrutton of Kingston as 2nd vice-president. Mrs. Geo. Hume of Campbellford is secretary-treasurer.

Local fair board representatives from Kingston to Rosneath and Norwood, and from Picton to Denbigh attended the association convention held this year for the first time at the Club Canara. Previous annual meetings have been held at the Kiwanis Centre here.

Arrest Cubans For Fishing in Florida Waters

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Thirty-six Cubans charged with fishing illegally in Florida waters were arrested and jailed Wednesday night.

A guard consisting of police, shore patrolmen, conservation board officers and sheriffs of Monroe county placed around Monroe County Jail

The U.S. government, which released the men to the state, said Wednesday that for 60 days, was reported trying to arrange for counsel through the Czech embassy in Washington, which handles Cuban affairs in the United States.

The four Cuban boats were placed in custody.

U.S. authorities released the men to Florida after determining they violated no federal law except fishing in U.S. waters, which carries no penalty.

CUBA COMMITTEE FOLDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The Fair Play for Cuba committee in which Lee Harvey Oswald claimed membership has folded and been reborn under the name "Friends of Latin America," the New York Daily News says. The committee was an active pro-Castro group before president Kennedy's assassination. But after disclosure of Oswald's claimed connection with it, the group became inactive.

Doctor Denies Any Association With Clinic

WINDSOR (CP) — Dr. Alfred Rubenstein, who a coroner's jury alleged failed to make a proper report on the cancer death of a 27-year-old man at the Hett Cancer Clinic here last July, denied in a statement Wednesday any association with the clinic.

"I have never been called to assist with treatment by the Hett Clinic as a physician," said Dr. Rubenstein. "I do not approve of this method of treatment and I am not aware of any benefit in the treatment of cancer."

He was censured by the jury Jan. 30 during an inquest into the death of Donald McConnell of Cedar Point, Kan.

The jury recommended that the clinic, which had been administering a serum to cancer patients for years, have its licence revoked. It said Dr. Rubenstein, internal physician and Mrs. Beatrice Hewson, operator of the clinic did not complete his duties according to the Coroner's Act.

Dr. H. R. Cottam, supervising coroner for Ontario, said in Toronto Tuesday it might be two or three weeks before action is taken on the jury recommendations. Any question of taking action against Dr. Rubenstein, he said, would be left with Windsor's Crown attorney.

In his statement, Dr. Rubenstein said he was associated with the Hett Clinic although he did have occasion to see patients who had gone to the clinic and required "proper medical care."

He said he had requested an autopsy to determine the exact cause of Mr. McConnell's death and when he found wide-spread cancer "I felt quite justified in signing the death certificate."

Pontiff Likes Canada Says Judy LaMarsh

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said Wednesday she discussed the possibility of Pope Paul visiting Canada when she had a private audience with the pontiff in the Vatican Monday.

Miss LaMarsh said at a press conference, however, that she did not issue an invitation to the Pope.

Asked what Pope Paul said following their discussion of a possible trip to Canada, Miss LaMarsh said: "The Pope replied that he liked Canada.

The Pope spent a few days in Canada in June on his route to the United States for a speaking engagement. He visited Montreal, Quebec City, Ottawa, Kingston and Toronto among other Quebec and Ontario centres.

The Pope then was a monsignor in the Vatican secretariat under Pope Pius XII.

"We discussed the possibility that he might visit Canada if he decides to travel to North America," Miss LaMarsh said.

She also discussed with the Pope Governor - General Vanier's proposed conference on the family, social welfare and the Pope's trip to the Holy Land and closer ties among Christians.

Queen Mother Doing 'Fine' After Operation

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth was seen this morning by all five doctors who attended at her emergency appendectomy on Tuesday and was pronounced "fine."

One member of the operating team, Dr. Ian Aird, surgeon-surgeon to the Queen, told reporters: "She's fine—she has taken the operation very well"

Porritt said he did not know whether the Queen Mother would be receiving visitors today. "It's up to her," he said.

The Queen Mother saw her daughters, Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, last night.

World Attention Focused On Two Leaders of China, Arch Enemies for Decades

In this article on the peculiarities of the "two Chinas" concept, an experienced AP correspondent in Asia depicts the leadership of the David and Goliath nations involved in the struggle.

By ROY ESSOYAN

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—An aging father image towers over each of the two Chinas.

France's efforts to establish diplomatic relations with Communist China have focused world attention on these two leaders of China, arch enemies for decades.

Nationalist China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, a slim and ascetic 76, still rules his island stronghold of Formosa 100 miles off the China coast with firm hand.

Communist China's party boss, Mao Tse-tung, a round and moon-faced 70, is the unquestioned father of Chinese communism, the historian, Marxist theoretician and military strategist whose word is law for the 700,000,000 people of Red China.

Both appear spry and healthy and show no sign of bowing off the world stage.

THEIR THEIR PRIME

But both are past their prime. And the struggle to which they have devoted their lives—the establishment of China as a world power to be reckoned with—probably will have to be carried on by their successors.

Some experts feel the men who follow Chiang and Mao may work out some form of compromise settlement.

"China is Nationalist China and Nationalist China is China," one European diplomat has said. "If Chiang goes, Nationalist China can't survive for long as an independent entity."

But opinion is divided. Much depends on the personality of the men who follow Chiang and Mao.

Communist China's Premier Chou En-lai, a poised, serious and persuasive statesman, is the only widely travelled and worldly member of the Chinese Communist hierarchy.

TOUGH OPPONENT

Some feel Chou could diminish East-West-tensions—if that would serve Peking's purposes —but he would be a formidable antagonist for the West. He has made more points on his current tour of Africa than any other Chinese Communist leader could have.

But at 66, Chou is considered the No. 3 man in Peking, after Mao and President Liu Shao-chi, thin, solemn-faced Communist organizer and arbiter of Communist morals. Mao has designated Liu as his successor.

In Nationalist China the strongest personality next to Chiang is Chiang's Russian-trained eldest son, 54-Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo, a stocky, soft-spoken, politically austere but socially pleasant man of the world.

But there is a strong feeling the constitutional line of succession now followed and Chiang will be succeeded by Vice-President Chen Cheng, a firm but relatively colorless man of the ailing health.

General Election Is Close And Tories Still Divided

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The death-wish in British politics seems to have changed allegiance.

With a general election uncomfortably close, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservative rivals are showing the craving for self-destruction that used to be the hallmark of the opposition Labor Party.

Internal feuds between Labor's left and right once were the chief obstacle to victory for socialism. Now the Tories are holding a hangover head, and with the election due by mid-May place in four months there isn't much recovery time.

It is a piquant situation. Traditionally, the Tories pride themselves on their strong sense of party loyalty.

Things have changed now. The shocks of last October's struggle for the party leadership are still being felt. Conservative versions of what exactly happened before Douglas-Home emerged as the compromise candidate wearing a mantle of authority crown have been published by Randolph Churchill, journalist-author son of Winston, and former cabinet minister Iain Macleod who declined to serve under Douglas-Home.

FUEL FOR DISCORDS

The animosities aroused in the leadership race, so vividly described to gallery readers in October, provide the emotional fuel for current discord on policy.

As with former Labor party differences, the split is basically between left and right. The coming election campaign seems sure to be fought on the theme of "moderniz(z)ation" again, with the stress on demolishing the old and outdated.

The Tory dilemma is that for some of its most devoted supporters, it is precisely the old and outdated that have the greatest appeal.

After sharp differences within the cabinet, the government "hawks" among the Tories last week brought in legislation to take away the right to resale price-fixing. This caused consternation among the small to medium-sized businessmen, a key source of Conservative voting strength.

Political sources discount the significance of the revolt against price-cutting. The signs of disarray are nevertheless clear and sharp. Tory morale has been severely strained.

LABOR IN CLEAR LEAD

With public opinion polls showing a clear lead for Labor, some observers even wonder if the Tory disarray is partly willed. The whisper in West-minster is that some senior Conservatives accept the inevitability of electoral defeat, and indeed look forward to it as the only way of demonstrating to the public just how bad a Labor government would be.

Meanwhile, internal jostling and manoeuvring continue. It also seems as though the Tories are determined to go down fighting—among themselves.

Says Rifle Was Stolen Day Before

JACKSON, Miss. (CP - AP) — Byron De La Beckwith, charged with murdering Negro civil rights leader, has admitted he once wrote that Mississippi residents may have to resort to a lot of shooting to protect our wives and children from niggers.

Beckwith made an unexpected appearance on the witness stand Wednesday to climax the defence case Lawyers were to present final arguments today and there was a chance the all-white jury could get the case before nightfall.

Beckwith, a self-proclaimed segregationist, told the jury his rifle was stolen the day before civil rights leader Medgar Evers was killed.

The prosecution says the 43-year - old fertilizer salesman from Greenwood killed Evers by shooting him in the back with a high-powered rifle.

Beckwith testified his weapon was similar to the 30.06-Enfield rifle police found near the murder scene.

A 'fresh' fingerprint from his right index finger was on the weapon, he said.

"I am not guilty of any crime," Beckwith replied when District Attorney William L. Waller asked why he had never denied the charge. Evers.

"You don't believe killing an integrationist is a crime, do you?" asked Waller.

"Oh that's a crime, said Beckwith, nodding his head.

Evers was field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Cuba Calls It "Musical Socialism"

By JULIAN BATES

HAVANA (Reuters) — Cuban leaders are calling their form of government "musical socialism."

One top young aide of Premier Fidel Castro explained: "We are Communists, but we are retailing our national and Latin American characteristics — our love of gaiety and humor—we call it musical socialism."

He took this correspondent to one of several night clubs still open in Havana—where the entertainment is excellent but food and refreshments limited by general austerity. We saw carefree couples dance the cha-cha to the tune of the Communist Internationale.

Machados (frontcakes) took the stage to sing in calypso style the creed taught to Cuban children:

"Who am I? I am a Socialist. Who is my father? My father is Fidel. Who is my grandfather? My grandfather is Lenin."

DAILY LIFE HARD

But severe shortages, especially of food since October's hurricane Flora compounded the effects of the U.S. trade blockade, are making everyday life difficult for the average Cuban.

The hurricane dealt severe blows to the market gardening and ranching areas of Oriente province, at the eastern end of the island. Some reports speak of 30,000 head of cattle being lost in the disaster.

Eggs and butter in Cuba go first to children and students, with almost none left for general consumption.

At the luxury U.S.-built resort hotels, now running down for lack of replacement supplies, breakfast is grapefruit or pineapple, dry toast and Cuban coffee. Dinner is bean soup, boiled or fried rice, a piece of meat or fish, dry toast and a small green salad.

The hotels are chiefly tenanted by Russians, Chinese and other Communist - bloc technicians and visitors. Foreign technicians receive rations from a special commissary, but not much more allowed in the Cuban people themselves.

Foreign diplomats also have a special commissary to fill their food needs. Yet they still have to supplement their supplies by importing.

There is a good supply of Czechoslovak beer in addition to local beer, rum and vermouth.

Clothing is rationed and there is a great shortage of shoes. Women are rationed to one set of underwear, one blouse, one pair of shoes a year; men to two shirts, one set of underwear and one pair of shoes.

Suits and dresses cost 85-120 pesos ($85 - $120). These high prices explain why so many civilians wear their militia uniforms for daily use.

There was a special ration of four toys for each child at Christmas.

An active black market is reported in the wake of austerity. Shoes are said to sell for $100 a pair, eggs for 30 cents each, pork for $6 a pound.

More Hardships Foreseen Behind the Iron Curtain

By HANS BENEDICT

VIENNA (AP)—For Eastern Europe's Communist-ruled peoples, 1964 will be another year of hardships, but with glimmers of hope for more freedom and a better life.

Throughout the region there are grumblings of discontent the regimes can hardly afford to ignore. Communist leaders are exhorting the masses to work harder but their demands are sweetened by promises of West-style consumer goods and a privileges hitherto reserved to the elite—travel to the West.

In some countries, the regimes face staggering odds. Their economies are still reeling shock waves from the hard 1962-63 winter. It caused food shortages and price increases at a time when food production was pushed into the background by industrialization.

Bad harvests in the Soviet Union set off a chain reaction in countries dependent on Russian grain and forced them to turn to the West for help. The grain purchases ate into hard-currency reserves, thus adding woes for national budgets already sapped by foreign aid to underdeveloped countries.

Products badly needed on domestic markets go to Africa and Asia. Some regimes are taking a hard business look at their aid programs to make cuts here and there. But indications are that the 1964 level will be proportionally equivalent to the 1954-1962 period during which the East bloc poured out about $4,100,000,000 worth of non-military technical aid and loans. Cuba is the leading beneficiary.

Czechoslovakia — One of the most industrialized countries in the Moscow orbit, Czechoslovakia is banking heavily on imports of key foodstuffs. The government sought to balance the loss of Russian grain by purchases of U.S. and Canadian wheat. Shortages of meat and milk are expected to continue next year. Industrial projects are hampered by insufficient electric power production.

To cushion these blows, the party's central committee has announced higher pay for good work, abolition of unnecessary bureaucracy, an elastic price system, and liberal travel regulations. For the first time since the 1948 Communist takeover, Czechs will be allowed to travel West in increasing numbers while Westerners will be attracted by an unprecedented cut of red tape.

Bulgaria—In 17 years of Communist rule, Bulgaria has never once managed to reach the food production targets set by the planners. The government lowered its sights for 1964, cutting agricultural production to free money and labor for ambitious industrial developments.

To fill the food gap, farmers are encouraged to produce more meat, milk and vegetables on their tiny private plots—an approach that would have been heresy only a few years ago when private enterprise was rated a vestige of capitalism.

Hungary—As the only Soviet bloc country whose living standards have gone up this year (4.5 per cent according to United Nations statistics), Hungary has no food shortages, although the government had to buy 800,000 tons of Western grain for bread and fodder.

The government has announced that passports will be "liberally issued" and the hard-currency allowance of $70 a person will be raised. Western newspapers will appear on newsstands — they have been available only in hotels frequented by Westerners.

At last, power and comfort in the small car field!

HERE'S WHAT IT IS!

Epic is a totally new budget car, built and backed by General Motors. It's the small car that gives you the roominess, comfort, power, manoeuvrability, luggage space, good looks, economy and value that you've always wanted in a car of this size.

Epic gives you a lively engine, combined with 4-speed all-Synchro-Mesh transmission that does away with that under-powered feeling.

No detail of driver or passenger comfort was overlooked in Epic's design. The heater is exactly the same type as in big cars, and gives excellent warmth. Also, there's a real trunk... to hold the luggage of the whole family. Epic is available in two models—Deluxe or Standard 2-door sedan.

We suggest that you drive Epic soon at your Chevrolet dealer's... and find out what you've been missing in other small cars.

HERE'S WHAT IT HAS!

1. 50-HP HIGH PERFORMANCE ENGINE. The peppiest in its class. Gives spirited acceleration in city traffic—high cruising speeds on the open road. 2. SMOOTH-RIDING INDEPENDENT FRONT SUSPENSION soaks up those bumps... gives you road holding you'll revel in. 3. EASY STEERING, FAST HANDLING. Open that trunk lid, you'll be really surprised (and pleased) at the 10.76 cubic feet of room! 11. SUPERB ROAD-HOLDING. Epic handles like an expensive sports car! 12. GOOD VISIBILITY ALL ROUND. You see all four corners of the car with ease... drive with extra safety.

HERE'S WHAT IT COSTS!

$1,788.00*

*Suggested maximum retail delivered price of a standard 2-door sedan with heater and defroster at BELLEVILLE

Price quoted includes delivery and handling charges, Federal Sales and Excise taxes. Provincial and local taxes and licence are not included.

Here's How It Was Tested!

About a year ago, we shipped a prototype of the Epic to Canada for a real torture test: driving in the winter weather of Northern Ontario. The test proved for sure—this car could take anything a Canadian winter could throw at it and come back for more. If you ever had doubts about the behavior of imported cars under tough Canadian conditions—forget them! Epic has rewritten the book on reliability!

Miners Tend to Be Radical But Sticklers for Loyalty

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

NEWCASTLE UPON TYNE, Engand (CP) — Coal miners tend to be radical in politics but they are sticklers for loyalty to their villages and pits.

This is cited as a poignant feature of the modernization of the English Northeast where many thousands of miners are being uprooted under the pressures of economic hardship and change.

"The miners are rebels in politics but they're the deepest-dyed conservatives when it comes to moving," says Sid Chaplin, spokesman for the nationalized coal industry.

However reluctant, miners are being forced to move because of dwindling coal markets, pit closures and a shift in coal operations from the Pennine hills to coastal collieries.

BORE DEEPER

The pit operators have been boring deeper and deeper under the North Sea in ascent years—tapping thicker and richer coal seams—along the lines of Canada's Cape Breton mines.

In some cases the coal "face" is 4½ miles from the entrance shaft, meaning the tunnel travels more than two miles under the sea, nearly as far as the Cape Breton operation.

Huge, floating drilling rigs have added many millions of tons to the known reserves of the Northeast coalfields, which have been worked for 900 years and are said to be the oldest in the world.

But the coal industry presents a sorry picture compared with the days when "carrying coals to Newcastle" became a byword. As long ago as 1615, the coal trade employed 400 ships out of this port.

The Northeast mines, which gave work to 143,000 men in 1961, now employ only 100,000 and 8,000 jobs vanished in the last year. One official said another 15,000 will go in the next four years.

Lord Robens, national coal board chairman, reports that more than 3,000 men have been transferred from the Northeast to Wales and the English Midlands. Other thousands have moved from the Pennines to the coastal mines but recruiting of youths has practically ceased at present.

All but a token share of Britain's export market was wiped out in the post-war years because the coal was needed for home expansion but Robens strikes a hopeful note for future exports. He says:

"Already this year we have pushed up our exports by more than 50 per cent, to about 7,000,000 tons. Western Europe alone can take more than 30,000,000 tons a year from abroad and we intend to take a bigger bite of this business as well as the business farther afield — as far afield as Japan."

Meanwhile, the British government and local authorities are striving to diversify industry in the Northeast to revive the economy and provide employment.

USE SLAG HEAPS

The slag heaps of abandoned coal mines have sometimes been used for highway material and sometimes burnt over and planted under trees. In one ironic instance, rose bushes were planted.

While the older folk tend to cling to their traditional villages, the "younger men want their cars, and their television sets, and will not stay unless they can get these things," said one official.

It is necessary to be able to tell the young people opportunity is no more than a year away, he added.

"Then you can hold them. Because once away, they won't come back."

DESERONTO

School Issue Monopolizes Attention at Council Meet

DESERONTO—An old ghost continues to haunt the council chambers of the Town of Deseronto. It is the unsettled issue of high school education for local students.

Making its appearance periodically in the course of Council's meeting of Monday night, the issue soon became the centre of attention for council and assembled public.

A letter from The Board of Education indicating the inability of some members to be present at a proposed meeting of the Council and Board was filed. The letter suggested that "perhaps a later date" could be agreed upon.

The growing scope of the school issue was seen in the letter from the School Board's lawyer requesting a copy of the Council's earlier resolution requiring the Board to submit itemized accounts for monies spent on the high school. The town clerk indicated that the request had been met.

Upon the presentation of another letter from the Board of Education requesting the amounts of $6000 for the Public School and $1000 for the High School Board, Reeve Lott indicated that the first sum had been supplied but the latter withheld pending a breakdown of the figure.

BACK MAYOR

Council moved to uphold the Mayor and Clerk on their action regarding the latter amount.

Town Council has been reluctant to meet any expenses involving the high school building "in fairness" on the basis that the School has been "closed" since the decision of the Board to buy education in Napanee and Belleville.

The Board maintains the School to be technically "open" so long as education is being purchased elsewhere. It also points out that a complete shut down of the school's facilities would result in a loss of insurance on the building and leave it unprotected.

In response to this the Town Council has required the Board to make an itemized account of expenses covering the High School.

The reply of the Board was unanimous to move to seek dissolution under the School Act. The act requires that a motion for dissolution come to the public in the form of a plebiscite, asking the voters if they wish the Board to dissolve. Such a plebiscite cannot be held until the municipal elections of December, 1964.

In the meantime, Town Council has decided to proceed with its intention of last year to seek attachment to the Napanee School Area.

Under new business two motions were passed requesting the Counties of Hastings and Lennox & Addington respectively to pass a by-law in accordance with Section 12 (1) of the Secondary Schools and Boards of Education Act "to discontinue the Deseronto High School and add the area of Deseronto to the Napanee High School District." The two motions also requested that copies of the by-law be sent to the Department of Education.

These same motions were presented last year to both County Councils. Although Hastings County Council agreed to the motion the County Council of Lennox & Addington did not. This required a rescinding of the motion in Hastings Council in order that the Board be able to function.

In speaking to the issue that has continued to plague this small town, Councillor Mabie said that under the Secondary Schools Act failure to open the school after two years constituted closure.

COULD USE PROPERTY

He also urged the Board of Education to take into consideration another section of the act that allows property no longer in use for high school purposes to be disposed of. He urged four members of the Board to move with the town to acquire the field for local use.

"The Board has not made it easy for the town and people to have what is being," he said.

He called for an end to the needless expenditure on the high school.

"I would like to see," he said, "the town get everything coming to it the easy way, not the hard way."

The mayor opened the floor for discussion on the lease after the regular business had been attended to.

Mr. Don Armitage, county representative on the board, suggested that the mayor offer "six or three dates for meeting with the board in order to provide a chance for discussion lost by the failure of the meeting of January 29.

The mayor indicated that the council had done its part and suggested that Mr. Armitage approach the board with his suggestion.

Shrewd Conciliator Seen As Nehru's Political Heir

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—With the failing health of Prime Minister Nehru, the heavy burden of guiding India's future may fall on the shoulders of a diminutive 56-year-old politician, Lal Bahadur Shastri.

Shastri has already emerged as the least controversial candidate to fill the leadership vacuum created by Nehru's sudden illness.

While the 74-year-old prime minister may recover from his present bout of high blood pressure and weakness of the left side, his failing health may still force him to fade from the Indian political scene, leaving most of his powers to Shastri.

Most observers here agree Shastri would find it difficult to step into the shoes of Nehru, who for nearly 5 years has been the dominant figure in Indian politics.

During his 18-year term as prime minister, Nehru has received the affectionate adulation of the public as no other Indian in recent history, except Mohandas Gandhi.

RESPECT NEHRU

Nehru's standing in world capitals is in keeping with the importance of the country—the second most populous country in the world. His views are listened to with respect by leaders of both East and West.

Shastri has none of these advantages.

His assets are his humility, a remarkable ability to smooth frayed tempers and play the role of conciliator, and his reputation as a shrewd politician.

These qualities have, over the years, catapulted him into the front ranks of national leadership. He has fewer enemies today than most of his leading colleagues in the ruling Congress party.

He has more than 40 years of experience in politics.

His parliamentary experience began in 1937, and in 1952 he entered Nehru's cabinet as minister for transport and railways. Since then he has been a member of the central cabinet, except for a brief break seven years ago.

Last year, he resigned his post as home minister to devote himself to full-time work for the Congress party.

Last week he returned to the cabinet as minister without portfolio and de facto deputy premier, with special responsibilities for foreign affairs.

During his 10 years of close association with Nehru, Shastri gradually gained the confidence of the prime minister and respect of his cabinet colleagues.

Shastri is a short, unobtrusive man, mild - mannered, gentle and rarely ruffled. Unlike the handsome, aristocratic - looking Nehru, he favors a flexible approach to India's economic problems, including granting freedom to private industry to play a full role in national development.

In foreign affairs, he supports Nehru's policy of non-alignment with power blocs.

Should he eventually be entrusted with the responsibility of leading India in succession to Nehru, most political observers here predict, there is unlikely to be any radical change of policy.

Frustrated Winter Britons 'Feed' on Travel Folders

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Huddled in the grey cave of an English winter-seeking pleasure find wistful solace in pleasures of the imagination. Sheer of instant affluence on the football pools, it's the only way out.

Fantasy supplants fact. Amid fog, damp and some off-white substance the natives trustingly call snow Britain in winter feeds its frustration on travel folders.

It's the season of anticipated delight. Week after week, British newspapers blaze forth with eye - catching holiday supplements. Advertisements offer idyllic villas in Spain or Italy; tourist offices flood newspapers with siren songs about the sun, the sea and the sand.

The shivering commuter in the bus queue, the man who couldn't crowd his way into that last crowded tube train, the fellow who would prefer all-round warmth to an open fireplace—all these seek vicarious satisfaction in mental images of a sun-washed strand in France or Portugal.

TOURIST LURE

One current tangible delight is a publication from the national tourist office of Greece. A special eight-page section is lovingly devoted to a group of bathing beauties on the beach—"some of the most pin-uppy pin-ups" seen outside the girlie magazines, comments The Sunday Telegraph.

Such wintry pipe-dreams, as a mass phenomenon, are something new to Britain. Foreign travel used to be a minority privilege. Now nearly everybody can afford an occasional fling abroad; these insular islands are becoming tourist-conscious.

Continental Europe exercises a deep and natural magnetism. Britain in 1962 had a minus balance on tourism, her travellers spending more abroad than tourists did here. But Britons were stay-at-homes compared with the West Germans, who now spend almost as much each year in Europe as the Americans and the British together.

Europe's top tourist country, by a clear margin, is Italy, with a favorable balance in 1963 of $723,000,000. Spain came next with $466,000,000, followed by Switzerland with $231,000,000 and Austria with $28,000,000.

TASTES WIDENED

Britain's new interest in European holidays has produced changes at home. Sophisticated diners-out order scampi as a first course instead of that old stand-by, brown Windsor soup; espresso bars and continental-style cafes are ousting the palm-court type of restaurant with the genteel string quartet; and my goodness! Those girls!

British girls, as several commentators have noted, are becoming as spectacular as their grandmothers used to be staid. They sport leather jackets and diamond-mesh stockings. Some local writers claim they are setting fashions for the world. Probably the truth is that they are not innovating but adapting.

Anyway, the impact on British life is considerable. They used to have a saying that "woes begin at Calais," implying that anything distasteful might happen as soon as you set foot on foreign soil.

That attitude is dying. Dying but not altogether dead, as a letter in The Evening Standard recently attested. Noting the loss of life in the sinking of the holiday cruiser Lakonia, the Belle-writer fumed:

"If people choose to go to foreign parts in a Greek ship to avoid a British Christmas, that is their affair, and British time and money should not be spent on inquests."

MANDY WILL MARRY

MUNICH, West Germany (Reuters)—Mandy Rice-Davies, a leading figure in Britain's Profumo scandal last year and now a singer in a Munich night club, is to marry a French baron, it was announced Tuesday. A spokesman for the entertainer said she would not give her fiance's surname. He was identified simply as Baron Pierre.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tomorrow, starting 11 a.m., to be exact, Canada's Olympics hockey infantry meets the first of the two toughest roadblocks barring their march to the world championship.

They cross rapiers with the tough crew from Czechoslovakia, a troop of ice-seasoned warriors not averse to tossing their torsos around and who will be out to avenge their only defeat of the current tournament. They bowed to their Red buddies from Moscow earlier in the tournament.

Saturday is the big one for the Bauer Boys. And if they should beat the Czechs tomorrow the weekend tilt takes on hockey-wise all the grit, guts and glamor, if any, of a Grey Cup final or a world heavyweight title match.

They tangle with the fevered Russians in the death-or-glory battle. The Muscovites have strode down the tourney trail unhindered, unbowed and unbeaten. They hope to toss another gold medal into their well-adorned basket with an undefeated record.

However, they do meet the tough Swedes tomorrow and since there is little love lost between the squads, Tumba Johansson's Svenskas will go all out to turn back the Red machine.

Someone noted that the tournament drew pitied the Canadians against the Czechs and Russians on consecutive days. Since the Canadian team was not considered at draw-time to finish as a threat to the Russian world title, this fact perhaps went unnoticed.

The draw certainly gives the Soviets the edge unless the Swedes take a lot out of them as undoubtedly the Czechs, win or lose, will take a large toll from our side.

But pitting Canada against the Czechs and Russians on consecutive dates did not have the desired effect back in 1959 when the Belleville McFarlands faced the same situation.

The following dispatch sent by this writer from Prague in early March, 1959, speaks for itself:

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — Canada's Bob Lebel, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, won a committee room battle here prior to the draw for the world tournament final matches.

Apparently impressed or scared of the Belleville McFarlands' strength as evidenced in their convincing victories over Poland, Switzerland and Czechoslovakia in the opening rounds, the Russians, who learned had lobbied strenuously to play Canada on Saturday, March 14th, and the Czechs on the following day.

McFarlands manager Drury Denyes after learning of the draw told Bob LeBel the Canadian management was not in agreement with the arrangement.

It protested in no uncertain manner. The tournament committee after arguing the point decided to call a special meeting. Manager Denyes was not invited.

LeBel strongly protested this move after learning the Russians would be in attendance. He was his point and Denyes was permitted to attend the meeting.

The Russian proposal asked that Canada meet the top teams on successive days. This was done, the Canadian delegation charged, with the purpose of wearing the Macs down.

LeBel was adamant in his demand for a change of schedule. He proposed Canada play Finland Monday and Russia on Wednesday, meet Sweden Thursday and the United States Saturday.

By right of the host team's privilege the Czechs met the strongest teams on the first and last days of the tournament. They will close it playing Canada, on Sunday, March 15.

LeBel's proposal brought forth long argument on the part of the Iron Curtain clubs but LeBel won the decision 5-4 with International Ice Hockey Federation president "Bunny" Ahearne and his secretary voting for the western clubs.

The Czechs had three votes as the host club. The other was the Russian nod.

Habs Blank Leafs; Hawks Clip Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal and Chicago aren't making much headway against each other in their neck-and-neck battle for the National Hockey League leadership, but they're making it tough for the rest of the league to catch up.

What Canadiens first joined the high-flying Hawks in first place two weeks ago, Toronto Maple Leafs were breathing down their necks, only three points behind.

Since then, Montreal and Chicago have picked up nine points each. The third-place Leafs ran out of steam in that two-week interval and trail by eight points today.

The other teams lost ground too, but only Detroit fared as poorly as the hapless Toronto club.

Wednesday night's game was an example of superior Montreal hustle as Canadiens backchecked furiously and blanked the Leafs 3-0. Chicago meanwhile downed Detroit 6-2 and Boston edged New York 3-2.

LEAFS' SHOOTING POOR

Canadiens kept the Leafs bottled up for most of the contest, and when they managed to get a break out their shots were erratic.

The goal Rousseau got credit for deflected into the Leafs net off his leg. The shot came from rookie defenseman Ted Harris at the blue line.

Tremblay's goal capped a neat passing play that started when he and Henri Richard broke away with only one defenceman to beat. The Leafs had four forwards on the ice in an effort to tie.

Richard drew defenceman Kent Douglas to him, then flipped a neat pass to Tremblay, who easily deflied the puck into the corner of the net, past the outstretched glove of Toronto goalie Johnny Bower.

Charlie Hodge, the Montreal netminder, had a relatively easy time getting the shutout—his fourth of the season.

He stopped only 23 shots, and his roughest experience was a collision with Toronto's big Frank Mahovlich in the third period. Hodge was treated for a bumped head at the Montreal bench.

It was a different story in Chicago, where the Hawks broke a 2-2 tie by scoring twice in the last 68 seconds.

They had a 2-0 lead going into the third period on goals by Johnny McKenzie and Kenny Wharram, but Detroit bounced back to tie the count with three minutes to go.

Larry Jeffery scored at 12:20 and Alex Delvecchio at 17:08.

Wharram scored his second goal of the night into an empty net at 19:07.

Wharram and McDonald were the leading NHL point-getters of the night with three apiece.

HAUNT FORMER MATES

In New York, the Rangers met defeat at the hands of three former teammates—Dean Prentice, Andy Hebenton and Orland Kurtenbach — who scored all three Boston goals.

It was only the fourth loss in 16 games for the revitalized New York club, who won 10 and tied up in that period.

Perhaps the best indication of their renewed popularity with the hometown fans was the crowd of 15,925—fourth straight NHL sellout at Madison Square Gardens.

Don McKenney then scored twice to give Boston the 2-0 lead, which stood up until 15:33 of the third period.

Hebenton got the 12th goal of the season at 15:33, and Kurtenbach popped in the winner 27 seconds later.

The slim victory kept Boston's playoff hopes alive. Bruins now fourth - place Rangers, whom they meet again tonight in Boston.

Chicago visits Detroit for tonight's only other scheduled game.

New Board Pulls Surprise

Eskimos Fire Eagle Keys

EDMONTON (CP) — Eagle Keys was fired from his head coach's job with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference Wednesday night, ending 12 years' service with the club.

The unanimous action by the club's board of directors caught football fans here off guard. Only 24 hours earlier the directors had said it would be at least a week before they could consider Key's future with the team.

Walter Sprague, elected president of the Eskimos Tuesday night, said in making the announcement that the club is considering four or five other men for the post.

Of the decision, he added:

"The complete board met this afternoon for three hours and considered every factor involved. We decided we must start a new deal with our new board and this brought about new requirements.

"Whether we go up or down we were unanimous about this step and will sink or swim with it."

SHOCKS KEYS

Keys, 40, said the decision came as "a complete surprise and shock to me."

"But heck, I appreciate the fan support and the wonderful friends I've made during my stay. It's a new board and they've decided to make a new start.

"I hope to stay in football and will definitely try to find a post in Canada. I'm going to look around but see what's available and I'll be willing to accept almost anything—assistant, head coaching or what have you.

"I want to stay in Canada because I think I know more about the game here."

Keys was on the second year of a two-year contract. He guided Eskimos to three second-place finishes and in 1960 to the Grey Cup, where Eskimos lost to Ottawa Rough Riders.

In 1962, and again last year, Eskimos finished last in the five-team WFC.

Patient Priest Doesn't Look Back

'We've Always Come Up'--Bauer

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Rev. David Bauer has to be the most patient person in this Olympian town.

His Canadian Olympic hockey team is playing like a bunch of high school all-stars and he gives to panic, even with the second-to-last game against Czechoslovakia and Russia coming up.

"We've always come up," Father Bauer said Wednesday after Canada defeated weakster Finland 6-2 in the fifth round of the seven-game round-robin Olympic hockey championships.

That put Canada right up there at the top with the Russians, who were much more impressive as they walloped Germany 10-0 Wednesday.

Sweden and Czechoslovakia, still in the gold medal race, also were more impressive. The Swedes licked winless Switzerland 12-4 and the Czechs downed the United States 7-1.

Those games left the top of the standings like this:

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
Russia	5	0	0	47	6	10
Sweden	4	1	0	37	9	8

FIRST FORGETTING

"We aren't forgetting that night," said tight winger Bog Forhan of Newmarket, Ont., an old hand in international competition who played on Canada's losing teams in the 1960 Olympics and 1963 world championships.

"First of all we want to beat them on the scoreboard and then we wouldn't mind roughing them up."

Forhan, the only Canadian player besides goalie Seth Martin of Trail, B.C., with international experience, scored three of Canada's goals Wednesday. Ray Cadieux, 21, of Ste. Adele, Que., Terry Clancy, 26, of Ottawa, and team captain Hank Akervall, 26, of Port Arthur, scored the other Canadian goals.

The Russians blasted 100 shots at the German goalie, Ulrich Jansen with Alexander Almetov, Boris Malorov and Leonid Volkov each getting two goals. Konstantin Loktev got one goal and set up Almetov's pair.

Sven (Tumba) Johansson, Nils Nilsson, Uno Orhlund and Bert Norlander each scored twice for Sweden against the Swiss, while Josef Cerny was the Czechs' top man against the U.S. with a pair.

Quebec Peewee Tourney

'Doc Delivered' Hockey Team

By TED BLACKMAN

QUEBEC (CP) — No one ever questions the right of Dr. Jean Louis St. Hilaire to be manager of the Princeville, Que., peewee hockey team.

Of the 16 players on the club he assisted at the birth of 14 of them. Besides that, he pays for most of the team's expenses.

He missed out on the birth of two players, twins Jean - Guy and Jean-Marie Boisvert, because he was late and their mother couldn't wait. They only ones players the club scored as the team bowed 6-3 to Ottawa RCAF Rockcliffe in a class C peewee championship in the international peewee tournament.

"Maybe if I hadn't assisted at so many births we might have won," said the 43-year-old "old lags doctor" to the 4,800 residents of Princeville.

He's contributed about $700 out of his own pocket this year to support the team and agrees that at $35 a birth he is not running a profitable business when it comes to helping little hockey players in the world.

DIDN'T CHARGE

"But," he added, "it's worse than that because sometimes I didn't charge because the families couldn't afford it."

Rockcliffe's victory moved them into the semi-finals in their class against Acton, Que., which eliminated Kentville, N.S. 3-1. In the other contests, Thetford Mines, Que., beat Dunham, Que., which blanked Beauceville, Que., 5-0.

Thursday's way into the semis has been paved by defenceman Guy Lafleur, who ran his scoring streak to 10 goals in two games with a seven-goal performance as his team whipped Rockland, Ont., 13-3. Lafleur has a strong contender again for the most valuable player award.

LEADING RIDER

Jockey Jim Fitzsimmons of Calgary was the leading stakes-winning rider in Canada in 1963, with nine.

Bauer Boys Called 'Gentlemen'

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Canadian hockey teams playing abroad have always been accustomed to criticism in the European press, both for their conduct on and off the ice.

Now comes a fresh note from the Sport Kurier of West Germany in a report on the Olympic Games where Canada is represented in hockey by a national team coached by Rev. David Bauer from young players from across Canada.

Wilhelm Kaube, writing in the West German paper, says Father Bauer, a Roman Catholic priest, has brought to the Olympics a new type of Canadian hockey team: "A group of well-brought-up gentlemen."

Says Selection Olympics Site Part of Deal

PARIS (AP) — A French government official said Wednesday that Mexico City was selected for the 1968 Olympic Games as part of a deal ensuring Moscow's selection in 1972.

Maurice Herzog, secretary of state for youth and sports, made the comment while giving an Olympic report to the French cabinet.

Herzog told the cabinet that Mexico City was selected following an agreement between "the countries of America and the East, an agreement that foresees the designation of Moscow for the Olympics in 1972."

Herzog was attempting to explain why the French city of Lyon was not selected. He said the fact that the Olympic committee bypassed Lyon did not indicate any "diplomatic isolation" of France.

Canada's Bobsled Four Holds Lead

Gold Medal In Sight

By ROD CURRIE

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Canada's chances for an Olympic gold medal soared higher today when the Canadian No. 1 bobsled, piloted by Vic Emery, of Montreal, held its lead in the four-man bobsled after the third of four runs down the hazardous Igls course.

Emery's crew flashed down the course—slightly less than a mile—in one minute, 3.64 seconds for a total time of 3:10.45.

Austria's team headed by Erwin Thaler moved into second place with 1:03.74 and an aggregate of 3:11.33. Italy's No. 2 team, with Eugenio Monti at the wheel, slipped to third with 1:04.02 for 3:11.52. 3

In fourth place was Italy's No. 1 sled, piloted by Sergio Zardini. It had the best time in today's third heat, 1:03.59, for a total of 3:11.64, thereby moving up from sixth spot.

Back of Zardini came Germany's No. 1, with Franz Schelle at the reins. Schelle's sled did 1:04.15 for a tota of 3:11.86.

GORDON 10TH

Canada's No. 2 sled, driven by Lamont Gordon, a Harriston, Ont., native who lives in New Toronto City, was 10th with 1:05.06 and a total of 3:14.12.

The No. 1 Canadian sled had the best time ever on the 4,920-foot Igls Olympic chute in winning the first heat Wednesday in 1:02.90, and it was second in the second heat with 1:03.82.

Emery's brother John, a Toronto plastic surgeon, Peter Kirby of St. Jovite, Que., and Doug Anakin of Montreal completed the first two heats in 2:06.81—a margin of 89-100ths of a second over the Italian sled.

Today, the Canadians sidened their margin to 90-100ths of a second over the Italian sled that moved into the second spot, a tremendous margin in bobsled competition.

The Canadians thus would have to come through with only a fair time in the last run Friday when the fourth and final heat is run off to win Canada's first gold medal of the ninth Games, and its first in bobsledding history.

SNOW FALLS

The start of the third heat was delayed by a light snow fall during the night. All seven of Austrian soldiers was called out to clear the chute and get it ready for today's racing.

The snow came after four days of ice and made Wednesday's runs risky. There was much talk on the course and some teams accused the organizers of neglecting the track safety by holding two heats on the same day.

Today, the chute was considerably slower than on Wednesday and none of the 17 starters from 11 countries came anywhere near Emery's first-heat record of 1:02.90.

That mark chopped more than a full second off the course record of 1:04.07 set by Zardini in the 1963 world championships, in which the Emery sled finished ninth.

RAKE CONCRETE

Then the Belgian bob, the 11th down in the field of 17, hit the big ice bank at the Wiesel's Kettle curve so hard it laid bare the concrete for a seven - foot stretch.

Emery, jubilant over the Canadian showing, said he thinks they have a chance of winning the gold medal are "around 80 per cent."

He said the man to beat is still Monti. You can always count on him to do something fantastic on the last minute.'

Gordon, driver of Canada's No. 2 sled, was left with impaired vision when slush covered one of his goggles completely. He could see only with his left eye.

"Wow—driving with one eye means you're surely in trouble," he said. "I thought we were gonners."

Gordon put the blame...on track officials who this morning had the course sprayed with water and snow.

"The idea was fine but unfortunately the snow did not freeze and that's why it was thrown into my goggles," said Gordon.

The Winter Olympics entered their ninth day today with the finals scheduled in three events.

Three Clubs Bid For Howie Young

CHICAGO (AP) — San Francisco, Los Angeles and Chicago Blades of the Western Hockey League are among three minor league teams that have made bids for defenceman Howie Young, Chicago Black Hawks general manager Tommy Ivan said Wednesday.

Ivan said a decision on what to do with Young will be made soon. Young, who drew a five-game suspension recently for high sticking at Toronto, was waived by the five other National Hockey League clubs last week.

"Young has said he will quit hockey rather than play in the minors, but Ivan said "he hasn't told me that."

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said Wednesday that the Russian and Czechoslovakian hockey teams engaged in a deliberate program to incite the Canadian team and make its players angry while the Canadians were making their European tour prior to the Olympic Games.

But the Canadians did not take the bait, the minister told a press conference following a visit to the Olympic Games at Innsbruck, Austria. Miss LaMarsh did not accompany the Canadians on the European tour.

"There was a deliberate program to incite the Canadians by the Czechs and Russians," said Miss LaMarsh. "Things were said in an attempt to make the Canadians mad."

The attempt to incite the Canadians was made because Canadian hockey players have a reputation for roughness, said Miss LaMarsh.

Canada and Russia now lead the hockey competition at the Olympics. The Canadians play the Czechs Friday and the Russians Saturday.

Miss LaMarsh did not say specifically when the attempt to incite the Canadians was made. Later, a spokesman in her office said she was referring to the tour preceding the Olympic Games.

She said Canada might have been selected as host for the 1968 Winter Olympics if Central and Southern Europe members of the International Olympic Committee had been present in Innsbruck to hear Canada tell its bid for the 1968 Games to Grenoble, France, by only three votes.

She also said she heard suggestions there that the Russians took the position that they could promote their own private interests better by having the Games in France rather than in Canada.

Miss LaMarsh said that politics are not supposed to enter into Olympic matters and added that the Olympics "may or may not be true."

She said another reason Banff was not selected was because many countries felt there were too many major sports events booked in North and South America in the next few years. The 1966 alpine world ski championships are to be held in Chile, the 1967 Pan-American Games in Winnipeg and the 1968 Summer Olympics in Mexico.

Secondary School Athletes

MIKE CHATLAND
By Robert Saeffelia
(Quinte S.S.)

JOHN HAYMAN
(Metro S.S.)

Since Mike Chatland came to Quinte three years ago, he has been an outstanding athlete on all school teams.

Before he came to Quinte, Mike went to school in Burlington, where he played two years of junior football. He helped his team to the S.O.S.S.A. finals the first year there and to the title the next. He also played hardball, basketball, was on the junior relay team and belonged to Boys' Athletics.

In his first year at Quinte he played on the senior football and basketball teams, and joined the Key Club. Mike also plays on a local baseball team. Last year he was a member of the C.O.S.S.A. senior football champions. This year he played senior football and is presently on the senior basketball team.

Mike is 6 ft. in height, weighs 180 lbs. and is 19 years of age. After completing grade 13 he plans to take a Phys. Ed. course at Queen's.

John is a fine young athlete with a bright future in many forms of competitive sport. He is an accomplished gymnast and a solid performer on the Moira Bantam basketball team. To date his greatest athletic fame has come through his participation in both cross-country and track and field. John seems to revel in the hard-gutted finish in running distances of one mile or better. He holds two records in the Bay of Quinte tracks and field books as well as being a member of two Quinte cross country championship teams. Last year running in the Ken Colling run, for senior boys, placed 9th. This fall as a member of the Moira Junior cross country team he was undefeated in several dual meets and helped to bring honors to the school when the team placed 2nd in the All-Ontario High School championships. Many things are expected of John as he progresses up through the Intermediate and Senior teams.

They're Watched Too Closely

Nobody Steals Clocks Here!

By JIM BECKIE

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) The theme song of the 1964 Olympics will be "As Time Goes By."

Or maybe it's "Time On My Hands," or possibly "Give Me Five Minutes More."

Clock watchers in the office secretarial pool have nothing on Winter Olympic spectators.

Every event is a race against time. The first competitor across the finish line might be the winner. And then again, he might not be.

This sort of thing could bring back flag-pole sitting.

THE DEADLY 10,000

Take 5,000 - metre speed skating. Almost the only thing deadlier, with deep apologies to our Scandinavian friends who think it's the greatest thing since sliced bread, is 10,000 - metre speed skating. That takes twice as long.

We had the 5,000 Wednesday. The big treat, 10,000, comes Friday.

In these two crowd-pleasing events, the athletes skate around in pairs, while the crowd, if any, watches the best and watches the clock.

Then they wind the clock up again and start off another pair.

At the end, they check the time cards and give out medals.

WHERE'S THE WINNER?

The winner is probably home soaking his feet in a warm tub. Or he might be off watching a movie.

These races are so long they could time them with a sun dial. But even so, the boys start off one by one and struggle home the same way.

Even skiing is run by the numbers. It is the best in the field churn down one at a time, compare times, shake hands, queue for pictures and go home, along with the audience.

Hours later, some shivering Swiss or lonely Lebanese makes the last trip down, to be greeted by nobody but the timekeeper and the night watchman.

Then there is the biathlon, which is skiing's answer to the decathlon marathon. It's 10 miles through the snow, with stops to shoot at targets.

If you miss a target you lose two minutes.

A HERO'S FLIGHT

Imagine the plight of the Russian hero who lost two bullets in the snow.

He arrived at the final shooting gallery, dropped off three shots and began searching frantically through his pockets for those other two bullets.

He poked around in the snow for a while, then rifled his pockets again. By that time another fellow clomped up and the Russian had to newcomer if he had a couple of bullets to spare.

The Russian was turned down flatly.

Eventually he noticed that time was wasting and skied on.

He got seventh place—and went straight out to buy a new cartridge belt.

Trenton Jrs. Defeat Gananoque

Perhaps the Trenton Juniors learned something by watching when the Legion Juniors pinch hit for them recently and won three games in the OGA Eastern Junior Hockey League.

At any rate the Juniors played for themselves in Trenton last night and came up with a surprising 6-3 victory over the Gananoque Juniors.

The loss stopped Gananoque from climbing into a tie for first place, with Napanee and left them alone in third place.

The win was number five recorded by Trenton but was actually the junior club's first since the opening game of the schedule back on November 13.

One game is scheduled for Gananoque.

Following is the league standing, including all games played to date.

The Big Seven

Stan Mikita, National Hockey League scoring leader, picked up two assists Wednesday night and increased his margin in the point-getting race to six points from five.

The Chicago centre now has 29 goals and 40 assists.

Montreal centre Jean Beliveau came up empty-handed Wednesday night but remained in third spot with 56, although his safety margin was reduced sharply.

New York's Andy Bathgate got two assists for a points total of 54 and Chicago's Kenny Wharram scored two goals and helped set-up a third for a total of 53. Bathgate leads in assists with 41.

The rest of the big seven remained unchanged. New York's Rod Gilbert and Phil Goyette rank sixth and seventh respectively with 48 and 47 points.

Won't Pay Stadium 'Dry' Costs

VANCOUVER (CP) — It cost $12,386 to dry up the Empire Stadium field for the Grey Cup game last Nov. 30, and the Canadian Football League says the stadium owners are going to have to pay for it.

The Pacific National Exhibition, which asked the league to share the cost, now has a reply from CFL commissioner G. Sydney Halter.

". . . Your field has a faulty drainage system and it was by reason of that fault that the field was in such a mess a week before the game," Halter wrote.

"Accordingly, your present suggestion amounts to this league being asked to share costs necessitated by the failure on your part to have a properly drained field."

The commissioner said he is recommending against aid to the PNE.

The letter was brought up Wednesday at a meeting of PNE directors, but they point-edly limited discussion of a letter from the CFL's British Columbia Lions.

The Lions want to take over operation of Empire Stadium from the PNE.

Exhibition president H. W. Mulholland said simply that directors are always interested in views of tenants.

The Lions said that if they hadn't pressed the matter, the PNE would have done nothing more to the field in the week preceding the Grey Cup than to move the tarpaulins on and off.

Coach Forgot To Insert Knotholes

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs proved something Tuesday that manager-coach Punch Imlach and many of their fans have suspected for a long time.

They can hit opposition goalies with their shots.

On the eve of a game here with league - leading Montreal Canadiens, Imlach had his charges out for target practice.

He rigged up a plywood board considerably smaller than the goalmouth opening, hung it from the crossbar and instructed his National Hockey League professionals to shoot at it.

"Hit it the same way you walk in and hit the opposition goalies," he said.

What he had in mind was that they should shoot the puck between the plywood and the goal posts.

Unfortunately, the net result was a severe battering of the board.

MANAGER DIES

PORT DOVER (CP) — A pee wee hockey game was cancelled Wednesday night after a team manager, Wilfred Hare, 41, collapsed and died of a heart attack. Hare was manager of a team from Delhi which had come to the Port Dover Community Arena to play. He was sitting on a bench beside the rink when he had the attack.

PLAYER FINED

NEW YORK (AP) — President Walter Kennedy of the National Basketball Association fined Jim Loscutoff of Boston Celtics $100 Wednesday as a result of Loscutoff's ejection from Tuesday night's game against St. Louis at Madison Square Garden. Referee Mendy Rodolph ordered Loscutoff out of the game for using profanity. That cost the player $50. The additional $50 fine was for invading the officials' dressing room.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

By GORDIE HOWE

After a recent game in Toronto, Alex Delvecchio tipped me off on a little fault I had developed that was preventing me from getting my shot away.

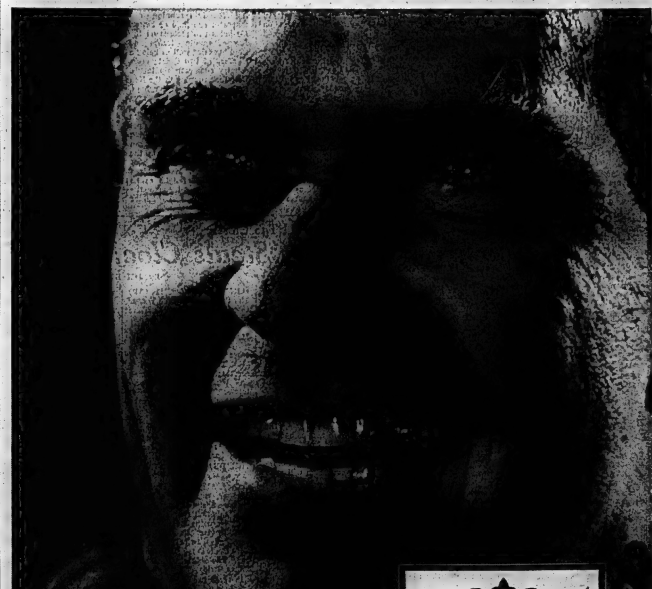
On one occasion, the puck was rolling a little bit on me. Instead of keeping skating and getting control and getting a little closer in to get the shot away, I stopped skating.

As a result, a fellow came up behind me and gave my stick a little touch. When I shot all I got was a little blooper to the net.

In my own mind, I had the idea I was having stick trouble. Instead, as Alex pointed out, one of the reasons I wasn't getting the shot away was because I was quitting skating.

I'd coast and square myself off on both legs, get set as it were, before getting my shot away. This little delay in getting my shot away also was giving the defencemen, as well as the goalie that much time to get in front of me shot.

These are little habits you get into, without realizing it. Your coach and your teammates can tip you off on this to help you correct them.



Another habit I develop on occasion is a tendency of going to the left too much, or to the right too much. When you develop such a habit, you're studied.

For instance, if I'm going to my left oftener than usual, which is the easiest thing for a right winger to do, all the fellow has to do is play more or less my left side to intercept me.

When I come down the ice and start left, he's anticipated my shift. There he is smack in front of me. I can't avoid running into him. So now he's got me guessing as to how I tipped him off.

Sometimes the breaks of the game can cause you to have mental battle with yourself. For instance, you're standing in one is better. You move and the puck goes to the spot you just vacated. In time, the law of averages will take care of you.

a lot more to look forward to

He Builds Computers

Fife's Wee Willie Band Is a Scientific Genius

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

KIRKCALDY, Scotland (CP) The tousle-haired young chap with his ja'kes seemed almost apologetic.

"I thought it would be complicated to build a computer, but of course it's only a matter of plugging away at it," he said, uncovering a fearsome looking contraption.

Then William Band, 16, explained—in the painstaking manner he is forced to adopt with dense adults — how his table-model computer includes memory and calculating units. It can add figures up to 31 and 15 and multiply up to seven times seven.

"The calculating unit is my own invention," was the next conversation-stopper from this unusual high school pupil, a schoolteacher's son.

And for good measure: "Actually, this machine is more efficient than the computer I built last year."

Band, who wants to be a teacher like his father, was obviously unimpressed by his feat. But physics teacher Arthur W. J. Brooks later had an abruptly eloquent comment:

"He's a genius."

Yet the youth's remarkable progress must reflect in some measure County Fife's attitude toward teaching, regarded as among the most progressive in Britain.

PRIME WEAPON

Education is seen as a prime weapon for prosperity in this ancient royal burgh, whose population of 53,000 makes it the biggest city in Fife.

Kirkcaldy is included in the central Scotland area designated for development under the British government's new regional small plan. Big increases will be made in public expenditures to help the economy but local authorities regard advanced approaches to education and training as essential for attracting new industries and reducing unemployment.

"The explosion of knowledge has created an entirely new educational problem and what is happening is a revolution in the approach to study," said Dr. Douglas M. McIntosh, county education director.

"Secondary education should have some relation to the jobs the students will be doing later."

McIntosh, who visits the University of New Brunswick every three years as a lecturer and admires Canadian and United States techniques, told a reporter his aim in Fife County is two-fold:

1. To create an educational environment in which each individual can develop his full potential.

2. To equip "each individual according to his needs and abilities and to meet the needs of the community, that is, Scotland."

This involves "loosening the shackles" of a highly academic tradition. Brooks, for instance, teaches Bill Band according to a physics textbook not yet written.

Band put together his computer not during school hours but on Monday nights—"science club nights"—when pupils vie with each other in experiments including radar. It's purely voluntary but Band and his mates have been working diligently on their projects since August.

Dr. Alexander McLaren, high school deputy rector, explained the workings of a 22-booth "language laboratory" in which pupils have been learning French and German by phonetics with tape recordings, monitored by a teacher. At night, incidentally, this facility is used by Kirkcaldy businessmen.

McLaren also outlined a plan under which nearly all the county's 2,000 school teachers are going back to the lecture room as pupils to learn new things—and learn how to pass them on.

A Kirkcaldy school was refitted with equipment in science and industrial technology and there the teachers—relieved of their pupils for a number of days each term — are being brought up to date.

The effects of some of the new techniques have not yet been felt in the outer world—the pupils have not emerged from school—but McLaren said he is convinced school performance itself proves their value.

Principal W. Cousin of Kirkcaldy Technical College, being rebuilt at a cost of £1,000,000 ($2,800,000)—gave a rundown of courses that vary from a few weeks to six years, sometimes designed specifically for particular industries. Chefs, for instance, are being trained for the booming Scottish tourist trade.

The air of enthusiasm engendered by all this was typified by schoolboy Band's comment about science club nights:

"We pull a few guns and tea, and then get cracking."

Scout Leaders Prepare For Jet Age Recruiting

OTTAWA (CP)—A swift evolution in changing the face of the Boy Scout movement in Canada as scout leaders race against time to attract today's sophisticated, science - minded youngsters.

"We're getting into the jet generation," says an official at scout headquarters here.

"Scouting in Canada is striving to keep pace with the space age," proclaims an official publication.

The aim is to reach more boys and teenagers while dispelling the popular stereotype of the scout as a naive kid in a silly suit who peddles apples and ties knots.

Adults participating in the 1964 Boy Scout Week, Feb. 16-22, will realize more than ever that the stereotype bears no relation to the facts.

Today's scouts like big challenges: They operate ham radio stations, go skin-diving and gliding, pilot gliders, climb mountains and undergo army-style survival training.

A new activity being introduced this year is a competition for .22 - rifle marksmen. Scout troops across the country will shoot at identical targets and mail them to a panel of judges in Ottawa. The champion will be declared in September.

STRESS FITNESS

The whole program of scout activities is being revamped to place more emphasis on new physical education techniques.

The old "Be Prepared" motto and lily emblem have given way in scout literature to a new theme, "Fitness through scouting," and a new triangular symbol featuring two silhouettes of the familiar spread-eagle arms position.

Even the traditional uniform based on Boer War styles is under attack. Scout troops were given the right to adopt long trousers in the fall of 1963 and roughly half of the 12,000 troops in Canada have made the transition from knee pants.

A special committee is considering further uniform changes, involving styles, colors and materials. Troops will be permitted to choose from several types of uniforms eventually, but the transition will take years.

Scout leaders emphasize that the basic aims of scouting are unchanged from Lord Baden-Powell's original formula: the methods are being updated.

The new program seeks to provide "total fitness." This takes in physical training, hygiene, getting along with others, character building and skills, and "emotional fitness" — building character through competition and individual effort.

PLAN NEW DIVISION

Another innovation now in the planning stage is the creation of a fourth scout division for boys aged about 14 to 16. The present three divisions will be added to the Wolf Cubs, Scouts and Rovers.

"We felt that the present age span of 11 to 17 years for scouts was too wide," an official explained. "Boys aged 11 and 17 don't mix much."

A note of urgency underlining the changes is provided by the rate of membership growth, which has dropped steadily from 12 per cent in 1955 to 2.4 per cent in 1962.

Officials hope the new program and the new magazine Canadian Boy, launched in January with a subscription list of 200,000, will reverse the membership trend.

Latest statistics show a cub membership of 172,000, a scout membership of 109,000 and a total of 38,000 adult leaders.

Counting Rover and Lone Scouts, the membership in the 8-23 age bracket totals about 322,000.

The scout movement now has a world membership of about 9,500,000 in 91 countries.

PROMOTES TOURISM

LISBON (AP) — The Portuguese government has earmarked $18,500,000 to promote tourist trade this year. Portugal's tourist trade brought in $50,000,000 last year, more than triple the figure for 10 years earlier.

Sport Snapshots

By GERRY McNEIL

QUEBEC (CP)—The only Canadian team in the American Hockey League appears headed for the playoffs for the first time in its five seasons.

In fact, Quebec Aces, rejuvenated by two National Hockey League veterans, are good bets to finish first in the five-team Eastern Division of the nine-club league.

Early this season, Aces were following the pattern of previous years in the league, losing more than they were winning. Home crowds seldom got above the 5,000 mark in a beautiful coliseum that can seat 10,000.

Even when Lorne (Gump) Worsley, the colorful little goalie, came down from Montreal Canadiens in November, Aces still couldn't seem to shake a combination of lethargy and confusion.

Then Doug Harvey arrived Dec. 1 and that night 9,871 fans turned out to see the Aces and the man rated by some as the greatest defenceman of all time. Quebec lost 3-2 to Hershey Bears, who then were division leaders. Two nights later Aces lost again to Hershey in overtime. But since then they've been next to unbeatable at home and almost as successful on the road.

FOUND A LEADER

Wayne Hicks, chunky right winger, has burned into the top scorer in the AHL and such forwards as Terry Gray, Leon Rochefort, Claland Mortens, Cliff Dineen and Ed Hoekstra are clicking.

Worsley is playing well and his shouted directions have helped allay the panic that often seized his mates when they were hemmed into their own zone.

Harvey has become the team leader. The 39-year-old Montreal, whose hefty salary apparently soared all other NHL clubs after a couple of seasons with New York Rangers, is sought out by his mates and is the centre of attention of the kids who wait at the arena door after games.

"He has stabilized the club," says genial manager Robert Marleau. "The fans like him and everybody is playing better."

Attendance has averaged 7,500 since Harvey arrived, hitting a peak of 10,169 Jan. 12 when Aces were fighting for first place. The club is packing them in around the league too, attracting standing crowds on recent trips to Hershey and Providence.

Harvey seems to like Quebec City. It's close to Montreal, where his family lives and he says there's "a hockey atmosphere here."

"Except at this rink," he said. "It was built for hockey. Look at the big sheet of ice, the individual seats."

The $4,000,000 Coliseum was built for hockey — specifically for Jean Beliveau in 1949 when Punch Imlach's incomparable junior was the hero of the city.

Quebec waited 15 years for another idol and has finally found him.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — On January 29 a joint meeting of the executives of the Afternoon and Evening groups of Thomasburg U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. E. Prindle, president of the afternoon group. Various activities for the year were discussed and plans were made to carry on same.

Mrs. Muriel Blakely is spending a three weeks' vacation in Florida.

Mr. John Druggen of Toronto spent the past weekend with relatives here.

Several students and friends from Thomasburg attended the "Rose Garden Ball" a semi-formal dance in the Tweed High School auditorium on Friday evening.

At the recent annual meeting of the Ontario Farmers' Union Tweed Local 167 held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Murphy an election took place, at which time Mr. Joseph Schwager was elected president.

The Boy Scout group conducted a waste paper and pop bottle drive in Thomasburg on Saturday, February 1.

A large number was present at the skating party held on the pond at the home of Mr. E. Geen of Roslin last Saturday evening.

Slick Pioneering Boy's Magazine Has Instant Circulation Success

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) Canadian Boy, a new national magazine sponsored by the scout movement, is off to a promising start with an assured circulation of 300,000.

The slick, full-color pioneer issue came off the press early in January in Toronto after four years of planning and research by scout headquarters here.

Managing director George N. Reeve reports that letters and telegrams indicate readers, advertisers and professional journalists all were favorably impressed with the first issue.

Stressing physical fitness and do-it-yourself features, the magazine is aimed at boys eight to 18.

"Canadian Boy is not a house organ," Mr. Reeve emphasizes. "It is a magazine for all Canadian boys."

Circulation will be exclusively by mail subscription this year but the editors hope to develop facilities later for news stand sales across the country.

The initial 32-page issue—for Spring and February — includes a fiction piece by Scott Young, Toronto Globe and Mail columnist, about a 10 - year - old hockey player trying to break into the National Hockey League, and an illustrated feature on how to "train your dog the Mountie way." Another tells how to combine a scout winter camping trip with ice-fishing, how to get in shape for skiing, and what it's like to be an astronautical engineer.

There's a comic strip relating the story of scout founder Lord Baden - Powell — disclosing that his school pals nicknamed him "sailing towel" — a message from the chief scout, Governor-General Vanier, and regular columns on books, cameras, records and stamps.

The next issue, due to appear early in March, will feature an article on boys' clothes—what to wear.

The magazine, which aims to become a monthly in May and pay its own way, was delayed several times by financial difficulties. But last year scouts across the country collected $150,000 in a special drive to finance pre-publication costs.

The first 300,000 mail subscriptions go largely to cubs, scouts and troop leaders. Scout subscriptions are compulsory and a token charge of 25 cents a year has been added to membership fees.

For non - scout readers the subscription fee is $2 a year or 50 cents a copy.

Scout leaders hope the magazine will attract interest in the movement and stimulate recruiting of new members.

The periodical is edited in Ottawa by Alex M. Watson, 37, and Norman Brown, 37, both formerly with Maclean-Hunter Publications in Toronto.

Advertising manager is Jack Young, another Maclean-Hunter veteran, operating in Toronto. All three are former scouts.

SEND UP ROCKETS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Grenade-firing rockets were sent aloft Tuesday night from Fort Churchill, Man., and Wallops Island, Va., to take readings on a seasonal phenomenon in the upper atmosphere called the "warming trend." Space scientists here said the temperature shift at high altitudes is attributed to unexplained actions of the sun.

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert E. Sherwood's 1938 play Abe Lincoln in Illinois has lost none of its impact, timeliness and poignancy.

The play was shown by NBC Wednesday night with never once for the original, despite the necessity of adapting to rigid time requirements. Raymond Robards Jr., played the brooding Lincoln with great sensitivity and authority. Toronto actress Kate Reid developed Mary Todd from a vivacious girl to an explosive shrew so well that she kept the sympathy of the viewer.

The 90 - minute production didn't provide enough time to cover the events of the 30 years up to 1860 and still plumb the soul of the unhappy man who was so reluctant to accept his destiny.

But it was altogether an impressive and enlightening theatrical experience.

The one glaring weakness was the total motivation that threw Lincoln back to Mary Todd after he had run away from her at the wedding ceremony.

"WOMEN OF THE WORLD"
Holding until Saturday

Months of Filming Reveal Female Facts

In shooting "Women of the World," a Joseph E. Levine presentation, now at the Park Theatre, the director, Gualtiero Jacopetti and his camera crew, headed by Antonio Climati and Mario Prosperi, exposed more than 128 hours—or a total of 350,000 feet—of Technicolor film for later editing, over a period of four months. Among the unusual scenes revealed are: the notorious "Window Girls" of Hamburg; "the children of the night" in Hong Kong; the pearl-diving women of Japan; the warrior women of the South Pacific; the island where clothing is forbidden; primitive rituals of Borneo and Africa; and an operation to increase the size of a woman's breasts.

Commenting on his ambitious film project, Jacopetti noted: "We make a film about women in a gangrous undertaking. In a world commanded by men, but in which women generally make the decision, it might be unwise to upset them. However, we have thought fit to risk this light heart, for we like women very much. I and my associates have faith in women, in their tolerance, in their patience, in their spirit of sacrifice and, above all, in their sense of humor."

Tonight and Friday Complete shows at 7.10 and 9.15 p.m. Saturday, 4.45 - 7.20 and 9.30 p.m.

Campbellford News

Council Allowed To Re-apportion Assessment

CAMPBELLFORD — Permission to study and perhaps re-apportion the assessment for public school tax purposes, properties in Seymour township within school sections, was granted council in a letter from the Ontario Department of Education. Tuesday night. Council emphasized several weeks ago that the portion of school taxation within the township of Seymour did not contribute its fair share to the cost of operation of the public schools in the town, attended by children in both the town and the township.

Assessors of the two municipalities will study the assessments this year, and if their findings are accepted, the figures will be used in assessing taxes to be raised in 1965. About 28 children from Seymour township attended the Campbellford schools. School section 8 is comprised of all of the town of Campbellford and a portion of Seymour township. Any apportioning of assessment for taxation is permissible in any year divisible by five, but permission must be granted by the department of Education. The re-apportioning to be carried out at this time next year.

Also at the town council meeting this week, the appointment of Reginald B. Mayhee as the Chamber of Commerce appointee to the Lake Ontario Development Association was ratified.

The Campbellford Lions Club was granted permission to use the parking lot for a three-day carnival to be held July 16, 17 and 18.

'Seven Days in May' Likely To Score Success as Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Seven Days in May, the latest in a cycle of films about high politics, we are asked to believe that the United States joint chiefs of staff conspire at some future date to depose a president.

Fantastic? Yet the plot seems chillingly realistic. The film is absorbing throughout its two-hour length and almost unbearably tense during much of it.

Seven Days in May is not without its faults, but they do not come from the actors. All perform with high skill, lending conviction to a tale that might easily have been preposterous.

The ingeniously devised yarn of the Fletcher Knebel-Charles W. Valley II novel topped the best-seller lists for many weeks, and the film version is likely to score equal success.

No American actor can convey more sincerity, practical sturdiness, and he makes an ideal president — philosophical about politics, but fiercely jealous of his constitutional rights, capable of decisive action when the situation calls for it, will not stoop to blackmail, even when it would solve his peril.

BURTON IS GOOD

Edmond O'Brien as the senator from Georgia, and the president's close ally, combines charm with a touch of menace, and his humanness is ever apparent.

The nominal stars, Burt Lancaster and Kirk Douglas, perform with their usual skill as the egomaniacal general who is the suspicious marine. Ava Gardner supplies welcome femininity in her brief scenes.

If Seven Days in May fails to achieve greatness, the fault lies in the director rather than Frankenheimer and writer Rod Serling. Many of their buildup scenes are beautifully done, the climactic elements were allowed to become diffuse and weak.

Frankenheimer fell into two traps: A fascination with gimmickry and an over - use of symbolism, as when the president lectures on democracy with stacked books.

Serling's script pulls no punches; a character equates the president with General "Senator McCarthy and General Walker." But Serling is also skilled in the use of subtlety.

AT THE BELLE — Charlton Heston, Ava Gardner, David Niven, Leo Genn, Sanders, Telly Savalas, Sir Ralph Richardson and a cast in Panavision. $15, $15, Doors 1.30, 7.30. Fri. & Sat. 2.15, 5.15, 8.15.

AT THE PARK — In Technicolor, "Women of the World." Shows at 7.10 and 9.15 — Last complete show 9.15.

WEAR HEAVY KILTS

Kilts worn by the famous Evzones warriors of Greece sometimes contain more than 40 yards of material.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For February 7

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Associates may be enthusiastic, but not practical. Stick to your own counsel. Avoid rushing, scattering forces. Be patient. Resist that saying no sometimes takes courage.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Your great sensitivity enables you to "see" You can obtain extra information today. You know the answers without knowing why. Trust "inner voice." Emotional judgment good.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Rise to meet challenges. Remarks made by associates need answering. But maintain dignity, strength. Keep to your own opinions. Be true to principles. Protect "image."

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Diplomacy required. So is sympathetic attitude. Temptation to shout, cast first stone indicated. Resist it. Be mature. Remember Golden Rule. Be kind to family member who errs.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Good lunar aspect coincides with chance for greater self-expression. Also encourages change, travel, romance. Vital day. You can feel more "alive."

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Great strides can be made — if you are confident. Your ideas, desires are unusual. But you must not be afraid of change. You are due to break from rut — break could be sudden. Be prepared!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Expect the best — stress optimism. Utilize emotional energy in constructive channels. Plan for putting ideas into action, transforming hopes into realities.

Scorpio (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21): You've asked for certain opportunities. Now, you can have your chance. Don't be overly timid. Take giant strides. Say what you think — put thoughts into action. Stress self-assurance.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Pressures today. But you will come out on top. Those in high places act strangely. Your work, efforts subject to misinterpretation. Stick to your guns. High cycle assures ultimate success.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Don't try to "fight city hall." Go with the tide. Take your time — observe rules. Find out how best to serve. Key is being gracious. Bring sense of humor to forefront.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Highlight Rasputin to kind words, gestures. But keep feet on ground! Means know the difference between sincerity and false flattery. Key is thoughtfulness.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Go slow. Be sure of facts, figures. Challenge due to present finale. Toss off needless fear, but remain cautious. You can impress higher-ups by being thorough.

If today is your birthday . . . you are considered an introvert. But your ideas soar; your imagination is great. Engage in creative pursuit or hobby. Don't be tied down with trivial details.

General Tendencies: Persons regarded as friends have "failing out."

Rape Charged Against Four Perth Area Men

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Four Perth area men have been charged with breaking into a district home last Friday and raping a 20-year-old crippled girl who was alone there at the time.

The men—Harold Robert Dowdall, 21, Gerald Joseph Vincent, 21, William George Young, 23, and Douglas James Mooney, 19 —were remanded to Feb. 11 when they appeared in court Wednesday.

Police said the girl, a polio victim, is completely defenseless.

Benjamin Franklin and many other great men got their first business training as newspaperboys. Men whose names make headlines in today's newspapers . . . men like J. Edgar Hoover, Walt Disney, Lowell Thomas, Bing Crosby, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Astronaut Virgil I. Grissom.

And in tomorrow's headlines, will be many of today's newspaperboys.

Why? Because today's newspaperboy is learning the principles of business early in his career. This Junior Independent Merchant buys his newspapers at wholesale and sells them at retail to his customers. Just like any other businessman, he learns that in order to make a profit he must keep accurate records, collect and pay promptly, and plan his time.

Equally important, he learns to meet people easily and how to close a sale. He finds that dependability, punctuality, courtesy, and thrift are more than just words and must be put into practice if he is to succeed.

Today's newspaperboy measures up to the proven standards for success which prepare him for leadership tomorrow.

Former Finance Minister Opposes Motion Advocating Tax Cuts at PC Convention

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — A surprise revolt against a resolution that would have put the Progressive Conservatives on record as advocating income tax cuts highlighted the windup of the party's annual meeting Wednesday.

Delegates spent nearly seven hours putting the convention's stamp of approval on two dozen policy resolutions.

George Nowlan, former finance minister, ignited a flurry of opposition when he took over a floor microphone and voiced strenuous opposition to the tax section of a resolution on economic matters.

This section proposed a five-per-cent reduction in personal and corporation income tax rates "in all categories," higher tax credits for corporation dividend payments and an investment tax credit of eight per cent a year for two years.

Mr. Nowlan suggested any policy on taxes be delayed until the royal commission on taxation makes its report.

Lesser flurries broke out over such varied issues as a federal youth ministry, bilingualism, feed grain policy and membership in the Organization of American States.

The idea of a youth department was thrown out, despite appeals from the younger section of the party.

WANT SERVICE BILINGUAL

On bilingualism, the party favored the encouragement of bilingualism in the federal civil service. A bid to stiffen this policy by making it mandatory for federal employees who deal with the public to speak both French and English was defeated.

Mr. Nowlan led the move which wiped out a resolution's reference to the fact that the Liberals have not carried out a promise to join the Organization of American States.

This could be interpreted as meaning the Conservative support Canadian membership in the OAS, Mr. Nowlan said. But he personally opposed joining OAS and other speakers agreed with him.

Delegates refused to shift policy on the subject of a flag and national anthem, adopting the attitude of the former Diefenbaker government that a federal - provincial conference should decide on these.

An amendment urging a distinctive Canadian flag and adoption of O Canada as the national anthem was turned down 2 to 1 in an open vote.

AGREE ON DEFENCE

Defence policy was adopted in three minutes, a sharp contrast to last year's convention which featured a long wrangle over nuclear warheads. Main point in the policy is maintenance of strong reserve units.

Among other matters covered in the resolutions adopted by the party:

Economic — More incentives for exports, a study of combines and resale price maintenance legislation, economies in government as suggested by the royal commission on government organization.

Cultural—More funds for the Canada Council, a ministry of science, an annual athletic competition, youth camps to promote recreation and training.

Agriculture—More programs under the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act, extension of the principles of Maritime marshlands reclamation and Prairie farm rehabilitation to Ontario and Quebec.

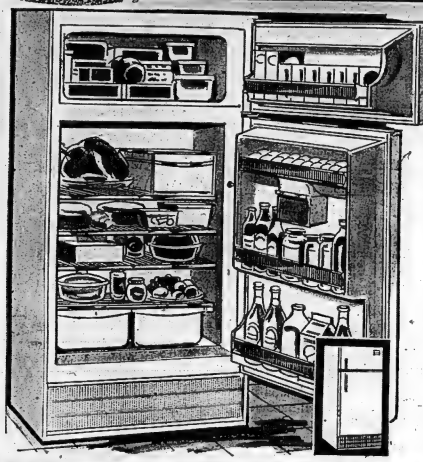
Health and welfare—Grants to the provinces to meet the medical care needs of the less fortunate, new facilities for the care and treatment of the mentally ill, funds for social and cultural centres for Indians in the cities, a public inquiry into a national pension plan.

Labor — Encourage industry and labor to co-operate in setting and achieving specific economic targets.

External — Increased foreign aid, especially to Commonwealth nations in Asia and Africa; closer commercial and economic ties with other Commonwealth countries, the West Indies and Latin America.

Transportation — Adopt recommendations of the MacPherson royal commission, reducing regulation of the transport industry to a minimum.

Parliament — Strengthen the authority of the Speaker by making his post permanent, expedite the business of Parliament, set a mandatory retirement age for senators.



Urban development — Provide mortgages at five-per-cent interest for homes of less than 1,100 square feet floor space for low - income families, government - insured mortgages on older homes, call a national conference on slum-clearing.

Mining—Incentives for the development of new mines, more market for gold.

Guantanamo Can Hold Out Says Johnson

President Voices U.S. Position in Cuban Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson confers with his military and diplomatic advisers here today after voicing the U.S. position in the new crisis with Cuba.

Johnson, in a speech in New York Thursday night, said the Castro government's action in cutting the flow of fresh water to the U.S. Guantanamo naval base on Cuba had been expected sooner or later and contingency plans are already in force to keep the big base supplied "indefinitely."

Originally Havana announced it was shutting off all water to the big base until the United States released 36 Cuban fishermen arrested for sailing into U.S. territorial waters.

But at a press conference Thursday night, Premier Castro said Cuba had no desire "to hurt a man, including women and children" and would therefore supply the base with water from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. daily.

But he stressed the cut-off would remain in effect for the rest of the time and that "we are ready to fight before accepting humiliation and blackmail".

Seemingly a greater threat than a water shortage was the danger the new American-Cuban face-off would grow and intensify. Havana said cold war rivalry of the United States and Russia.

ISSUES WARNING

The Soviet Union has warned that the seizure Sunday of the Russian fishing boats off Florida could lead to disastrous consequences.

Thus there was speculation Castro might be setting the stage for a new demand the United States abandon its base on his island.

Johnson said the state department had clearly established the fishing vessels were inside U.S. territorial waters.

He said the Cuban boat reports reported this fact by radio to Havana just before the arrest occurred," he added.

The president said that since Castro allied himself with Russia the United States has known "that he would some day cut off the water to Guantanamo base. We have made such plans for such an eventuality."

SHIP WATER IN

Johnson said there was enough water at the base to last 12 days and "water . . . will be supplied indefinitely by ships from Fort Everglades, Florida,

Chevrier Beginning New Career

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Lionel Chevrier is beginning his new career as Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom even before setting foot in London.

The silver-haired veteran of nearly 30 years in the political arena, will take part in discussions here Monday and Tuesday between Canadian leaders and British Prime Minister Douglas-Home and Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler.

The former justice minister, 60, is spending a busy week in a temporary office at the external affairs department, preparing for the talks and his London posting.

Department officials are briefing him on Canadian-British relations in general and on trade matters in particular, since bilateral and international trade barriers are expected to figure prominently in the discussions with Sir Alec.

"This will be an entirely new experience for me and a happy one, I'm sure," Mr. Chevrier said in an interview Thursday.

HAS GENERAL IDEA

His 10 years' experience in the cabinet of prime ministers Mackenzie King, Louis St. Laurent and Lester Pearson and his discussions with external affairs officials have given him a general idea of his new duties, he said.

But in the talks between Prime Minister Douglas-Home, Mr. Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin, Mr. Chevrier will be mostly listening.

A career politician since he entered the Commons in 1925 as member for Stormont, Ont., he is watching from the sidelines as campaigning draws to a close in the Montreal byelections of Laurier and St. Denis Monday.

Retiring as Mr. Pearson's Quebec lieutenant and chief organizer in the province, he resigned as MP for Laurier Dec. 27 but stayed on in the cabinet until last Monday.

He served as acting prime minister during Mr. Pearson's January visits to Paris, Washington and Florida and briefed

Broken Promise Charged

TORONTO (CP) — A Liberal member of the legislature Thursday accused Labor Minister Rowntree of breaking a promise to hospital workers at Trenton, Ont., and demanded the minister's resignation.

James Trotter (L — Toronto Parkdale) told the legislature Mr. Rowntree either tricked the hospital workers or his advice was not accepted by the cabinet after he persuaded them to postpone an Oct. 1 strike deadline by promising to introduce legislation providing binding arbitration.

"I am convinced that the minister of health (Matthew Dymond) prevailed upon his colleagues to overrule the minister of labor," he said.

The employees will return to work at Trenton Hospital Monday following a three - month strike, the labor minister said.

The Building Services Employees Union (CLC) went on strike Oct. 31 when no legislation to provide binding arbitration was introduced in the legislature during the Oct. 29-30 session. Mr. Trotter said.

The Ontario Hospital Services Commission is a branch of the government used to crush legitimate strikes," he charged.

The union didn't receive a reply for two months when it asked for a meeting with the commission after finding out it was giving the hospital funds to break out against the union.

AWAITED REPORT

The commission said in its reply it was waiting for the report of a three-man commission set up to study whether compulsory arbitration should apply to Trenton and other hospitals.

Mr. Trotter also told the government it should protect the unwary, especially new Canadians, from unscrupulous salesmen who are selling food freez-

Praise New Attitude Toward Drug Addiction at Meet

TORONTO (CP) —Although there is no easy way out of drug addiction, there have been changes in treatment concepts in recent years, Leon Brill, project director for the Washington Rehabilitation Centre in New York, said here Thursday addressing 60 delegates to the Ontario government's first conference on addictions. Mr. Brill said at one time psychology was the only approach needed of a drug user.

"We were wrong," he said. "At the beginning he needs concrete help to find a job or welfare."

The New York psychologist said, however, that in his experience addicts have been unable to hold jobs any longer than an average of two weeks.

"There is no easy way out," said Mr. Brill. "In a way, addiction reflects the distortions of our whole society. The addict would like a split - level house and two cars like the rest of us, but since he can't achieve them . . . he retreats (behind) drugs."

He said there have been several heartening changes in attitudes toward addicts in recent years, particularly the development of an image that the addict is a sick person rather than a criminal.

Speaking on the problems of alcoholics, a New Jersey psychologist said he opposes any suggestion that abstention from drink be made a condition of parole for alcoholic prisoners.

Prof. Raymond McCarthy, director of Rutgers University's summer school of alcoholic studies, said: "If parole is an attempt by a man to re-establish himself and his self-respect, I would put minimal limitations on him."

A third speaker, who asked not to be identified, told of an experimental project in New York where drugs are supplied on a controlled basis to 20 addicts to help them kick addiction.

No Bunks For Cuba Anglers

By THEODORE A. EDIGER

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The 29 Cubans on whom fate threw a water supply to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, appears to depend, lived in a 10-by-20-foot cell without bunks.

Their conversation, heard outside the two-storey red-brick jail Thursday night, indicated they were unhappy.

"All Yankees to the firing squad," one said. After some laughter came the reply:

"Yes, everybody practise shooting."

In Tallahassee, Florida Attorney - General James Kynes said the state would not drop charges of fishing illegally in Florida waters against the men because of Fidel Castro's threats. The Cubans could be fined $500 and sentenced to a year in jail.

But Kynes said Florida would co-operate with the U.S. state department in handling the case.

DEMANDS RELEASE

Cuba says it will cut water service to Guantanamo periodically until the fishermen are released.

In Fort Lauderdale, Port Everglades officials said they were prepared to ship water to Guantanamo when a request arrives. The port signed a contract in February, 1961, to fill tankers with all the water needed at Guantanamo.

Dr. Frantisek Telicka, first secretary of the Czech embassy handling Cuban affairs in the absence of U.S. diplomatic relations has arrived in Key West from Washington. He planned to arrange counsel for the fishermen.

The Cubans were held incommunicado in Monroe County Jail. They spent the night on mattresses and benches after eating a meal of Cuban "picadillo" — spicy hash—prepared by the jail's Cuban cook.

Lesage coolly, was "much too optimistic."

Robert Winters, president of British-Newfoundland — better known as Brinco—has said he wants construction to start this spring. Mr. Smallwood has said the same thing.

But before it can, agreement on the price of electricity and other factors must be ironed out, Quebec sources say. If they aren't settled to Quebec's satisfaction, Mr. Lesage said recently, "Quebec will not go along."

Trail of Stranded Cars, Toppled Trees Left by Storms

TORONTO (CP) — A heavy snow storm whipped through southwestern and central Ontario Thursday night, leaving a trail of stranded cars, minor traffic accidents and toppled trees.

Up to eight inches of wet snow blanketed an area bounded by London in the west, Barrie in the north, Niagara Falls in the south and Kingston in the east.

It tapered into fine snow and drizzle early today.

Rush-hour traffic was snarled in Toronto. Hundreds abandoned their cars at points. Hundreds more were hours late arriving home or at work. Police reported no serious accidents, mostly involving property damage.

Several flights were cancelled at Toronto International Airport. Public transportation in the city moved at a crawl.

The heavy wet snow crumpled trees and branches under its weight. Several intermittent power interruptions were reported in the province.

The highways department reported most highways throughout southern Ontario were passable today. There was some drifting in central and eastern sections but a.m.-p.m. removal equipment was in operation in force.

Metropolitan Toronto areas reported snowfalls ranging from six to eight inches, Hamilton had up to six inches, St. Catharines four inches and Kitchener between three and four inches.

Fire More Shots But New Cypriot Battle Avoided

Turks Attack Greeks After Water Cut Off

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — More fighting broke out in Cyprus today in an atmosphere of increasing tension caused by a major gun battle Thursday in which 11 Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots were killed and a large number were wounded.

A government spokesman said there were no casualties in the only shooting incident reported this morning. He said it occurred in the mountains behind the fourth coast port of Kyrenia, when a party of Greek workmen, escorted by police, went to investigate the failure of a water pumping station.

The spokesman said the party came under rifle fire from Turks shooting down at them from the heights of St. Hilarion Castle.

The Greeks did not return the fire and managed to retreat without casualties, the spokesman added.

It was a roughly similar incident that sparked Thursday's battle in which six Greek-Cypriots and five Turkish-Cypriots were killed.

VILLAGE IN FLAMES

The six-hour battle left the village of Ayios Sozomenos, 10 miles south of Nicosia, in flames when British forces won a cease-fire.

British armored cars arrived shortly after noon, but it was dark before British officers could persuade the two sides to lay down their arms.

Greek-Cypriot police and civilian irregulars overran the village of some 30 homes after a disputed incident during the morning.

The Greeks charged Turkish youths ambushed a police vehicle carrying a policeman and six Greek civilians on a daily journey to a water pump serving the Greek town of Athienou. The Greeks said the policeman and one civilian were killed.

The Turkish headman of Ayios Sozomenos accused the Greeks of starting the battle when the party set out to turn the water pump opened fire on Turkish farmers.

The battle was the second this week. Two Greeks and a Turk were killed in an outbreak on the north coast Tuesday and Wednesday.

The 1,200 Americans at the British base remained in the base in the toilet. He overpowered the jailer and freed the others, who picked up the jailer's revolvers and fled to the street. At the alarm sounded, the fugitives started piling into

Fugitives Described As 'Mad'

MONTREAL (CP) — Police forces in Quebec and Ontario are on the alert today for two suspected members of a robber-and-rape gang who escaped custody early Thursday and are believed to have eluded a police dragnet on Montreal Island.

The escapees — Jean-Claude Messier, 26, and Antonio Facchino, 36—broke out of downtown courthouse cells with four companions who were recaptured quickly.

Police described the fugitives as "mad dogs" and said they would take no chances in trying to recapture them alive. At least one of the escapees was believed to be armed.

All 10 bridges leading off Montreal Island were under surveillance Thursday night, but police expressed fears the barn door might have been locked too late.

Messier and Facchino were last seen with a taxi driver who has not yet been found.

Police declined to identify him but said he was driving for the LaSalle Taxi Company. His taxi licence number was T-7904.

The four recaptured prisoners—Victor (Pretty Boy) Levesque, 36, Jean-Guy Tessier, 26, Aristide Fecteau, 27, and Jean-Paul Fairdeau, 26 — were arraigned Thursday on charges of using violence to escape custody.

Escape with violence is punishable by up to five years' imprisonment.

The four were being held on a variety of charges, ranging from armed robbery and rape to illegal possession of firearms.

USED OLD TRICK

Darveau faked a stomach ache at about 3:15 a.m. and asked to be taken to the prison

Order Golden Hawks Disbanded, Thereby Saving Million a Year

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department today announced disbandment of the Golden Hawks aerobatic team.

The savings will amount to about $1,000,000 a year.

Economy was one reason for the disbandment of the precision flying team which appeared throughout the summer and fall at Canadian and American shows and exhibitions.

Another reason is that the Sabre jets flown by the team have been taken out of RCAF operational service and are becoming more difficult to maintain.

Russia Wins From Sweden

INNSBRUCK (CP)—The Soviet Union scored goals in all three periods tonight to defeat Sweden 4-2 and assure itself of at least a silver medal in the winter Olympics hockey championships.

INNSBRUCK (CP) — Finland dropped Czechoslovakia hockey powerhouse another notch today by defeating a tired United States team 3-2 in the championship of Olympic hockey tournament. It was the fifth loss in six starts for the defending American Olympic champions.

Says Stalin Slew 1,018 of 1,966 Delegates to Communist Congress

MOSCOW (AP)—An old Bolshevik today revealed that 1,018 of the 1,966 delegates to a 1934 Communist party congress were liquidated in the bloody Stalin purges.

L. Shaumyan, himself a delegate to that 17th party congress, denounced the Stalinist "cult of personality" in an article published in the party organ Pravda.

He quoted a passage from Premier Khrushchev's speech at the 1934 congress in which he praised the party's central committee.

Khrushchev, then secretary of the Moscow party organization, also praised Stalin as the "wound (leader) of gunins."

Shaumyan said the congress of 1934 Stalin was consolidating his power.

"The abnormal situation in the party connected with the cult of the personality alarmed many Communists", he recalled.

"Among some of the congress delegates, as it became later learned, the idea was ripening that it was time to 'unstuff' Stalin from the post of general secretary to other work."

Shaumyan hinted that Sergei Kirov, party boss in Leningrad party, was among leaders of the opposition to Stalin.

"But a year had hardly passed after the end of the 17th congress when a criminal had taken Kirov's life," he wrote.

"This was a previously planned and carefully planned crime . . .

"Stalin used the killing as a pretext for savage reprisals against many leaders of the Bolshevik party."

Mass reprisals were begun and the first to be removed were a significant part of the delegates of the 17th party congress.

"Out of 1,966 delegates, 1,108 were liquidated. Out of 139 members and candidate members of the central committee, 98 persons perished . . .

Que. Holds Aces in Labrador Power Development Squabble

QUEBEC (CP) — Hamilton Falls roars and froths over a 245-foot high precipice isolated in the silent barrens of Labrador.

Its power potential, says Newfoundland Premier Joey Smallwood, one day will propel the New York City subway, 1,100 miles away.

But an accident of geography has given the province of Quebec a strong position in the negotiations—that must precede development of the falls and eventual use of its 6,000,000 horsepower potential.

The province, in fact, appears to have the whip hand in the complex and protracted negotiations.

It was agreed last spring that the power Newfoundland can't use will be sold to Hydro-Quebec, the government power commission, at the Labrador-Quebec boundary, wherever it is.

It will be fed into Quebec's power grid and what is left at the other end will be sold to Consolidated Edison of New York.

But at what price will Hydro-Quebec buy it? And what will Consolidated Edison pay for it? These, says Premier Jean Lesage, are two of the principal points of negotiations now going on.

Beyond that he refused to say anything, either in the House to opposition questions, or to reporters. The interests at stake are too high, he says, to allow him to make any statement at the moment.

He has also dampened hopes that construction of the first of two planned power dams on the Hamilton River will start this spring as the British-Newfoundland Corporation hopes.

The corporation holds development rights to the falls. Hydro-Quebec, holds a 20-per-cent interest in the development through its take-over last year of private electricity companies.

Mr. Lesage was questioned recently in the House about a statement by Federal Trade Minister Sharp who said he understood Quebec and Newfoundland would soon announce an agreement.

The statement, replied Mr. Lesage coolly, was "much too optimistic."

Robert Winters, president of British-Newfoundland — better known as Brinco—has said he wants construction to start this spring. Mr. Smallwood has said the same thing.

But before it can, agreement on the price of electricity and other factors must be ironed out, Quebec sources say. If they aren't settled to Quebec's satisfaction, Mr. Lesage said recently, "Quebec will not go along."

With its millions of horsepower in reserve, Quebec doesn't appear in a hurry. On the surface at least, it appears Brinco is getting little better and is making the best of it.

One factor perhaps mixed up in the negotiations is the Labrador-Quebec boundary question. Quebec has never accepted the 1927 privy council decision setting the boundary roughly along the watershed.

Asked Thursday in the legislature whether the boundary question is involved in the current negotiations, Mr. Lesage replied:

"I have nothing to say."

The business of election of new officers was conducted by Mr. George Currie, Ontario League Field Representative and other league central staff. NEW OFFICERS

The officers elected for 1964 were:

One of the highlights of the convention will be the Beauty Queen contest to be held on Friday, March 6, when Miss Ontario Credit Union will be chosen from many Chapter Queens throughout the province. Miss Gloria Fleming of Norlsecto, crowned the Quinte Chapter Queen on Credit Union Day held at Club Quinte on October 17th, 1963, will be the Quinte and District Chapter entrant for the Beauty Queen Contest.

The Senior Citizens' Club of Belleville held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday evening with a good turnout of members present. President Brennan was in the chair.

The birthday song was sung for six members having birthdays on February with Mrs. Shirley Hall the guest. The financial report was read by Mrs. Trydon, treasurer.

Mrs. Sarles reported for the sick committee and Mrs. Vickers reported on the euchre party. A going away present will be presented to Miss Jenny Good, secretary for the recreation cairn, who is leaving to accept a position in Toronto.

The lucky draw winner was Mrs. Crook. Euchre winners were Mesdames Forrestell, Doyle and Charlston with men's winners being Forrestell, Hyde and G. Robinson. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ford and her committee.

Will Promote Running Lights

The Quinte Auto Sport Club decided last night to continue its drive to promote the use of running lights on automobiles. The running lights are the candlepower white lights, mounted on the front of an automobile, that are lighted whenever the car engine is running. Eleven club members signed a list to have lights on their cars, and at least one local firm is considering fitting the lights on its trucks. In Peterborough, the club was told last night, six of the city's police cruisers have been fitted with running lights.

Says Railroads To Remain Giant In Their Field

Railroads, members of the Lions Club here were told last evening, will overcome the challenge of competition. "They will remain transportation's giant in the future," declared Ernest W. Wakefield of Montreal, public relations representative of the Canadian Pacific, as he concluded his address on "Transportation, a Three-Fold Challenge."

Earlier, he had told how the railroads had met the challenge in the past and how they are meeting the challenge in today's world. Transportation, he said, is a dynamic industry which has developed in Canada, as in other countries, to meet the constantly changing needs of the economy.

Mr. Wakefield said that the railroads had played the outstanding role in the progress of the nations. This is specially true of Canada, he continued, for the building of Canada's first transcontinental line, Canadian Pacific, constitutes the link over which the vision of the creation of a nation depended on the construction of a railroad. He briefly outlined the early history of his company, referring to the difficulties encountered in the railroad builders, especially in the Rocky Mountains and Rockies sections. This constituted, he said, the challenge of geography which was met and overcome.

NOT ON LAST LEGS

"The railroads are not on their last legs, he said, and are fast as determined to meet today's challenge of competition. Using Canadian Pacific as his example of what the railroads had done and were doing, Mr. Wakefield spoke bout the diesel electric locomotive, the 125-ton freight yards, new freight equipment, the scenic dome train "The Canadian," unit trains, the piggyback, block signals, centralized traffic control, merchandise service and many other innovations employed by the railroads to help meet the challenge.

Mr. Wakefield said that today, Canadian Pacific is a vast integrated transportation system, with services on land, sea and air, with a total route pattern of some 85,000 miles.

The speaker said that the MacPherson Royal Commission on transportation was responsible of the importance of the railroads and included in its report the statement that the railways would remain the backbone of the transportation system in Canada."

FUTURE CHALLENGE

Turning to the third point, the challenge of tomorrow, the speaker said that the railways will find substantial means of effectively meeting the service disadvantages which have caused substantial loss of particular type of traffic in the past. There will, no doubt, be improvements in controlled temperature equipment, and a greater use of piggyback transportation. The railway industry will, he said, continue to participate in the long-haul transportation of high-value traffic. Conventional passenger train services will gradually diminish, but services by stainless steel equipment, and rail diesel cars will continue for many years in come. Rail passenger service will continue, he said, to attract substantial patronage between high density city pairs, and on such scenic routes as between Calgary and Vancouver.

PAPER PRODUCTION

Sweden's paper and paperboard production increased more than 5% per cent to about 2,280,000 tons during 1963.

Y's Activities

Last night's regular supper meeting of the Y's Men's Club was well attended by members and guests. Bouquets of thanks were extended by the chairman to those who brought guests and especially to Garry Sherman and Ron Poole for bringing two each.

Following a few remarks Mr. Harold Ellis, Imperial Tobacco Co. sales representative showed the film of the 1963 "Grand Prix" at Mosport Park. The race was filmed in detail and was enjoyed by everyone, particularly the sports car fans.

Club members are reminded of the program for next week. Monday the executive will hold their meeting at Y's Di Diamantini. The Y's Men's bowling party at the Plaza will follow the regular meeting next week. A box lunch will be required for the afterbowling get-together at Y's Bill Hutchinson's.

To Seek OMB Approval for Work Program

Representatives from three city organizations, the board of public commissioners, the public school board, and the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors, met yesterday with city council to discuss their capital works program as approved previously by council.

On Monday the Bay of Quinte District High School Board representatives met with council to discuss their capital budget requirements.

Submissions from all city boards had been received at city hall earlier in the year to allow council to decide on its capital works program for the next five years.

In several instances board capital requirements were either cut by council or spread over a longer period as the boards concerned were invited to informal talks prior to the city's five-year works program being submitted to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval.

City Manager J. B. Reynolds said today that a meeting with the Municipal Board was being sought for the earliest date possible at which the city's five year capital works program of over $8,000,000 will be submitted for approval.

Representatives of the various city boards are invited to attend the O.M.B. meeting with city officials.

Chairman Says Dion Case Will Haunt Him

TORONTO (CP) — T. G. Street, chairman of the national parole board, said Thursday he will be haunted by the case of Leopold Dion who is serving life in jail for the April 10 for the strangling death of 13-year-old youth.

Dion was paroled by the board in 1956 after his conviction in 1940 of a rape charge. In 1957, he was convicted of gross indecency but paroled by the board again in 1963.

He was accused of the death last Dec. 12 for the strangling of Pierre Laporte, Marquis near Quebec City April 29, 1963. Evidence at the trial also brought out he was responsible for the deaths of three other Quebec area boys and that Dion was a sexual pervert.

Mr. Street told law students at Osgoode Hall here "the Dion case will fling higher yet." He said Dion's release came after "the case was very well prepared ... you can't predict human behavior."

Screaming Girls Give Beatles Wild Send-Off at London

LONDON (Reuters) — Hundreds of screaming girls gave the Beatles, Britain's top "pop" singing group, one of the most frantic send-offs ever seen at London Airport today when they left for New York.

The four shock-haired young men, who have earned more than $17,000,000 for themselves and their recording company in the last year, will make their U.S. debut in New York's Carnegie Hall Wednesday.

The Beatles are Ringo Starr, 23, John Lennon, 23, George Harrison, 20, and Paul McCartney, 21.

Special precautions were taken at the airport but a strong force of police failed to smuggle the group through a bypass into the passenger buildings straight to the plane.

Hundreds of young girls shouted and sobbed and a rain of love letters, badges, photographs and tokens showered down from the public galleries as the Beatles passed below.

Police took a firm hand from the start, shepherding all teen-agers up to the public watching galleries.

But once the Beatles arrived the screaming started.

Girls fainted up and down, hysterically shrieking and crying until the airliner took off.

Then the din suddenly died and a strange silence fell on the airport as the girls, many twisting handkerchiefs in their hands in anguish, brushed off boos.

Tribal Chants, Catholic Rites Combined by Indian 'Shakes'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The old frame church reverberated to the bell - ringing and hymn chanting and its ancient foundations creaked to the "shaking" of its congregation.

Inside, candles flickered under a picture of Christ. The bell ringers rang out a rhythm for the ancient hymns of an ancient people. And the congregation took up the shaking of their hands, arms and bodies until some almost reached a trance-like state.

The scene was the Indian Shaker Church on the Musqueam Indian reserve, two minutes by car from Vancouver's posh Point Grey district.

Though few Vancouverites know of the church's existence, Shaker meetings have been held there for as long as the reserve's oldest resident can remember.

The church claims hundreds of adherents in British Columbia, Washington state, Oregon and California.

Anthropologists describe the cult's practices as a combination of old Indian chants and dances and the rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

A belief of adherents is that during the trance-like state developed with the shaking the future can be foretold and healing can be effected.

RESTORED TO LIFE

Angus August, a travelling missionary of the church, says the cult began in 1881 when an Indian named John Slocum died near Olympia, Wash. The story is that he came back to life three days later and, began preaching an unorthodox form of Christianity unchanged to this day.

Shakers practise their religion without a Bible. It is a religion of direct revelation but has definite rules. Its adherents do not smoke; they shake hands frequently, refer to each other as "my dear brothers and sisters" and frequently interject such remarks as "praise the Lord" during services.

On a recent Saturday night men, women and children of the church participated in ceremonies at the ordination of a new minister, Josephine Grant. She knelt on the floor and promised to do the work of God with bell, candle and cross.

The ceremonies were under the direction of Assistant Bishop William Martin of Sedro-Wooley Wash., an affable man in a sports shirt and faded blue denims.

They began with the Shakers singing their opening hymn, a mournful, pulsing anthem in the ancient language that all coastal Indians appear able to understand to some degree.

The bell-ringers took up a straight one-two rhythm and the women began a shuffling dance as they encircled the new minister and her helpers.

The chant grew faster, the bell-ringers and other men of the congregation broke into a pounding dance and above the measured chant there were sharp staccato cries and shrieks.

After the ordination of Mrs. Grant, the congregation turned to the healing ritual. Subjects who required healing of some sort sat in the middle of the floor.

Prayers were said aloud, some in English and some in Indian dialects.

The bell-ringing resumed and the chant took on increased fervor. Men danced to the point where they seemed to have lost all touch with reality.

Men and women began by shaking their hands, then their bodies until they received the desired state—when they feel God is manifesting himself directly.

Angus August explained that Shakers still believe, as did their ancestors, that most physical and mental ills are induced by evil spirits "shot into" their bodies by shamans, the old witch doctors who dominated all phases of Indian life.

He said there are still a few shamans practising but that evil spirits today are usually produced by bad people in the white community.

Union Given Fine Support Kiwanian Members Told

TRENTON — Moral and financial support from union members across Ontario for the members of local 183 of the Building Services Employees' Union, during the recent strike at Trenton hospital, was so great, union international vice-president Albert G. Hearn told members of the Kiwanis Club last night, that the union finds itself with an extra $10,000 on is hands with the settlement of the strike Wednesday noon.

During the strike, pickets were paid at least 75 per cent of their normal take home wage. Utility bills and insurances were paid by the union and at Christmas, hampers of food, turkeys and toys for the pickets' kiddies were supplied.

Mr. Hearn said that the strikers had not suffered any real hardship during the strike and that they had maintained the picket line in an honest and respectable fashion although they had been urged to use violence from many sides.

However now that the strike has ended, Mr. Hearn said that the workers were prepared to forget the past and work with the hospital administration to see that the institution is run in a smooth manner.

Terming the strike a battle for justice, Mr. Hearn said that the workers had gained in this agreement signed with the hospital board.

"Contrary to what has been said, it wasn't a question of a union fighting for union security," said Mr. Hearn. "These people were only fighting for the right to work under an acceptable agreement."

Mr. Hearn urged the members of the service club to take more interest in the affairs of the hospital, attend board meetings and find some way of becoming voting members of the hospital auxiliary groups. "In this way," he said, "responsible people in Trenton could ensure that the tragedy of a hospital strike would never happen again."

Children's Aid Seeks Higher Per Diem Rate

The Children's Aid Society will make application to the Juvenile and Family Court for an order establishing its per diem rate at $2.85—and increased of 51 cents over the rate for last year.

The rate paid by municipalities last year was $2.34 cents.

Mr. Bruce Kerr, superintendent of the C.A.S., said the requested $2.85 per diem rate would put Belleville among the top third for societies across the province.

He noted that the average cost for maintaining a Children's Aid ward in Hastings was $819 per annum as compared with the provincial average of $840.

The per capita cost for operation of the C.A.S. is $1.77 in Hastings as compared with a provincial average of $2.20.

Pyke Picks Net For Ten Goals

A tremendous one-man scoring display by Wellington's Gary Pyke highlighted action in the Prince Edward North Shore Hockey League last night.

Pyke scored a fabulous ten (10) goals and also had one assist while sparking Wellington to a 12-3 victory over Consecon. Pyke was never off the ice for the undefeated loop leaders. His club was very shorthanded, playing the game with seven players, including the sub-goalie playing up front.

Elden Caron had one goal and four assists while Norm Hodgson got one and two. Wellington led 3-1 and 8-2 by periods.

Dave LaRue scored one and se, up the other two Consecon markers. Al Kellar collected a goal and one assist, Doug Wilson one goal.

The winners led 2-1 and 4-2 by periods before sewing up the decision in the third.

John Emerson and Royce Dontaor each scored twice and helped on another for Stinson's. George Daniels had a goal and assist, Arnold Westerall and Paul Stinson a goal apiece.

Rod Cannons and Jim Dunn were the Melville marksmen.

Big Turnout For Banquet Held by Scouts

TRENTON — Commenting on the "wonderful turnout" at Wednesday night's First Trenton Cub and Scout father and son banquet, Charles Hilton, chairman of the Scouters' committee, told the fathers present that they owed it to their sons to take more of an interest in Scouting activities. Mr. Hilton said that special events drew the parents to Cub and Scout meetings but that he felt there was a lack of interest in the Scouting as a whole.

Canon K. F. Blachford spoke to the boys briefly, telling them that Scouts all over the world needed their help in many ways and outlining to them the duties expected of them as Cubs and Scouts.

Mrs. R. Burnet, secretary of the Scouting committee and Mrs. Scott, Assistant Cubmaster, were presented with gifts as a token of the esteem in which they are held by the Cubs and Scouts.

Is This Necessary?

The five Canadian maritime unions under Federal trusteeship will not be allowed to sign new labor contracts with shipping firms without the approval of the trustees.

The casual observer may find nothing surprising in this. Those with a more intimate knowledge of labor-management negotiations may, on the other hand, raise an eyebrow. The trustees are supposed to administer the unions in such a manner as to eliminate undesirable practices revealed by the Norris report. Most people have interpreted this as meaning that the trustees' duty consists of riding herd on Hal Banks, president of the Canadian section of the SIU, and his henchmen. Knowing this, would any shipping company sign a contract with the SIU which involved objectionable practices? Thus the argument will go. The answer, of course, is that the Norris report did not find all shipping companies blameless for the conditions which prevailed on the Great Lakes. Although it may be argued that, in the past, companies have yielded to union pressure which will be lacking now that the trustees are in the picture, the trustees would be remiss in their duty if they took this for granted. They are quite right in requiring that agreements between unions and shipping firms must receive their approval before becoming effective.

Once having said that, though, one wonders whether the trustees are not going too far in requiring that they be present at all negotiations, "in order to provide sound advice."

Negotiations are bargaining sessions. The trustees' presence can only be justified if they are neutral. But neutrality is difficult to achieve. Indeed, there is a question whether there is any place for it in the role of "giving sound advice." This is essentially different from conciliation, which is just an effort to get two sides to agree, and comes close to arbitration, a judgment on the merits of the case. Arbitration ought to be a last resort in labor disputes.

The trustees' "advice," it seems to us, would carry more weight if it were not exercised during the course of normal negotiations, but was only invoked in the case of unusual and difficult cases, failing to reach agreements which, in the opinion of the trustees, provided satisfactory safeguards against the continuance of abuses outlined in the Norris report.

Favoring the French Canadian

A crash program among major Canadian firms is planned to put French Canadians in executive positions, according to a recent Canadian Press feature. The program results from the realization, by English-speaking businessmen, that they appear to French-speaking Canadians as a private, self-perpetuating club.

Because of the program, there are more career openings waiting for French-Canadians than there are French Canadians waiting for career openings. Some of the openings remain open even though there are English-speaking Canadians ready and waiting to put them.

The situation is a promising development in Canada's stumblings toward unity. The reader must pardon, however, lack of more complete comment on the future of the program. We have a French textbook here and —well, you know how it is.

How Come?

Provincial Police Commissioner Eric Silk says that simplicity of design is making it possible to provide the Ontario Provincial Police with badly-needed new detachment headquarters at lower cost.

"The new design" has already been used for a detachment headquarters at Brockville.

This makes it plain that Mr. Silk is talking about one design which will be utilized for all future detachment stations—a hundred of the existing 235 detachment stations must be replaced because the increased size of the force.

The use of a standard design for all these buildings makes sense. It is easy to understand how its use would save considerable money.

Yet when precisely the same method was suggested to cut school costs a decade or so ago, the idea was pooh-poohed as unworkable and not worthy of consideration by practical people.

How come?

How poor the human mind would be without vanity! It resembles a well stocked and ever renewed wax-emporium that attracts buyers of every class: they can find almost everything, have almost everything, provided they bring with them the right kind of money—admiration.—Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche.

Shopping, Russian Style

By Ruth Deniff in The New York Times

Patience is the secret which any housewife in the Soviet Union must learn whether she is the wife of a foreigner posted there, or just an ordinary Soviet citizen. Forethought is one of the ways of not putting too much strain on this virtue.

Foreigners are allowed to import unlimited foodstuffs from abroad. There are large department stores in Copenhagen, Helsinki, and Stockholm which pride themselves on their Moscow clientele. It is more convenient to order in bulk—it involves a grocery order for six months, and the ability to settle down in the family until need during that period, and how much of each commodity.

Our first shopping foray was not a success. We finished the canned fruit in three weeks and still had to get Canadian substitutes of curry powder. We tried to balance it out in our second order. We now have 36 cans of curry, 36 cans of apple and no lumpy sugar. Forget the American and British housewives who figure poorly there are the embassy commissaries to supply the things we have left out of essentials, and then there are the embassy commissaries to carefully guard their wives.

The only time we met with anything but the greatest cooperation was when we went to buy some curtains and added to our had inherited from the previous owner of our apartment. In spite of the cold, the saleswoman whom she had acquired aristocratic eating tastes and turned her nose up at our choice. She kept hinting but fresh meat would tempt her. The butcher showed us some fatty bits of mutton which we knew would have been met with great delight. "Haven't you anything better?" we asked. Murmurs broke out in the back of the line. "It's not for me," my husband out of that. It it's good enough for you it's good enough for me," and still the one old babushka. There's not enough meat in the shop for people let alone for the elderly and another. We left the shop very much chastened and vowed that our "decadent" eat would have to adapt herself to a more socialistic standard of living.

Plan Village For Disabled

BBC London Letter

A special village for handicapped children, including thalidomide babies and others with serious limb disabilities, is to be built in the West of England. Recently the architect who is designing it, Mr. Peter Fitzsimons, spoke in the BBC about some of the problems involved.

The basic aim, Mr. Fitzsimons explained, was to provide a complete village community for children who would live there for a long period before moving into the world outside. The intention was to have roughly equal numbers of physically able children and those who otherwise be in orphanages, and handicapped children. The design envisaged "the basic meandering village street" with homes grouped directly on to it as the social core of the whole scheme, just as the street in most villages is. Each home would house a family of fifteen children with a home mother or home parents. The street would be completely enclosed, and the children would be encouraged to traverse it even when weather conditions outside were bad.

Besides a family environment in the homes, there would be full educational facilities, so that the children would be trained to follow an occupation, not simply as therapy, but as a means of becoming fully integrated members of society and in due course earning their own living. There would be an interdenominational community centre chapel, and full physiotherapy, hydrotherapy and speech therapy facilities. Very young children with multiple limb disabilities, who needed constant attention, would be housed in an intensive care unit, but the hope was that as the earliest possible moment they would become members of a family and live in a family unit.

Immaturity

Cape Breton Post

In every European country, school children learn to speak, read and write a foreign language, more often English than another, as a matter of course.

Some Canadians actually become indignant at the suggestion that it would be smart as well as intelligent to learn French. On the other hand, many French-language Canadians resent the idea of acquiring a command of English. It's a token of our national immaturity.

CIA 'Facts' Misleading

Fitzhackl Post

Washington's Central Intelligence Agency or spy system, hardly a brilliant success in Cuba or Vietnam, did no service to the United States or anybody else by publishing its highly inaccurate report on the Soviet Union's economic difficulties.

All the well-informed people in the world agree that the CIA grossly exaggerated the extent of Russia's current gold exports and the economic problems faced by Khrushchev. The motive for this overstatement was quite clearly to discourage sensation - mongering village street" with homes grouped directly on to it as the social core of the whole scheme, just as the street in most villages is. Two years' training in vocational studies should be part of the regular curriculum for every Ontario High School student, according to a resolution of Mr. Norman Smith, vocational director of the Belleville Collegiate, who was the guests speaker at the regular weekly Rotary luncheon at the Hotel Quinte.

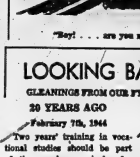
Giving a brief outline of the work in the vocational department of the Collegiate, Mr. Smith intimated that the ultimate aim of such studies was not only to teach a student what to do but how to live, with emphasis being placed upon adaptability. "At Belleville Collegiate we try to train pupils to build a better Belleville, which means a better Canada", he said.



"Made in Belleville" will be a label long remembered by thousands of men who in the air force personnel as well as the name of the manufacturer of the Winter and protective garments worn by these service personnel. They have met the requirements of their government and country at war in such a comprehensive way, that service men today sail the seas in every sort of weather, and fly the air planes in comparative comfort. The Salvation Army Band under the able direction of bandmaster David Wardle, rendered a pleasing program before the opening of the meeting and during the service the Citadel Songsters, under the direction of Mrs. Wardle rendered a pleasing vocal anthem.

The Rev. H. B. Neal, pastor of Christ Church West United Church led in prayer and the Rev. Hilliard Jones, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church read the scripture lesson. In introducing His Worship Mayor Geo. O. Tice, Adjutant Morris said that since coming to Belleville he has made many friends, but none more sincere than Mayor Tice and that it was an honor and privilege of the Army Corps, as chairman of the meeting, in taking the chair to which he gave some very interesting history of the Salvation Army in Belleville. The main speaker was Commissioner Bruno Friedell and appreciation of his most excellent address was expressed on behalf of the audience by Mr. Eugene Hoey and Mr. Charles A. Cameron. Lake Waters Valuable

London Free Press

Every inch of water in the Great Lakes is worth millions of dollars to Canada and the United States. One of several items powering the intrinsic value of water is hydroelectric. Ontario Hydro, plagued by water shortages at its plants and forced to buy power from Quebec and U.S. and run its more costly steam generating plants.

Drought conditions over the past 3½ years drew principal blame for the low water in the lakes, with Lake Huron being the lowest level in more than a century. The Ontario hydro-electric system gets major power supplies from the Niagara River and from the St. Lawrence at the Richard Saunders-Robert Moses generating plant at Cornwall; it counts on average level for its power potential.

Hydro is supported by weather authorities in the belief that the present spell of drought is probable and that water levels will not start to recover for another year.

Hives Do Not Affect Only The Skin

By JOSEPH C. MOLNER, M.D.

First of Two Articles

Instead of affecting eyes and nose, as with hay fever, or causing digestive upsets foods can cause allergic urticaria is a red, splotchy, itchy wheal.

Hives usually occur suddenly sometimes within 20 minutes of contact with whatever is causing it, sometimes longer, but usually within a fairly short time.

This gives the patient at least a sporting chance of noting what has been eaten, or touched, or experienced, shortly before the hives appeared.

It can be foods — and it may be that a food can be eaten (cashew foods are an example) in small quantities without reaction, but cause trouble in large quantities, or under certain circumstances. I refer here principally to the presence of nervous tensions, but there are others.

It can be the result of something you touch, and I've seen people break out from such diverse things as shrimp to a dog, a neighbor's cat and eating strawberries.

Nuts, chocolate, vegetables, sunlight, cold, menstruation, physical exertion, emotional upsets, injected extracts (such as insulin extracts), are a few more examples.

If eating or contact with the particular factor stops, SO, in a short time, will the hives. Repeated contacts, however, will bring new attacks.

At the immediate time, however, it is often possible to subdue the hives quickly. Antihistamine drugs give the best relief, since allergy involves an excessive release of histamine in the body. Counteracting it allows the body to return to normal.

In severe cases, and particularly if the breathing is involved to the point of jeopardy — and this can happen — injection of adrenalin or one of the steroid drugs may be necessary as an emergency measure.

Allergy in some forms becomes downright dangerous. I'll continue the subject tomorrow.

Dear Dr. Molner: Will worms that cause trichinosis be killed by freezing the pork? — H. M.

Freezing at close to zero for a sufficient time will kill them. At a above zero Fahrenheit, it requires at least 20 days; at 5 below, at least 72 hours. And that means such a temperature all the way through the meat.

Therefore the safe rule is thorough cooking.

Dear Dr. Molner: Referring to your statement that sunflower seeds "won't help your eyes or anything else. Let the birds eat 'em." These seeds when shelled and boiled with corn oil and salt are delicious. They taste like nuts. I have been eating two teaspoonfuls daily and believe they have helped keep me healthy. I am 74.

May I have your comments, please? — M. F.

I have nothing against sunflower seeds when used as food. What I said was that they contain no magic formula for health, nor desirable extra food. There are multiple sources for every constituent of nourishment.

I've eaten sunflower seeds and enjoyed them. I'll give you another recipe. For a grinding chew up in hamburg meat. Very tasty.

Verbal Habits Tell Others More About Us

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Our unconscious verbal habits tell others more about us (if they are tuned in) than we realize. The other night, I was watching a TV master of ceremonies who said three times in ten minutes, "To tell you the truth, I really don't . . ."

He gave me the distinct impression that telling the truth does not come naturally or easily to him; else why bother to preface a perfectly ordinary remark with this statement?

"To be frank about it"—is a phrase used only by people who are not normally frank; a man did and open person would not even think he was being frank, nor would he ask half-apologize for this trait.

On a lower social level, the man who says "Listen, let me tell you" immediately brands himself as not a leveller, if it takes a conscious, articulated statement to proclaim it. Those accustomed to dealing honestly don't have to strike a moral pose before doing so.

Then there are some who say, "Well everyone is entitled to my opinion" in a tone clearly signifying that he wishes it weren't so, and he would prefer a society in which everyone were not entitled to it.

Those who end nearly every phrase or sentence with "You know? You know?" are more pathetic than reprehensible. They fear an inability to communicate (perhaps because their parents never really listened to them when they were little), and are desperately trying to break through the barrier of the words that separates them from others.

"In my humble opinion" is one of the most unconsciously arrogant phrases a person can utter. The author has my humility in unawareness of itself as such; and to call one's opinion "humble" is a contradiction in terms and a psychological tip-off that great egotism is lurking in the wings waiting for applause.

Of course, nearly everyone has enough Freudian sophistication now to recognize that the person who tells you an unpleasant truth "for your own good" is not doing it for your own good at all, but for the malicious delight he gets in recounting it. (It's something of a mystery, but . . ." is a comparable phrase used by the same kind of person, who really enjoys it in his business, or intends to make it so.

The ways we express ourselves reveal more about ourselves than the actual substance of what we say. Words in themselves are tonciess and valueless; it is the emphasis, the expression, the tone that reveals the words that disclose our feelings and provoke others to mistrust or sympathy or anger.

Quinte and P. E. Districts Get Heavy Fall of Snow

After a couple of weeks or so of spring-like weather which caused winter's snow to all but disappear and streets take on a bare appearance, the Bay of Quinte district last night suffered a relapse of Old Man Winter.

Starting about six o'clock, heavy moisture laden snow fell over the area dumping approximately four inches on the ground in something less than three hours.

About nine o'clock the initial fall was over but again this morning the snow started with another inch added by mid-morning.

City snow plows have been out in force since last evening clearing roadways and sidewalks.

There were few traffic tie-ups in the city although at times cars backed up on Bridge Street as motorists without snow tires had trouble negotiating slippery conditions on Murney Hill.

Belleville received about five inches of snow but in Prince Edward county up to a foot of heavy snow was reported.

With all the snow there were no serious accidents.

City police answered a rash of calls between 7.30 and 8.30 p.m. - - after which drivers seemed to settle down.

Provincial police only had one mishap - - as bad weather drove traffic off the highways.

East of Shannonville on Highway 2, Robert Kirkpatrick of Napanee, escaped injury when his car rolled over.

U.C.W. View Film Strip On India

CAMPBELLFORD—The February meeting of Unit 6 of St. John's United Church Women was held at the home of Mrs. J. Cheynowuth with 13 members present. Mrs. Harold Pierce, the president was in charge.

Worship service was conducted by Mrs. I. Brackenridge and was based on the theme, "How to handle Criticism". A letter was read from the general unit president, Mrs. Morley Pethick, relative to the general program of all units for the year. The letter brought to attention the opportunity sale in May; also an invitation to all members to attend the Presbyterial to be held in St. John's Church on February 25th, as well as other matters pertinent to Unit work.

Mrs. F. M. Rutherford was appointed representative from Unit 6 to work with the opportunity sale committee.

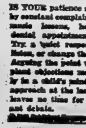
Plans were made to cater to the annual dinner of Semenyde Chapter I.O.D.E. in St. John's auditorium on February 11th.

FILM ON INDIA

A film was shown on India as a book being used this year "Indian Opportunity" by Dr. Wilfred Scopes has been recommended by the general program convener for unit use.

SYNOPSIS



The chapters used were synopsized and presented for reading in four divisions by Mrs. J. Rannie. These readings disclosed the progress of India politically, economically and religiously since being granted independence in 1947.

This has been accomplished thus far by a series of five-year plans, and with the help of other countries. Germany, Great Britain and Russia have each established huge steel plants, Canada has sent trained technicians as well as financial aid, also the United States. The progress made has been great in the light of the fact of their dense population, their widely diversified levels of economy and most important their lack of experience. Much remains to be done, the poor are extremely poor, and education is by no means basic, the Christian Church in the western world must recognize their great responsibility to help India become a responsible unit among the nations of the world.

Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Rannie for her fine portrayal of India as a country.

The meeting closed after which lunch was served.

Orders Models To Shave Off Eyebrows

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — Paris beauty experts, collaborating with top dress designers, often go to extremes in launching new makeup effects—such as attempting to abolish eyebrows and lipstick.

Nowadays, the "face is fashion" is often as startling as the dress designer's wildest fantasy.

The biggest revolution has been the abolition of eyebrows by Pierre Cardin, who ordered his models to shave off their eyebrows and powder the area into complete oblivion.

Other couture salons send their models parading through the salons with pale, colorless lips, or lipstick in the "Candide" effect with dead white lipstick.

Simonetta, the Italian couturier, scores for "hollow cheekbone look," achieved by soot grey streaks slanted from the temple to each side of the nose.

A leading hair-dresser recently launched the "chamber pot" hairstyle, Bouffant crowns suggest the shape of an inverted chamber pot, complete with a symmetrical "handle" lacquered to stand out over one ear.

BLONDE WIGS

Roberto Capucci makes fetish of the vamp. Models showed his last collection wearing identical shoulder - length platinum blonde wigs reminiscent of Jean Harlow in the 1930s.

Going back to the 18th century, beauty patches have been revived in Paris. Small black velvet beauty spots featured in round, square, heart, or diamond shapes are supposed to have a flirtatious connotation, depending on where they are placed.

The "coquette," for example, wears her patch at the corner of the upper lip. The "naughty girl" glues her beauty spot in front of the right ear, and so on.

Technical Aid Brings 'No Startling Changes'

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—A Vancouver-born home economist who spent 18 months in Ghana teaching African women how to run their homes more efficiently says technical assistance from foreign countries brings about "no startling changes" in the world's newer nations.

But Judy Foote, who joined the consumer section of the federal agriculture department here early this year, says assistance from Canada and other countries does a great deal to raise standards of living on a long-term basis.

"So many people who go overseas to work on special educational programs expect to see improvements overnight. This just doesn't happen. If you are in a country for nine or 10 years you can expect to see changes but things move very slowly."

The 30-year-old economist went to Ghana in 1961 through an arrangement with the Canadian University Service Overseas, a group with headquarters in Ottawa that recruits university graduates to work in developing nations at minimum pay.

TAUGHT FOOD USE

Miss Foote supervised and co-ordinated the work of 29 young Ghanaian women who travelled about giving adult education courses in nutrition, sewing, food preparation, gardening and the feeding of young children.

"Food is abundant in Ghana but the women don't know how to combine it to make a balanced diet. They prefer to eat the starchy foods, particularly yams which are boiled or are steamed as we cook potatoes."

Miss Foote, who graduated in home economics from the University of British Columbia in 1958, did all her own cooking while in Ghana. She usually prepared Canadian-style dishes but often ate native foods too.

One special Ghanaian treat she encountered from time to time was peanut butter stew over rice—"really quite good."

The region in which she worked was 100 miles north of Accra, the capital, in the village of Ho.

She lived in a small one-bedroom bungalow and found it was easier to make friends among the Ghanaians because she lived alone.

"Women would come to my door in the evening and step in for a visit. If I was with Europeans or Americans, the Ghanian would feel I had plenty of company and would not be so likely to visit."

Some of the modern equipment sent to Ghana was impractical, Miss Foote, recalling a gift of food-preserving equipment, Ghana doesn't need to preserve food the way Canada does because there is a year-round supply of fresh produce. Besides, a glass preserving jar costs about 42 cents, half a day's pay for some Ghanaians.

The Experts Say Foot Care More Important Than Having Weekly Hairdo

By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP) — Are we taking care of those all-important means of locomotion—our feet?

Elizabeth Hammond of the Canadian Shoe Information Bureau says many women think nothing of a weekly visit to the hairdresser, but that having one's feet professionally checked from time to time is often considered a luxury.

"From the point of view of health," she says, "the feet are more important than the weekly hairdo."

And from the point of view of fashion — especially with this season's "barefoot" shoe styles — the weekly home pedicure should be considered. An occasional professional pedicure is no more a luxury than the weekly hairdo, she said.

HEALTHY FEET

Dr. Irving Kaufman, president of the Canadian Association of Podiatry, has this advice for keeping feet healthy: "First, a professional is not a foot doctor. "A pedicure has a place in the life of the average woman, as long as she understands that pedicure is not confused with doctoring."

A pedicure is to the foot what a manicure is to the hand.

A podiatrist is a doctor who specializes in diseases, deformities and defects of the human foot. "Podiatry, or chiropody as it was formerly called in North America, is a branch of medicine similar to dentistry."

Dr. Kaufman said Quebec and the Maritimes are the only two areas in North America with podiatry acts protecting the public from people calling themselves foot doctors or podiatry, but who fail to meet North American standards.

KEY TO HEALTH

Dr. Kaufman and Mrs. Hammond agreed that a key to healthy feet is wearing the right shoe for the right occasion. During the "work load" part of the day, shoes should not compress nor distort the foot.

Heel height should be consistent with the laws of gravity, so as not to "throw the body out of plumb."

As for foot hygiene, Dr. Kaufman advises frequent bathing drying well between the toes and using a good foot powder. Trim the toenails straight across—not oval shaped. Do not wear short or pointed stockings.

Elevate your feet slightly above the hip level for five or 10 minutes, once or twice a day. A good exercise, Dr. Kaufman said, is to wiggle the toes to a count of 1-2-3 stop, and repeat 20 or 30 times. "Toes are made for gripping, balancing and propulsion. If they lose their normal mobility, they lose their function."

Wife Preserves

Packing for a trip? Wrap shoes in plastic food wrap or bags. Keeps them — and other items — clean.

Points to remember when buying shoes, he said, are that the height at the arch is not necessarily an indication of the health index of the foot.

"Some arches are naturally low, and some flat feet are normal."

Shoes for everyday wear should be bought in the late afternoon, and measurements of both feet should be taken while standing.

The larger foot should be comfortably fitted. Dress shoes should be bought earlier in the day, because they will fit more snugly at that period. And always make sure there is ample room for the toes.

"It's a good practice," said Dr. Kaufman, "for the average person to go barefoot on a carpet or lawn for a little while each day—to get away from hard, flat surfaces which deform the foot."

Young, Attractive Mother Aims to Make Curling Ice

By ED TREFIAK

CALGARY (CP) — Dorothy Ferguson, an attractive and enterprising young mother, is itching to get out and make some curling ice.

But when and where is a deep secret.

She wouldn't tell 51 classmates who kidded her about being the only woman ever to attend the Alberta Curling Association's two - day icemaking school as a student. She's also kept her Calgary friends in the dark.

"I'm not going to put up my own rink," said Mrs. Ferguson. "That was one of the stories bursting around Edmonton when the icemaking school was on, but it's just not so.

"I have hopes of making curling more of a full-time thing than it is now, but I don't want to say anything about it unless things pan out."

All she'd say about her plans was: "There are things I'm hoping for in the near future. I really do hope I can use my icemaking knowledge."

Dorothy first visited a curling rink five years ago, and immediately was caught up in the excitement of the roaring game.

LOT OF WORK

"When I played my first game, I thought this is really a challenge—the same way I feel about the insurance business."

She's a junior underwriter with a local insurance firm, "and very happy at it."

Dorothy skipped rinks in a women's league for three years —winning top trophies twice, and lost top berth in a mixed league by one point.

She said she had wanted to attend the eight-year-old ice-making school for the last four years, but wasn't able to get away until last fall.

Her excitement: "I knew icemaking was a lot of work, but I didn't know it took that much."

An icemaker's main problem, she said, is soil conditions. She told of visiting a rink with "the dumpiest ice surface you ever saw." However, the owner later installed a concrete floor over his old, soil base, correcting the problem.

"Porosity of the soil is the problem. Some parts freeze faster than others, causing heaving."

Also, she said flooding is tricky—"you have to know what you're doing and take your time to do it properly."

This may also be made in 2 loaf pans.

ANSWER:

Thank you very much for testing and sending this to me for Lynn C.

QUESTION:

Do you think a pressure cooker is a wise investment? Is there much saving in fuel used, and do you find the vegetables mushy? — Betty O'B.

ANSWER:

A pressure cooker is indispensable in my way of cooking. Yes, they conserve fuel. If you cook vegetables to the exact degree of tenderness they are not mushy. I have two. One is 7-cup size (No. 103 Vegetarian) and the other is nearly 10-qt. (No. 5) for canning and quantity cooking.

There is a 3-qt. size (No. 404) which is a dandy all-purpose cooker for 1 to 4, but is not too heavy to handle with one hand. It makes an ideal supplementary purpose pot. It is heavy and ideal for searing pot roasts and cooking them without pressure.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

RESPECT A CHILD'S POSSESSION

I don't care how deep the snow is on the ground, I have an itch to do some spring cleaning.

In our house, it's no longer a whim. It's a necessity. After the toy-klutch of Christmas, we follow up in a grand manner with a rash of birthday parties and there's just no place to put another mast-ered robot or strolling Bride at Hallowe'en and if young people were in attendance, record to date.

A similar devotional service was conducted by Murney Bradshaw and Raeburn Scott, following a lively sing-song led by Rev. Robert Reid.

During the business session, presided over by Ray Stephens, an invitation to a party February 8 at Aikens United Church was accepted, with five members planning to attend. Shnow Shennanigans for 1964 to be held at Peterborough, Feb. 8th and 9th. This annual event highlights outdoor sports and fellowship. Billets are supplied, so the cost for the two days is just $2.50.

A book "How to Conduct a Meeting" was secured for the use of members. An executive meeting will be held Tuesday evening at the parsonage, to plan for future activities. A contest was announced, with a prize offered to the member submitting the best suggestion for a name for the group.

GUEST SPEAKER

The speaker of the evening, Cpl. Howting of the Ontario Provincial Police gave the young people an insight into the work of an identification officer. By means of slides taken at the scene, of actual victims, he gave a graphic description of the horrors such men encounter in the normal discharge of their duty. An excellent speaker, Cpl. Howting had a most appreciative audience. He was thanked by the president.

The next meeting at Halloway on February 16, will have Margaret Huffman, Ann Emerson, Lyle Reid and Bill Tuffs as the lunch committee. Mr. Reid with the use of his tape recorder will deal with the topic, "Idiotic Things People Say."

Mrs. Kennedy Made Negroes Social Equals

More negroes were social guests at the White House during the three years that Jacqueline Kennedy was First Lady than in any other First Lady's reign since the executive mansion was built.

So reports Ebony magazine in an article in its February issue recounting the breakdown of social barriers in the White House during the administration of the late President John F. Kennedy. The negro magazine credits Mrs. Kennedy with cracking longtime social customs in making negro guests social equals during events at the White House.

"Mrs. Kennedy completely changed the White House social pattern by simply including negroes on practically every guest list she prepared", says the Ebony report. "As a result more negroes were at White House guests than throughout the years since the venerable mansion was built."

The magazine points out that Mrs. Kennedy's friendships with negroes predated her marriage to John F. Kennedy, and reveals for the first time that she learned to cook Southern style from a Washington negro named Robert Scurlock, who operates a suburban Virginia photographer.

"Mrs. Kennedy did not forget the man who started her on her brief journalistic career and rewarded Scurlock for it by letting him take exclusive photos of her husband and herself", Ebony notes.

In its article crediting Mrs. Kennedy with including negroes in the social life of Washington, which most of her predecessors had considered the exclusive domain of whites, Ebony declares that she carried on a little publicized but "extremely effective program of integration in the White House". On Lincoln's birthday last year she gave the President's box to negro guests in the White House on a single day than ever before had been given to a group of "more than 1,000 negro guests passing through the receiving line".

"Her relationship with negroes has always been free from that artificial cordiality that characterizes many white politicos' social relations with members of a racial minority group", states Ebony. The magazine describes the way in which she met negroes and relates that she once teasingly greeted Mrs. Clayton Powell, when he arrived in a loud bottle green jacket: "You should wear that."

It was Jackie Kennedy who insisted that "the racial makeup of the house guest that would accompany the President's body must at all times be integrated", states the magazine.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — There is this girl who works in our office and her desk is directly behind mine. I will call her Doris because she thinks she is Doris Day. . .

She sings from 9 till 5 and my only relief from her is during lunch hour. I understand she sings during lunch hour, too, so I go across the street and eat in the drugstore.

The funny thing about Doris is, she can remember all the lyrics to every song since "Back in Your Own Backyard" but she can't remember that special delivery stamps went to 30 cents a year ago.

I am fed up to here listening to that canary. Telling her to pipe down does not help. I have tried. What can you suggest? — DRIVEN TO THE BRINK.

• • •

DEAR DRIVEN — I suggest you learn a few lyrics yourself and sing along with Doris.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Please don't think I am a crazy, vain mother who wants her children to win beauty contests. This is not the case. I am writing about a problem which has been batted back and forth in our family for three years.

Our son is now 10 years old. He is a fine looking little chap but his ears stick out at right angles. He has been teased about his ears ever since he started school. The other night the little fellow asked me, pathetically, if I thought it would help if he slept with his ears taped back with adhesive.

I have heard that this problem can be fixed with surgery. My husband is against it. He says it is nonsense and not worth the money or the risk. Do you know anything about the operation? What would your advice be? — NEEDING AN ANSWER.

• • •

DEAR NEEDING — See your doctor. He will explain the procedure, the risks and the cost. I do hope the doctor will persuade your husband to change his mind. Your son is obviously self-conscious and unhappy about his ears and this could have a permanently damaging effect on his personality.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — The letter from Not-So-Golden-Years prompted me to write this letter. She was the woman who complained that her husband is now retired, has nothing to do but get in her way, and that she was dropped from her bridge club because her husband stood behind the players and kibitzed.

Let me say this: If that old geezer has reached retirement age and hasn't found himself a hobby he should have his head examined.

Four years ago I was kicked out of my job and I landed on the sidewalk — right on my pension. I've never been so happy in my life. I wish the week could be extended to eight days of 36 hours each. There isn't time to do all the things I have to do and want to do.

— Amy, as for Mrs. Not-So-Golden-Years: If she has spent 20 years of her life with nobody more to do than pitch the pedboards over a bridge table, she should have her head examined, too. Maybe she and her husband can now get together, re-evaluate their lives, and strive for something meaningful. — UNCLE DOC.

• • •

DEAR DOC — Bravo! Cheers! Take a bouquet, oldsters.

• • •

Confidential to SILVER SPOON — Sounds more like a rusty knife to me. What you seem to think is "selectivity" is really nothing but snobbishness. Phooey to such thinking, my dear.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Boys at Church Scarce, Has Trouble Finding Mate

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — I am in second year at university and I want a boy friend. Here are my problems:

1. Because of my religion I don't dance, but now I feel that I would like too. I think that most of the modern dances are vulgar, but I would like to learn the waltz and maybe one other.
2. The boys at the church I go to are now pretty scarce. Also, I don't agree with our new minister and, as a result, I don't go to my church very much.
3. People scare me. Even when I'm with a crowd of kids I know I tend to withdraw into myself and become very sarcastic. Half of me seems to enjoy hurting people with my sarcasm. — SOPH.

DEAR SOPH — Your long letter (not all printed here) told of an upset childhood. The bitterness I read into the above problems suggests that your adult years will be more so unless you right-about-face.

"Dances — vulgar"; "don't agree with your new minister"; "enjoy hurting people". You have developed habits of criticism which make you feel superior. And which make all possible boy friends run in the opposite direction.

Since you have mixed very little up to now, begin as if you were at a Jota a dancing or hobby group, and give special thought to helping someone else. And stop thinking your opinions are so all-fired clever.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I was recently released from the Canadian Army (on medical grounds) after five years of service. I had spent three months under psychiatric treatment and it was finally decided that I should get out of the Army as this was one of the major causes of my condition. Upon my release I felt quite wonderful.

I have the necessary education and personality for a job in the finance field. The managers of several companies were enthusiastic about me until they heard about my medical discharge. Then they say, "It might happen again", or "You don't have any experience."

The unemployment bureau sympathizes with my predicament but they can't help. Who can I contact to help me?

I don't want to go back to the hospital, but that's where I'm headed. — DESPERATELY WANTING A CHANCE.

* * *

DEAR DESPERATELY — Yours is the type of situation for which the Special Placement Section of the National Employment Service was created. Trained workers with aptitude tests at hand can point the way to suitable work; and can help employers to see that your handicap is no greater than many another's.

I did a research project on "Attitudes of Employers to Ex-Patients of Mental Hospitals"and found that many would rehire an old employee, after a session in hospital; fewer would take him on new. But it's fear of the unknown that makes the employer hesitate.

It is up to our employment officers to become informed on the subject and pass on the news that a person who has had a mental breakdown can make a first class employee; just as a TB cure or other rehabilitated person can.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I'm in love with this girl who is 15 and me 16. I think she's becoming a flirt. I want to try and change her to a nice respectable girl, but I don't know how. I don't want to lose her as a very good companion. — WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED — You're going at this business wrong end to. Find a nice respectable girl and make a companion of her. It's easier.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I have been caught blushing many times and this always proves to be very embarrassing. Do you think if I wore a light medicated make-up, people wouldn't notice my redness so much? — ALWAYS BLUSHING.

* * *

DEAR BLUSHING — You blush through shyness, or excitement, or anger, or a skin condition; and will probably outgrow it. Write again, enclosing your correct name and address on a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope, for a private letter from me on how to handle blushing.

* * *

(There's a way to cope with your dilemma. Get help from Doris, who has helped many Canadians to a happier state of affairs.)

Sunday School Lesson

Two Kinds of Fishing

Most men, and many women, like to fish. The chance to get away from the busy cares of everyday life and into the out-of-doors under the open sky, the attraction of the water, the challenge of matching wits with the wary fish, the hope and thrill of landing a prize catch — all these make fishing a most enjoyable sport. Even when they do not catch anything, many people like to fish for the relaxation it affords.

Peter, James and John, the first three disciples to follow Jesus, were fishermen. With them, however, fishing was a business, not a sport. These men earned their living by catching fish in the sea of Galilee and selling them in the market. It was while they were at their work Jesus approached them with the challenge to leave off fishing for fish, and begin fishing for His cause. Couching His invitation in terms they would understand, He promised to make them "fishers of men." Intrigued by His promise, they left their nets and followed him.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for February 9: "Peter, James and John" Matthew 4:18-22; 17:1-13; Mark 3:16-19; 14:32-42; Luke 8:49-56; Acts 4:13; 12:1-3.

These three were the first to follow Jesus. They were also the last to be with Him in Gethsemane. They were the three disciples to whom Jesus gave nicknames. They became the inner circle, the executive committee, so to speak, of the disciples. They were with Jesus on the Mount of Transfiguration. They stood together in boldly declaring their faith after His Resurrection. They were among the first to suffer persecution for their faith.

FISHERMEN, NOT THEOLOGIANS

It is interesting to note that the first three men Jesus invited to follow Him were fishermen. They were not, as we might have expected, trained theologians. When Jesus wanted to declare the Fatherhood of God to the world, He chose men who had not gotten their ideas of God out of books. The three would learn about God's kingdom by listening to Jesus. They would learn of God's love for mankind by watching Him. Jesus would challenge them to serve as He served, and to love as He loved. Peter, James and John were the first laymen of the Christian church. After He had taught them, Jesus would depend on them, as He depends on millions of laymen today, to apply His teachings and carry on His work in the world. Instead of catching fish, as Peter, James, and John had done, Jesus would set them to the task of catching men for God's kingdom.

NOT LIKE FISHING FOR FISH

But there is a vast difference between fishing for fish and fishing for men. In fishing for fish, the fish are taken out of their natural element, water, in which they live, and are brought up into the air in which they die. In fishing for men, religion seeks to lift them out of the unnatural element of doubt and sin, in which their spirits die, up to the element of faith and commitment in which their spirits can truly live.

In seeking men for the kingdom of God, they are not lifted from water into air, but from one atmosphere into another — from the oppressive, stifling atmosphere of cynicism and sin into the invigorating, life-giving atmosphere of faith and love.

In Switzerland sometimes an interesting wind blows that is known as the 'foehn' (pronounced almost like "fern") The air gets heated over the hot sands of the Sahara desert in Africa and rises to great heights where it is blown north over the snow-covered Alps. As the hot air comes in contact with the great masses of ice and snow, it suddenly cools and drops down into the valleys where it actually increases the atmospheric pressure. Sometimes without knowing why, people begin to get headaches, or become depressed or irritable. The heaviness of the atmosphere has such marked effect on human behavior that the courts actually take this into consideration in meting out punishment for crimes committed during such periods.

So man's love for his fellow man can be chilled by the icy glaciers of sinful pride. Under the heavy atmosphere of fear and hate, their spirits become depressed, and they lose the love and joy God meant them to experience. They need to be lifted by a great faith, a great purpose, a great cause to where their spirits come alive with new faith and joy.

CHURCH MUST LURE MEN

It is the church's task to lure men into such a faith. Fish do not jump into the boat, they must be caught. And men do not naturally turn from their selfish interests; they must be challenged and led. And the bait? The same allurement Jesus used — the chance to serve mankind in the name of a living, loving God. The chance to lift mankind, and to be in the company of those who lead men toward a new and better day. To be such leaders, men must be willing to leave their selfish and sinful interests, and follow the call of the Galilean.

God however and wherever He leads, even as Peter, James and John left their work and their kinfolk to follow at the call of the Galilean.

Consider Meteor's low price... then you'll see how Meteor's extra length and width give you ride and performance that beats all cars in its class.

See it? That's pure, big-load-carrying space! Even with an 8' toboggan in it you've still got room to close the tailgate. Even with six big passengers, you've still got whopping huge cargo room. But a Meteor Station Wagon gives you more than merely big load space—it gives you an elegant car with the interior luxuries enjoyed in sedans.

And big means more than just space and room. It means easier handling at highway speed and surer control on corners. Why? Because Meteor's big 80" width provides wider stance which means more stability.

Big length means a better ride, too. It stands to reason—Meteor's big 120" wheelbase straddles bumps and checks dip and dive.

Don't look now, but you're already moving! It's Meteor's Cushion Link Suspension that makes for such smooth riding. This suspension is exclusive to Meteor in its class—lets wheels move backward and forward as well as up and down. This not only absorbs shock beneath the wheel—it also absorbs shock in front of the wheel, like a boxer rolling with the punch.

Why are so many people buying Meteor? Because Meteor gives you so many extras for a low-priced car. Test-drive it at your Mercury dealer's.

Falardeau and Darveau took one cab and were picked up without a struggle 15 minutes later while their vehicle was stopped for a red light.

Messier and Facchino got out of the second cab in northeastern Montreal. Levesque and Faciano stayed with the taxi and forced the driver to head north for the Laurentians.

They were recaptured after cabbie Francois Vanier, 41, slowed up for a police roadblock and rolled out of the car. Levesque took the wheel and sped on, but pulled into a wire fence.

Levesque had been sought for months for questioning about the hooded gang that spread terror in western parts of Quebec and Ontario. The hooded bandits invaded private homes and robbed and raped the occupants.

Levesque, arrested just last Saturday, was convicted Wednesday of possessing an unregistered firearm and is to be sentenced Feb. 21. He also faces charges of possessing burglar tools, a forged car registration and stolen driver's licence blanks.

Resignation Of Minister Is Accepted

BONN (Reuters)—West German President Heinrich Luebke today accepted the resignation of Refugees Minister Hans Krueger, who recently admitted that he had been a judge on a Nazi special court in occupied Poland during the Second World War.

Krueger was temporarily suspended from his office last month at his own request while a ministerial committee investigated his activities in Poland.

On Jan. 31 he offered his resignation.

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard agreed to propose to President Luebke that he should be relieved of his post.

The East Germans have alleged that as an assistant judge, Krueger took part in passing hard labor and death sentences on Poles.

In his resignation letter he wrote: "I am today not aware of any conduct which could be considered as a violation of human rights and law."

Bulc Krueger declared, he was aware that the allegations "made on him had also caused attacks on the chancellor and the government and he therefore wishes to resign."

Teachers Win Charity Hockey Game

PICTON (Staff) — "Operation Pennies" and close to a thousand fans were the real winners as the Kingston "No Stars" played a game which charitably be called hockey with the teachers from the Prince Edward County Collegiate.

The score wound up 9-6 in favor of the teachers.

There was no doubt in anyone's mind after the players had been introduced as to who was the most popular—Brian Olney won it in a walk. The teen-agers gave him a cheer that had the rafters fairly shaking.

It was farce from start to finish, highlighted when Max Jackson, coach of the No Stars tossed Brian a puck—that the player all up in the Kingston end mattered not to Brian —he wobbled down to the Picton end, all alone, and picking up the puck, threw it past Chris Jones in the nets for Kingston's first goal.

Not to be outdone by the NHL, both teams staged a "donnybrook" that looked far more fierce than the one put on by the Leafs and the Hawks. Everyone was on the ice, including the two coaches.

Some weird penalties were called too.

Jean Sauriol, one of the teachers was banished for two minutes for "tripping" Bob Marchington, another teacher, was sent to the "sin bin" for illegal procedure, and Kingston had Gerry Tiblin penalized for goal tending.

All in all the fans enjoyed every minute of the game—operation pennies were helped as the players had a grand time out—so everything worked out fine.

Joe Scott fired the hat trick for the teachers with two second period goals and one in the last frame. Bob Marchington, Ian Cameron, Bob Kirkpatrick and Norm Kerr each fired singles, with Bill Lambie firing a pair for Picton.

Brian Olney fired one; Vern Rombough fired a pair; Laurie Cameron and John Hollendoor each scored for Kingston.

Police Use Outsider to Nab Suspect

BOSTON (AP) — Information from a man who described himself as a psychic detective led police to one suspect now in custody in connection with the unsolved strangulings of 11 women in the Greater Boston area, Massachusetts Attorney-General Edward W. Brooke said Thursday.

Brooke identified the man as Peter Hurkos, 52, who, he said, claims powers of extrasensory perception.

Hurkos was shown pictures of the victims, was taken to the scene of at least five of the crimes and examined other evidence gathered by authorities.

Brooke said he then described the man he thought was responsible. His description was "uncannily close" to that of a 37-year - old itinerant shoe salesman now under observation in a state mental institution.

Brooke said the shoe salesman was picked by police last Monday after Hurkos had given them his description. The salesman was known to police and was one of perhaps 1,000 suspects, Brooke said.

The man has a long record of mental disturbance, the attorney-general said.

Hurkos talked with the man after he was taken into custody, and Brooke said, felt he was the best suspect.

Brooks said "it is impossible to say when and if these cases will be solved." But the startlings have had local authorities baffled since the series began in the Boston area 18 months ago.

Hurkos charged a fee of $1,000 plus expenses, not only to record to exceed another $1,000, Brooke said. The idea of bringing him in on the case came from an anonymous private citizen and the money for his fee and expenses also came from private sources, Brooke said.

Can you imagine Canada's Prime Minister Lester Pearson discussing the country's business with his sober-faced cabinet ministers — all wearing shaggy mop Beatle haircuts.

Or one of our dignified TV announcers reading the national news broadcast with the same moronic haircut shining through the picture tube?

Well, hang onto your hats — or haircuts. This is the weekend that our continent is being invaded by four young men whose trademark is an ability to look like morons while singing from a platform.

If what has already happened in Great Britain is any indicator, we can expect to see a great many people imitating the unbelievably successful Beatles. Who knows where the haircuts might end?

As you may have heard (you'd be deaf if you hadn't) the four young gentlemen — John, George, Paul and Ringo — are at the top of Canada's hit parade with that fine old tune, "I Want to Hold Your Hand."

Before they leave this continent, you can bet your next haircut the Beatles will have recorded several more tunes into your local jukebox.

Slightly more than one year ago, who had ever heard of the Beatles, a group playing in Liverpool, England? A check made this week reveals they now have three tunes among Canada's top 100.

CLIMBING FAST

On top, of course, is the one we already mentioned. A second She Loves You is in 11th place, even though it was in the 51st slot two weeks ago.

Watch for I Saw Her Stnd one, Please, Please Me, which is 73rd. Another singer, Donna Lynn, has already jumped onto the bandwagon with her record, My Boyfriend Got a Beatle Haircut.

Where did the term "Beatles" originate? There are several versions, but the true one, I think, says that the name comes from the four feat. Listen to it and it never varies.

A friend who recently returned from Great Britain spoke with awe about hearing a London concert of the Beatles. He shivered as he recalled the night.

"Everywhere I looked, I saw girls," he said. "I could see fellows, but we were badly outnumbered. Worse yet, we were totally ignored. Every girl was staring and screaming at the stage."

"At one point, the volume from the fans was so loud that I mumbled something about wishing I had earplugs. Three girls turned and glared at me so furiously that I thought they would hit me."

"I've seen Judy Garland in action," he continued, "and I've read about the demonstrations that Elvis Presley used to spark. But I'd never seen anything like this. Every girl seemed hypnotized."

"But I ask you," he concluded, "what self-respecting girl would want to be seen in public with any idiot who turned his head into a bowl like that?"

The Beatles will appear on three network TV shows while they are on this continent and play for three Carnegie Hall concerts. As someone remarked, it's nice to see Carnegie Hall going "longhair" again.

GOOF

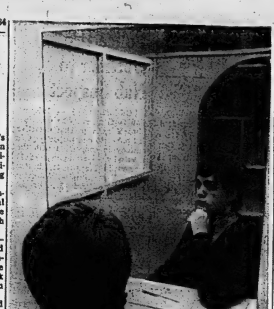
When I recently rewrote a twenty-card column on playing around with different number systems, my mother, a public school teacher, asked whether I really understood the whole thing.

"Of course, mother," I explained.

Friends, always listen to your mother. I decided that after puzzled letters began arriving from all parts of the country, wondering why my seven-number system had 0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7.

That, of course, is the eight-number system. Somehow the last digit crept into the latest column although it wasn't in the first. Throw it out and, in case you're wondering, everything will work out correctly.

I'm only sorry I can't answer all the letters, all of which detail very kindly with an obvious goof. Thanks for the letters. But, as I told mother, we at least know the column was read.



BABY SITTERS

A lady from Montreal, Que., is the latest to speak up on the controversy over whether baby sitters rule their employers or vice versa.

She wrote: "Count me among the parents who have written you, complaining about modern baby sitters. Believe me, I have to lock my cupboards every time I go out. If I could only lock the refrigerator."

TOP 20 TUNES

I'd Want To Hold Your Hand, Beatles; 2 Anyone Who Had A Heart, Dionne Warwick; 3 There! I've Said It Again, Bobby Vinton; 4 Louie, Louie, Kingsmen; 5 You Don't Own Me, Lesley Gore; 6 Surfin' Bird, Trashmen; 7 Hey Little Cobra, Rip Chords; 8 Out of Limits, Marketts; 9 Um, Um, Um, Um, Um, Um, Major Lance; 10 Popsicles and Icicles, Murmaids; 11 She Loves You, Beatles; 12 For You, Rick Nelson; 13 As Usual, Brenda Lee; 14 Forget Him, Bobby Rydell; 15 Daisy Petal Pickin', Fireballs; 16 Whispering, Tempo and Stevens; 17 The Nitty Gritty, Shirley Ellis; 18 Java, Al Hirt; 19 A Fool Never Learns Since I Fell For You, Lenny Welch.

BEATLE BUG — Garry Catty seems undecided about how he looks in a "Beatle" wig.

St. Ola

ST. OLA—Mr. Melville Read of Coe Hill was a guest recently of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Phillips.

94TH BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Phillips entertained at a turkey dinner last Sunday in honor of Mrs. Gordon King who celebrated her 94th birthday on February 6. In spite of her advanced age Mrs. King still cooks her own meals, keeps her living quarters in spotless condition and takes an active interest in the events of the day.

The February meeting of the United Church Women was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Phillips.

Mrs. C. E. Thompson underwent surgery in the Belleville General Hospital and is reported recovering satisfactorily.

Mrs. Harry Phillips visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Watson of Havelock for a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Nicholson accompanied by Mrs. Alan Carrol and Mr. Thomas Carrol visited Mr. Alan Carrol who is a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospitol, Kingston.

The St. Ola general store is again open for business with a good stock of groceries and other supplies.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Baker and family visited Mr. and Mrs. William Baker on Sunday.

MR. MELTZER ON REAL ESTATE

"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Technical terms in any profession tend to confuse laymen. Real estate is no exception.

Many personal misinterpret such terms as Fee Simple. They are of the opinion that the use of the term "Simple" implies low quality ownership. This confusion was expressed in the concern of one of our readers.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We have been following your columns for a long time and when we bought our house we took your advice and got professional real estate guidance. We were, therefore, very disappointed yesterday, when we got the deed to our home. It states that my wife and I are owners 'In Fee Simple.'

After all the professional advice and assistance we used, I think we were entitled to something better than a simple type of deed. Since you got us into this, we think it is only fair that you help us and tell us how to get a better deed.

Answer: I can't help you get a better deed, because your counselor has already done this for you.

A 'Fee Simple" deed conveys absolute ownership without limitations or restrictions. It is the highest form of ownership one can have. It conveys the most complete array of property rights an owner can have.

I am glad to see that you took my advice to use professional assistance, and trust that you will be glad, too, now that you know it was successful.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We are moving as the expiration of our two year lease and we are concerned about a clause in the lease that specifies that if we move we must restore the apartment to the same as its original condition.

About the only change we made was to repaint its walls from a sort of dull gray brown to brighter — but conservative — grays and burgandies. Our landlord has been so finicky and such a stickler on rules that we are certain he will insist on enforcing the letter of the lease.

The question is, must we restore the original mouse-brown paint color before moving?

Answer: There is a story I often tell my students to illustrate this point. It's about the man who rushed into a pet shop to buy 100 mice. When the pet shop owner commented, "You must really like mice," he replied, "Oh no! I'm moving tomorrow and must have them to satisfy the terms of my lease. It says I have to leave the apartment in the same condition as it was when I moved in."

That of course is unnecessary. The "return to original condition" clause is generally intended to prevent tenants from making substantial or potentially detrimental alterations of the premises. It is my experience that merely repainting the walls is not usually considered as being in this category.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My grandson just got married and rented an apartment. If you'll forgive an old codger his reminiscences, things were a lot different when I was a young man. In those days people used to own their own homes.

I have always felt home ownership was an important part of what made this country great, and I think its passing is another example of what's wrong with things today.

Answer: Many historians agree with you and feel there is a close relationship between home ownership and the greatness of a country. You should be reassured to learn that contrary to your impression, home ownership in this country has been increasing steadily, except for a temporary setback during the 1930's.

In 1900, when you were a youngster, only 36.9 percent of urban families owned their own homes. By 1960 (the last year for which data is available) 61 percent of all dwellings were occupied by owners, and there is every indication that this increase is continuing.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am sick and tired of living in a house that smells like a cesspool. After every heavy rain the sewer line backs up and floods my basement. It's not only the bad odor that bothers me — I am concerned for the health of my children.

We have all of our money invested in our house but in spite of that we are thinking of abandoning it. Is there anything we can do short of walking out of our home?

Answer: Your problem is serious but there is a simple and relatively inexpensive solution. A check valve, installed in the sewer line just inside the house will permit waste to drain freely but will prevent it from flowing back into your basement.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Man Who Filmed A-Bomb Gives Caribbean Travelogue At Kiwanis Show at BCIVS

Life under the sea is exciting, adventurous and dangerous says Colonel John D. Craig of Arcadia, California, producer, narrator and host of travel adventure series.

Col. Craig came to Belleville to the Kiwanis Travelogues which was held at B.C.I. last evening, bringing with him a travel adventure film entitled, "Over and Under The Caribbean," filmed in the Caribbean, just across the Gulf Stream from Miami Beach, Florida.

Col. Craig's lecture tours are strenuous. He said by tonight he will have completed 48 programs in 40 days.

COL. JOHN D. CRAIG

Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, Col. Craig as a boy went to school in Toronto and Clinton, Ontario, for a while and said he always enjoyed Canadian winters. He then moved to California, "I am a born endless considered a native," he says, "because I have been out there ever since."

MAKES TV FILMS

His business is making adventure films for motion picture studios and television, and to date he has completed four television series called, "I Search For Adventure," "The Kingdom of the Sea," "Danger Is My Business" and "Expedition". These pictures have been televised at one time or another over Canadian TV.

Col. Craig said when he is not making adventure television material he and his crew shoot color film of an area of interest and late, use it for a travelogue series, such as the one shown here.

In the United States Air Force during the war he had charge of combat camera units. Col. Craig says he photographed the air war while attached to the British 8th Army.

TOOK A-BOMB PHOTOS

"After the war I was held in the service for work in the Pacific on the atom bomb. I was in charge of the air force motion pictures of the A-bomb. I must say it is one of the most interesting phases of all our activity and the most significant experience I ever had", he said.

Col. Craig said the film he showed to the Kiwanis Travelogue was a story of what happened to one of his camera men and himself while on a holiday in the Caribbean.

While on vacation, Col. Craig said, he had an opportunity to do some shark research for the United States Navy. This was most interesting, he having been able to work right in the tanks with the underwater killer. He said they were able to feed sharks by hand and photograph the creatures at close quarters.

Col. Craig said he started his diving career in 1932 and is now president of his own Company known as "Underwater Technologists Associated". The company consists of underwater specialists, consultants, photography and a diving service.

DAUGHTER IS DIVER

He is married and has two grown daughters, Sharon is a nurse in Los Angeles, but Cathy, a senior in high school is following in her father's footsteps. She is a top-notch scuba diver. Col. Craig said Cathy appears in some of his latest films.

"Scuba diving requires a lot of training," he says, "and you must be in top physical condition. While on location the scuba diving wet suit is used, for safety, masks, fins and air regulators. Col. Craig said that very rarely is more than 20 feet of water required and only colored film was used.

He left Belleville today for London where he will speak to the Rotary Club there, and then return to his home. After that he will probably be back to the studios and to more adventures under the sea.

Hospitals Not Following Letter of Law in Reporting Deaths to Coroner Says Cass

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Fred Cass said Thursday hospitals have not been following the letter of the law in supplying coroners with information on deaths.

He told a press conference hospitals should report all cases of unusual deaths to a coroner and let him decide whether an not an inquest is necessary. This was not being done.

The attorney-general picked up in reference to the case uncovered by Dr. Morton Shulman, chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto, of a surgical instrument being left in a woman's body after an operation.

The woman, Patricia Morgan, 32, died 18 days later in East General Hospital. However, the hospital did not report the unusual circumstances of the death, insisting the fact that the woman's physician was interrupted mid-way in the operation.

When Dr. Shulman brought it to the attention of Mr. Cass, an inquest was ordered into the death. Date for the hearing has not yet been set

WANTS REPORTS

Mr. Cass said in his opinion any similar cases should be reported by hospital officials to the coroner. "That's what the law says now, but it's not been the practice."

Mr. Cass said he thought Dr. Shulman had overstepped his bounds.

He said his study of the case makes it absolutely clear to him that Dr. Shulman tried to do things he has no authority to do under the laws governing inquests.

He attorney-general said he will discuss the hospital situation with Dr. Shulman when the latter returns from a two-week vacation.

The two men met recently to discuss Dr. Shulman's charges of political interference in his department. W. B. Common, the deputy attorney-general, has suggested abolishing the chief coroner's job.

Mr. Cass said conflict had arisen between Dr. Shulman and the attorney-generally department on the level that that of the minister. Mr. Cass said he himself had "no axe to grind" with Dr. Shulman.

The difficulty was, he said, that while Dr. Shulman was exercising what he understood were his duties, Mr. Common had told him that under the law he did not have the right to do everything he wanted to do.

DIDN'T ACCEPT

Dr. Shulman, however, had not accepted that opinion. Mr. Cass hoped these differences could be resolved without the need of legislation. This apparently was a reference to legislation to abolish the chief coroner's office.

Mr. Cass said Dr. Shulman deserved credit for bringing some things into the public view. But he just couldn't change the coroners' system overnight.

"Some of the things Dr. Shulman proposes are entirely against opinions and views of the medical profession," he said without elaboration.

ANNOUNCE RAISES

LONDON (Reuters) — The government announced Thursday raises in pay and pensions for members of the armed forces amounting to £29,200,000 ($87,000,000). The basic pay increases will affect about 50,000 officers and 355,000 men.

Back-to-Back Storms Paralyze Entire Centres

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Cold weather and high winds were expected today in large areas of the U.S. southwest, where unusual back-to-back blizzards have paralyzed entire communities and marooned thousands of travellers for nearly a week.

The new cold air mass and winds complicated attempts to clear highways of as much as 30 inches of snow, and to get supplies to isolated towns.

Three counties in New Mexico were declared emergency areas—San Miguel, Union and Quay Counties—and about 100 National Guardsmen were worked full time with M-42 tanks to take wrench families to town.

Unless the new storm keeps below 20 degrees the economic damage was expected to be light.

The Texas agriculture commissioner John C. White, said the over-all effect of moisture in long-parched areas greatly offset any immediate damages.

The biggest losses so far come from cattle being killed when they were left on railroad tracks. Other livestock were expected to survive unless the weather worsens.

At least 10 persons are known dead, five in Texas and five in New Mexico, as a result of the storms.

Negro College Students May Stage Protest

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)—Tuskegee crew in Alabama's racial difficulties today as protest demonstrations by Negro students at the two Negro institutes were expected.

There was less apprehension at nearby Notasulga but a white boycott of a newly desegregated high school in Shorter gained momentum. Six Negro pupils remained in the school without disorder.

Most of the state troopers mobilized in the wake of court-ordered integration at Notasulga and Shorter were sent home, but riot-trained troopers were expected to return in force Monday.

An estimated 300 students marched quietly around the Tuskegee Institute campus Thursday in what appeared to be a trial run for protests to come.

The dean of students, Dr. S. Bertram Phillips, said the students would remain on campus through today, but after that, "I can't be sure."

City officials rejected an application for a parade permit, saying that the stage was set for the city without the permit would subject the demonstrators to arrest.

STAYS CLOSED

The Notasulga High School still segregated despite a federal court order 10 months ago, remained closed while city officials rushed repairs on a new filter plant, damaged by a fire which arson was suspected. Mayor James Rea said he hoped the Notasulga High School and two other schools closed because of the water shortage could be reopened Monday.

But even when classroom work is resumed at the school, the six Negro pupils transferred there by a federal judge will remain barred, the mayor said, under a new municipal fire prevention ordinance limiting the members of students the building can hold.

The Associated Press learned Thursday that infantry soldiers from Fort Benning, Ga., have been put on alert for possible deployment to Notasulga.

UNIT TAKES OVER

OTTAWA (CP) — The reconnaissance squadron of the 8th Canadian Hussars from Camp Petawawa, Ont., Thursday took over Canada's part in peacekeeping duties on the Egyptian-Israeli border, the Canadian Army said here. The squadron is taking over Calgary Lord Strathcona's Horse artillery who are returning to Canada after one year's Middle East duty with the United Nations Emergency Force.

Two Legislatures Consider Setting up Ombudsmen

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two provincial governments down gave notice Thursday they intended to investigate establishment of ombudsmen — citizens to whom taxpayers can submit complaints about what they consider unfair or arbitrary government action.

The proposals were contained in the throne speeches of the Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan legislatures, two of three provincial houses which opened Thursday.

In the third, Manitoba, the government announced in the throne speech a proposal to set up a portable pension plan.

The Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan ombudsmen would be at patterned on offices now existing in Scandinavian countries. If grievances are found legitimate, they are acted upon.

Meanwhile, the legislative tempo was well under way in three other legislatures that have been in session for more than a week.

SPEECH APPROVED

In British Columbia, the throne speech received formal approval, and the stage was set for presentation of the budget.

In Quebec, Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson suggested part of the cost of university education should be deductible from both federal and provincial income taxes.

And in Ontario, an opposition Liberal member blasted the government for not cracking down on salesmen who use phoney pitches in door-to-door magazine and freezer selling and who use false advertising.

Halifax — In a brief address at the end of the legislature's opening day, Peter M. Nicholson, Liberal House leader, challenged two members from constituencies with high percentages of French-Acadian populations to publicly deplore "the divisive influences at work today, and the false doctrines uttered and promoted by those who would seek to endanger racial hatred."

One of the two members, Gerald Doucet, (PC — Richmond) at 28 the House's youngest member, spoke for a few minutes in French in moving the address in reply to the speech from the throne. He did not mention biculturalism or separatism.

The other member mentioned by Mr. Nicholson is H. J. Pothier, member for Clare

Regina — The CCF government announced action to spur a provincial economy it described as already sounder than ever before. New and expanded programs will be aimed at sparking agricultural, industrial and natural resources development.

Winnipeg — The government announced legislation to establish a bill to require registration of private pension plans in the province to ensure their solvency and portability. The bill would enable Manitobans to take their pensions with them if they move from one job to another in the province.

Victoria — The Social Credit government—defeated non-confidence motions by the Liberal and New Democratic parties by identical margins of 33 to 19 at the conclusion of the throne speech debate.

Quebec — Mr. Johnson said parents paying costs of university tuition for their children should be able to deduct at least part of these expenses from their income tax. Students repaying a provincial government loan should be permitted to deduct annual repayments from both federal and provincial income tax. This would increase access to higher education without substantially reducing government revenues.

Germans Edge Swiss 6-5

INNSBRUCK (CP) — Germany exploded for four goals in the third period to overcome a 6-5 victory over Switzerland and score its first win of the Olympic hockey championship tournament.

It was the sixth defeat for the Swiss in the seven-game round-robin and dropped them deeper into the cellar of the eight - country medal race. Germany, with one win and five losses, in seventh.

The Swiss led 3-2 in the first period and made it 4-2 in the second before the Germans' four-goal flurry in the third period.

Businessman Says Canada Needs Revised Constitution To Save Confederation

TORONTO (CP) — Businessman Peter N. Thomson of Montreal said Thursday Canada needs a revised constitution to save Confederation. At the same time he criticised French-speaking Canadians for blaming their English - speaking counterparts for many of their problems.

Mr. Thomson, president of Power Corporation, told a meeting of the Empire Club of Canada that more and more French-Canadians believe their future lies, not in separatism, but in a "revised Canadianism."

This should occur within a new constitution "that will give the French-Canadian the realization that he had the right to stand equally beside the millions of other Canadians of many origins who accept Canada as their own country."

English - Canadians "must take a large share of the blame" the French-Canadian feels that he has been treated like an inferior citizen."

"Whether by accident or design many of us have made no effort to speak French in centres where French was the predominant language, thereby imparting an attitude of English superiority."

SENTIMENT GROWS

Mr. Thomson said there is a "growing sentiment among the separatists and their supporters that anything that is wrong with Quebec must be the fault of the English. . . .

"I suggest to you that the separatists are wrong, that the fault lies as much in themselves as in anything that others have done or have not done with respect to French-Canadians. . . .

"In the separatist movement I echo from Quebec's past, but without the honesty that characterized the struggle of the French settlers in the early days."

He said the early French settlers largely ignored industry and agriculture, with the result that eventually the English colonies outgrew New France in population, wealth, trade and command of the sea."

The traditions of French-Canada's classical colleges also prevented students from playing a full part in the scientific, engineering and business developments of their province.

OPPORTUNITIES PRESENT

"Economic opportunities have always been present in Quebec for both races. That the French-Canadian was interested for politics, the professions and the priesthood in preference to commerce and industry was of his own choosing.

"If he entered the business arena later than his English-speaking contemporaries, no one is to blame but those who perpetuated the parochial education system that failed to prepare him for a role in business.

"The French - Canadian is a product of his own environment, a system which he himself has controlled from the beginning and to which the English-speaking Quebecker has had little or no say whatever.

Mr. Thomson said that to argue French-Canadians were denied business opportunities was to ignore facts and insult "the myriad French-Canadians who have contributed to the grandeur of this country and of their province.

HITS COLONIAL SCHOOL

He criticized French - Canadians who belong to "the colonial-school of thought.'

"They believe that all Quebec has to do to regain its feet is to free itself from the -colonialism of the English regime. However honestly held, this view is fallacious, for French-Canadian colonialism is a state of mind, and no reality."

He said separatists are unrealistic in their stand on bilingualism. Even if all English-Canadians learned to speak French, what about the 180,000,000 Americans with whom Canadians had to trade?

"Guarantees of the right to their own language and in all French-Canadian institutions of learning, government and law that anything less than these have, in fact, contributed to the very economic dependency they are now bemoaning, for is through their language that they separated themselves from the main stream of progress and development of North America.

"I am not arguing that it should have been otherwise, I merely point out that alternative development in French has been a greater inhibiting factor exerted the world of business.

MONTREAL (CP) — Gilles Gregoire, parliamentary leader of Le Ralliement des Creditistes, said Thursday Quebec should withdraw its members from the federal Parliament after the province has won what he called "complete legislative, executive and judicial powers."

Mr. Gregoire told a group of cheering University of Montreal students that Quebec's status relative to Canada would be similar to that of Puerto Rico relative to the United States.

"If we pay one more taxes to Ottawa, that means we don't need to send MPs to Ottawa any more," he said.

He said Puerto Rico has no voting representatives in the U.S. Congress or Senate though it shares in defence and other activities.

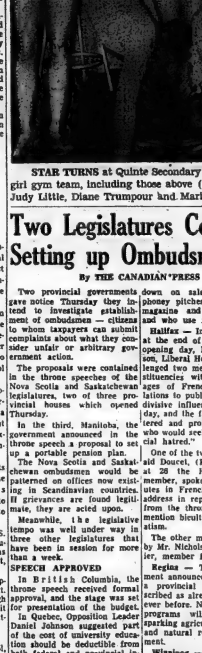
Mr. Gregoire reiterated demands made recently by the Creditistes that more cons tutional powers be granted Quebec.

Front Line of U. S. Foreign Policy Said to Be Sagging

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The front line of U.S. foreign policy appears to be sagging in many parts of the world. But though Uncle Sam's popularity apparently is taking a beating, there is no indication that any major policy revision is likely in this presidential election year.

President Johnson, whose main interest in the past has been domestic politics rather than foreign affairs, is facing Republican charges that he lacks leadership qualities. These charges will be pressed when the Communists and nationalists are stirring up new trouble — American campaigns while some of the Allies, such as France, are talking away from adherence to Western solidarity.



Johnson is trying to show a position of strength without causing a major upset in the slender peace between the Western and the Soviet armed bloc. The result has been, in some cases, a standstill in U.S. foreign policy, particularly in areas which critics of Uncle Sam tend to exploit.

At this point, there isn't much the U.S. is likely to do to counter Red China's exploitation of anti - American sentiment in East Africa. Nor is there much hope that the U.S. can restore good relations with Cambodia where a vitriolic campaign against the Americans followed the assassination attempt against President Kwame Nkrumah.

Even in Cyprus, where America's allies are directly involved, the most outspoken sentiment is voiced against the U.S., when all the U.S. tried to do was support Britain's proposal for a North Atlantic peacekeeping operation on that racetorn island Thus. Johnson has been warned by some political advisers to keep clear of the Cyprus maelstrom.

The lesson that may be extracted from all the outcourst, from South Viet Nam to Panama and Cuba, is that there are a growing number of countries which the U.S. does not support and which do not trust the U.S.

American largesse, in the form of large-scale foreign aid, may in the past have tended to muffle this inner opposition to American policy, but with the knowledge that U.S. aid is being reduced, these countries may feel they have nothing to lose in expressing their long-held sentiments.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Signor Tommy Mascaro, the amiable manager of the Park Theatre, wagged a finger at this agent the other day and came up with one of his rare crystal-ball prophecies.

"The day may not be too far distant," quoth Thomas "when all you sportsminded patrons of mine will be watching your big playoffs and championship events on theatre screens."

His eyes fairly shone with something or another. It could have been anticipation of sports crowds lined up as far as Rosemore hungrily awaiting box-office service to get a first-class view of Grey Cup, Stanley Cup, Football Cup play, or Cass Clay doing a ballet in defence of his heavyweight title.

There could be more than a scintilla of truth in Signor Mascaro's prognostication. If pay-TV comes into being the average sports fan would scarcely mind paying the difference between the cost of seeing the picture on his living-room Lilliputian set and that of the Brobdingnagian theatre screen.

Closed circuit television is the Fort Knox of athletes, officials and promoters of top events of the sports world.

Take the impending Sonny Liston-Cassius Clay fandango. If all the loot was piled in one big heap it would take a half-dozen Brink's armored cars to lug it away.

Hundreds of cities in the United States and Canada will screen the much-ballyhooed battle in theatres, arenas and auditoriums. And at prices ranging from $4.50 to perhaps as high at $10 per seat.

A story out of Miami quotes a Mr. Nate Halpern who heads the theatre-TV program as saying the fight will bring a gross gate of $7,500,000.

If Liston's prediction ("If you're around after eight seconds of the first round I'll give you the fight") comes true, that means the scuffle will be worth something over $900,000 a second.

If what Cassious Cassius says proves he's right and he tucks away "the ugly bear" in five rounds—well—you figure it out.

The pot of gold that hangs at the end of the most fanciful rainbow over to Dublin across the Celtic horizon, is the largest since prehistoric man started this clouting business with stone shillalaghs.

And ninety percent of its fashioning and building can be attributed to the sheer lung power, fantastic doggerel and out-sized colorful antics of the Madcouse synagogue with the built-in ego from the Kentucky cottonfields.

Ringsiders at the Miami site of the brawl will part with $250 for each seat. The fact that the fight may not last any longer than it takes for them to wiggle into seating comfort doesn't matter. They will pay to see this brash young man either take his "lumps" or live up to his boast to put the Philadelphia bulldozer away in his allotted time.

The story goes that Liston and Joe Louis had lunch together in a Las Vegas restaurant. The old ring cliche came up. Who would win if Joe (in his prime) met Liston?

"That will never be answered," said Joe. "But I'd like to split the closed circuit TV on that one."

Baby Habs Dump Petes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's getting to be so common an occurrence in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series that if Montreal Canadiens' Yvon Cournoyer didn't score at least two goals a game something would be wrong.

Cournoyer, who has four goals to his credit in five games with the parent Canadiens of the National Hockey League, has registered two goals in each of his last three OHA games. Sandwiched in between were a pair of goals for the NHL Canadiens Saturday night.

Thursday Cournoyer fired his 49th and 50th of the season in leading the Canadiens to a 4-1 win over Peterborough Petes on the latter's home ice. His 50th went into an open net.

In other action Niagara Falls Flyers moved to within one point of third place with a convincing 9-4 trouncing of Hamilton Red Wings in Hamilton.

STARTED LATE

The Peterborough game was 35 minutes late in starting. Referee Jerry Olinski was snowbound in Toronto. The two coaches agreed to play with Peterborough's officials.

Jean Guy Lagace and Rene Drolet scored the other Montreal goals while Ron Naud replied for the Petes.

In Hamilton both teams used two goalies as each starter was replaced after the first period with the Flyers leading 4-2. Bernie Parent took over from Doug Favell in the Flyers' net and Allen Frank gave way to Peter Fritsch for the Wings.

Ted Snell and Guy Devereaux showed the way for the Flyers with two goals each. Dave Woodley, Bill Goldsworthy, Ron Schock, Derek Sanderson and Bud Debrody added the others. Nick Libett and Gary Marsh had two each for the losers.

Goalies Eddie Johnston of Boston Bruins and Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red-Wings, who posted shutout Nos. 6 and 5, respectively, when the Bruins clipped New York 4-0 and the Red Wings trimmed Chicago 4-0.

Bruins, Wings Blank Hawks, Rangers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Whatever it is that's troubling the Chicago Black Hawks traces back clearly to a point in the National Hockey League schedule two weeks before Christmas.

Since that time, Hawks have been playing as if they were really the Boston Bruins disguised in Chicago uniforms, making allowances for the work of two or three performers.

Going back to Dec. 14, in fact, Chicago has won no more games than Boston. And Bruins still lie at the opposite extreme of the standings.

Thursday night's play was a characteristic indication of things.

Detroit Red Wings gave Hawks a 4-0 pasting and jostled New York Rangers out of the No. 4 spot in the standings.

Eddie Johnston meanwhile supplied Bruins with his sixth shutout of the season—a league high—and they trimmed Rangers in another 4-0 affair.

In Detroit, before 13,721 fans, the outcome was a reversal of Wednesday's 4-0 win Hawks trimmed Red Wings 4-3 in Chicago.

TWO IN A ROW

But for Bruins it was the second win over Rangers in as many nights. They shaded New York 3-2 at New York's Madison Garden the previous night.

Goalie Terry Sawchuk's fifth shutout in a 27-save performance for Detroit left Chicago in 6-52-20 status with Montreal at the head of the standings.

But Canadiens have two big games in hand against which 50 outings against Chicago's 52.

Wings hurled 41 shots at Glenn (Si) Hall in goal. Murray Johnston made 26 stops while his mates threw 27 shots at New York's Jacques Plante.

Rangers fell a point behind Red Wings in the struggle for the last playoff spot.

SHARP TURN

What has befallen Hawks seems to be an enigma. But there is a sharp turning point in December. Numerically it breaks down into two distinct 25-game blocks.

In the first one, Hawks left everyone behind in a spray of ice chips, winning 17, tying six and lost but three times.

But they only were performed at a .500 clip in the second, producing nine wins and four ties against 11 losses. By way of comparison, in the same span Bruins have won nine, lost 16 and tied three.

The collapse started after Hawks thumped Rangers 6-2 Dec. 11. From their next five games, they salvaged only a single point for a tie.

Six games are on tap this weekend. In afternoon play Saturday, Montreal is at New York and Detroit at Boston while Hawks go against Maple Leafs in Toronto that night.

Sunday night, the schedule sends Montreal to Boston, Toronto to Chicago and New York to Detroit.

Knights Up Lead In Central Pro

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Omaha Knights, league leaders in the Central Professional Hockey League, have it spread over second place of almost as many points as the last place Cincinnati Wings have been able to total up all season.

The Knights Thursday dumped Minneapolis Bruins 4-3 to increase their lead to 17 points over the idle St. Louis Braves. Cincinnati lost 4-2 to St. Paul Rangers and remained far below in the cellar with only 30 points to their credit.

Norm Dennis showed the way for the Knights in Omaha, firing a pair of goals. Doug Senior and Claude Larose added one each. Wayne Schultz and Barzoli replied for the losers.

Bob Champoux made 41 saves in the Cincinnati nets but couldn't stop the St. Paul attack.

Daubers Win Belch Ties Horlock

Ter-Harr Daubers edged SACO 5-4 while Horlock Belchers and Belch Construction fought to a 5-5 deadlock in Quinte Hockey League action at Memorial Arena last night.

The Daubers moved into a 3-1 lead in the first heat, as SACO make it close with the lone goal in the middle frame, then Hill got goals in the last period to hang onto the one-goal margin.

T. Morgan spearheaded the winners' attack with three goals, the other markers going to Ter-Harr Howe and W. Pringle. A. Ruttan got two assists with one each for Moore, R. Poirier, J. Donovan and H. Poirier.

Jack Calnan paced SACO with two goals and one assist. B. Porteous and G. Crabbe also scored with D. Lorne earning two helpers. J. Gibb and R. Lucas one apiece.

Soviet Girl Wins Third Gold Medal

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Lidia Boyarskikh led the Russians to victory in the 15-kilometre women's cross - country skiing relay race at the Winter Olympic Games today and collected her third gold medal.

Mrs. Boyarskikh, winner of the gold medal in the five-and ten-kilometre individual races, teamed with Alevtina Kochina and Evdokia Mekshilo to win the 3-lap race in 59 minutes, 30.2 seconds.

It was Russia's 10th gold medal.

Sweden's team came second in 1:01:27.0. Finland was third in 1:03:45.1.

But Don't Bet On It
Hockey Hassle Could End In Tie

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP) — The Swedes take on the Russians and Canada meets Czechoslovakia in that order today in two of the biggest games so far in the Winter Olympic hockey championships.

If Russia and Canada, currently tied for first place with five straight victories, both win they will carry the gold-medal decision into their climactic meeting Saturday.

If either or both lose, the seven-game round-robin tournament might end with two or more teams tied in first place.

The International Ice Hockey Federation prepared for that eventuality Thursday night, meeting for 3½ hours and then announcing the details for tie-breaking.

How essential the preparation was will be clearer after today's two key games.

In the first, Sweden will be shooting for a repeat of its 3-1 victory over Russia in last year's world championships in Stockholm, where the Soviets won the title by one goal on the tie-breaking goal spread.

MEET CZECHS

In the second, the young Canadian team seeks to keep its unbeaten record intact against the powerful Czech team—4-1 in games here—against which it won three times and lost twice in pre-Olympic exhibitions.

Canada and Russia meet Saturday morning before Sweden and Czechoslovakia close out their championship competition Saturday night.

The other four teams in championship play are competing Olympic-champion United States, Finland, Switzerland and Germany—all are out of contention.

Simple arithmetic will break the tie if two teams are deadlocked in points for any position at the end of the schedule. But complications set in if more than two finish in a points tie. Here's how it works:

If two teams are tied in points, the higher placing will go to the team that defeated the other.

But, if the two involved played a tie game, a three-minute is played in this tournament—the placings then will be decided by the goal-difference—goals allowed subtracted from goals scored. If this doesn't settle the issue, the goal-average system will be used, meaning that goals scored will be divided by goals allowed.

DIFFERENCE DECIDES

If more than two teams are tied in points for any position, the deadlock will be decided by the goal difference and, again, if this doesn't work, the goal average.

Scores of all seven games in the championship round will count in the calculations.

"We batted our heads against the wall to work jobs out," said IIHF President Bunny Ahearne.

Before today's games, Canada and Russia were tied with 10 points each and Czechoslovakia and Sweden were right behind with eight points each.

But the Russians were far ahead in the goal spread, having scored 47 and allowed only six. Canada has a 29-11 goals-for-and-against record, Sweden 37-9 and the Czechs 32-10.

Canada beat Switzerland 8-0, Sweden 3-1, Germany 4-2, the U.S. 8-6 and Finland 6-2 in its first five games.

Russia defeated the U.S. 5-1, the Czechs 7-3, Switzerland 15-0, Finland 10-0 and Germany 10-0.

Sweden's victories have been 7-4 over the U.S., 7-0 over Finland, 10-2 over Germany and 13-0 over the Swiss while the Czechs beat Germany 11-1, Finland 4-0, the Swiss 5-1 and the U.S. 7-1.

The Canadians haven't won the Olympic hockey gold medal since 1952 when an Edmonton team took the title. Russia, in the Olympics for the first time then, won in 1956 and the U.S. won by upsetting the Soviets and the Canadians in 1960.

WILL CHECK FUTURE

EDMONTON (CP) — Commissioner Sydney Halter of the Canadian Football League said Thursday he will examine the future of Fuel Dojack as a western conference referee if Dojack is successful as a Liberal candidate in Regina East in the April 8 Saskatchewan general election. Halter said he will interview a question of propriety would arise if Dojack considered by many as the top football official in Western Canada, continued and continued to serve as a referee.

In the second period the Torontonians hammered in five goals while holding Waterloo to one. Three Toronto goals in the final completed the rout.

Sleds Win Canada's 1st Gold Medal

Take 4th Run Easily

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Canada won its first gold medal of the 1964 Winter Olympic Games today, taking the four-man bobsled championship in its first try and shaping the future of the daredevil sport for years to come back home.

Vic Emery of Montreal, one of the pioneers of Canadian bobsledding, led his No. 1 sled to an easy victory after the fourth and final run on the metric-mile chute.

The tall Canadian steersman and his crew of brother John of Toronto, Peter Kirby of St-Jovite, Que., and Doug Anakin of Montreal zipped down the icy 14-curve course with its hairpin turns in one minute, 4.01 seconds for the final run and won the gold medal with a four-heat total time of 4:14.46.

The Canadian aggregate time was 1.2 seconds more than the runnerup foursome, Austria's No. 1 team led by Erwin Thaler.

"This is our greatest day and also a great one for the British Commonwealth," said Emery.

TOOK THREE DAYS

Jubilant teammates hoisted him on their shoulders in celebrating their victory, a stunning wrecking one that took three days of competition before a decision could be reached.

"The two-man went to Britain, now Canada has taken the four-man, and both are countries that have not got one bobsled course," Emery added.

A crowd of 10,000 lined the course in the freezing morning air to watch the biggest upset in recent Olympic bobsled history.

Except for an odd United States team now and then, Europeans have ruled this sport of 10 years Italy has been virtual king.

About five years ago a small band of Canadians decided to compete in international competition. They raised their own money and went to Europe. But their success was only moderate.

Now, the Canadian bobsledders as Olympic champions are the king of the roost and there undoubtedly will be all kinds of support, but the question remains—will a bobsled run be built for them to practice?

The Emery foursome won the gold medal with a record-smashing first heat Wednesday and then kept right near the top in the remaining three heats, increasing their lead after each heat.

Thaler's sled won the second-place silver medal with a last run of 1:04.13 and a total time of 4:18.48.

ITALY COMES THIRD

Italy's Eugenio Monti, eight-time world champion, took the third-place bronze medal when he could do no better than 1:0425 in the final heat for a total of 4:15.82.

Monti, a hotel owner considered the greatest of all bobsledders, has been both teacher and friend to this rare community of speed-lovers The Canadians and Britons credit him for a great measure of their success.

Italian style and technique in bobsledding has been followed by nearly every bobsledding country in recent years.

Emery was the 15th sled down today in a field of 17. Monti was last

When the Italian's slower time was posted a great cheer went up in the Canadian camp.

But the tense Emery, who said he couldn't sleep for the last three days because of the tension that built up in the keen competition, was dead - pan until Monti had completed his run.

He wouldn't smile for photographers until Monti had come down the chute.

"There is still Monti to come and I am not going to smile until I see what he has done."

And the 30-year-old Montreallier, general sales manager for an aircraft company, actually was cheering the Italians in the hope that they would take the silver and bronze medals.

Italy had two foursomes in the race.

Fourth was Italy's No. 1 sled, piloted by Sergio Zardini. He clocked 1:04.25 for a total of 4:15.89

Germany's No 1 sled, with Franz Schella piloting, took fifth place with 1:04.33 for a total of 4:16.19.

In sixth place was the United States No. 1 sled, driven by William Hickey, clocked in 1:0479 for a total of 4:17.22.

SMILING GOLD - CUPPERS are Vic Emery, John Emery, Peter Kirby and Doug. Anakin as they finish their glory run to win the bobsled fours championship.

French Favorite Finishes Second

German Youth Figure Skating Champion

By ROD CURRIE

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—A young German student has completed a continental sweep of figure skating championships at the ninth Winter Olympic Games, ending the North American dominion that began with Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa and Dick Button of the United States in 1948.

Manfred Schnelldorfer, 20-year-old architectural student from Munich, skated away with the men's gold medal Thursday night, dazzling the 11,000 in the capacity crowd and the judges with a superb exhibition of free-skating that won him higher marks than all the rest.

He had topped the compulsory school figures, which count for 40 per cent of the total marks tings, earlier in the week but the experts predicted he'd fall behind a veteran French skater in the freeskating.

Instead, Alain Calmat, the 22-year-old favorite from France who had beaten Schnelldorfer for the European crown a few weeks earlier, fell twice and finished second, taking the silver medal.

Promise that North America will be back in 1968 with a stiff challenge came, however, when 14-year-old Scott Allen of Smoke Rise, N.J. whirled and jumped his way into third place for the bronze medal.

Allen became the youngest competitor ever to win an Olympic medal as he pulled up from fourth after the figures by overtaking Czechoslovakia's Karol Divin. Divin had been second after the figures, but slipped behind Calmat and Allen Thursday night.

Canada's best performance also came from a youngster. Donald Knight, a 16-year-old high school student from Dundas, Ont., finished sixth.

Schnelldorfer took top marks of 889.8 points in freeskating. By virtue of his earlier leading performance in the five school figures, he had a winning total of 1,916.9. He had 13.0 ordinals, based on the number of first-placings from the judging panel.

Calmat apparently felt the pressure and his two falls during difficult jumps left him fifth in freeskating and second overall with 1,876.5 points and 22.0 ordinals.

Allen was fourth-best free-skater and wound up with a total of 1,873.6 points and 26.0 ordinals while Divin, 27, who lost his world championship in 1962 to Donald Jackson of Oshawa, Ont., was ninth in free-skating and finished with 1,862.8 points and 32.0 ordinals.

Knight, second in the Canadian championships last year and again this year, had 35.0 ordinals and 1,746.6 points, his 834.7 points good enough only for 11th place in freeskating after he had finished seventh in figures.

Father Tells Newspaper

Cassius Is Black Muslim

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cassius Clay's father told The Herald Thursday his son is a member of the Black Muslims and has been since he won the Olympic light - heavyweight title four years ago at the age of 18.

"They've been hammering at him and brainwashing him ever since," Cassius M. Clay Sr., a 51-year-old sign painter from Louisville, Ky., told the newspaper. "He's so confused he doesn't know where he is at."

Clay, 22-year-old challenger to heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, admitted several weeks ago that he attended a meeting in New York with some Black Muslims. But he denied that it was a Black Muslim affair. He has refused to admit or deny that he is a Black Muslim. On one occasion he said he would explain it all if given two hours of prime television time.

Clay could not be reached for comment Thursday but when Hal Conrad, the fight press agent, told him about his father's statement, Clay said:

Olympics 'Cops And Robbers'

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Mike Sone, Vancouver sports writer charged with assaulting a policeman at the Olympic ice stadium here last weekend, will appear in court next Tuesday morning.

Sone, who has accompanied the Canadian Olympic hockey team here after travelling with it on a pre-Olympic exhibition tour in Russia and Czechoslovakia, said Thursday he had to surrender his Canadian passport and plane tickets before he was allowed out of jail Monday.

He was arrested last Sunday night.

Sone said he talked with an Austrian judge before his release.

"The judge advised me to plead guilty to the charge, which I'll do," Sone said. He said the Canadian attache here had advised him the trial would take only 20 or 30 minutes and the judge probably would give him a suspended sentence of one to three months.

TELLS OF INCIDENT

Speaking of the incident that led to his arrest, Sone said:

"Between the finish of the Canadian-U.S. hockey game (Sunday night) and the start of figure skating, I was writing a story. The usher told me to leave because my ticket for the figure skating, which was to start about 1½ hours later, was for standing room and I was still in the reserved section.

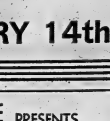
"I told him I'd leave in about five minutes after finishing the story. I told him I couldn't write standing up.

"The usher got the cops who grabbed me. I tried to shake loose, and I hit the cop's forehead with my briefcase because these guys along with the ushers and army men have been pushing other newspaper, radio and photo men around.

"I just got tired of it," Sone said. "None of these people will listen to reason, as all the press and radio people here know."

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Three American Olympic athletes were arrested Thursday and charged with stealing a car after a pre-dawn chase through the streets of Innsbruck and a struggle with Austrian police.

The arrests brought charges from officials of the United States ski and toboggan teams that the Americans had been "beaten up and kicked around" by the police. A police spokesman said he knew nothing about the alleged brutality and would investigate.



The three are skier Bill Marolt, 20, of Aspen, Colo., driver of the car which police said he had been taken for a joy ride, and tobogganists Mike Hessel, 21, of Eugene, Or., and George Farmer, 25, of Seattle, Wash., who attempted to intervene when police pulled Marolt from the car. They were held in jail for a hearing Friday.

U.S. Olympic officials said the incident was only a lark and the theft charge was unfounded because the athletes merely had borrowed the car, which they recognized as belonging to a Swiss friend.

There was a possibility the theft charge might be dropped when the three appear in court. Under Austrian law, police charges are merely preliminary until after an investigating judge decides what the formal charges will be, if any.

Quinte S. S. Girl Cagers Defeat PEHS

By REBECCA YEARWOOD

Quinte Secondary whipped Picton 50-16 in a Bay of Quinte Girls' Senior COSSA Basketball playoff game last night.

The Quinte girls raced ahead to open a comfortable 15-2 lead in the first quarter and paced by Clause, Kirkham and Millar, moved ahead 31-10 at the half.

Picton guards battled hard and the team attempted many shots which they were not accustomed to during Quinte's girls.

Quinte made 11 of 15 in the third quarter but also slowed down in the scoring department by fouls in the fourth quarter.

Millar was Quinte's top scorer with 22 points while Kirkham followed closely with 17. Clause had eight and the team's shortest player, Linda McBride, got the other three points—Ec. Kirkham, G. Millar, S. Clause, G. Taylor, L. Hockley, L. McBride, J. Kirkham, L. Rowbotham, D. Flunder, L. Woods, S. Gray, Ives, Sulkeuculs.

Shoots Two Consecutive Holes-in-One

LONDON (Reuters)—A 17-year-old English golf professional failed to his shot Thursday; strode on to the next tee—and again shot a hole in one.

It was only the fourth recorded instance in golf history in which a player scored an ace at two consecutive holes.

The player was Roger Game, assistant professional at the Widmer and Kingsdown club at Deal in Kent.

He achieved the fast at the 151-yard seventh and 228-yard eighth holes on his home course.

The total length of the two holes was greater than in the three previous cases.

Record books showed these three earlier instances of consecutive holes in one:

1911—Alex Duthie, at Vancouver Golf and Country Club; short hole, 309 yards.

1959 — Wing Cmdr. T. N. Wickers, at RAF Changi Golf Course, Singapore; 100 yards, 130 yards.

HEADS AIR CADETS

MONTEBELLO, Que. (CP)—Ivan R. Dolan of Vancouver was re-elected president of the Air Cadet League of Canada at the league's annual meeting here Friday.

Welland Burloaks' Jimmy Robertson and Vance Miller hold down third and fourth spots with 33 and 30 points, respectively, three more than Jim Dahmer of Galt Hornets.

It's 'Old Hat' Over Here

Where Have You Been, Sir?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Louis C. Wyman, (Rep.-N.H) called Thursday for a change in Olympic Game rules, saying American amateurs are competing against Soviet professional ringers

"If we continue to send our finest young men and women to the Olympic Games as honest amateurs to compete against Soviet professional ringers," Wyman told the House of Representatives, "I have a feeling bound to result a series of defeats which will contribute to a poor impression of American physical competency."

Wyman said he does not believe the answer is to subsidize the country's athletes and send them to the games as virtual professionals.

"Nevertheless," he said, "if the Olympic Games are to continue to have world standing as amateur contests, something must be done.

Jesuit Fathers Ban Boxing

MONTREAL (CP) — Boxing has been removed from the program of activities at the Immaculate Conception recreation Centre, operated by the Roman Catholic Jesuit order, it was announced Thursday.

A statement said:

"Without denying that boxing has some qualities as far as training is concerned, the centre is of the opinion that the sport offers the same potential as 10 or 15 years ago and that it occupies in the activities of the centre a place that is no longer justified."

The statement noted, however, that boxing at one time "was instrumental in training not only many great athletes but also numerous good citizens."

Peewee Tournament

Toronto Teams In Finals

QUEBEC (CP) — Everything has been against Toronto Shopsy's since play began in the international peewee hockey tournament, but this battling crew has overcome each adversity and today meets Toronto Tovids in the final in Class AA.

The Shopsy's kids, used to audiences of some 250 back home, were thrust into the Colisseum before an average crowd of 15,000 for their three contests to date.

What's more, the spectators have been strongly against this team from the beginning and it's difficult for nine-to-12-year-olds not to be affected by the jeers of such a crowd.

Shopsy's had the unlucky break of meeting Quebec Castor in their first game and beat them 4-3 in overtime, to further antagonize the partisan fans. But despite their unpopularity, they have not been defeated yet.

They edged highly - rated Toronto Scarboro 3-2 in overtime Wednesday, and Thursday, with the fans ringing in their ears, they eliminated Toronto Don Mills 3-2 to advance to the finals against the Tovids, who outed Toronto Ted Reeve 8-1.

In other final matches, Montreal Amos Sports won in a Class C showdown and defending champion Sudbu Montagnard Multi, Ont., goes against Montreal Mount Royal in Class A. The Class B competition is to be in the semi-final stage with Asbestos, Que., playing Charlottetown and Toronto Leaside facing Richmond Hill, Ont.

Four players shared in the scoring as Sault Ste. Marie dumped Drummondville, Que., 4-2. Jacey Bennet, Alex Greco, Robert Stone and Donald Burmaster were Soo goal-getters.

Winter Rally Off, Running Tonight!

TORONTO (CP) — A rising list of entries and falling snow Wednesday night inspired top competition in the 12th annual Canadian winter car rally which finishes here tonight on the first lap of a 1,250-mile aroundthe-province haul.

The last of the 141 cars entered underwent compulsory safety inspections Thursday night and early today for the rigorous trials that swing east through Renfrew County, back through Georgian Bay and wind up here Sunday.

Rally officials, who were concerned earlier that mild temperatures would make the courses too easy, felt today that the addition of snow-covered, icing ice spots over side roads and logging trails would make the test stretch.

Two Amphicars, equally at home on land or water, are entered.

The first car off will leave east Toronto at 7 p.m. today for the first of 13 checkpoints, arriving at two-minutes intervals. Drivers will get their first 10-hour rest period after breakfast stop Saturday morning.

Members of the North Bay district chamber of commerce will assist the official staff during the 10-hour stopover at North Bay Saturday night.

Fairfield On Top With A 66

PHOENIG, Ariz. (AP) — Lanky Dean Fairfield woke up just in time Thursday to grab the first-round lead in the $50,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament with a five-under-par 66.

With his clock still on California time, one hour later than Arizona, Fairfield discovered at his hotel he had just 18 minutes to reach the course for an early morning tee off or be disqualified.

He made it, sank five birdie putts ranging f.om 18 inches to 60 feet, and posted his score shortly after noon. Nons could overtake him.

Four golfers tied at 68. Deadlocked were Tony Lema, rookie pro George Archer, veteran Harman Scharlau and Bill Collins.

Al Balding of Markham, Ont. had the best score among Canadians—34-36—70.

Arnold Palmer, seeking a fourth straight Phoenix Open title, wound up in a group at 70. Jack Nicklaus posted 71 and South Africa's Gary Player, joining the 1964 United States tour for the first time, had a 72. U.S. Open champion Julius Boros came in a bunch at 69.

Also at even-par 71 was Jerry Steelsmith, who tinied with a 69 in the pro-amateur prelude Wednesday

Play was over a course of 6,763 yards with par 36-35—71.

Toronto's George Knudson was at 72.

Anne Bancroft, an Oscar Winner, Visits Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Anne Bancroft, the incumbent movie Oscar winner, was in town this week, but not for long.

She was here from New York just long enough to do a comedy skit with Bob Hope in which she plays the first woman president of the United States. It will be featured on the Hope television show Feb. 14.

That's how it seems to be with Oscar winners in recent years—they win the big prize and Hollywood hardly sees them again Some figured Miss Bancroft left town because of her previous experience here. She spent seven lackluster years playing in B movies.

Yet I regret those years," she says. "Not in the least. I often look back on them with a degree of fondness. They were carefree times and I really had a great deal of enjoyment."

But did she learn anything for her craft?

"No, nothing of any value. It left me with the impression of difficult period. I was getting a divorce (from builder Martin Mayr) and that was bad. Also, I wanted to know if I should continue in the acting field. I wasn't so sure that I should.

"So I went back to New York and began studying under Herbert Berghof. He told me I should continue to be an actress and that I had potentialities"

She tried out for the Broadway role of Gittel Mosca in William Gibson's Two for the Seesaw. Her performance won critical raves and acting awards. A major reason for her success, she said, was that she had to work so hard; co-star Henry Fonda lost interest in his role and walked through it.

Miss Bancroft said she wasn't disappointed when she was passed up for the movie version.

"I figured they would go for a movie name," she said. "When they announced Elizabeth Taylor, it made sense to me. Then they signed Shirley MacLaine and that was the way I figured it

Miss Bancroft went to another William Gibson stage play, The Miracle Worker, with great success. This time the play's creators held on to the movie rights and filed it themselves with Anne and Patty Duke in their original roles. Both copped Oscars.

Since her triumph, Miss Bancroft has worked in one film, The Pumpkin Eater, which she made in England with Peter Finch and James Mason. She'd like to do more and wouldn't even mind working in Hollywood.

Powerful Entertainment In '55 Days At Peking'

Samuel Bronston's production of "55 Days At Peking" is a powerful screen entertainment that completely captures the wide screen and stereophonic sound extravaganza of Cinerama Technicolor opened Wednesday at the Belle Theatre. The audiences was held in rapt by its edge-of-the-seat excitement and magnificence.

It is a perfect blend of high adventure, Oriental intrigue, sanguinary war and a romance that conquers all. Set in Unite ed States major and a beautiful and mysterious Russian princess, the story is fully handled by director Nicholas Ray. Howard reaches new acting heights in the performance of the Marine Officer and Miss Gielgud as the seductive and ruthless mistress of the Chinese scene, both created by the famed Russian-American designers team of Veniero Colasanti and John Moore.

Adding tremendously to the production is the exceptional musical score composed and conducted by Dimitri Tiomkin.

The 10 co-stars Flora Robson, David Niven, Harry Andrews, Leo Genn, Robert Helpmann, Kurt Kasznar, Paul Lucas, Elizabeth Sellars, Jeques Sernas and Jerome Thor contributed immensely to the high entertainment value of the film.

'Oh Yeah?' Tell This To The Co-eds

TORONTO (CP) — The president of York University said Thursday a good student has replaced the football player as the "hero" in today's college circles.

Dr. Murray G. Ross told the annual meeting of the suburban Etobicoke YMYWCA that high marks are no longer unpopular.

He said school and university heroes now are more apt to be young persons with intellectual ability who have won fame athletic, social, musical or artistic skill.

U. S. Decides To Make Base Self-Sufficient

Some of 3,000 Cuban Workers to Be Replaced

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States has decided to find ways of establishing a permanent water supply for its Guantanamo Naval Base on Cuba without ever again relying on its traditional fresh water source now shut off by Premier Fidel Castro.

The U.S. also will start replacing some of the 3,000 Cubans employed at the base with Americans.

The actions were announced by President Johnson Friday night following two emergency White House sessions on the Cuban situation, which witnessed this week with the arrest of four Cuban fishing boats alleged to have been in Florida waters and Castro's subsequent action in cutting the Guantanamo water supply.

At the same time a White House statement warned of the dangers of "further provocations by Castro" and declared that the prospects "should be carefully weighed by all nations."

"The reckless and irresponsible conduct of the Cuban government remains a constant threat to the peace of this hemisphere," the White House declared.

It added that "these matters" will be discussed with other Western Hemisphere nations in the Organization of American States and with the NATO allies.

HOPE TO TIGHTEN BOYCOTT

This was taken to mean the U.S. will make new representations to its allies to tighten the American economic boycott of Cuba.

Johnson let it be known through State Secretary Rusk that the U.S. will use force, if need be, to keep supplies out of Guantanamo, a base the U.S. acquired through treaty 61 years ago.

"The basic fact is that we are in Guantanamo and will remain there for the foreseeable future," Rusk told a press conference Friday.

"We shall certainly not discuss the future of Guantanamo with a regime which does not speak for the Cuban people. . . ."

The 30,500 Guantanamo residents are reported to have enough stored water for about 10 days or two weeks, with reduced quantities available from an existing sea-water conversion ship and more to be moved by tanker from the Florida coast. The U.S. also has asked American firms to speed up proposals for further sea-water conversion schemes to add to base supplies.

In Cuba, President Osvaldo Dorticos denied that the fishing boats incident is being used as a means for Cuban pressures on Guantanamo, saying that when Cuba decides to take the base, it will do so through international institutions.

"We will claim the base in the moment we consider convenient and will use the ways of international organizations that we will consider convenient for our claim," he was reported to have told Havana University students.

He said also he wanted to make clear that Cuba did not

THE WEATHER

Synopsis — Sunny and cold weather is forecast in central and Northern Ontario today and Sunday. Some light snow is expected in southwestern Ontario on Sunday as a disturbance moving eastward from Iowa passes south of the lower lakes.

HAVANA (AP) — Premier Fidel Castro says Cuba has no intention of using force to evict the United States from Guantanamo Bay.

"We are not planning a fight for the Guantanamo base," Castro told reporters Friday night.

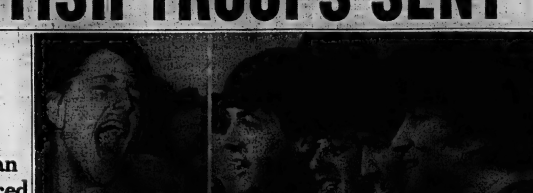
Castro said Cuba's only reason for halting the flow of fresh water to the big U.S. navy installation was to seek the freedom of Cuban fishermen seized off the Florida coast.

The Cuban leader rejected an interpretation by U.S. State Secretary Rusk that the water cutoff appeared to be the first step in "a concerted campaign" to evict the United States from Guantanamo.

"We are fighting for the liberation of the fishermen," Castro said.

BASE ANOTHER PROBLEM

"The problem of the base is part of a series of circumstances that constitute a source of friction and tension between the United States and Cuba and that have to be dealt within the general aspect of these relations."



Castro met reporters on a dockside at Havana harbor where he introduced a 22-year-old American fisherman who said he had come to Cuba to seek political asylum.

The fisherman identified himself as Dennis Kirby, of Vallejo, Calif. He said he arrived Friday night from Key West, Fla., in a 25-foot shrimp boat owned by his employer, the Morgan Sea Food Company of Savannah, Ga.

Kirby was promised asylum. However, Castro said the shrimp boat will be returned because "Cuba respects international law and we don't practise piracy."

Will Buy Hercules Planes

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department will purchase, between 20 and 30 Hercules transport planes from the U.S. Lockheed Aircraft Corporation during the next four years, responsible authorities said Friday.

Cost will be around $2,000,000 each.

The RCAF has operated four Hercules since 1961 and long has wanted more of them.

Lockheed, which produced its 400th Hercules last year, is expected to place contracts in Canada of equivalent value. In 1963 the company placed $15,217,013 worth of orders in Canada compared with Lockheed sales in the country of $9,807,500.

The RCAF air division in Europe flies the Lockheed CF-104 nuclear jet bomber and Canadair Limited, Montreal, is assembling 120 more for the U.S. mutual aid program.

Rhinoceros Party Candidates Provide Comic Relief in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — It should be known by 8 p.m. EST Monday night whether this is the Year of The Rhinoceros in Montreal.

A voting trend is expected to be apparent by then in the federal byelections in the Montreal ridings of St. Denis and Laurier, where the new Rhinoceros party is making its first bid for seats in the House of Commons.

No one appears to be taking the party seriously, the candidates and some of their supporters have done their best to provide voters with a few laughs by lampooning existing political parties and institutions.

For instance, there is the question of their platform. Rhinoceros candidates, Dr. Paul Ferron, 37, in St. Denis, and printer Charles Goulet, 27, they consider the best planks in the platforms of all parties.

So successful do they consider the result that they believe the usual campaign tactics—such as going around talking to people, giving interviews to the press card making speeches—have been rendered superfluous.

"Our platform has been announced," Mr. Goulet said. "People have only to see how broad it is to flock to our support. They will come of their own accord."

"Public meetings are useless, unnecessary," said Dr. Ferron, a general practitioner. "Besides, I am too busy to campaign. I have to continue with my practice."

If that is the case, why did he permit himself to be nominated?

Dr. Ferron said both he and Mr. Goulet were selected by computers, therefore had no choice but to enter the campaign. "There is no more straightforward way of choosing a candidate. After all, with a computer, there can be no question of backroom deals or other acts of machine politics."

The Rhinoceros party is actually facing its first electoral test in a state of schism but supporters do not believe this lessens its chances.

"As a matter of fact, the constitution we intend to adopt will allow for schisms," Mr. Goulet said.

Prince Carlos de Borbon Will Wed Dutch Princess

(CP from AP-Reuters).

MADRID — The Spanish national radio broadcast a statement by Prince Carlos de Borbon y Parma today which said he and Princess Irene of Holland were formally engaged "and the date of our wedding will depend on conversations with the royal Dutch family."

Carlos said he expected to go to Holland soon to meet with Queen Juliana and her royal consort and discuss a date for the wedding.

The prince said he and the princess had been friends "for a good many years and we have met frequently, but our understanding was not formalized until recently."

At the time the announcement was made, Princess Irene and Carlos had arrived at Madrid airport, where the tall Dutch girl presented her suitor to her father, Prince Bernhard. The princess, who drove her own car to the airport from the prince's Madrid home, was smiling and told the reporters: "We are very happy."

Prince Bernhard flew here earlier to bring Irene home.

He left the royal plane in which he had waited more than two hours to greet his daughter and her choice for a husband.

He squeezed his daughter in a big hug and kissed her soundly. Both were smiling as Prince Bernhard turned and gave Prince Carlos a big embrace. Then all three entered the plane.

Today's development climaxed days of conflicting statements and rumors that started with an announcement last week that the princess had been converted to Roman Catholicism. Then earlier this week her mother, Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, said the "happy possibility" of her daughter's engagement would not take place.

Carlos was identified as a son of Prince Xavier, traditionalist pretender to the Spanish throne.

South Viet Nam Strongman, Gen. Khanh, Names Govt.

SAIGON (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, South Viet Nam's 36-year-old strongman, announced the formation of a new government today with himself as premier.

Dapper in paratrooper's fatigues, Khanh read the list of cabinet officers from the steps of his office building and vowed to "bring forth all our strength to repel Communist aggression, to bring security to our people, especially those in the country side."

Khanh named the popular Maj.-Gen. Duon Van Big Minh as chief of state. Lieutenant-Minh, leader of the deposed military junta, is expected to have only nominal power.

Minh —will live in Saigon's Gia Long Palace, formerly occupied by the late president Ngo Dinh Diem. Minh led the coalition of generals that ousted the Diem regime Nov. 1, but was overthrown by Khanh's swift and bloodless coup Jan. 30.

Even as Khanh pledged a revived military effort against the Communists, official casualty figures showed Vietnamese forced had suffered one of their heaviest poundings Thursday.

A U.S. military spokesman said 94 Vietnamese troops were killed and 32 wounded in an assault on Viet Cong positions in an attempt to recapture a ring of hamlets, five miles from the Cambodian border. Five Viet Cong dead were found.

Unofficial reports said nearly 200 civilians also were killed or wounded in government artillery and fighter-bomber attacks before the rebels slipped back toward the Cambodian border.

Friday a terrorist bomb exploded in a Saigon bar, killing five Vietnamese, including two U.S. Army servicemen were wounded, none seriously.

The explosion at the Playboy bar was the worst terrorist act in the capital in more than a year. The night spot, often frequented by Americans is near a big hotel for U.S. enlisted men.

Intelligence sources reported that high - ranking Viet Cong sabotage and assassination agents have been moving into Saigon from the provinces since Jan. 1 for an all-out terror drive against Americans living here.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and other key Americans, Security for top Americans here has been increased.

The Beatles Blow up Teen-Age Storm in New York Arrival

NEW YORK (AP) — The Beatles, Britain's rock 'n' rollers with the haystack hairdos, blew up a teen-age storm hereby by arriving here.

At Kennedy Airport Friday, about 3,000 delirious, shrieking, hula hooky-playing youngsters — many of them carrying Beatle banners — strained against police barricades to welcome the singing-guitar-strumming quartet.

It was mostly girls, girls, girls who screamed with adoration.

"I love them, I love them!" cried one young lady.

"They're so cute!" said another.

"Their singing tears me apart," said lots out all frustrations", sighed a Brooklyn girl.

Pelted by jelly beans and candy kisses and loving every bit of it, were Beatles Paul McCartney, 21, George Harrison, 21, Ringo Starr, 23, and John Lennon, 23. Lennon's pretty blonde wife, Cynthia, accompanied the group, but she stayed well in the background.

The Beatles, their records best sellers for months, were almost an American institution before they got here. Already on sale are Beatle wigs, boots, T-shirts, sweatshirts, tote pillows and scarves. In Britain, 20,000 rag-mop wigs have been sold.

The adulation of the Beatles is reminiscent of the grip Frank Sinatra had on teenagers years ago and, more recently, Elvis Presley.

But when a reporter described them as "long Presley," the fourteens shouted: "No, no, no!"

The Beatles began their debut in a Carnegie Hall jazz cellar 15 months ago for about $20, a week. Friday the command $10,000 a performance.

Zooming into Manhattan, each in his own limousine, the Beatles created consternation at the staid Plaza Hotel, where they are staying. A screaming crowd was waiting there and police had to take over.

The Beatles appear Sunday night on the Ed Sullivan television show. They go to Washington Tuesday for a concert. Wednesday they will give two concerts at New York Coliseum and Carnegie Hall — already sellouts.

Told there was a "stamp out the Beatles" movement under way in Detroit, the quartet sang out. "We're going to start a campaign to stamp out Detroit."

Khrushchev Tells West To Keep Hands Off Isle

Britain Says Note Gross Misrepresentation

CP from Reuters — AP

NICOSIA, Cyprus—An additional 550 British troops landed in Cyprus from Malta today amid reports that Britain and the United States had agreed on a compromise plan for a peacekeeping force here:

A military spokesman emphasized that today's airlift would not mean any increase in the number of British troops engaged operationally, but was intended to provide a rest for men who had been on continuous duty for six weeks.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev accused the Western powers Friday of trying to organize a "military intervention" in Cyprus and warned the Soviet Union could not remain indifferent to the situation.

Informed sources in London said Britain and the U.S. had agreed on a compromise formula demanded by President Makarios that would link any Cyprus peace force to the NATO nations with the United Nations Security Council.

In London, the defence ministry said the increase in British troops here was to give relief to troops already on the island enforcing the British -arranged truce that followed bicommunal fighting between Greek - and Turkish - Cypriots before Christmas.

Khrushchev sent messages to United States, British, French Turkish, Greek and Cypriot leaders, urging them to "show restraint" and prevent a further increase in tension.

GUNFIRE ERUPTS

Gunfire erupted again here Friday when Turkish-Cypriots in the foothills of the Kyrenia Mountains were reported to have opened fire on a Greek-Cypriot police unit.

The police had taken officials of the water and electricity service to the village of Dikkio.

The Greeks went for cover but were reported to have returned fire without shooting back.

The 8,000 British troops already on the island have been trying to hold the traditionally hostile Greek and Turkish Cypriots apart, arranging for ceasefires where necessary.

British troops Friday evacuated the entire Turkish population of the village of Ayios Sozomenos, 15 miles north of Nicosia, where 11 persons died in fighting Thursday before the

Lawyers Find Loopholes

TORONTO (CP) — Laws covering conflict-of-interest issues for municipal councillors are full of loopholes; the Ontario section of the Canadian Bar Association was told Friday.

A panel at the group's mid-winter meeting agreed sections of the provincial Municipal Act were ineffective and unworkable. Vernon Slager, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Cochrane Downsview, suggested it should be broadened to take in all areas through which a councillor could personally gain through his council influence.

The panel, which included Mayor Vivian Copps of Hamilton, opened discussion on the problem of conflict of interest provisions of conflict of interest after a committee of lawyers reported on changes it would recommend in the act.

Among its suggestions were:

1. That all councillors publicly disclose any business interests on the theory that an informed electorate could then decide who was using his office improperly.

2. That all successful candidates for an municipal office should declare his campaign expenses, naming contributors.

3. That all councillors notify the municipal clerk of any business connection which could give rise to conflict of interest and that this information be open for public examination.

4. There should be some prohibition on gifts for appointed municipal officials.

5. No councillor who is a professional man—lawyer, accountant, planner — should be permitted to appear in that capacity before the council or any appointed council body. Such a ban should continue for two years after a councillor ends his membership on council.

BAIL OVERDONE

In another panel discussion, a Toronto argued that bail was a "big business" and suggested bail has outlived its usefulness.

Prof. Martin L. Friedland, assistant professor of Osgoode Hall Law School, said bail no longer assures that the accused persons will appear in court. Rather, it discriminates against the poor, keeps too many persons in custody and is difficult to administer.

Prof. Friedland studied the subject for nearly two years and found the concept of bail outmoded.

Crown Attorney Henry Bull of York County and Metropolitan Toronto agreed that bail was a wise middle course between locking everyone up or letting everyone go. In fact, it was recognized as a fundamental individual right.

For the Americans it was the first time they had ever won medals in Olympic men's skiing.

Unemployment Insurance Questions and Answers

In this column are questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question and answer will be published in this column.

Following are some questions with answers:

Q. One of my employees left without notice and without telling me he was going, or where. What shall I do with his unemployment insurance stamp book?

A. Send it to your nearest National Employment Office and ask for a receipt.

Q. I was temporarily laid off from my job, but I did not claim benefit at once as I expected to be called back to work for my original employer after only a short layoff. When the lay-off ran into several weeks I claimed benefit and asked to have my claim back-dated to the day following the lay-off. I supplication for back-dating was not allowed. Can you explain why this is?

A. A claimant who wishes to have his claim commence from a date earlier than the week in which he files his claim must prove that he had good cause for the delay as well as proving that he can fulfill all the conditions of entitlement on that earlier date. The reasons which prompted you to delay in making your claim did not meet these requirements.

Q. This concerns a man who was recently laid off for about six months when he voluntarily left his job because the boss was always picking him and making nasty remarks about his racial origin. Is the reason for quitting a valid ground for good cause for leaving it, according to the Unemployment Insurance Act?

A. When employment is relinquished because of a grievance, all reasonable steps must first be taken to have the grievance considered and the claimant should continue to work until he has exhausted every reasonable means of settling his grievance, remedied or he has obtained other employment. Each case is decided on its own merits and full details should be provided to the Commission's local office at the time the claimant files his claim as all the circumstances must be taken into consideration.

Q. I am a carpenter, and as no work was available in my trade I took a job as a machine operator at much lower wages than I could make in my regular trade. After trying to make a go of this job for six weeks I found it unsatisfactory and left of my own accord. I consider I gave the job a fair trial, and that I had good cause for leaving it. Can you tell me if I am entitled to benefit?

A. There is insufficient information provided to give a definite answer. The fact that the employment was not as you anticipated it would be when you accepted it, is not alone just cause for leaving. Other factors would have to be taken into consideration such as

(a) were the conditions under which you had agreed to work observed by the employer and was the rate of wage you received the prevailing rate for the district?

(b) what were your opportunities of obtaining other work at an early date under more favorable conditions or in your usual occupation?

If the local office authorities considered that you did not satisfish just cause for voluntarily leaving, a disqualification for a period of up to six weeks may be imposed.

Q. If I am called up for jury duty while unemployed and drawing benefits, am I still entitled to draw my benefit while doing jury duty?

A. You have not stated how long you might be required for jury duty. Your continued entitlement to benefit would depend on your availability for work. The availability of claimant on jury duty is determined by his intention towards accepting work, the steps he has taken to ensure that he would be available, instead of employment opportunities whether he would be prevented from immediately accepting work.

Q. I am married and have five children, and am drawing unemployment insurance benefit. Why is it that a neighbor of mine who has only one child is drawing just as much benefit as I am? We both worked at the same job, same pay, for the same length of time before being laid off.

A. Because the increased rate of benefit for children is dependent having one or more dependents and as you both had the same number of dependents you would both be making contributions at the same rate and that is what determines the rate of benefit.

Q. Last summer I got some work but my earnings while I was drawing benefit, but I neglected to mention the money I had been paid and when I went to office. They told me to pay back the benefits I had collected while I was working, and I have done so. Now I have been summonsed to appear in court. Seeing that I paid back the money I do not understand what more they want from me.

A. In not "reporting" to report your employment and earnings you obtained benefit to which you were not entitled and you made false statements. Although you have made restitution it does not relieve you of the fact you committed offences under the Unemployment Insurance Act by making false statements. You are, therefore, being prosecuted for having made false statements.

Q. What penalties can a court inflict on someone who is being prosecuted for obtaining unemployment insurance benefits under false pretenses?

A. If convicted, the court may inflict a fine ranging from a suspended sentence to a fine of $500 or imprisonment of six months or both fine and imprisonment for each offence.

The incident occurred as the train—hauled by diesel unit 601, pulling 10 cars—trundled across the Canniffon Road crossing. A small motor on the front of the lead diesel is believed to have dropped to the ground, smashing between the track boards.

The crossing is on a major traffic outlet to Highway 401. Police say traffic was held up about 30 minutes.

Found Guilty Of Raping 17-Year-Old

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) —Roger Tremblay, a Quebec City businessman, was found guilty of raping a 17-year-old girl in the Quebec City suburb of Sillery last Aug. 23.

Following the jury's verdict, Judge Andre Sabourin said sentence will be pronounced Feb. 11.

Tremblay appealed an earlier conviction in Quebec City and was granted a new trial, here in an attempt to minimize the effect of public feeling in the case.

The girl testified that Tremblay gave her a lift in his car when she was hitch-hiking, took her to his home in Sillery and raped her.

In his address to the jury, Judge Sabourin said the principal pieces of evidence influencing the verdict should be the fresh scar found on the girl's right side after the assault and blood spots found on a handkerchief and clothing in the home of the accused.

Delivery Horse Did Not Like Noise of Truck

The horse, one of two owned by Baldy Dairy—the only horses still making city deliveries—bolted on Church Street, south and injured its driver.

The incident occurred when driver Ivan Wells was making a house call. Follow say a truck, with scrap metal lying loose on its bottom, jogged by. The noise startled the horse and it took off down Church Street.

Driver MacAvilla leaped into the wagon, hoping to bring the scared animal to heel. Before he could do so, the horse swung onto Turnbull Street, dragging the wagon against a hydro pole—on the driver's side.

MacAvilla was brushed against the pole and received a leg injury.

Taken to Belleville General Hospital, he was reported by co-workers to have suffered a broken blood vessel. There were no bone injuries.

Council Orders $4,000 Water Bill Paid

DESERONTO — A bill for $4,000 made out to Toronto engineering firm for preliminary reports on a water treatment plant and sewage disposal service for Deseronto was ordered paid after it council's meeting last Monday night.

Although a motion to accept the bill had been passed Councillor Marks requested an opportunity to study it first.

He asked what extent had the town's engineering report been used to reduce the sum of the bill.

Chief Hunter from the firm answering this question had been read and filed in an earlier meeting but was withdrawn from the council to answer the councillor's question.

He stated that the report submitted by the firm of Deseronto had been most helpful and had served to reduce the time involved from two man weeks to 1½ man days.

The 1963 county rate was approved by the same meeting. Amounting to $22,696.49, the rate was broken down for council to $.35 mills for roads, 11.50 for current purposes, and .385 for the debentures on the county roads. It is expected that a rebate on roads of over $2,000 had been received by the town.

Reeve Allison informed the council that he would be no increase in the county rate for 1964 for county purposes.

The town council received a letter from the county reporting $11,515.63 and moved they be paid if found correct.

The county council also reported to the meeting. It was recommended by the Property Committee that a new billing system be installed in the fire hall to reduce the wastage of water. A local firm was asked for an estimate.

The Committee on Streets was given permission to continue the work of opening or removing trees on town property where they have found dangerous to the public.

Sitting as the Committee-of-the-whole the council enacted by-law 1406 setting expenditure of $15,000 for roads and streets for the year 1964.

Meeting of the council closed after the request that estimates of the various committees be tendered before March first.

Khrushchev

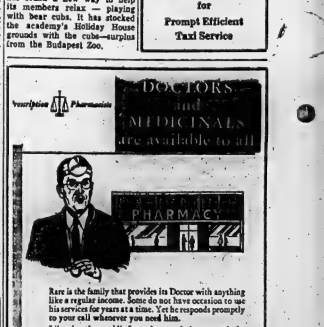
British intervened.

Khrushchev, in his note, accused the West of trying to prevent Cyprus issue from coming before the UN Security Council.



He said the situation could lead to serious international complications."

"The Soviet government calls upon all governments concerned, primarily the permanent members of the Security Council, to display full responsibility for the preservation of international peace and security," he said. "It is to take into consideration realistically, all consequences which an armed intervention on Cyprus may entail, to respect the sovereignty and independence of the Republic of Cyprus."

In London, the British foreign office described Khrushchev's note as a "gross misrepresentation of the situation."

"It is impossible to believe it is intended to be a constructive contribution towards solving Cyprus problems," the foreign office statement added.

Immigration Rose Sharply In Past Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration to Canada rose to 93,151 in 1963 from 74,586 the previous year as the number of arrivals from Britain increased sharply, the immigration department reported Friday.

Immigration from Britain jumped to 34,603 from 15,603 the previous year.

It was the second successive year in which arrivals from Britain formed the largest immigrant group. Immigrants from Italy—the largest group during the five years 1957-61—ranked second, with the inflow from the country rising to 14,427 from 13,641.

The rise in total immigration in 1963 continued the upward trend from the 1961 total of 71,698. There was a sharp downward trend in immigration following 1957, the year in which 282,164 immigrants entered Canada to set a 66-year record.

Immigration from the United States — the third-largest supplier of new residents for Canada —rose slightly last year to 11,736 from 11,643.

There were increases as well from other major sources of Canadian immigration: From Germany to 6,744 from 5,548; from Greece to 4,759 from 3,741; from Portugal to 4,000 from 2,928; and from France to 3,569 from 2,674.

Immigration from Hong Kong, which dropped sharply in 1962 following an RCMP crackdown on a Chinese immigration racket, jumped to 1,008 from 428.

Another large increase was in arrivals from the West Indies, which rose to 2,227 from 1,480.

Jury Fails To Agree in Beckwith Case

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The trial of Byron De La Beckwith, 43, a crusading segregationist charged with the murder of a Negro civil rights leader, ended with a hung jury Friday.

Circuit Court Judge Leon F. Hendrick declared the surprise mistrial after polling the jurors individually as to whether they thought there was any chance of a verdict.

The emphatic replies ranged from "not a chance" to "not if we stay here a week." The all-white jury had deliberated about 11 hours.

The judge remanded Beckwith, a white fertilizer salesman, to the custody of the sheriff.

Hardy Lott of Greenwood, chief defence lawyer, said Beckwith told him: "Let's get another trial as soon as possible."

Lott said he would file a motion "within two or three days" that Beckwith be freed on bond pending retrial. He said the date for the new trial will be set March 23.

The mistrial astonished many in this segregation stronghold. There had been frequent predictions of a quick acquittal due to touchy racial aspects of the case.

District Attorney William I. Waller, who handled the prosecution of the case, said of the outcome:

"Well, that was our second expectation. Our first was a guilty verdict."

Beckwith was accused of lying in ambush and shooting Medgar Evers from 12 in the back with a high-powered rifle. Evers was state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Offered Money By Canadian to Kidnap Girl

HAMILTON, N.Z. (Reuters) William Desmond Bovey, a 43-year-old cook convicted here of kidnapping, told the Supreme Court Wednesday he was offered £2,500 (about $7000) by a Canadian in Whangarei for a girl between 12 and 14.

He said the Canadian wanted the girl to be sent to Canada. No reason was given the court for this.

Bovey, from Auckland, was found guilty on five counts that included kidnapping an 11-year-old girl near Whitianga last October. He will be sentenced in about a week.

He was also convicted of attempted rape and threatening to kill the girl.

Overeating Major Addiction Problem Meeting Told

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto expert on addictions says overeating is a major addiction problem.

Dr. R. Gordon Bell, medical director of the Bell Clinic here, said Friday the differences between a food addict and a drug or alcohol addict are simply that his behavior doesn't bring him into contact with the police and the effects of his overindulgence are medical.

He told a conference on addictions sponsored by the Ontario government that it is a rare family which does not have one or more addictions—drinking, drugs, smoking or eating.

He suggested legislation was needed making it mandatory for all professional persons coming into contact with an alcohol or drug problem to report it to a central authority which could insist on examination and treatment.

Dr. William Marshall, supervising psychologist at the Bell Clinic, which handles drug and alcohol cases, said the average addict is in his early 40s, unskilled and with pronounced emotional and occupational instability.

About half the clinic's patients are addicts and the others have been convicted of violating the Liquor Control Act, he said.

Meanwhile, Rev. Maurice S. Flint, director of chaplain services for the departmental department of reform institutions, said the number of girls being committed to jails has increased, particularly in Ontario.

He noted the proportion of female narcotics addicts sentenced to Mercer Reformatory in Toronto has increased 1,500 per cent in the last nine years.

Mr. Flint, also co-ordinator of treatment services at the Woodworth Correctional Centre in Brampton, Ont., also said the number of addicts who were prostituted had quadrupled in the same period.

He said a new class of addicts was developing, composed of disturbed adolescents who took narcotics as a sort of status symbol.

But he emphasized that the number of criminal-female addicts was not large and that the use of narcotics was generally under control throughout Canada.

Ladder-Climbing Landlord Fined For Assault

HAMILTON (CP)—A ladder-climbing landlord was convicted of common assault Friday after twice being threatened with contempt of court.

William Vanderburgh, 39, a mayoralty candidate in the 1962 civic election, was fined $25.

Twice during the trial Vanderburgh was warned by Magistrate Robert Morrison that he would be sent to jail for contempt of court if he did not conduct himself properly. He had charged once that the court was "being used for blackmail."

Vanderburgh was convicted of climbing a ladder to the second-story apartment of Constant. Christine Mathews, entering a bathroom window and shoving the 18-year-old girl. Miss Mathews claimed she was tied "only in a shirt" at the time.

Order Inquest Into Death of George De Vuyst

Police said today an inquest has been ordered into the death of 59-year-old George Amet De Vuyst — who died after being taken to hospital from Hastings county jail.

Mr. DeVuyst died December 7 after he was rushed to Kingston General Hospital. He had been admitted to the jail a few days before. Cause of his death was not immediately known.

Mr. DeVuyst was a well-known Belleville resident and former restaurant operator.

The inquest will be held before coroner Dr. John Stock in Hastings County court house.

Schlitz

Corp., showed interest in opposing the Schlitz offer to keep Labatt under Canadian control. AMONG HIS REASONS

Labatt, Canada's third-largest brewing company behind Canadian Breweries Ltd. and Molson Breweries Ltd., was 96-per-cent Canadian-owned.

The Schlitz takeover, if completed, would represent the first major invasion by United States interests into the Canadian brewing industry. The trend in the past has been for Canadian interests to expand into U.S. markets.

Labatt directors who met Friday in Toronto said they gave "lengthy and serious consideration" to ways of keeping control in Canada.

However, they announced Friday afternoon they had been "unable to find an acceptable Canadian alternative" to the Schlitz offer.

During week-long negotiations in London, Ont., Labatt traded more than 150,000 shares on the Toronto stock market. It hit a peak of $23.38 but closed Friday at $20.88, a gain of $1 for the week.

A Schlitz statement Friday night said the Labatt family had agreed to sell in excess of the 750,000 shares sought. Schlitz, however, would exercise its option and purchase only 750,000.

Schlitz President Robert A. Uihlein Jr. said he anticipates the public offer "will be similarly received." Both offers were for cash.

In addition to its Canadian plants, Labatt controls General Brewing Corp. in California. Through wholly-owned or jointly-owned subsidiaries, it is active in ethical pharmaceuticals for human and veterinary use, fine-chemicals production and feed products.

Labatt has joined with Allied Breweries of England and Pripp Breweries of Sweden to investigate advance brewing methods, among them a possible continuous brewing process.

Labatt has increased its sales from 1,100,000 barrels annually five years ago to more than 2,000,000 barrels in the 1963 fiscal year.

Schlitz increased sales from fewer than 6,000,000 barrels annually to almost 8,000,000 in three years.

Labatt earnings in the last fiscal year totalled $4,414,665 or $1.02 a share.

At the start of the last leg Sweden was in third place, with Russia leading followed by Norway.

Finland's Eero Maentyranta, winner of the 15- and 30-kilometre gold medals, also made a strong finish to give his team second place.

Canada finished 13th and last in the approximately 25 - mile marathon, almost 24 minutes behind the winning Swedes.

Canadian competitors were Don McLeod of Ottawa, Martti Rautio of Long Lac, Ont., and Calgary's Eric Looma and Franz Portmann. They were clocked in 2:44:29.1.

A conference committee of senate and house members will seek to compromise the differences.

It's expected that the bill will be wrapped up for President Johnson's signature in time for take-home pay of U.S. workers to be fattened starting next month. The present 18-per-cent withholding rate on salaries and wages is expected to be cut to 14 per cent effective then.

Bandaged But Not Healed

John G. Diefenbaker has received his expected vote of confidence from the annual meeting of the Progressive Conservative party.

It could hardly be otherwise.

The Conservatives, like most political parties, like to win elections.

Generally speaking, elections can only be won by a party which is united, or which at least manages to present to the voters the appearance of unity.

Those Conservatives who are opposed to the continuance of Diefenbaker as leader base their objections largely on the contention that he has divided the party.

If this be true, as long as Diefenbaker enjoys a large measure of support deposing him as leader could only widen the split.

There are several capable men who might prove effective leaders. But no prominent member of the federal party has managed to disassociate himself from the controversy over Diefenbaker's leadership in such a way as would win the support of both the pro-Diefenbaker and anti-Diefenbaker factions.

Given the existing circumstances and personalities, only time or events can heal this rift. There could be no more effective medicine than a victory at the polls. The nature of the wound itself lessens the chances of such a cure—newspaper editorials have already provided proof that in many influential quarters there has been no change in that opposition to Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership which contributed to his party's defeat at the polls in the last federal vote. Still, an election victory is not an impossibility. Lacking that, the cure is likely to be delayed until such a time as Mr. Diefenbaker himself decides that it is time he withdrew as leader.

Meanwhile the party's best hopes would appear to lie in grooming some newcomer to federal politics whose very lack of experience in this field is his best asset, because it has enabled him to avoid any deep commitment to either side of the leadership controversy.

Should Repeal This Law

L. A. Braithwaite, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Toronto-Etobicoke, is a Negro, the first of his race to win a seat in the Legislature.

He urges repeal of an old provincial statute that allows the establishment of separate schools for Negroes.

Mr. Braithwaite is right. This statute should be repealed.

It needs to be added, though, that this statute bears no real similarity to the Jim Crow laws of the United States. It does not force the establishment of separate schools, merely permits it. Not one such school has ever been set up. If it were, it would presumably be at the request of Negroes. There is a great difference between forcing a minority to disassociate itself from the majority and permitting it to do so.

This difference, though, is not enough to justify retention of the law. The province cannot afford a multiplicity of school systems. The right to separate schools granted to Roman Catholics is now much too firmly established for too many years, to permit of any profitable remedy. But in recent years there has been noted an unfortunate tendency for other minorities to seek this same right. As long as the law of the province says that the Negro minority has the right, other minorities, of race or religion, have a precedent to support their claim for similar rights. For this reason, Negroes should be deprived of this special privilege, a privilege which they have had the good sense never to invoke and which, we may be sure, they would be glad to be rid of.

In scientific research ideas just come to you from nowhere, as themes come to a composer . . . Great scientists throw off new ideas all the time; the rest of us have one now and then. But whether they are few or many, they all have this in common—that they simply appear in your mind from no source you can identify. And this is why no scientific paper is ever written with its real, genuine, honest historical introduction; because somewhere in the middle of it would have to be the statement, "At this point I had an idea." Editors cannot accept this; it removes science from its austere pedestal and makes it into a creative art, which of course it is, but we are not supposed to say so in public.—Dr. W. T. Williams, Professor of Botany at Southampton University.

Lesage's Gun at Pearson's Head Causing Giant Ache

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Don't look now, but that leadership shoe might just be on the other foot.

Supposed, ever since the former Conservative Cabinet revolt, to have been pinching John Diefenbaker, that leadership shoe shows some signs now of causing Prime Minister Pearson a little pain.

The Opposition Leader's leadership has been re-confirmed.

But what about the Prime Minister's?

Did it not been under the gun of criticism by Conservative dissidents, while Mike has been basking in the sun of Liberal loyalists.

A closer look, though, should reveal what appears to be small, but growing cloud patches of discontent in the sunny Liberal sky.

And that shadow of party doubt that is falling over the prime minister could thicken into a pall as dark as any that fell over the Opposition Leader.

For the prime minister's continuing concern over the sensitive feelings of Quebec's Premier Jean Lesage, whose demands for special favors and privileges seem insatiable, has caused doubt and even anger in the other provinces.

OFF THE PERCH

The rising murmur against further costly concessions to Premier Lesage, has been echoed by Liberal backbenchers in the Commons caucus, where, behind closed and guarded doors, a few members of the Cabinet, particularly a couple of especially worried Ministers from Ontario have found the courage to speak up in protest.

What is making it even more sticky for Mike Pearson is that no matter how far he goes to please and appease Premier Lesage, it never is far enough.

There is nothing diplomatic about it, alas.

Routinely these demands come not as requests but as ultimatums, which he himself has termed "ultimatums."

It has become at "by elecpropositions" and since.

Not only have there been uproars in the Liberal Commons caucus about the Lesage gun being pointed at the Pearson head, but the tumult has spilled out and into the front pages with several MPs, like Stephen Otto of East York and Lloyd Francis of Carleton protesting in public.

In language, too, just as vivid as any put by Premier Lesage's and Rene Levesque's.

NEAR SNAPPING POINT:

Deliberately he has been appeasing Quebec in order to isolation by the other nine provinces of favoritism to Quebec.

The difference is now vital — all the difference between being in or out of power for the Conservatives and as for the prime minister quite apparently he has been testing the "give" of the other provinces, perhaps praying for still a little more every time, while pleading that Quebec is a super-very special case.

The hard fact is that Quebec is only special in that Premier Lesage has spent far beyond the limits of propriety and clearly expects and loudly demands the national and other provincial capitals to pick up his tab.

That elastic of toleration already has snapped for a start with Steve Otto and other Liberal MPs, and Alberta Premier Manning and B. C. Premier Bennett expressing doubts about Quebec being any more special than any other province.

Some of the Liberal MPs have become worried to the point of incautiously admitting that they may be losing a few of their Ontario seats — almost, but not quite as vital to them as those Quebec constituencies in the politically impossible stretch to keep Premier Lesage reasonably quiet if not exactly happy.

Word from the West — carried, of course, only by Conservative MPs, for who else is there on the Prairies? — is that if the Liberals had any hope of Trade Minister Sharp's wheat sales cracking the solid Conservative front, they might as well forget it.

ELECTION BETTING

It was significant that the Government felt it necessary to assign Biculturalists Andre Laurendeau and Davidson Dunton to the Prairies to do a little head-patting of the Premiers and assure them that while Federal Civil Servants were being taught at taxpayer expense at special schools to speak French, it didn't necessarily follow that everybody had to parle.

A few of the more upset Liberal MPs will even concede that if an election were held now, not only wouldn't they pick up a seat between the Manitoba line and the Rockies, but would be in mortal peril of dropping a few in Conservative-metro as well as hometown and rural — and in B.C.

What bothers them most, though, is the suspicion that all John Diefenbaker and his Conservative troops have to do in the next year or 18 months — they don't figure an election until late '65 — is to do nothing.

Nothing about Quebec that is, except utter a few mild-mannered remarks about the desirability of keeping Canada in business as a 10-province Confederation.

Prime Minister Pearson and his newly re-organized Quebec-weighted Cabinet, however, suspect these worried Liberal backbenchers will do all that has to be done to win the election scales against them.

It is a case of the Opposition paying out enough rope for the Government to hang itself — or of the administration, stretching the "give" of nine provinces to beyond the breaking point.

When it comes to leadership troubles, then, don't overlook the prime minister. He has already got more on his mind than people, friend and foe alike, figure he can handle.

Language Statistics

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

In all the discussions about speaking English and French that are now going on in Canada frequent mention is made of the bloc of "five or six million" Canadians who belong to neither the English nor the French language groups.

There is no such bloc of this size in Canada. The census error arises from two different sets of census figures. The number of people in the "other" group whose mother tongue is neither English nor French is 2,454,562 (according to the 1961 census). There are, however, 4,701,226 people in this country whose ethnic origin is neither English nor English. To show how confused the picture really is, there are 29,923 persons of British ethnic origin who speak no language but French!

There is a third significant figure. The number of people who speak neither English nor French but the language they have indicated by their ethnic origin is only 1,987,264. In other words, there are 466,508 persons speaking neither French nor English who do not speak the language of the country indicated by their ethnic origin. Somewhere along the line they have picked up a different one.

For example, the largest of Canada's so-called "other ethnic groups" is German. There are 1,049,509 people of German ethnic origin in Canada, there are 503,713 of German mother tongue. There are 413,382 of both German ethnic origin and mother tongue.

The make-up, by mother tongue, of what has been referred to as a third linguistic 'bloc' is this: Chinese, 49,099; Finnish, 44,785; German, 503,713; Greek, and Eskimo languages, 166,531; Italian, 339,626; Japanese, 17,526; Magyar (including Transylvanian) 85,939; Netherlands, 170,177; Polish 161,720; Russian 42,903; Scandinavian languages, 116,714; Slovak, 42,546; Ukrainian (including Bukovinian, Galician and Ruthenian), 261,660; Yiddish, 82,448; Serbo-Croatian, 28,898; Estonian, 13,939; Lithuanian, 14,907; Lettish, 16,062; Slovenian, 14,307; Welsh 3,040; Gaelic, 7,833; Welsh 3,040; Flemish, 14,304, and others in smaller numbers.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

Members of the City Council were disappointed at the attitude of the Board of Education in refusing to allow the Council to flood the school properties for skating purposes. A letter was received from Mr. Kells, administrator for the Public Schools stating that the Board could not see their way clear to have the rinks located on school property or the West Belleville Playgrounds. Ald. Clapp who was appointed chairman of this committee said he was very much disappointed, but that it was too late to do anything this year but that something should be done next fall so that an early start could be made.

Ald. Allin also expressed the same sentiment and wondered if the Board understood the objective of the Council. He was clearly stated that the supervision would be with the Y.M.C.A. and there was going to get hockey players for the future if the children are not allowed to use the rudiments of the game, and where better can it be learned than on the open air rinks and under competent coaching?" asked the Alderman.

Ald. Clapp stated that if it was the wish of the council his committee would survey the city and pick out a few lots for flooding. The council agreed to that suggestion, and Ald. Woodley, chairman of fire, stated the firemen would give hearty co-operation.

As for interesting visitors in the city is the case of Mr. Guinness of Calgary, Alberta, who is a guest at St. Michael's Rectory. He is a native of Belleville, his father being Mr. Robert McGuinness, who was prominent in the business and military life of the city over 30 years ago. Garland was Captain of D Company in the 15th Battalion. The family lived on Coleman Street. They left here for England in 1904 and five years later returned to Canada and took up residence in Calgary. Father McGuinness entered the engineering profession and attained a high place in his profession in Alberta. He served overseas during the war, and in 1920, he entered Beda College in Rome to study for the priesthood. He was ordained in 1930. Since then he has worked in the Diocese of Calgary, Alta. Miss Laidlaw Lodge, Mount Pleasant Road, has returned home after spending a vacation in Syracuse, N.Y.

Mr. Jack Hogan of Niagara Falls, spent the weekend here with his father, Mr. W. Hogan of North Front Street.

Belleville Intermediates led by Bill Green defeated Peterborough by a 5-3 victory last night at the arena. Those who failed to see the game missed more than a mere hockey match; they missed seeing one man hold an entire team at bay, scoring three of the five goals, stand up under punishment and the killing pace set by the visitors and keep them asking for more. Bill Green, the local defence man extraordinary, certainly gave the fans something to remember long after this season's hockey has become a memory. Bill played goal, forward and defence all rolled into one. Many times the fast Peterborough forwards would come flashing down the ice with only Bill to beat and stick handling like champions, only to find that they had two goalies to beat. Falling flat on the ice, betting the puck like a baseball with his stick, catching them on the fly so matter how hard they were driven, Bill put on an exhibition of defence play that has seldom been seen in amateur hockey or any other for that matter. Nurse, Finkle, Frechette, Weir, Whales, Hegerman and Canning were all stars and every one of them was in there fighting and put up a grand game, but Bill Green was a super-star. The final score was 5 to 3 in favor of Belleville. Three of the goals were scored by Green, one by Finkle and one by Frechette. The referee was Prior Matthews a former St. Michael's star. The following composed the teams: Belleville — Nurse, Green, Finkle, Hegerman, Weir, Frechette; subs: Whalen and Canning. Peterborough — Dwyer, Ferter, McMartin, Collins, Burgess; Jacobb; sub: Halpen and Ross.

Mr. Stewart Farrell of Kingston is spending a few days in town.

Mr. W. H. Hubbell, Warden of the County of Hastings, was in town today.

The following scores were made by members of the Belleville Bowling Club in a practice shoot at the indoor range in the 15th Regiment drill shed, last night: Lt. Corrigan 90; H. McCaskle 97; W. J. Andrews 97; J. Thompson 96; A. Ellis 96; F. Jones 96; G. Ellis 96; R. Weese 94; W. Ridley 93; J. Shea 93; J. Woodley 91; W. Moore 89; D. Day 82; H. Holton 82. The highest possible score was 100; ten shots at 25 yards.

Mr. D. J. Fairfield has an exhibition in his office, a lively white butterfly which he caught early today. And this is the season of February; "Poor Butterfly" we mourn.

Letter to the Editor

Centennial Project Action Is Urged

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Very little seems to have been done towards a centennial project for the City of Belleville. True, various organizations have schemes of their own, but a plan of significance to the whole city seems to be lacking.

A Victorian Village has been suggested. Unfortunately, the best section left in Victorian houses are far too large to move, and in any case should be left where they are. The Loyalist St. East and West. Such houses as Phillipps Faulkner's, and St. Agnes Hall with its enormous house should indeed be sympathetically restored to their original glory, their fences restored and their grounds improved as an ornament to the city. The city should insist upon it, even help financially or otherwise, instead of taxing them out of existence.

Another plan, for the historical redevelopment of South Front St., is growing partly out of the Historical Society's activities and partly out of some suggestions by Mayor Hexam when he addressed the Community Planning Association last fall.

The block just south of the tracks on South Front St. is to some degree the birthplace of Belleville. Several of the early houses remain, built progressively by Loyalists about 140 or 150 years ago, when Belleville was new. There is room also to move in a number of other interesting old houses that might otherwise be torn down in other parts of town.

Ranging down the east side of the street, their exteriors restored with some of the charm of Upper Canada Village, their interiors serving as marina offices, homes, food stores, restaurants, or what have you, these old houses would seem quite at home looking out over a modern marine development of slips for pleasure craft, grocery and gift shops, and all that attracts the boating tourist. A water taxi, even, is suggested, from this thriving area across to Victoria Park, maybe to Zwicky's Island, and the river as far as the footbridge.

With the increased interest in boating, this area is bound to become again (as it was 100 years ago) one of the important activities in the city, if it is attractively developed.

A revitalized market might be a special magnet to tourists strolling up from the docks. The whole Foster Ward might become a desirable place to live. The downtown area would be greatly benefited by such a development.

It is schemes such as these that the Community Planning Association aims to bring before the public, schemes that will promote the planned and orderly development of the city and surrounding area.

Persons interested are invited to a public meeting in the Corby Library at 7.30 p.m., February 11, when several speakers will be heard, and slides and drawings displayed and some action possibly taken regarding these and other Centennial plans.

Sincerely yours,
Rodger C. Greig.

Count Jacques de Bernonville, 58, of Chimeres, was ordered deported from Canada to France 13 years ago after being sentenced to 10 years in prison on charges of collaborating with the Nazis during the Second World War. The count had entered Canada illegally in 1946, under an assumed name, and the following year had been secretly flown to France by a special agent. After his return in 1951 he again escaped, to Brazil, where he lived in self-imposed exile until the statute of limitations ran out. He announced that descendants other than those in direct line would inherit the family name Mountbatten-Windsor.

Angioneurotic Edema Deeper Form of Hives

To Your Good Health

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Second of Two Articles

Some kinds of allergy are a dangerous; they can be deadly.

Not often, perhaps, yet frequently enough so that people who are highly sensitive to certain things should be aware of the possibility.

Angioneurotic edema is a form of hives but it involves the deeper tissues instead of the outer skin.

A relative of a close friend had a narrow brush with this form only last summer. He was staying at a cabin in the woods, and one day passed a field of ragweed.

His breathing became difficult (due to swelling of tissues at the opening of the windpipe) and he collapsed. Such attacks can be fatal, and at times have been.

In this case a relative was also in the area. Things happened so fast that she wasn't entirely sure of the situation, but she was alert enough to know that adrenalin would help.

She was right — and be quickly revived. It is altogether likely that her quick thinking saved him.

In other cases (often with penicillin, if the person has become sensitized to it) the best way to so revive a patient is to make walking impossible. It is the same sort of reaction, except centered in another part of the body.

The difference between serious allergy and anaphylactic shock is, for practical purposes, a matter of degree. A few individuals are so intensely hypersensitive that contact, particularly by injection, causes such severe shock to the whole system that death occurs or is imminent.

Penicillin reactions are sometimes in this category. Another example is insect stings. While this is not common, they nevertheless cause more deaths, in the temperate zones at any rate, than bites from poisonous snakes. In such instances immediate use of adrenalin or steroids may sometimes be the only remedy between the patient and quick death.

I hope these examples will not panic anyone, but they do emphasize that in some circumstances the danger can be extreme. Even aspirin, for instance, can cause unpleasant reactions in some few people.

About 15 percent of us have occasional bouts with allergy: Hives, the sneezes, itchy, digestive disturbances, or such minor examples.

About 10 percent have substantial allergic symptoms of one kind or another. And a few encounter frightening experiences. Nobody is to blame in the back of your mind, in case you begin to develop, particularly, interference with breathing in connection with allergic exposure.

Dear Dr. Molner: A group of girls were talking and discussions arose: Can a 14-year-old girl have gotten pregnant by taking a douche? I said not but two said yes. What is the answer? — Bothering girls.

The answer, as you said, is no. Pregnancy is caused only by sperm entering a living male and a living female cell. The ones who disputed what you said were ignorant of the simple, basic facts of life. (Don't, of course, get the idea that a douche is a matter of days to prevent pregnancy, either.)

Dear Dr. Molner: If a woman with a history of recurrent pregnant but did not keep her blood sugar under control for the first three months would this affect the child? — Mrs. H.

The big dangers are that the mother's kidneys will carry the baby to full term or that the infant will be stillborn.

County Council Defers Action On Request

PICTON (Staff) — "About 70 percent of the 500 million dollars spent in Canada by tourists each year, is spent in Ontario," Mr. John Lawson, assistant manager of the Lake Ontario Regional Development Association, told a special meeting of the Prince Edward County Council on Friday afternoon.

Mr. Lawson was attempting to have the county join the association at an annual cost of about $500. Most of the townships in the county already belong to the association, which left some councillors wondering if there was not a duplication.

County council did not act on Mr. Lawson's suggestion, but laid it over to the regular March meeting.

County solicitor Robert Walmsley called on council asking direction on the pollution problem of a Mr. Moore, who lives adjacent to the Home for the Aged, north of the town.

Mr. Walmsley advised council that after exhaustive tests with various dyes, the tests indicated that the county was not responsible for the problem. A letter will be sent to Mr. Moore's solicitor on this.

AGREEMENT STILL STANDS

"Our agreement with Mr. Moore still stands," said Mr. Walmsley, "if he can prove that the pollution in his well is from the septic tank at the home, we will do something about it, but so far has been unable to prove this, in fact neither have we, and we have spent a considerable sum of money trying to help him out, trying to find where the pollution is coming from, but certainly it is not from the home," he added.

A by-law appointing the four assessors was given third reading and passed at the afternoon session of council. A by-law appointing a female to the office staff of the County Buildings, who will act as assistant to the newly-appointed County Welfare Administrator was also given third reading and passed at the afternoon session.

The committee, charged with getting the convention of the Home for the Aged held in Picton this September was given the "green light" and power to act on behalf of the council in making arrangements for the convention.

A grant of 10c per capita was given to the Children's Aid Society.

Clayton Hyatt, 95, Guest of Hunting Party

PICTON (Staff) — Clayton Hyatt of Bloomfield, will be 96 years young on Sunday. So this is not unusual. What is unusual is that for the past 23 years, five men have gone hunting together at Stop Log Camp, 7 miles north of Mill bridge on Beaver Creek and this past season, as for the past 23 years, Clayton was right along with them.

On Thursday night, the five men of the original eight, three of whom have passed on, attended a birthday party for Clayton at the home of Chester Slinger in Bloomfield.

Attending were the five originals, Clayton Hyatt, Chester Slinger, Butch Stacey, Herbert Mann and Arthur Moore. Along with them were what the older men described as "Johnny come lateles," the balance of the men who now make up the annual hunting party. They are: Ken Hyatt, Clayton's son, Don Harvey, Steve DeMille, and Bert Slinger, Chester's son.

It was a real stag affair with Chester doing the cooking, and if your mouth starts to water, blame yourself for not getting in with these hunters. For a start they had shrimp cocktails, then oyster stew, followed by fried oysters, baked potatoes and broiled fish.

The highlight of the evening was when host Chester brought in a huge birthday cake complete with only five candles. "It was a banner party, one which I am sure those present will remember for a long time," said Arthur Moore. "That Chester is a terrific cook," he added.

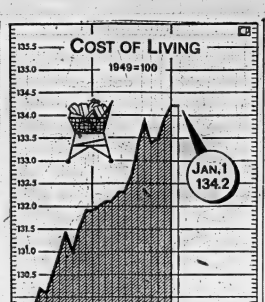
New Equipment For Office to Cost $14,000

PICTON (Staff) — Fred Jennings, newly - appointed County Assessment Commissioner, explained the cost of new equipment to a special meeting of the Prince Edward County Council on Friday morning.

Mr. Jennings advised that the total cost of all the equipment needed to do the job properly would be about $14,000, half of which is paid for by the Provincial Government.



He went on to explain why it was cheaper in the long run to purchase this equipment rather than rent or lease it. Based on a cost of $12,000 for the Addres-o-graph machine and its entire equipmnet, the rental would be 5 percent of the selling price per month, or a total of $600 per month, based on a two-year rental the cost would be $14,400.' A leasing arrangement for three years would cost approximately $35 per month per $1,000 of cost. This would work out to $420 per month of $15,120 over a three-year period.

On a four-year lease, the monthly payments would be lower, but the total cost would be higher. The same applies to the five-year lease, smaller monthly payments but costlier in the long run.

At the same time, it must be remembered that the Government foots half of the total cost of the outright purchase of all of the equipment, but they will pay only half the cost of rental for a period of three years, and will not subsidize the capital cost of purchasing after this rental grant has been paid.

Mr. Jennings reported that the equipment he was quoting is the same that is presently being used in the City of Toronto, and the Town of New Toronto, and is the latest equipment made. He also told the members that they would be made most welcome if they wanted to go to either of these places and see the equipment working.

The Assessment Committee was empowered to purchase the needed equipment.

LIVING COSTS STEADY IN DECEMBER — Canada's cost-of-living index remained steady at a record-high 134.2 during December, says the bureau of statistics. Post-Christmas clothing sales and stable food prices offset higher costs of recreation and reading, housing and transportation. The Jan. 1 reading of 134.2 was unchanged from Dec. 1 and compared with 132.0 at Jan. 1, 1963. The index, yardstick of urban living costs, is based on 1949 prices equalling 100. (CP Newsmap)

Four Selected To Assist Commissioner

PICTON (Staff) — A special meeting of the Prince Edward County Council was called for Friday morning, to consider applications for the positions of County Assessors to assist County Assessment Commissioner, Fred Jennings.

The Assessment Committee reported that they had received 38 applications for the four positions, from all parts of the area, and after due deliberation had chosen eight of the applicants to meet with the council for a personal interview.

Those selected were: Richard Williams 22, of Demorestville, D. S. (Sherman) Thompson, who for the past 15 years has been the part time assessor of South Marysburg, Dwight O. Reynolds, 58, of Picton, a real estate salesman, and George Morden, 46, well known Ecton baker, and member of the Picton Town Council.

Although it is not necessary under the law, Mr. Morden told the council that if he were hired, he would tender his resignation from the town council. His two-year term expires at the end of the year.

The four others interviewed were Leonard Tripp, former Town assessor, Fred Juby, present town foreman, Albert Cooper a commercial fisherman and Jack Wellman, a former Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co. clerk.

The new assessors will commence work on February 17. They will receive $3,600 per year, plus regular mileage when they use their car.

A Lift for Living
Just to Believe Not Enough Convictions, Conduct Matter

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

We frequently hear someone say, "It doesn't matter what you believe, as long as you believe in something." This statement is meant to stamp the speaker with two noble attributes: he is a person of faith, and he is broad-minded. Perhaps he is both, and yet either characteristic is insufficient in itself. While such a declaration seems like a statement of faith, it merely denotes faith in faith itself, and not faith in anything higher, deeper and more lasting than a person's belief. It means only that one believes in belief. It is a broad statement, too, broad like a certain swamp I know, where the water spreads for miles, but it is only a few inches deep. The idea that belief has value apart from the object of one's belief is a swampy idea, shallow. For even a moment's thought will lead one to conclude that it does matter tremendously what one believes.

Let us briefly examine this widely held idea that what we believe matters little as long as we believe in something. Is there any difference between snake-handling as a type of worship and holy communion as a sacrament? Of course there is, and the difference springs from a dissimilarity in belief. The snake handler is convinced that he is indulging in a valid way of testing and proving the strength of his religious faith. His belief prompts his ritual action. The communicant at the Lord's Supper believes that through sacred memories, glad thanksgiving solemn and sincere consecration and the spirit of holy ambition he is partaking of genuine fellowship with God in Christ. His belief prompts his participation in the sacrament. The snake handling ceremony and the rite of Holy Communion are different in quality. The snake handler and the communicant behave differently because they believe differently.

BIG DIFFERENCE

Again, is there any difference between the behavior of George Custer toward the American Indians and the conduct of Marcus Whitman toward members of the same race? In 1868 Major General George A. Custer headed an expedition against Indian Chief Black Kettle, who claimed to want peace with the whites. Custer and his men totally wiped out the Indian village and without any discrimination massacred men, women and little children. (Thus Custer and his men repeated an atrocity committed nine years before by white men under the command of William Dame and Isaac Haight. This band of whites attacked a settlement of Indians and murdered one hundred and twenty men, women and children.)

Isn't there a clear difference between such atrocities and the gentle, kindly care given to Indians in the West Coast by the missionary doctor Marcus Whitman and his wife Narcissa? The Whitmans eased the pains and healed the diseases of red men, and taught them to read and write, until they met their deaths at the hands of hostile braves. Custer and Whitman treated the Indians differently, because they thought of them differently. Whitman placed a high value on an Indian's worth. What Custer and Whitman believed did make a difference.

BELIEF MATTERS

Everyone agrees that what we do with out lives matters a great deal. What we believe matters then, too, because what we do depends upon what we believe. We shall behave selfishly or unselfishly, hatefully or helpfully, purposefully or aimlessly, hopelessly or hopefully, depending upon whether we believe that others are against us or others need us; whether we believe that life here-is senseless or meaningful; whether we believe that ultimately man's wickedness or sin unfeeling and uncaring fate rules the world, or that a loving God does; whether we believe we are creatures of a moment or we were meant for eternity. Action springs from basic belief. We shall act one way or another because we believe one way or another. Thus, belief matters.

During World War I Theodore Roosevelt rediscovered how belief and behavior belong to each other. Roosevelt was proud of his three sons who had served their country during the early days of America's participation in the war. But like all other parents Roosevelt was torn with give concerning the safety of his children. One evening during the war the former president and his wife were sitting in their living room when a telegram arrived from the battlefront. A fourth son, Quentin, informing his parents that he had enlisted in the air corps. Roosevelt was deeply troubled by the news and sat in brooding silence. Finally Mrs. Roosevelt spoke to him saying, "Colonel, you cannot teach your boys to believe like eagles and now expect them to act like sparrows." Of course not. Belief and behavior belong together. Men behave courageously when they possess courageous convictions. Those who have fought bravely in war, or again at war, have possessed beliefs that made them brave. It matters what a person believes.

An almost illiterate, back woods preacher in the hills stated the two essentials of the gospel as "believing it and behaving it."

We will "behave it" better, when we believe it profoundly enough.

Valentine Day Dangerous For Bachelors in Leap Year

Valentine day can be doubly dangerous for bachelors this year, because this is Leap Year and girls have the privilege of taking the initiative. When valentines first came into existence back in the days they were considered marriage proposals.

Today however, valentines are designed for husbands and wives, sisters, parents, friends and acquaintances even mothers-in-law, as well as sweethearts. Wives especially, seem to appreciate valentines as a symbol that romance still flourishes. Many valentine cards are sent because people are too shy to come right out and express their love so they let a card say it for them. Humorous cards that touch sentiment in clever phrases are often the choice, but the basic theme is still love.

Along the middle of the last century and right up until the first of this century, there were the "penny horrible" type of valentine with an insulting message. These were in appallingly bad taste and lost favor in preference to the lacy, frilled card.

A popular trend today is the do-it-yourself cards designed for children. Valentine postoffice at school is still a popular, as it was years ago, and these cards which are punched out are sold in lots that will take care of the school class.

30 MILLION VALENTINES

Ancient Romans believed February 14th was the beginning of spring, and celebrated the day as a love festival dedicated to the god Lupercus and the goddess of love, Juno. It became the custom during the feast of Lupercalia for unmarried Roman women to drop their name cards in urns in the public square.

Courageous bachelors were each entitled to draw a name, thus selecting a "blind date" for the year. Some of the more artistic maidens decorated their name cards with hearts and flowers to attract the eye of the young men. These cards became the forebears of today's valentines.

When the church found it could not halt the love festivals it attempted to Christianize them by dubbing the day an honorary one for a martyr. Several priests named Valentine were martyred for their efforts on behalf of Christianity, and one in particular was beheaded on February 14th in 270 A.D. but not before he had converted the jailer and his blind daughter. Tradition says he left a farewell note for the daughter which was signed "From your Valentine."

Question: A friend sent me some lovely bath towels for Christmas. Unfortunately, the color did not blend with the colors in my bathroom, so, since the box bore the name of the store where she purchased them, I exchanged them for a set that goes perfectly. The towels I got, however, were not as expensive as those my friend sent, so I received a credit of a little more than five dollars. What is the correct thing to do now? Should I use up the credit, myself, or let my friend know it exists, so it can be transferred to her account? This is a ticklish situation for me, since I don't want to offend her in any way. Your help will be appreciated. — Mrs. D. R., Boston, Mass.

Answer: If you feel a) that she may be offended that you exchanged the towels and b) that she may get the impression you think she paid too much for the gift, then it would be wisest not to mention the exchange at all and simply purchase some accessories for the bathroom as a sort of bonus. If she comes to visit at a later date, then you might, at that point, let her know you exchanged the towels because the color didn't match, but avoid mention of the difference in cost.

Church Groups

ST. COLUMBA ALPHA GROUP

The Alpha Group of St. Columba Church held their monthly meeting recently at the home of Mrs. J. Burke.

The chairman, Mrs. W. Bowles opened the meeting and Mrs. M. Stotesbury led the devotions. Mrs. L. Dresden and Mrs. K. D. Taylor spoke on the pioneer missionaries in the Bell Field and Shanxi Field in India, where the Presbyterian Church in Canada has its missions.

At the end of the program the ladies took part in a written quiz. Mrs. K. D. Taylor read a most interesting letter from Ted Ellis, a missionary in Taiwan.

During the business meeting the coffee party and bake sale for next week was discussed. It was decided to hold a rummage sale at the end of April. Mrs. Taylor spoke of the need of getting to be held in Montreal during May concerning the W.M.S. on their 100th anniversary.

The chairman presented Mrs. J. Fullerton with a gift from the Group, as she is leaving Belleville to live in Toronto.

The evening closed with prayer by the chairman Mrs. W. Bowles and refreshments were served.

Question: I would like a cookie recipe - it is mostly peanut butter and soda biscuits. There are also oats in it.
Mrs. A. E.

Answer: I know what you mean but I think of them as more of a confection than a cookie.

PEANUT BUTTER BALLS

2 cup chilled peanut butter, 1 cup sifted confectioners' (icing) sugar,
2 tablespoons lemon juice (canned or fresh),
1 cup chopped walnuts (or ¼ cup each chopped walnuts and ground peanuts), fine cracker crumbs - about 12 to 14 2" crackers.

In a bowl combine peanut butter, icing sugar, lemon juice and chopped nuts. Mix thoroughly. Now shape into 1" balls by picking up enough to mound on a measuring teaspoon. Roll between your palms. Your warm hands quickly make this pliable enough to make the balls keep their shape. (It is this "putty" that is edible.). Have ready very finely rolled cracker (or graham wafer) crumbs. Roll peanut butter balls in crumbs to coat. Chill if desired. Makes 40 1" balls that are an excellent minimum effort confection for young cooks to make.

Letter: This is delicious and while apricots are expensive, a 12-oz. bag makes two loaves. It keeps well wrapped in foil in the refrigerator - I'm using the last of two made 4 weeks ago and it is not too dry.

APRICOT LOAF (courtesy Mrs. W. A. McD.)

½ cup dried apricots (well-packed),
½ cup raisins,
½ cup water,
½ teaspoon grated orange rind,
¼ cup orange juice,
1 teaspoon baking soda,
¾ cup sugar,
2 tablespoons melted shortening,
½ teaspoon vanilla,
1 egg, beaten,
2½ cups sifted flour,
4 teaspoons baking powder,
½ teaspoon salt,
½ cup chopped nuts.

Soak apricots and raisins in the water 20 minutes. Drain, save liquid. Chop fruit fine, add orange rind, juice and reserved liquid. Stir in soda, sugar, shortening, vanilla and egg. Combine with sifted flour, baking powder and salt, blend well, add nuts. Turn into 9 x 5 x 3" loaf pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 1 hour. Mrs. W. A. McD.

Answer: Thank you for this tested recipe. Fruit loaves of all types are popular with our readers and I'm sure many will clip it.

Why Do Parents Shy Away From Discussions on Sex?

DEAR DORIS — My mother never discussed anything with me. Now, after a couple of horrible experiences, I have the feeling that anything to do with sex is bad.

I read magazine articles that say sex is wonderful. I wish I thought so.

I'm in my twenties now. It's a grey future without a husband and family, but the thought just petrifies me. — FRIGHTENED.

DEAR FRIGHTENED — Why, oh why, are parents still shying away from discussion of anything so vital? DORIS CLARK

Sex at its best is the ultimate expression of the deep and abiding love of a man and woman for each other. We are born with clean, natural impulses which we must keep under control during single, dating years.

For peace of mind nothing can replace frank discussions within four family walls between one generation and the next. Since you lack that, I am sending you a reading list on Sex and Dating. You'll just have to start at the beginning.

Confidential to LYNNE — The only acceptable way to date him is to invite him for an evening at your home; complete with other people, record player, and room to dance in. (Next time you write allow me at least three or four weeks to get a reply into the column.)

(Do you wonder why people act as they do? Let Doris help you solve your particular human problem.)

Over and Under Caribbean Thrills Collegiate Audience

By A. HENDERSON

For sheer beauty of scene and thrilling adventure, coupled with documentary authenticity and subtle humor, "Over and Under the Caribbean Sea," as presented Thursday evening at the Collegiate auditorium, by Colonel John D. Craig is second to none.

The film, under the sponsorship of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville, is the fourth in the current series, and will long be remembered as a "red letter" showing to those stout enough to brave the heavy snowfall.

"Colonel Craig, who is a native of California, has spent a great deal of his life searching for adventure in the air, on the land and on the bottom of the sea, specializing in making documentary films of strange places, including jungle life and undersea explorations. He is also an author, his best seller being "Danger Is My Business" as well as being a television producer. He has made films in 85 countries, seven five continents and under four oceans."

In War II he commanded the United States Air Force camera units; filmed combats in all sides, and flew 36 combat missions over Europe, Africa and the Far East, being Commanding Cinematic Officer in the filming of the Bikini Atom Bomb tests. He is a member of the Chromanavigator's Club of New York; of the Polar Society of New York, and of the Riviania Club of California.

TREASURE HUNT

After leaving Key West on the Yankee Clipper for a few weeks of fishing, including turtle fishing, among the islands of the Caribbean, they began as a turtle hunt, turned into a "treasure hunt." While the colonel and his company-comrade scientists were gone, the only one left with the boats the cook, were days were spent in reading, and enjoying the scenery of the clear blue waters of the sea.

One day while he was thus gazing around his eye was attracted to something glistening far down beside the reef in the clear water. Being unable to dislodge it with a pole, he decided, being a fine diver to investigate. And found that the bright objects were Spanish gold pieces.

When the fishing party returned he told them of his find, and that ended the turtle fishing. Each gold piece was valued at $20. When the find was taken to the bank it was exchanged for $42,600. After working on the treasure, which had been uncovered by the shift in the current, for a number of days, and running out of food, they did without for three days, hunger took over, and they decided to weigh anchor, to return shortly. Unfortunately, due to the shifting currents the spot could not again be located.

LOVELY UNDER WATER SCENES

During the cruising trip many lovely underwater scenes were shown of lovely undersea plants; beautifully colored fish, some black and gold, and others pink, while others yet again were striped. One unique fish, resembling an eel was seen in grey color with white striped came by, I ergstanneETA Others were transparent, and fragile looking; while hidden among the coral clumps was a hideous mottled fish. In the sound effects were the undersea noises — a continual murmuring like crowded voices in the distance. A school of whales came by, in a great hurry, like bargain hunters trying to get somewhere These, too, kept up a continuous sing-song murmur.

At Haiti was seen a beautiful hotel with an equally lovely garden, old castles and the National State House. The natives who speak a kind of French dialect mixed with Creole, are poor, but hard workers, and are both kindly and given to hospitality.

The roads about the towns are good but in the surrounding country they become quite poor. Portau Prince is the most civilized. There are beautiful water falls, some reaching 170 feet in height. Native dances were also seen where the young girls dress in filmy white low-cut dresses and dance to the rhythm of the jungle drums. When the dance is over, their bodies still keep up a rhythm movement. This is thought to represent some sort of Christian emotion.

SNEAK SUB

In the Virgin Islands the audience viewed the 'sneak' submarine used to explore enemy shores. This sub is practically soundless by means of electronics, and since the hull is made of plastic, it makes an exceedingly poor sonar target.

The interesting part of the travelogue was that of the study of sharks at Bimini, and with the Lerner Marine Laboratories. "It is thought," said Colonel Craig, "that the sharks have been in existence for over 350,000,000 years — a relic of prehistoric times, for in no way have they changed—there was no need in." They seem to be nearly devoid of brain matter. The prove this, an operation was performed on one, removing a portion of the brain, it made no difference to the shark — having but little brain, they have very poor memories—forgetting where they had the last bite. Their eyesight is also poor, with vision ranging but from 4 to 5 feet. However, the whole, long body — some from 20 to 35 feet long—is one huge ear, sonar being audible to them for miles. They have rather acute smell, sense, being able to detect one part of blood in 12 parts of water. The shark does not attack its prey on its back, as is so erroneously stated.

The three distinct types of sharks being the lemon or white shark, the black shark and the tiger shark, which is dangerous of all. Many experiments were shown as to the effect of detergents, but the only one to kill the shark failed with another. And, as Colonel Craig pointed out, "Better keep away from them, they are unpredictable."

MINERAL TREASURE

One most interesting sight was that of the three ex-Marines diving for sunken treasure, a mineral fertilizer. This they were using a three inch suction pipe which brought the sand and mineral up together, washing the sand away, leaving the mineral free. This netted these energetic Marines some million dollars. But they were troubled by the sharks investigating with their work. Colonel Craig solved the problem by attaching huge hooks to their diesel cables, and hooking the sharks — on one day 29 sharks were hooked, killed and their valuable fins and hides were sold commercially, for $35.

A most enjoyable and educational film.

Col. Craig was introduced by Director Brad Bradley.

Going Places
Brazil's Rio-Petropolis Area Offers Abundance of Beauty

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

PETROPOLIS, Brazil — As in a century or more behind it in the rest of the world, everyone in Brazil tries, to go to the seashore or the mountains during summer. Those who live in the mountains go to the seashore, and those who live by the sea, such as Cariocas, go to the mountains.

Following a trail blazed in the days of Pedro II, we drove through the teeming port area of Rio, with its cumulous colonial-tropical atmosphere, and started our 5,000 foot climb into the red clay and green brush of the mountains surrounding the city.

The road twisted up and down itself among jagged peaks and terraces covered with pineapple and banana fields. Finally, like arriving in some mountain Shangri-la, we found ourselves in a world of tropical flowers, wrought-iron balconies, and the summer home of the only bona fide, native born, legally constituted emperor the Western Hemisphere has ever known.

Pedro II, after whom the city was named, was educated in Philadelphia, was a classmate and friend of Alexander Graham Bell — and succeeded his Portuguese-born father as emperor. During his reign a constitutional monarchy was formed, and he ruled under it until 1889, when the republic was proclaimed.

LIVED LIKE KING

His watered-down legal regal status did not prevent Pedro II from living like a king. He built a handsome imperial residence here, beautifully preserved and open to the public as a national monument today. It is now stocked the 639-diamond royal crown, along with other imperial memorabilia and furniture collections. Besides glassware, silver, porcelain and the gold medals that were all the rage for kings to give each other in the 19th century, there is a fascinating assortment of fans made of everything from feathers to ivory.

Though a major resort, Petropolis is still a half-sleepy mountain town with unmistakable Portuguese ancestral memory. Great trees line the plazas and parks, and the neighborhoods covered fronts of the old colonial houses are panelled with the blue and white porcelain tiles typical of Portugal. Throughout the undulating terrain, smart modernistic country homes hide behind forests of flowers.

Trying to hide the Quitandinha Hotel, however, is not easy. It is the world's largest — it is surely the largest Swiss-style chalet. The sprawling building, sort of a Grossinger's of the Matto Grosso, has a spate of convention halls, nightclubs, game rooms, a gymnatium, and an indoor pool which you need a medical examination to enter. What happens if you flunk is not disclosed.

ONLY A HINT

All these hills ringing Rio in every direction secrete only a hint of this vast and varied land so big as the United States, but

Ann Landers
Man of Today Unattered Living Standards Changed

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm a high school senior who always thought marriage was for keeps, or as the vows say, "till death do us part."

After reading your column for a couple of years, I get the impression that "forever" means until she gets fat or he gets bald, or someone more attractive comes along."

A girl in our senior class eloped two weeks ago. When I asked her if she was truly in love and was sure her marriage would last she said, "If it doesn't work we can always get a divorce."

I would be willing to bet right now that the girl has no intention of spending the rest of her life with the fellow she married.

Are people different today than they were 30 years ago? I would like to know the answer. — DOUBLE O.

• • •

DEAR DOUBLE O — People are the same — and have been for centuries. Improved U.S. standard of living, however, has had an impact on our standards of morality. The old, dependable guidelines have slipped away.

Women work alongside men today as they never did before. They make good salaries and hold responsible positions. If the marriage doesn't measure up to the story book version she can call him to get lost. And more and more both wives and husbands are telling each other to get lost. That high school runaway bride will probably be looking for a lawyer within two years.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Two years ago my sister Bertha was in an accident. My wife and I invited her to stay with us until she recovered and could go back to work. We have no children and the spare bedroom was available.

Bertha took a full year to recuperate and then went back to work. We have been waiting for her to leave since January of 1963. We do not mind that she has not paid us one cent in all the time she has been here. Nor do we care that she rarely pitches in and does any housework. All we want is our privacy back.

I can't come right out and ask her to leave because she is the type who thinks the whole world is against her. She has two married sons but says she would never live with them because she can't get along with their wives. Please tell me what to do. My wife has been wonderful, but she now has stomach trouble because of this. — FLORIDA HEADACHE.

• • •

DEAR HEADACHE — Bertha is going to be with you and your wife for the rest of your lives unless you tell her she must find another place — or better still — until you find another place for her, and help her pack.

Only a gutless wonder would let his wife get stomach trouble because she can't screw up the courage to tell a barnacle of a sister that a year's free board and bed is more than enough.

• • •

DEAR ANN — I am female, 28, unmarried, gainfully employed and miserable. One day my head aches, the next day I have indigestion and then I break out with hives. It's been this way for 10 years.

I am tired of paying medical bills and hearing that I am "not sick." Can you help? — DISGUSTED.

DEAR DISGUSTED — A very wise doctor once said, "If the pains keep travelling from head to stomach to back to feet, etc. It's best not to waste your money on doctors. The trouble is really between the eyebrows and the hairline."

I suggest that you see a doctor who specializes in your real illness.

• • •

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fashion & Fad

SELF-CONFIDENT FASHIONS

It was a pleasure to hear Ann Francis, Ottawa columnist, speak out the other evening in favor of self-confident Canadian fashion. She thinks that we Canadians, tend to distrust our own judgment, living as we do in close association with the United States and spill by language problems as well as other ferments of our century.

As citizens of the atomic age, Canadians cannot be indifferent to what is happening outside our country's borders, but sometimes we have been only vaguely aware of the tremendous changes taking place within our own country. Lately, we have become conscious of Canada's quickened pulse.

Canada is said to be an adolescent nation with all the uncertainties of youth, trying desperately hard to keep up with, and ahead of, the adult world around us. Of course, we are influenced by our southern neighbor in every facet of our lives.

FASHION INFLUENCE

It would be stupid to deny that influence when it comes to the world of fashion in New York, St. Louis and California. But it would be equally stupid to deny that these great American markets are not influenced by Paris, London, Rome and lately even Madrid. Our own mills produce some of these best sellers; our own designers are influenced by what they see at the trade fashion shows. Some of our enterprising Canadian houses have design arrangements, whereby American-made patterns can be produced here in Canada for the payment of a small royalty. This is calculated on the number of dresses made, and sold in this country. Thousands of dollars are spent by our fashion makers on trips to the American market places, searching for tips, ideas and items.

Collectively, we used to close ranks, unaware of the fashion excitement available to us. We continued to haunt our favorite stores in search of a dress, which would be a replacement or a replica of a worn-out style. When a new fashion was offered, what happened? Some of us were afraid of anything new that our buyers, when shopping the New York market, were thought to be highly conservative.

This spring is the season to dress as we please. I hope that many of us will be pleased to try the new self-confident fashions — poised, definitely colorful, pretty and different.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers in care of this paper.

DEAR HENRY — My age is 36 and my occupation is gardener, handyman, Jack-of-all-trades. My previous ambition in life was to get to heaven, how, I'm not sure.

I firmly believed I had achieved something after reading the works of Emerson, Thoreau, William James and Russell Lowell. They inspired beyond new horizons and I felt at last that the true way of life is the road to heaven.

Honestly speaking, I have a chip on my shoulder or something. I'm too confused to tell.

It is indeed, lamentable, Henry, for one moment I am soaring up high and the next I am fogbound. Must I need faith to pray or must I pray for faith?

Please, Henry, give me the simplicity of your thought for my own are weary and tired.

T. A., Lancaster, England

(Condensed from five pages of philosophy.)

• • •

DEAR T. A. — The only people who aren't soaring up high one minute and fogbound the next, are people who are fogbound all the time. We're in the same boat and no matter what problems you have . . . you are sharing them with millions of other people. You're not the first person to discover Life nor the last.

Make the best of it. Set up goals, try to improve yourself, perhaps do a bit of writing, strum up ambition. Happiness never stays in one place so I can't say that you'll be happier more . . . but perhaps you'll be foglessed less.

HENRY

• • •

DEAR HENRY — There is a girl who is in my class and I am very fond of her. We have been going out a few times. My problem is her parents. They are very strict and insist that she be home by 9:30 p.m. We have to leave just as things are beginning to move. We are both 14.

DESPERATE

• • •

DEAR DESPERATE — She is old enough to stay up past her bedtime at least once a week. When you pick her up next time, talk to her father. Ask him for another hour. Tell him what you'll be doing in that hour (theory, ideas, etc.)

Assure her father that she is in good hands.

You'll either impress her father as a very smart young man or a very rude one. Either way . . . you will have done your best! Good luck.

HENRY

• • •

DEAR HENRY — Tell me, do you have a girl friend and if you do, do you have trouble with her and if you do, what kind?

LOUISE.

• • •

DEAR LOUISE — I don't have any problems because I don't have a girl friend yet. The day that my column is in miserable shape, spelling errors and poems that don't rhyme, will be the sign that I'm in love!

armed forces with more mobility. In 1960, when Canada sent 300 men to The Congo for United Nations duty, they had to be flown in U.S. Air Force planes.

Acquisition of the Hercules likely will mean retirement of the venerable C-119 flying boxcars, in RCAF service since 1952.

The four-engine Hercules can carry 15 tons of cargo 4,000 miles at 340 miles an hour. The biggest cargo it will carry a maximum of 2,000 miles at 200 miles an hour.

The RCAF wants the Hercules in particular because it can land and take off on short runways, rough ground and, with skis, on snow. It can fly non-stop from RCAF Transport Command headquarters at Trenton, Ont., to Europe.

NEEDS FIRM BASE

The RCAF wants the Hercules to carry 22 tons non-stop from Trenton to Europe but it must operate from well - equipped airfields.

Commercial airlines are expected to move in to enlarge-and up at the closing, and if the operation of transport command, which already moves 15,000 passengers and 1,000 tons of cargo a month. The Command's main job is supplying the air division in Europe and remote stations in the Arctic.

The commercial operators say the RCAF can handle its military routine jobs they could perform.

The Hercules will provide the army with a much more flexible plane can carry 64 fully-equipped paratroopers or 78 infantrymen.

Watutsi Forces Driven Back Across River

KIGALI, Rwanda (AP) — Rwanda troops have repulsed 9,000 Watutsi warriors who attacked from The Congo to avenge the massacre of thousands of their tribesmen in an ancient blood feud with the Bahutsu.

A government spokesman said Thursday Belgian - officered army units, equipped with machine-guns, mortars and automatic rifles, drove the Watutsi across back across the Kagera River into the former Belgian Congo after heavy fighting.

The Watutsi raiders, many seven feet tall, killed a customs officer, took a number of prisoners and advanced about 60 miles to the outskirts of Kigale, capital of Rwanda, before army troops finally threw them into retreat, the spokesman said.

USE ARROWS, SPEARS

Informants said 200 of the Watutsis, armed with spears, bows and arrows and a few rifles, may have been killed in the latest mass attack seeking revenge for the massacre by Bahutsus of a reported 20,000 Watutsis in Rwanda in the last two months.

Thousands of the Watutsi, former overlords in Rwanda, fled into The Congo and other neighboring countries in 1960 and 1961 after the Bahutsu overthrew them. The shorter Bahutsu make up about 80 per cent of Rwanda's 3,000,000 population.

Watutsi raids from their camps in The Congo's Kivu province began shortly after Christmas. In reprisal Bahutsu slaughtered thousands of Watutsi still living in Rwanda and this massacre brought on the largest Watutsi attack yet in the undeclared war between the rival tribes.

WANTS NEW DEPARTMENT

SUDBURY (CP) — Pauline Jewett, Liberal member of Parliament for Nipissing-Northumberland, suggested Friday that since education is a Canada-wide problem the federal government should establish a department of education. Miss Jewett said the department would act only in an advisory capacity to the 10 provinces. It would aim to raise and equalize education standards across the country. She was addressing 250 teachers attending a day-long conference sponsored by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation.

The Golden Years

This Man Says His Old Home Will Be Curse in Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

Now comes a man, named Krause, who thinks his home will be the curse of his retirement.

He wants to be rid of it by the time he retires next September, and then move from the Midwest to a small cottage in the sunshine. But he's not quite sure of himself. So he poses some questions:

"My house, bought in the 40's for $12,500, is now worth $18,500. How much could cash can I expect to walk out with if I sell it?"

About $13,00 is a good guess. Firm offer of $15,000 often gets a $16,500 house. You m a y think now you won't cut your price, but most people do when the chips are down. Then there may be a capital gains tax of about $625 (25 percent) on the profit on the house, probably $900 in real estate commission, $100 for lawyer's and extras that come up at the closing, and if the house is sold in September there will be utilities bills for fourths of the 1964 taxes. Moving costs are miles plus pounds and about $500 from the Midwest to the sunshine.

"Are retired people, in the main, finding their self-help a burden on their retirement income?"

SOMES AS SHOCK

Yes. And to some of them this comes as a shock. They usually figure correctly on taxes, utilities, insurance, food and the like, forget the new roof and the repainting, the extra tax assessments and a new automobile. Most businessmen in their 50's raise their housing standards to what their increasing salary is. When they retire they have built into their budget almost double the charges for a $18,500 house?"

Call it a $13,000 house. Figure 4 percent of $13,000 you have tied up in the house, for $600 a year; taxes will be say, $400; upkeep and repairs $250; insurance $100. Total $1350. Add $250 for things the tenant breaks and you're at $1600. Then add other $320 for your trouble and profit, and you come to $1920, or $160 a month. A realtor friend might give you another formula. But whatever, the rent you get will depend on the demand for rental property at the time you rent.

"Do you think the growing real estate taxes are an additional argument for a retired couple to sell the old home?"

No. Because you're going to pay about the same taxes, somewhere, on something, no matter how you live. In your rent, if you take an apartment. In things you buy or own, if you move away.

"The average neighborhood home built in the city for the family seems to me not suitable housing for a retired couple at 63. Do you agree?"

Yes — to a degree. Most of our houses are built for children, for wives, and for a den to hang a hat in at night. Not for a couple of 65, with stairs to the bedrooms, stairs to a basement, electrical outlets in the baseboard, and cabinets you reach with a chair. Some of the retirement housing in the sunshine states is correcting these things.

"Is it just talk — or is it true — that retired parents who sell their old home and move away weaken their contact with their children?"

EXPENSIVE STAGE

It is true. And for quite simple reasons. The children of retired parents (in their 30's and 40's) are at about the most expensive stage of their lives, with their own toddlers running all over. If they can come back to the old home, for kitchen privileges and free use of the upstairs bedrooms, they will come oftener than if they must pay for a motel. There's some sentiment for the "Old Home Place" involved here too.

"Is it true that yard work and repairs around the house are a boon to a retired man? Or would he really be better on a small city lot, in a neat little home that's made no demands on him?"

It depends on the man. Many have found their salvation in having an old house and a big yard to play with. Others hate the work, and have had heart attacks from it. A man might figure how his widow will fare with the work if he leaves her alone with it.

"If you were going to retire tomorrow with a five-room house in sano climate, would-be house in a snow climate, would you sell the old home?"

No. But I might lease it for a year, go south and see if I could find a life I liked better.

Vancouver Sun Publisher to Retire Sunday

VANCOUVER (CP) — Don Cromie, 48, son of a pioneer newspaperman, will succeed as one of the most successful Canadian newspaper publishers, in quitting active management.

Mr. Cromie, who built up the Vancouver Sun from the lightest circulation daily in Western Canada, will resign Sunday as president, editor and publisher of Sun Publishing Company Limited. He becomes chairman of the board.

An announcement in The Sun said "there are no immediate plans for appointment of a successor to Mr. Cromie as president."

The Cromie family has been actively associated with The Sun since 1917 when R. J. (Bob) Cromie, father of the present publisher, started the paper. He died in 1936.

Don Cromie started with The Sun as a city reporter after studying journalism at University of Washington and was managing editor when he took over as publisher in 1942. A brother, Sam, drowned in a boating accident in 1956, was a close associate in development of the paper.

MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

The Sun announcement of the resignation said:

"R. J. Cromie, vice-president and general manager of FP Publications, will be appointed executive vice-president of Sun Publications Company. Lawrence Dampier, assistant publisher, will succeed to that position until the board reaches a permanent decision," the announcement said.

The Cromie family group sold its shares to FP Publications last summer, increasing the Winnipeg company's holdings to more than 50 per cent.

Mr. Cromie:

"As chairman of the board, my duties will be limited mostly to general policies and advisory services on the actual newspaper publishing activities."

Sun Publishing Company owns half of Pacific Press and, by contract, publishes The Sun for Pacific Press which owns The Sun newspaper and The Province, the other Vancouver daily publication.

Rhinoceros

federation in 1967 with a parade of rhinoceroses from Halifax to Vancouver. The schism is said to have resulted from disagreement as to how to get the rhinoceroses.

Mr. Goulet, describing himself as the leader of the dissident factics, said he wants to send more missionaries to Africa and Southern Asia in exchange for rhinoceroses, "who could be fed better over here than in the underdeveloped countries anyway."

He said the orthodox wing of the party rejected this proposal as "silly and impractical" but had nothing better to propose. Thess the matter rests.

The party's published program has four planks. The party says it has taken each one from one of the established parties and tried to improve upon it.

1. It wants "stronger and unconditional" ties with the United States and will ask the Bomarcs discarded by the U.S. It says the Liberals are the source of "anti-Yankism."

2. It will move the Queen and the entire royal family to Ingham Palace, a new Buckingham Palace on the 1967 Montreal world's fair grounds. It says the Conservatives inspired this one.

3. From the New Democratic Party it says it has borrowed "imperialist federalism," but left socialism. "Unlike the NDP, however, we support the working class."

4. Following the model of the Social Credit party, it says, it seeks "to promote a generous spirit of disunity and division."

Dr. Ferron said the party has been a natural home for the rhinoceros because that great beast "is a stupid, thick-skinned animal that tends to wallow in mud but can move fast when it senses danger. In other words the perfect symbol of a member of Parliament in Ottawa."

Discussing New Plant Trends

By FLORA M. HAVILLE

Naugatuck Chemicals, a division of Dominion Rubber, has brought out a height retardant for chrysanthemums. This growth inhibitor is called B nine. A foliar spray easy to apply produces shorter stringer stems and greener leaves in the plants and makes them more drought resistant. The compact plants are easier to handle and ship. Gone is that top heavy look. The new look is a more compact pleasing plant. So far this product is available only to commercial growers.

Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Island are producing increasing amounts of evergreens and other shrubs and trees for shipment to Ontario and the Western provinces. These are replacing stock sent from Holland. The Gulf stream gives a humid climate that never goes above 90 degrees and seldom falls to zero. The climate remains humid through July and August when a short weather becomes hot and dry, slowing the growth of evergreens to a standstill.

LITTLE PROTECTION

In the mild winter climate roses, evergreens, rhododendrons need little or no protection. Junipers and rhododendrons need protection against wind burn in the early spring. The evergreen cuttings are rooted in sterile sand where there is sufficient microns (a root fungus). When roots have formed the fungus winds itself around the roots and furnishes them with moisture and minerals. This enables the cuttings to form a thick mass of fiberous roots. Later the cuttings are moved to fields of heavier soil or sold directly from the rooting beds.

Twigs are the target of British Columbia Foresters when they are hunting for foundation stock for tree breeding.

The very best Douglas fir and other species likely to return maximum commercial profit are sought out and the twigs, from these are shot off by the foresters. A .22 rifle is used since the desired twigs are near the top of very tall trees. These twigs from selected trees are given a registered number, their measurements, location and other detail are recorded prior to the fall or early spring shoot

The twig (scion) is grafted on to root stock in a young tree plantation. This operation is much the same as a gardener grafting a rose or apple twig to produce a better flower or fruit.

MUTSY PROVE QUALITY

Seedlings from these plus trees must prove their high quality or the parent tree will not be retained in the so-called clone bank in the reserve plantation. The plantation is maintained by the Forest Services near Metachie Lake, Vancouver Island.

There are also seed farms where scions from selected trees are grafted onto trees which receive special treatment such as fertilizer, pest and insect control.

Plus tree selection may seem unimportant in that land where forest trees are still abundant Ontario weather bureau and conservation have learned to look far ahead to insure conservation and conditions.

Canadian trees breeding was started some ten years ago and is now well established in Ontario and British Columbia. The Forest Service has for some time been selecting the seed from the best trees in the best stands to use in establishing new forests. Seed producing areas are set up where conditions are better than average. The young trees are thinned, fertilized and given extra care to help them produce superior seed.

Canadian Brothers Run Tokyo International School

By DAVE STOCKAND

TOKYO (CP) — The lunch hour was just ending and the international sounds of laughter rang through the corridors.

If the good humor was shared by all 600 students at St. Mary's International School in Tokyo, the boys from 45 countries were contributing to the back-to-study din.

St. Mary's is operated by the brothers of Christian Instruction, a Roman Catholic teaching order with headquarters in the Channel Islands.

But 13 of its 15 missionary teachers are Canadians, mostly from the Trois-Rivieres area of Quebec, and the principal—known to the boys as Brother John—is Paul Paradis of Delisle, in Quebec's Roberval County.

In a study in the school's main building—rebuilt from the bombed-out shell of a Japanese baron's mansion—Brother John told of the school's founding and its progress.

St. Mary's was started in 1956 with 62 boys in the first three grades. Now it goes up to Grade 11 and will be adding Grade 12 this school year.

CLASSES IN ENGLISH

Most of the students come from families in the diplomatic corps, or are the sons of foreign businessmen or officers in the American armed forces stationed in Japan.

At present they include 14 Canadian students, mostly from embassy families.

Classes are in English, in a curriculum combining American and British study programs. Latin is taught from Grade 7 with French as a secondary language.

"We have had Japanese students here who couldn't speak Japanese," said Brother John.

He explained these came from Japanese families who had spent years overseas in embassies or business offices. Attendance at St. Mary's allowed them to continue their Western-style education without interruption.

In fact, students are not allowed to speak Japanese during school hours. But they have the opportunity to learn Japanese or Chinese after school hours, if they are interested.

NO FRICTION

There are few countries not represented at the school. There are no Soviet citizens, but there are boys from Poland and Yugoslavia, and a scattering of stateless Byelorussians.
